Section 203(m) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. 80b–3(m)) is amended—

(1) in paragraph (1), by striking "$150,000,000" and inserting "$175,000,000"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(5) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—The Commission shall, every 5 years, adjust the dollar amount described under paragraph (1) to reflect the change in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor, and round such dollar amount to the nearest multiple of $1,000,000.".

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 3673, the Small Business Investor Capital Access Act, was introduced on June 3, 2025, by Republican Representative Andy Barr (KY–06). H.R. 3673 amends the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 to increase the exemption from registration threshold for advisers to small private funds to reflect changes in inflation.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The Dodd-Frank Act imposed mandates for private funds to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and comply with new reporting requirements, while exempting private fund advisers with less than $150 million in assets under management from registration. Private fund advisers are individuals who manage funds that are not publicly offered for a limited number of qualified purchasers. Since these are smaller funds with a limited number of investors, they are subject to exemptions from SEC registration requirements.

The $150 million threshold exempted smaller advisers to private funds from potentially burdensome regulatory requirements. However, the $150 million AUM threshold has not changed since 2010, nor did Dodd-Frank include any type of inflation adjuster to that threshold. H.R. 3673 adjusts the exemption from registration threshold for advisers to small private funds to accurately reflect changes in inflation in the past 15 years. Overly burdensome compliance requirements can stifle the growth of smaller, innovative private funds. These funds often play a crucial role in providing capital to emerging companies and niche markets that larger, more heavily regulated funds might overlook.

(B) the harm to other persons resulting either directly or indirectly from such act or omission;

(C) the extent to which any person was unjustly enriched, taking into account any restitution made to persons injured by such behavior;

(D) whether such person previously has been found by the Commission, another appropriate regulatory agency, or a self-regulatory organization to have violated the Federal securities laws, State securities laws, or the rules of a self-regulatory organization, has been enjoined by a court of competent jurisdiction from violations of such laws or rules, or has been convicted by a court of competent jurisdiction of violations of such laws or of any felony or misdemeanor described in section 203(e)(2) of this title;

(E) the need to deter such person and other persons from committing such acts or omissions; and

(F) such other matters as justice may require.

(4) EVIDENCE CONCERNING ABILITY TO PAY.—In any proceeding in which the Commission may impose a penalty under this section, a respondent may present evidence of the respondent's ability to pay such penalty. The Commission may, in its discretion, consider such evidence in determining whether such penalty is in the public interest. Such evidence may relate to the extent of such person's ability to continue in business and the collectability of a penalty, taking into account any other claims of the United States or third parties upon such person's assets and the amount of such person's assets.

(j) AUTHORITY TO ENTER AN ORDER REQUIRING AN ACCOUNTING AND DISGORGEMENT.—In any proceeding in which the Commission may impose a penalty under this section, the Commission may enter an order requiring accounting and disgorgement, including reasonable interest. The Commission is authorized to adopt rules, regulations, and orders concerning payments to investors, rates of interest, periods of accrual, and such other matters as it deems appropriate to implement this subsection.

(k) CEASE-AND-DESIST PROCEEDINGS.—

(1) AUTHORITY OF THE COMMISSION.—If the Commission finds, after notice and opportunity for hearing, that any person is violating, has violated, or is about to violate any provision of this title, or any rule or regulation thereunder, the Commission may publish its findings and enter an order requiring such person, and any other person that is, was, or would be a cause of the violation, due to an act or omission the person knew or should have known would contribute to such violation, to cease and desist from committing or causing such violation and any future violation of the same provision, rule, or regulation. Such order may, in addition to requiring a person to cease and desist from committing or causing a violation, require such person to comply, or to take steps to effect compliance, with such provision, rule, or regulation, upon such terms and conditions and within such time as the Commission may specify in such order. Any such order may, as the Commission deems appropriate, require future compliance or steps to effect future compliance, either permanently or for such period of time as the Commission may specify, with such provision, rule, or regulation with respect to any security, any issuer, or any other person.

(2) HEARING.—The notice instituting proceedings pursuant to paragraph (1) shall fix a hearing date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after service of the notice unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Commission with the consent of any respondent so served.

(3) TEMPORARY ORDER.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Whenever the Commission determines that the alleged violation or threatened violation specified in the notice instituting proceedings pursuant to paragraph (1), or the continuation thereof, is likely to result in significant dissipation or conversion of assets, significant harm to investors, or substantial harm to the public interest, including, but not limited to, losses to the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, prior to the completion of the proceedings, the Commission may enter a temporary order requiring the respondent to cease and desist from the violation or threatened violation and to take such action to prevent the violation or threatened violation and to prevent dissipation or conversion of assets, significant harm to investors, or substantial harm to the public interest as the Commission deems appropriate pending completion of such proceedings. Such an order shall be entered only after notice and opportunity for a hearing, unless the Commission, notwithstanding section 211(c) of this title, determines that notice and hearing prior to entry would be impracticable or contrary to the public interest. A temporary order shall become effective upon service upon the respondent and, unless set aside, limited, or suspended by the Commission or a court of competent jurisdiction, shall remain effective and enforceable pending the completion of the proceedings.

(B) APPLICABILITY.—This paragraph shall apply only to a respondent that acts, or, at the time of the alleged misconduct acted, as a broker, dealer, investment adviser, investment company, municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, government securities dealer, or transfer agent, or is, or was at the time of the alleged misconduct, an associated person of, or a person seeking to become associated with, any of the foregoing.

(4) REVIEW OF TEMPORARY ORDERS.—

(A) COMMISSION REVIEW.—At any time after the respondent has been served with a temporary cease-and-desist order pursuant to paragraph (3), the respondent may apply to the Commission to have the order set aside, limited, or suspended. If the respondent has been served with a temporary cease-and-desist order entered without a prior Commission hearing, the respondent may, within 10 days after the date on which the order was served, request a hearing on such application and the Commission shall hold a hearing and render a decision on such application at the earliest possible time.

(B) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Within—

(i) 10 days after the date the respondent was served with a temporary cease-and-desist order entered with a prior Commission hearing, or

(ii) 10 days after the Commission renders a decision on an application and hearing under subparagraph (A), with respect to any temporary cease-and-desist order entered without a prior Commission hearing, the respondent may apply to the United States district court for the district in which the respondent resides or has its principal office or place of business, or for the District of Columbia, for an order setting aside, limiting, or suspending the effectiveness or enforcement of the order, and the court shall have jurisdiction to enter such an order. A respondent served with a temporary cease-and-desist order entered without a prior Commission hearing may not apply to the court except after hearing and decision by the Commission on the respondent's application under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(C) NO AUTOMATIC STAY OF TEMPORARY ORDER.—The commencement of proceedings under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall not, unless specifically ordered by the court, operate as a stay of the Commission's order.

(D) EXCLUSIVE REVIEW.—Section 213 of this title shall not apply to a temporary order entered pursuant to this section.

(5) AUTHORITY TO ENTER AN ORDER REQUIRING AN ACCOUNTING AND DISGORGEMENT.—In any cease-and-desist proceeding under paragraph (1), the Commission may enter an order requiring accounting and disgorgement, including reasonable interest. The Commission is authorized to adopt rules, regulations, and orders concerning payments to investors, rates of interest, periods of accrual, and such other matters as it deems appropriate to implement this subsection.

(l) EXEMPTION OF VENTURE CAPITAL FUND ADVISERS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—No investment adviser that acts as an investment adviser solely to 1 or more venture capital funds shall be subject to the registration requirements of this title with respect to the provision of investment advice relating to a venture capital fund. Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subsection, the Commission shall issue final rules to define the term "venture capital fund" for purposes of this subsection. The Commission shall require such advisers to maintain such records and provide to the Commission such annual or other reports as the Commission determines necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

(2) ADVISERS OF SBICS.—For purposes of this subsection, a venture capital fund includes an entity described in subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of subsection (b)(7) (other than an entity that has elected to be regulated or is regulated as a business development company pursuant to section 54 of the Investment Company Act of 1940).

(3) ADVISERS OF RBICS.—For purposes of this subsection, a venture capital fund includes an entity described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of subsection (b)(8) (other than an entity that has elected to be regulated as a business development company pursuant to section 54 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. 80a–53)).

(m) EXEMPTION OF AND REPORTING BY CERTAIN PRIVATE FUND ADVISERS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Commission shall provide an exemption from the registration requirements under this section to any investment adviser of private funds, if each of such investment adviser acts solely as an adviser to private funds and has assets under management in the United States of less than [$150,000,000] $175,000,000.

(5) INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—The Commission shall, every 5 years, adjust the dollar amount described under paragraph (1) to reflect the change in the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor, and round such dollar amount to the nearest multiple of $1,000,000.

(n) REGISTRATION AND EXAMINATION OF MID-SIZED PRIVATE FUND ADVISERS.—In prescribing regulations to carry out the requirements of this section with respect to investment advisers acting as investment advisers to mid-sized private funds, the Commission shall take into account the size, governance, and investment strategy of such funds to determine whether they pose systemic risk, and shall provide for registration and examination procedures with respect to the investment advisers of such funds which reflect the level of systemic risk posed by such funds.

Committee on Financial Services
U.S. House of Representatives

Dear Chairman Hill and Ranking Member Waters:

On behalf of our nation's venture capital investors and the entrepreneurs they support, I write to express strong support for three bipartisan measures under consideration at today's markup: the Developing and Empowering our Aspiring Leaders (DEAL) Act (H.R. 4429, sponsored by Reps. Ann Wagner and Sean Casten), the Improving Capital Allocation for Newcomers (ICAN) Act (H.R. 4431, sponsored by Reps. William Timmons and Brittany Pettersen), and the Small Business Investor Capital Access Act (H.R. 3673, sponsored by Reps . Andy Barr and Nydia Velázquez). Together, these bills reflect smart, targeted reforms that will unlock capital, reduce unnecessary regulatory friction, and strengthen the American innovation ecosystem.

The DEAL Act modernizes outdated SEC regulations to reflect today's venture capital landscape—one in which startups must stay private longer, and emerging fund managers in nontraditional regions struggle to access anchor capital. In 2024, the median fund size in the U.S. venture capital industry was $21.3 million, and the median fund size for funds outside of the major hubs of California, New York, and Massachusetts was only $10 million. By expanding the definition of "qualifying investments" to include secondary transactions and fund-of-fund strategies, the DEAL Act supports recycling capital to new startups, provides liquidity to founders and early employees, allows trusted venture funds to grow their investments over time with their portfolio companies, and empowers experienced VCs to back new fund managers without triggering costly SEC registration. These changes preserve essential investor protections while enabling a broader and more inclusive startup ecosystem.

The ICAN Act builds on this by updating the thresholds for "qualifying venture capital funds" under Section 3(c)(1) of the Investment Company Act. Today's outdated limits make it difficult for emerging managers to raise competitive funds from smaller accredited investors. The ICAN Act's proposed increase in both fund size and the number of allowable beneficial owners would allow these managers—who are more likely to invest locally and diversify the innovation pipeline—to aggregate smaller checks from a broader base of investors, bringing more capital to underserved regions and founders. The ICAN Act would also require the Securities & Exchange Commission to conduct a study to determine whether the changes to the qualified venture capital fund definition have had demonstrable effects on increasing the geographic distribution of capital to portfolio companies, among other trends.

The Small Business Investor Capital Access Act similarly makes a needed fix by adjusting the SEC's exemption threshold for exempt reporting advisers to account for inflation. Without this change, small and emerging fund managers risk crossing an artificial asset cap simply due to time, not risk. Requiring these funds to become full registered investment advisers imposes disproportionate compliance costs—diverting capital away from startups and into red tape. Indexing this threshold is a commonsense way to sustain the dynamism and diversity of early-stage investment.

Taken together, these bills send a strong bipartisan signal that Congress recognizes the evolving nature of capital formation and the importance of the venture capital ecosystem's patient capital model to nurturing the next generation of innovative, high-growth American companies —and is committed to ensuring that our policy infrastructure grows with it. We thank the Committee for its continued leadership and urge swift advancement of these critical reforms.

Sincerely,

Bobby Franklin

Dear Chairman Hill and Ranking Member Waters:

The undersigned organizations representing the U.S. innovation ecosystem support congressional efforts to drive economic growth, job creation, and opportunity that fuels American innovation. We appreciate the Committee's continued focus on improving capital formation at all stages of a company's lifecycle, particularly for entrepreneurs and investors outside of traditional funding hubs, as well as expanding investment opportunities for everyday investors.

Importance of access to capital

The U.S. capital markets are the engine that powers innovation and economic growth, but raising capital can be daunting for many startups, funds, and businesses. While the availability of private capital has grown substantially over the past few decades, opportunities to access these resources are limited outside of traditional capital-raising hubs and networks. Data shows the number of new funds continues to fall, while the average fund size gets bigger and capital becomes more concentrated. Lack of exits and lower VC valuations have caused investors to pull back from the asset class, and those who are investing are writing bigger checks to larger, more established funds.

Unless we modernize our policy infrastructure, the benefits of this economic and innovation engine will be constrained, and as private markets continue to grow, this gap will only widen. We need to bolster private capital, but importantly, we need to broaden its reach to more investors, more entrepreneurs, more companies, and more communities.

Bolstering emerging managers to grow regional funding networks

To broaden the startup ecosystem, we must broaden the investor ecosystem beyond the traditional tech funding hubs and networks. Capital has become more mobile, but proximity matters, particularly for the earliest stages. Emerging managers are the key. To drive regional growth and the diversification of private capital, we need to support the emerging managers that identify and fund entrepreneurs across the country. These smaller funds are more likely to invest early, invest locally, and support a more diverse pool of entrepreneurs. And data shows emerging managers often outperform their larger counterparts.

Policy should lower barriers and help drive capital to this segment, which will help broaden local networks, create more economic opportunity, and lead to a more robust ecosystem. The following bipartisan measures the Committee are marking up today will help do just that, including the:

- Developing and Empowering our Aspiring Leaders (DEAL) Act,
- Improving Capital Allocation for Newcomers (ICAN) Act, and
- Small Business Investor Capital Access Act

The DEAL Act: Expanding qualifying venture capital investments

Due to regulatory constraints, venture capital funds are largely limited to making direct investments in private companies without facing additional costs and compliance burdens that accompany SEC registration. After Dodd-Frank, private fund advisers were required to register with the SEC unless they qualified as an exempt reporting adviser (ERAs). ERAs are still subject to SEC oversight and compliance obligations that appropriately reflect the venture model, but registered investment advisers (RIAs) are subject to a more extensive and costly regulatory regime.

Venture capital fund advisers can qualify as ERAs if they meet a number of requirements, but 80% of the fund assets must be invested directly in private companies or cash (qualifying assets). The DEAL Act expands the category of qualifying investments to include fund-of-fund investments and secondaries, which will help drive more capital into emerging managers and markets while ensuring these funds continue to pursue a venture-focused strategy.

- Fund-of-fund investments. Increasing the ability for venture capital funds to invest in other venture capital funds could help incentivize established funds to invest in emerging fund managers without incurring additional regulatory burdens that come with SEC registration. Attracting an established fund to serve as an anchor LP could help first-time fund managers attract other investors, and investors will benefit from the diligence of the more established fund. A fund-of-funds strategy not only benefits the emerging manager, but could also provide diversification opportunities and drive returns for the investing fund and its investors.

- Secondary investments. Enabling greater flexibility to invest in secondary investments in qualifying portfolio companies will facilitate greater value realization for investors (such as pension funds and endowments) and recycle more capital into the system, which could unlock a significant source of capital for growing entrepreneurial ecosystems. It would also help startup founders and employees who have a need to monetize their equity compensation and allow existing and trusted venture capital fund partners to increase their investment in a company even between capital-raising rounds.

The ICAN Act: Expanding size and investor limits for qualifying venture capital funds

Under Section 3(c)(1) of the Investment Company Act, private funds cannot raise capital from 100 or more accredited investors. The fund size for most first-time fund managers ranges between $10–$25M, which means the average investor check size for 100 inventors in a $25M fund would have to be $250,000—a high bar for newer fund managers.

To enable emerging managers to accept smaller checks from more investors, Congress created the category of "qualifying venture capital funds" to help smaller venture capital funds raise capital from more investors. The higher limit of beneficial owners was intended to help emerging managers assemble competitive funds by collecting smaller contributions from a greater number of accredited investors. Currently, a venture capital fund can raise up to $12M from 250 beneficial owners. In practice, however, the current parameters limit the utility of this provision.

The ICAN Act would expand the size and investor limits for qualifying venture capital funds to help smaller funds reach more investors.

Small Business Investor Capital Access Act: Ensuring regulatory thresholds keep pace with growth

The Dodd-Frank Act also permitted small private fund advisers with less than $150M in assets under management to be regulated by the SEC as ERAs. However, this threshold was not adjusted for inflation and has remained static since its inception. As a result, private fund managers who would have been eligible ERAs may now be subject to SEC registration and the increased regulatory burden simply due to the passage of time and an outdated threshold. This disproportionately impacts smaller fund managers who may lack the resources to meet the compliance obligations that come with SEC registration. As a result, capital is diverted away from startups and small businesses. The Small Business Investor Capital Access Act will modernize this exemption by indexing this threshold, ensuring small fund managers can continue to support small business capital formation without additional regulatory burden.

Thank you for your leadership in advancing policies to ensure America's entrepreneurs can access the capital they need at each stage of their lifecycle and provide more opportunities for investors.
