PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 2932, the “Homeland Security for Children Act,” would ensure that the needs of children are adequately included and considered in Department of Homeland Security (DHS) planning.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Making up 23 percent of the American population,¹ children are some of the most vulnerable among us. Due to their general incapacity to protect and advocate for themselves, children are more likely to succumb to the negative outcomes associated with disasters and acts of terrorism;² and when disaster strikes, whether natural or manmade, the country has historically struggled to adequately prepare for children’s unique needs.³

In response, in July 2015, then-Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Administrator Craig Fugate established the children’s technical expert position;⁴ however, over the past four years, this position was never authorized, calling into question whether FEMA will continue to give special attention to children’s needs. The “Homeland Security for Children Act” would formally authorize the children’s technical expert position, ensuring that FEMA will adequately incorporate the needs of children into its emergency preparedness, response, recovery, and mitigation activities.

Additionally, the “Homeland Security for Children Act” would make children’s needs a priority throughout the Department of Homeland Security, by directing the Undersecretary for Strategy, Policy, and Plans to incorporate feedback from children’s organizations into Department-wide activities. This legislation also includes a requirement for the Under Secretary for Strategy, Policy, and Plans to submit a report to Congress on the Department’s efforts to integrate the needs of children into its policies, programs, and activities.

In the 116th Congress, Committee Members heard from witnesses who described how children are at greater risk of the impacts of climate change and disasters, as they are more susceptible to physical and mental injuries and death; how disaster planning should be uniquely tailored for children; and how the Federal government could improve school security for children, among other things.

An earlier version of the “Homeland Security for Children Act” was introduced and passed by voice vote in the House last Congress.⁵ The legislation is endorsed by the National Coalition on Children, which includes Save Children; Child Care Aware; Child

* = less than $500,000; the table above applies to each bill described below.

On October 23, 2019, the House Committee on Homeland Security ordered reported the following bills:

- H.R. 2932, the Homeland Security for Children Act, which would direct the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to consider the needs of children during its strategic planning activities (such as preparation for natural disasters);
- H.R. 3787, the DHS Countering Unmanned Aircraft Systems Coordinator Act, which would direct DHS to designate one of its officials to coordinate the department's efforts to combat threats from unmanned aircraft systems (or drones);
- H.R. 4737, the Department of Homeland Security Climate Change Research Act, which would direct DHS to assess and potentially expand upon existing federal research projects that examine ways to mitigate the effects of climate change on homeland security programs; and

DHS is currently carrying out activities similar to those required by the bills listed above, and any new activities required under the legislation would not require substantial action by the department. Thus, CBO estimates that implementing each bill would not have a significant cost; any spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Kim Cawley. The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

FEDERAL MANDATES STATEMENT

The Committee adopts as its own the estimate of Federal mandates prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

DUPPLICATIVE FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Pursuant to clause 3(c) of rule XIII, the Committee finds that H.R. 2932 does not contain any provision that establishes or reauthorizes a program known to be duplicative of another Federal program.

PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the objective of H.R. 2932 is to ensure that the needs of children are incorporated into DHS planning by authorizing the children's technical expert position. Further, the legislation would enhance Federal accountability and support for activities to mitigate the impacts of natural and manmade disasters on children.

ADVISORY ON EARMARKS

In compliance with rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, this bill, as reported, contains no congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9(d), 9(e), or 9(f) of the rule XXI.
