

Federal actions require adherence to the National Environmental Policy Act. This Act requires the development of an environmental assessment or an EIS which analyzes the effects of the proposed Federal action(s) on the environment. This notice initiates the process of developing an EIS.

Alternatives developed though this process will be included in the EIS as well as an analysis of their potential impacts on the environment.

The Trustees have scheduled four meetings to initiate this process. The purpose of these meetings is to introduce the public to the Trustee Council, define the Council's role and responsibilities, explain what restoration means and the legal requirements that must be followed: Describe and seek comment on the Trustee Council's goals, objectives, and project selection criteria; and provide guidance and receive comment on how restoration projects should be presented for consideration.

These meetings are the first step in the restoration plan/EIS development process. Meetings of the Trustee Council are open to the public and the public is invited to attend and participate. The Trustees will be seeking public participation through citizen advisors who can play a continuing role in restoration plan development. Once a draft restoration plan/EIS is developed, public hearings will be held on the content before any such plan is finalized.
