Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, and not later than 3 years after such date of enactment, the Secretary of the Treasury shall issue a report to the Committee on Financial Services of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs of the Senate on the effectiveness of the CDFI bond guarantee program established under section 114A of the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act of 1994 (12 U.S.C. 4713a).

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

On May 12, 2022, Representative Cleaver introduced H.R. 7733, the “CDFI Bond Guarantee Program Improvement Act of 2022,” which would reduce the CDFI Bond Guarantee Program (BGP) minimum issuance threshold from $100 million to $25 million and make the program permanent. It would also activate a re-lending account, which allows any amounts remaining after bonds are repaid for use to fund additional loans.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The BGP, authorized by the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010, is a federal credit program of the U.S. Department of the Treasury’s (Treasury) Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI Fund). The program provides CDFIs with long-term capital at fixed, below-market interest rates through federally-guaranteed bonds that are issued by approved bond issuers. Qualified issuers, which may be certified CDFIs or entities the CDFIs designate to issue bonds on their behalf approved by the CDFI Fund, apply to the CDFI Fund for authorization to issue bonds worth a minimum of $100 million, and the CDFI Fund provides a 100% guarantee on those bonds. The bond issuers then sell those bonds to the Federal Financing Bank and use the proceeds to make loans to CDFIs to finance or refinance new or existing community development projects in low-income urban, rural, and Native communities throughout the country. Under the law, Treasury provides a 100% guarantee on up to 10 bonds annually. Since its inception, the CDFI Fund has completed nine rounds of the program and guaranteed nearly $1.7 billion in bonds, and 35 CDFIs have deployed about $1.3 billion in loans to develop small businesses, commercial real estate, housing units, charter schools, day care or health care centers, and rural infrastructure.

In January 2022, the Community Reinvestment Fund, USA, testified before the Senate Banking Committee, noting that the current threshold “makes it difficult for small and medium sized CDFIs to participate in the BGP as they are generally seeking smaller bond loans, in the $10 million to $25 million range. Based on data from the CDFI Fund of 35 CDFI Bond Loans, “[s]ixty-five percent of the loans are for $50 million or less, 44% of the loans are $25 million or less, and 24% of the loans to date are for $15 million or less”. While authorization for BGP lapsed in 2014, the program has been extended on a year-by-year basis in annual appropriations bills. CDFI advocates also note that “[t]he BGP is a sound, well managed program and to date there have been no delinquencies or defaults on any payment under this program.” When Congress created the BGP, it authorized the use of an account designed to hold any proceeds remaining after bond repayments have been made, so they may be available for funding additional loans. According to the CDFI Fund, the account has never been used in the history of the BGP, in part because of an unintended term in the formula for calculating the relending fund amount.

By lowering the minimum bond loan threshold to $25 million, the H.R. 7733 would allow more eligible CDFIs, especially those seeking smaller loan bond amounts, to access the capital needed to spur community and economic development projects in communities across the nation. It would also make the program permanent, and correct the formula used for the program’s relending account to allow it to function for the first time, making any amounts remaining after bonds have been repaid, available for issuing additional loans.

This bill was considered at the House Financial Services Committee hearing on February 16, 2022, and a previous version of the bill was included in Section 5 of the “Promoting and Advancing Communities of Color Through Inclusive Lending Act,” introduced by Chairwoman Waters and Representative Meeks in August 2020. This bill is the House companion to a bipartisan bill in the Senate, S. 3411, which is sponsored by Senators Smith (D–MN) and Rounds (R–SD) and was introduced on January 5, 2022.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title

- This section establishes the short title of the bill as the “CDFI Bond Guarantee Program Improvement Act of 2022.”

Section 2. Sense of Congress

- This section provides that it is the sense of Congress that the CDFI Bond Guarantee Program provides CDFIs with a sustainable source of long-term capital and furthers the mission of the CDFI Fund to increase economic opportunity and promote community development investments for underserved populations and distressed communities.

Section 3. Guarantees for bonds and notes issued for community or economic development purposes

- This section would amend Section 114A of the Community Development Banking and Financial Institutions Act of 1994, to remove certain restrictions on the amount of bonds or notes that may be made available for new eligible community or economic development purposes, and sets the minimum guarantee amount to $25 million. This section would also make the program permanent four years after the bill's enactment.

Section 4. Report on the CDFI Bond Guarantee Program

- This section would require that Secretary of the Treasury submit two reports to Congress on the effectiveness of the CDFI Bond Guarantee Program, with the first within 1 year after the enactment of this bill, and the second within the 3rd year of the bill's enactment.
