Notice of Inventory Completion for Native American Human Remains in the Possession of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, IL

AGENCY: National Park Service, Interior
ACTION: Notice

Notice is hereby given in accordance with provisions of the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, 25 U.S.C. 3003(d), of completion of the inventory of human remains in the possession of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, IL.

A detailed inventory and assessment of these human remains has been made by the Field Museum and representatives of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma.

The cranium and mandible of a single individual was acquired by The Field Museum in 1894 from Ward's Natural Science Establishment, Rochester, NY. Information from Ward's identifies that remains as a Pawnee woman killed in Nebraska in September, 1875. There are no associated funerary objects. Inventory of the human remains and review of the accompanying documentation failed to establish the individual's identity.

Based on the abovementioned information, officials of The Field Museum has determined that, pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001 (2), there is a relationship of shared group identity which can be reasonably traced between these human remains and the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma.

This notice has been sent to officials of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma. Representatives of any other Indian tribe which believes itself to be culturally affiliated with these human remains should contact Jonathan Haas, MacArthur Curator of North American Anthropology, The Field Museum of Natural History, Roosevelt Road at Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL 60605, telephone: (312) 922-9410, extension 641, before March 17, 1995. Repatriation of these human remains may begin after that date if no additional claimants come forward.

Notice of Intent to Repatriate Cultural Items in the Possession of The Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, IL

AGENCY: National Park Service, Interior

ACTION: Notice

Notice is hereby given under the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990 of the intent to repatriate cultural items in the possession of The Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, IL, that meet the definition of "object of cultural patrimony" under section 2 of the act.

The Little Elk Standing Village Bundle (FM# 71860-7187) consists of a hide bundle wrapper with pipe stem and arrows; paint bag; two scalp locks; three bundles of braided sweetgrass; sinew; two goose necks; swan neck; loon neck; shell; black pipe and stem; ear of corn; pierced elk horn scraper; and penis bone. The bundle was purchased for the Field Museum by Assistant Curator James Murie in 1902 and identified as Pawnee.

The Big Black Meteoritic Bundle (FM# 71898) consists of a hide bundle wrapper; war club; two pipe stems; pipe and stem; two curved bones; pipe tamper; wooden pole for storing a star chart, including a metal disc, bag and skin container; start chart; three arrow shafts; three birds wrapped in skin; two scalp locks; small mammal skin; legging fragments; bird leg with talon; two feathers; stuffed hawk; two mammal skins; leather pouch; two bundles of braided sweetgrass; piece of leather bound with leather thong; two pouches; bag; piece of string; ear of corn; two birds in pouches; thong for tying bundle; owl skin; rope, and weasel skin.

The bundle was purchased for The Field Museum by Assistant Curator James Murie in 1906 and identified as Pawnee.

Authorized representatives of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma have been provided with copies of the museum records and have viewed the bundles in person. Representatives of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma identify the bundles as two of the twelve major sacred bundles of the Pawnee, all of which have ongoing importance central to the Pawnee tribe as a whole and which could not have been alienated, appropriated, or conveyed by any individual. The Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma Business Council requested repatriation of the bundles in a letter dated April 18, 1994.

Based on the above mentioned information, officials of The Field Museum have determined that, pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001 (2), there is a relationship of shared group identity which can be reasonably traced between the two bundles and the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma. Officials of The Field Museum have also determined that the two bundles meet the definition of object of cultural patrimony pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001 (3)(C).

Authorities of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service have been contacted regarding applicability of Federal endangered species statutes to this transfer and have concurred in the conclusion that the object is not covered due to its age.

This notice has been sent to officials of the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma. Representatives of any other Indian tribe that believes itself to be culturally affiliated with this object should contact Jonathan Haas, MacArthur Curator of North American Anthropology, The Field Museum of Natural History, Roosevelt Road at Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, IL 60605, telephone: (312) 922-9410, extension 641, before March 17, 1995. Repatriation of the two bundles to the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma can begin after that date if no additional claimants come forward.

Notice of Intent to Repatriate a Cultural Item in the Possession of the Robert Hull Flemming Museum of the University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont

AGENCY: National Park Service, Interior

ACTION: Notice

Notice is hereby given under the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990 of the intent to repatriate a cultural item in the possession of the Robert Hull Flemming Museum of the University of Vermont, Burlington, VT, that meets the definitions of "sacred object" and "object of cultural patrimony" under section 2 of the act.

The item consists of a rattle made of a turtle shell and the hollow neck and head of the turtle, reinforced with willow, serving as a handle. The tortoise shell rattle was donated to the Museum in 1931 by Mr. Henry Schnakenberg, an art collector who is thought to have acquired the object in New York City about 1925-30. The rattle is designated accession number 1931.10.2 and E593.

The object's cultural affiliation was determined from the donor's information in consultation with the Oneida Indian Nation of New York. Representatives of the Oneida Indian Nation of New York have identified this item as a tortoise shell rattle. This tortoise shell rattle is needed by present day adherents for continued observance of the Great Feather Dance, a sacred ritual observance enacted during ceremonies of the traditional calendrical round including the Midwinter festival. Representatives of the Oneida Indian Nation of New York also affirm that this tortoise shell rattle is owned collectively by the members of the Oneida Indian Nation of New York and no individual had the right to sell or otherwise alienate the item.

Based on the above mentioned information, officials of the Robert Hull Fleming Museum, University of Vermont have determined that, pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001 (2), there is a relationship of shared group identity which can be reasonably traced between this tortoise shell rattle and the Oneida Indian Nation of New York. Officials of the Robert Hull Fleming Museum, University of Vermont have also determined that this tortoise shell rattle meets the definitions of sacred object and object of cultural patrimony pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 3001 (3)(C). Copies of this notice have been sent to the the Oneida Indian Nation of New York and the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

Representatives of any other Indian tribe that believes itself to be culturally affiliated with this object should contact Ann Porter, Director, Robert Hull Fleming Museum, Colchester Avenue Burlington, VT 05405, telephone: (802) 656-0750 before March 17, 1995.
