Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Comptroller General of the United States shall submit to Congress a report on subsection (b)(11) of section 705 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 345), as amended by section 2.

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 4713, the “Department of Homeland Security Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Authorization Act,” was introduced to strengthen the role of the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS or Department) as it works to ensure the protection of individual rights for those affected by DHS programs and activities. This bill authorizes CRCL to integrate civil rights and civil liberties into all Department programs and activities by reviewing Departmental policies, procedures, and activities; reviewing, assessing, and investigating complaints and information indicating possible abuses of civil rights and civil liberties; conducting civil rights and civil liberties impact assessments; and providing recommendations and other technical assistance to the Secretary of Homeland Security (Secretary) and heads of the operational components of the Department, among other functions. The bill seeks to improve the effectiveness of CRCL within the Department by granting the DHS CRCL Officer authority to access all Department records necessary to carry out the Officer’s work and to issue subpoenas, as necessary and subject to the approval of the Secretary, to non-federal entities. Additionally, the bill requires the head of each operational component to designate a CRCL officer within its respective component to coordinate with and provide information to the DHS CRCL Officer on matters related to civil rights and civil liberties. To improve transparency regarding CRCL findings, at the conclusion of any investigation conducted by CRCL, the investigatory report is required to be submitted to Congress without any prior comment or amendment by the Secretary, Deputy Secretary, or any other officer or employee of the Department, unless the DHS CRCL Officer seeks such comment.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

DHS personnel interact with millions of people from across the country and around the world every day. Therefore, it is imperative that the DHS Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties be better integrated in the policymaking process and Departmental operations. Under current law, the DHS CRCL Officer is authorized to assist the Secretary, directorates, and offices of the Department in developing and implementing Department policies and procedures to ensure that the protection of civil rights and civil liberties is appropriately incorporated into programs and activities, but in practice, CRCL has not always been provided an opportunity to weigh in on DHS’ programs and policies that clearly impact individuals’ and communities’ civil rights and civil liberties. Specifically, the Committee learned that CRCL received no information from the Department before the controversial travel ban was implemented in January 2017.1 A former CRCL official has reported that CRCL was also not consulted when DHS instituted family separation at the southern border.2

The “Department of Homeland Security Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Authorization Act” seeks to enhance CRCL operations within DHS by clarifying that the DHS CRCL Officer is charged with integrating civil rights and civil liberties into all Department programs and activities and by establishing CRCL officers within each of the Department’s operational components. The designation of component-level CRCL officers should improve coordination among the components and CRCL Office at DHS Headquarters on matters with CRCL implications. The Committee is concerned that components may fail to share information with CRCL in a timely manner whether the requested information is regarding an investigation of a complaint or compliance with Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) requirements. Components are not required to respond to CRCL information requests or recommendations for remedial actions within any set timeframes. CRCL and DHS components often negotiate turnaround times, but these agreements may be ignored, which could lead to lengthy delays in resolving complaints. When CRCL and a component disagree, there is currently no formal method for escalating and resolving the dispute at the secretarial level. H.R. 4713 attempts to rectify this issue by authorizing CRCL access to all Department records necessary to carry out its work and to issue subpoenas, as necessary and subject to the approval of the Secretary, to non-federal entities.

Finally, for the work of CRCL to be effective, increased transparency and independence is necessary. Presently, CRCL’s annual reports contain summaries of the investigations conducted within that year but do not contain any of the recommendations made by CRCL. Additionally, the Committee has learned that the annual reports are far less informative than are the reports written at the conclusion of a review, assessment, inspection or investigation, which are not made public. H.R. 4713 seeks to enhance CRCL’s effectiveness and ensure accountability by requiring that investigative reports and reviews of Department programs be made publicly available and submitted to Congress without any prior comment or amendment by the Secretary, Deputy Secretary, or any other officer or employee of the Department, unless the CRCL Officer seeks such comment.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short title

This section provides that the bill may be cited as the “Department of Homeland Security Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Authorization Act.”

Sec. 2. Officer for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties

This section amends section 705 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to authorize an Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) within the Department of Homeland Security and clarify that the head of such office is the Officer for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, who shall report directly to the Secretary of Homeland Security.

This section requires the Officer to carry out the following responsibilities:

1. oversee compliance with constitutional, statutory, regulatory, policy, and other requirements relating to the civil rights and civil liberties of individuals affected by the programs and activities of the Department;
2. integrate civil rights and civil liberties protections into all programs and activities of the Department;
3. conduct civil rights and civil liberties impact assessments, as appropriate;
4. conduct periodic reviews of policies, procedures, and activities of the Department relating to civil rights and civil liberties;
5. provide policy advice, recommendations, and other technical assistance relating to civil rights and civil liberties to the Secretary and to heads of components, directorates, and offices and other personnel within the Department;
6. review, assess, and investigate complaints, including complaints filed by members of the public, and information indicating possible abuses of civil rights or civil liberties at the Department, unless the Inspector General of the Department determines that any such complaint or information should be investigated by the Inspector General;
7. initiate reviews, assessments, inspections, and investigations of the administration of the programs and activities by the Department relating to civil rights and civil liberties, as the Officer determines necessary;
8. coordinate with the Privacy Officer of the Department to ensure that programs, policies, and procedures involving civil rights, civil liberties, and privacy considerations are addressed in an integrated and comprehensive manner and that Congress receives appropriate reports regarding such programs, policies, and procedures;
9. lead the equal employment opportunity programs of the Department, including complaint management and adjudication, and promote workforce diversity and merit system principles;
10. make publicly available through accessible communications channels, including the website of the Department, information on the responsibilities and functions of, and how to contact, the Officer and reports that are issued by the Officer upon completion of investigations; and
(11) engage with individuals and communities whose civil rights and civil liberties may be affected by DHS programs and activities, including by informing such individuals and communities about report and redress processes and advising Department leadership and personnel on concerns raised by such individuals and communities.

For the officer to adequately carry out these responsibilities, the Committee expects Department and component leadership to consult with CRCL prior to the adoption and issuance of policies, directives, or regulations and provide the DHS CRCL Officer adequate time to properly advise on potential civil rights and civil liberties impacts of such policies, directives, or regulations. The Committee expects the same of Department and component leadership prior to the establishment of Department programs and activities. Consequently, the Committee expects more frequent issuance of CRCL impact assessments of the activities undertaken by DHS and its components.

The Committee expects the DHS CRCL Officer to proactively self-initiate reviews, assessments, inspections, and investigations of the administration of programs and activities by the Department to assess civil rights and civil liberties implications in addition to being responsive to complaints filed or concerns raised by members of the public. As CRCL experienced a 20 percent increase in complaints received during Fiscal Year 2018, the Committee expects CRCL to identify and track trends in complaints and adequately respond to such trends.4 Regarding onsite visits and inspections conducted by CRCL, the Committee expects CRCL to have the capacity to do follow-on visits and inspections to ensure compliance with recommendations issued at the conclusion of initial visits and inspections. The Committee expects the Department to submit a budget request to provide adequate resources to ensure that CRCL achieves and maintains such oversight capacity.

This section clarifies that before the DHS CRCL Officer initiates any investigation relating to any matter regarding complaints filed by members of the public, information indicating possible abuses of civil rights or civil liberties at the Department, and the administration of the programs and activities by the Department relating to civil rights and civil liberties, the CRCL Officer must refer the matter and all related complaints, allegations, and information to the Inspector General of the Department. This section requires the Inspector General, not later than 30 days after the receipt of a referred matter, to make a determination regarding whether the Inspector General intends to initiate an audit or investigation of the referred matter and notify the CRCL Officer of such determination. If the Inspector General notifies the CRCL Officer that the Inspector General intends to initiate an audit or investigation, the Inspector General is required to initiate such audit or investigate by not later than 90 days after providing such notification or notify, not later than three days after the end of the 90-day period, the CRCL Officer that such audit or investigation was not initiated. If the Inspector General provides the latter notification or notifies the CRCL Officer that the Inspector General does not intend to initiate an audit or investigation relating to a referred matter, the CRCL Officer is authorized to investigate such matter.

4 DHS CRCL Budget Briefing Documents provided to Committee Staff (April 4, 2019).

This section also authorizes the CRCL Officer to assist the Inspector General, upon request, on any investigation or audit initiated by the Inspector General based on a referral from CRCL.

The Committee believes that there are opportunities for the Inspector General to involve CRCL in investigations of shared interest and that such investigations would benefit from such collaboration.

Additionally, this section directs CRCL to provide to any individual who makes a complaint notice of the receipt of such a complaint within 30 days and inform the complainant of the determination of the CRCL Officer regarding the initiation of a review, assessment, or investigation within CRCL, a referral to the Inspector General of the Department, or any other action taken.

This section requires that, in the case of any investigation initiated by the CRCL Officer, the CRCL Officer produce a report that includes findings and recommendations. The report shall be made publicly available and shall not include any personally identifiable information related to any individual involved in such investigation. The report may include a classified appendix, as the CRCL Officer determines appropriate. The CRCL Officer is required to transmit a copy of each report produced at the conclusion of an investigation to the Secretary, head(s) of the relevant operational component(s), and to Congress. The reports to Congress shall be prepared and submitted without any prior comment or amendment by the Secretary, Deputy Secretary, or any other officer or employee of the Department, unless the Officer seeks such comment.

The Committee expects that, in the case of findings or recommendations, Department and component leadership may wish to issue responses to such findings or recommendations. However, the Committee expects CRCL to maintain and exert operational independence and therefore expects that findings and recommendations are not influenced or amended in any shape or form by any non-CRCL officer or employee of the Department.

This section requires the head of each operational component to designate a CRCL officer within its respective component to coordinate with and provide information to the CRCL Officer of the Department on matters related to civil rights and civil liberties. Additionally, this section authorizes the CRCL Officer to access all Department records necessary to carry out the CRCL Officer’s work and to issue subpoenas, as necessary and subject to the approval of the Secretary, to non-federal entities and administer to or take from any person an oath, affirmation, or affidavit, when necessary. Lastly, this section requires the CRCL Officer to submit to the President and Congress an annual report setting forth the activities of CRCL for the prior year, including information on diversity and Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) activities. The report must, among other items, include a description of all recommendations the CRCL Officer made to senior DHS leadership in the prior year, along with the status of each recommendation.

Regarding the CRCL Officer’s authorization to access to information, the Committee expects such access to include, as appropriate, legal analyses related to civil rights and civil liberties implications of programs and policies of the Department produced within the Department. As it relates to the annual report, the Committee expects the inclusion of Department diversity demographic data and expects such data to be made publicly available on the website of the Department.

Sec. 3. Comptroller General review

This section requires the Comptroller General of the United States to submit a report to Congress on DHS CRCL’s efforts to carry out the responsibility of engaging with individuals and communities whose civil rights and civil liberties may be affected by DHS programs and activities, including by informing such individuals and communities about report and redress processes and advising Department leadership and personnel on concerns raised by such individuals and communities.

ADDITIONAL VIEWS

H.R. 4713 reauthorizes and expands the authorities of the Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL) at the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The bill outlines the responsibilities of the CRCL, including ensuring compliance by DHS and its components with the Constitution, as well as implementing laws and regulations related to civil rights and civil liberties.

The bill, as amended, is intended to give CRCL authorities that are comparable to the authorities of the DHS Privacy Office. The amendment offered by Ranking Member Mike Rogers (R–AL) and adopted in Committee included several provisions to ensure that the authority granted CRCL was not more expansive than that of the DHS Privacy Office.

The Rogers amendment included a provision to ensure that the new authority granted CRCL would not be used to engage in duplicative activities or investigations. DHS has numerous offices engaged in investigating violations of the civil rights of individuals. To ensure these offices coordinate to avoid wasteful duplicative investigations, the Rogers amendment requires CRCL to inform the Office of the Inspector General (OIG) prior to starting an investigation and receive confirmation that OIG will not conduct its own investigation on the matter.

H.R. 4713 also grants CRCL access to DHS documents on programs and operations, provides it with subpoena powers, and the authority to administer an oath or take an affidavit. The Rogers amendment requires the Secretary to approve the use of subpoena authority and the authority to administer oaths. Committee Republicans believe these authorities should be exercised only in the rarest of circumstances and only after approval by the Secretary. We expect that DHS and its components would view cooperation with CRCL as standard operating procedure and provide relevant documents when requested. However, in utilizing the authority provided, CRCL must respect generally accepted exceptions to document production.

Finally, the bill also requires the issuance of a report after an investigation and an annual report on the activities of CRCL. The Rogers amendment requires that personally identifiable information be protected in the report of an investigation. It also allows for comment by the Secretary and the components on the activity report of CRCL. Although an investigative report does not require comment from DHS or its components, we expect CRCL would seek the guidance of the Secretary and the components whenever possible during an investigation to ensure it is conducted in a fair and equitable manner.

The Committee received informal views and technical drafting assistance on H.R. 4713 from DHS, but not with sufficient time to fully adjudicate them. While the Rogers amendment addresses most of the issues raised by DHS, Committee Republicans encourage the majority to work with the Department to address outstanding issues.

This legislation, as amended, is not intended to significantly broaden the authority of CRCL. It is merely intended to grant CRCL the authorities necessary to conduct meaningful inquiries into abuses of civil rights and civil liberties within DHS.

MIKE ROGERS.
