SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade First Agreement Implementation Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) As a leading democracy, Taiwan is a key partner of the United States in the Indo-Pacific region.

(2) The United States and Taiwan share democratic values, deep commercial and economic ties, and strong people-to-people connections. Those links serve as the impetus for expanding engagement by the United States with Taiwan.

(3) Taiwan is the eighth-largest trading partner of the United States and the United States is the second-largest trading partner of Taiwan.

(4) Since 2020, the United States and Taiwan, under the auspices of the American Institute in Taiwan (AIT) and the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States (TECRO), have held an economic prosperity partnership dialogue to enhance economic and commercial ties between the United States and Taiwan, including with respect to supply chain security and resiliency, investment screening, health, science, and technology, and the digital economy.

(5) On June 1, 2022, the United States and Taiwan launched the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade to deepen our economic and trade relationship, advance mutual trade priorities based on shared values, promote innovation, and support inclusive economic growth for workers and businesses.

(6) On August 17, 2022, the United States and Taiwan announced the negotiating mandate for formal trade negotiations under the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade and agreed to seek high-standard commitments.

(7) Article I, section 8, clause 3 of the Constitution of the United States grants Congress authority over international trade. The President lacks the authority to enter into binding trade agreements absent approval from Congress.

(8) Congressional approval of the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade First Agreement will ensure that the agreement, and the trade relationship between the United States and Taiwan more broadly, will be durable. A durable trade agreement will foster sustained economic growth and give workers, consumers, businesses, farmers, ranchers, and other stakeholders assurance that commercial ties between the United States and Taiwan will be long-lasting and reliable.

I. SUMMARY AND BACKGROUND

A. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 4004, the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st Century Trade First Agreement Implementation Act, as ordered reported by the Committee on Ways and Means on June 13, 2023, approves and implements the First Agreement between the American Institute in Taiwan and the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States regarding Trade between the United States of America and Taiwan (First Agreement).

The First Agreement of the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st Century Trade (Initiative) is an international trade agreement with binding commitments for both parties. The First Agreement of the Initiative includes chapters on Customs Administration and Trade Facilitation, Good Regulatory Practices, Services Domestic Regulation, Anticorruption, and Small- and Medium-Sized Enterprises (SMEs). The First Agreement does not require any changes to U.S. laws or regulations, and this legislation does not authorize any such changes. The First Agreement does, however, seek to regulate foreign commerce and shape bilateral trade flows. Under Article I, section 8, clause 3 of the United States Constitution, Congress has the sole authority to regulate commerce with foreign nations. The President’s Article II powers authorize the executive branch to discuss issues with other governments but do not empower the President to bind the United States in any trade agreements. Congress has not delegated authority to the President to enter into binding trade agreements like the First Agreement.

B. BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The First Agreement of the Initiative was signed on June 1, 2023, by representatives of the American Institute in Taiwan (AIT) and the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States (TECRO). These negotiations were launched on June 1, 2022, and, according to the Office of United States Trade Representative (USTR), sought to include commitments in the following areas: (1) trade facilitation, (2) regulatory practices, (3) agriculture, (4) anti-corruption, (5) supporting small and SMEs in trade, (6) harnessing the benefits of digital trade, (7) promoting worker-centric trade, (8) supporting the environment and climate action, (9) standards, (10) state-owned enterprises, and (11) non-market policies and practices.

On June 7, 2022, USTR requested public comment on the Initiative. On August 17, 2022, the United States and Taiwan, under the auspices of AIT and TECRO, announced consensus on a negotiating mandate for the Initiative that laid out joint objectives for trade negotiations.

The United States and Taiwan, under the auspices of AIT and TECRO, held in-person conceptual discussions for the Initiative in New York in November 2022 and a negotiating round in Taipei in January 2023. On May 18, 2023, USTR announced the conclusion of negotiations on the First Agreement.

USTR intends to commence negotiations of further agreements under the Initiative on additional topics described in the August 2022 negotiating mandate. This legislation approves and implements the First Agreement of the Initiative, lays out conditions for entry into force of the First Agreement, establishes transparency and consultation requirements with respect to Further Agreements, and clarifies that an approval bill is required for any Further Agreements under the Initiative.

C. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

H.R. 4004 was introduced on June 12, 2023, and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

D. COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(6) of rule XIII, the following hearings were used to develop and consider H.R. 3799:

On September 14, 2022, the Committee held a hearing entitled “The Future of U.S.-Taiwan Trade.”

On March 24, 2023, the Committee held a hearing entitled “The Biden Administration’s 2023 Trade Policy Agenda” with United States Trade Representative, Ambassador Katherine Tai.

On May 25, 2023, the Trade Subcommittee held a hearing entitled “Modernizing Customs Policies to Protect American Workers and Secure Supply Chains.”

E. COMMITTEE ACTION

The Committee on Ways and Means marked up H.R. 4004, the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st Century Trade First Agreement Implementation Act, on June 13, 2023, and ordered the bill, as amended by the amendment in the nature of a substitute, favorably reported (with quorum being present).

II. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

Section 1. Short title

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

The short title of this bill is the “United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade First Agreement Implementation Act.”

Section 2. Findings

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 2 provides the findings of Congress. Congress finds that Taiwan is a key partner in the Indo-Pacific region and that Congressional approval of the first agreement reached under the United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade will ensure that the agreement, and the trade relationship between the United States and Taiwan more broadly, will be durable and meaningful.

Further, Congress finds that Article I, section 8, clause 3 of the United States Constitution grants Congress authority over international trade and that the President lacks the authority to enter into binding trade agreements absent approval from Congress.

Section 3. Purpose

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 3 establishes the purpose of the Act: (1) to approve and implement the Agreement between the United States and Taiwan that was signed on June 1, 2023; (2) to strengthen economic relations between the United States and Taiwan; (3) to lay the foundation for further bilateral engagement; and (4) to establish transparency and consultation requirements with respect to further trade negotiations with Taiwan.

Section 4. Definitions

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 4 defines terms used in the Act, including “Agreement” (the Agreement between the United States and Taiwan that was signed on June 1, 2023) and “Further Agreement” (any future trade agreements under the U.S.-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade negotiating mandate, or modifications or amendments to the Agreement). It defines “appropriate congressional committees” as the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee.

Section 5. Approval of Agreement

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 5 provides Congressional approval for the Agreement between the United States and Taiwan that was signed on June 1, 2023.

REASON FOR THE PROVISION

The provision makes clear that the bill approves the First Agreement. Such approval is required for any binding trade agreement to enter into force, and it increases the durability of this agreement with Taiwan.

Section 6. Entry into force of Agreement

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 6 lays out transparency, consultation, analytical, and certification requirements for the Administration to meet before and after entry into force of the Agreement.

At least 60 days before entry into force, the President must (1) consult with the appropriate congressional committees; (2) submit a report explaining the parties' readiness to comply with the Agreement and describing the anticipated benefits for U.S. interests and U.S.-Taiwan trade relations; and (3) answer the committees' questions regarding compliance and implementation.

Then, at least 30 days before entry into force, the President must submit to Congress a certification (1) indicating that Taiwan has taken measures necessary to comply with the agreement and (2) identifying the date the President intends to notify Taiwan that the United States is prepared for entry into force.

Not later than 180 days after entry into force, the United States Trade Representative (USTR) must submit to Congress a report providing an assessment of the implementation of the Agreement. The report shall be made public, with any confidential business information redacted.

REASON FOR THE PROVISION

These requirements will help ensure that Taiwan fully complies with the First Agreement and that Members of Congress have appropriate and timely access to information and analysis regarding Taiwan's compliance and the effects of the First Agreement.

Section 7. Transparency and consultation with respect to Further Agreements

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 7 expresses the sense of Congress that the United States should continue to deepen its relationship with Taiwan. It also establishes statutory requirements for transparency and consultation with respect to Further Agreements.

Specifically, USTR must provide the appropriate congressional committees with ongoing access to negotiating text drafted by both the United States and Taiwan. USTR must also consult with the committees on the negotiating text and give them an opportunity to provide comments before U.S. text is shared with Taiwan. In addition, USTR must promptly notify the committees when negotiating rounds are scheduled and provide briefings during the rounds.

This section provides that no Further Agreement with Taiwan shall take effect unless (1) the President makes the text publicly available at least 60 days before signing and (2) a bill is enacted into law expressly approving the Further Agreement and making any necessary changes to U.S. law.

REASON FOR THE PROVISION

Consultations with Congress are not an optional part of the trade policy-making process, given that executive branch powers in this area are delegated by Congress. This provision ensures the President carries out trade negotiations in a transparent manner that respects Congressional authority over matters of international trade. Further, clarifying that Further Agreements under the Initiative require a vote in Congress provides legal certainty to the United States and Taiwan and ensures that the President will meaningfully consult with Congress throughout negotiations.

Section 8. Relationship of the Agreement to United States and State law

PRESENT LAW

No provision.

EXPLANATION OF THE PROVISION

Section 8 establishes the relationship of the Agreement to Federal and State law

Section 8(a) clarifies that no provision of the Agreement will be given effect under domestic law if it is inconsistent with U.S. Federal law. Further, this section makes clear that the Agreement is not a “free trade agreement” for the purposes of section 30D(e)(1)(A)(i)(II) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

Section 8(b) clarifies that no State law may be declared invalid for being inconsistent with the Agreement, unless the United States itself brings a legal action to have the State law declared invalid.

Section 8(c) precludes any private right of action based on the provisions of the Agreement.

REASON FOR THE PROVISION

The provision addresses the issue of the operation of the agreement relative to federal and state law, as well as private remedies. It makes clear that no provision of the First Agreement will be given effect if it is inconsistent with federal law and that entry into force of the agreement creates no private remedy.

Section 8(a)(2) makes clear that the agreement does not constitute a free trade agreement for purposes of section 30D(e)(1)(A)(i)(II) of the Internal Revenue Code. The First Agreement does not address tariffs and does not cover substantially all trade between the United States and Taiwan, both of which are hallmarks of a Free Trade Agreement.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The effective date is upon enactment of the law.

III. VOTE OF THE COMMITTEE

In Compliance with The Rules of The House of Representatives, the following statement is made concerning the Vote of The Committee on Ways and Means during the markup consideration of H.R. 4004, The “United States-Taiwan Initiative on 21st-Century Trade First Agreement Implementation Act” on June 13, 2023.
