

Danish electric vehicle industry and the U.S. one. Finally, the El Jet would demonstrate the commercial viability of a "neighborhood electric vehicle."

Petitioner also argued that an exemption would not unreasonably degrade the safety of the vehicle. The El-Jet is equipped with a 3-point restraint system, and will otherwise comply with all applicable Federal motor vehicle safety standards. It complies with all current European motor safety standards and has passed a crash test at 50 kph (30 mph). Its top speed is only 40 mph, reducing the risk of injury. Although Kewet expected to be able to provide a driver's side air bag in all cars manufactured after September 1993, the target date is now the 1996 model year. Originally, Kewet projected sales of 30 to 50 vehicles through 1993; in actuality, sales in 1994 as of August 30 were "less than 35."

In Kewet's opinion, a temporary exemption would be in the public interest and consistent with traffic safety objectives because it is a participant in the Advanced Research Projects Agency Electrical Vehicle Testing Program. It comments that "[p]roviding test data to the national testing program . . . is an important development to the electric vehicle industry." Kewet does not feel that lack of an air bag "has been a safety hazard" because of the El-Jet's low top speed, and intended non-freeway use. The vehicle is equipped with lap and torso belts, and employs "steel roll cage construction."

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Pursuant to the Bureau's authorizing legislation, programs must maintain a non-political character and should be balanced and representative of the diversity of American political, social and cultural life. Applicants are strongly encouraged to adhere to the advancement of this principle.

Overview: The overall purpose of this RFP is to provide opportunities for U.S. educational institutions and law associations to conduct scholarly workshops/seminars in the People's Republic of China in the theory and practice of the American Corporation and of American Law and thereby give the opportunity for Chinese institutions to offer their members access to recent information and perspectives in these fields as well as to allow for the substantive exchange of ideas. The focus of the proposals should be on the academic study of the American Corporation and the Rule of Law in American Society respectively. An approach combining theoretical sessions and sessions emphasizing the implementation of theory in practice is requested.

Workshops/seminars should take place in one Chinese city. American organizations are encouraged, however, to propose programs that would include participants from a variety of Chinese institutions from across the People's Republic of China. A workshop on American judicial process, for example, could include law professors, law students, as well as legal and judicial officials. Applicants should specify the workshop length and venue, the intended audience, the audience's level of sophistication, e.g., faculty, graduate students, researchers, government officials, and whether there would be any co-sponsor.

A. Workshop/Seminar in American Corporations

Such a program is intended to outline the legal foundation, organization and structure, management principles and status of the corporation in the United States; and the sociology of corporate life and the place of the corporation in American society. The project seeks to satisfy two goals. The first is to satisfy the need of the Chinese universities to get a better understanding of how an American corporation works in a market economy as they examine models for China's economic development. The second goal is to promote understanding of American life and society by looking at the American corporation from a sociological and cultural point of view. The venue will be People's University in Beijing. The American institution will be required to coordinate its program with the Foreign Affairs Office of People's University.

B. Seminar/Workshop in American Law

Grant funding under this category is intended to enhance and expand the scope of American legal studies programs in the People's Republic of China. Proposals with a particular emphasis upon the rule of law in American Society and its relevance to China are encouraged. Familiarity with the functioning of Chinese civil law is a preference factor. Intense, scholarly 3-4 week summer programs are preferred. Individual participants on the American side must be citizens of the U.S. Both projects that have been previously conducted and new projects are eligible.
