

batches are not practicable. The sponsor may create an alternative plan to that recommended in order to compare the bioavailability and stability characteristics of the test and production batch. Another major change to the guidelines is the provision of an alternate means by which sponsors may meet the supplemental application recommendations for alternate manufacturing sites and alternate sources of bulk drug substance when multiple NADA's and ANADA's are affected. The sponsor may request that pilot batches of representative drug products within the same dosage form class be manufactured instead of producing pilot batches of all affected drug products.

These "Animal Drug Manufacturing Guidelines, 1994" are not intended to be individual stand-alone documents. Much of the information presented in one guideline may be equally important to the correct interpretation of the other guidelines. Therefore, all four guidelines are being issued concurrently.

Guidelines state procedures or practices that may be useful to the persons to whom they are directed, but are not legal requirements. The agency is in the process of revising §§ 10.85(d) and 10.90(b) (21 CFR 10.85(d) and 10.90(b)). Therefore, these guidelines are not being issued under authority of present §§ 10.85(d) and 10.90(b). A person may follow the guideline or may choose to follow alternate procedures or practices. If a person chooses to use alternate procedures or practices, that person may wish to discuss the matter further with the agency to prevent an expenditure of money and effort on activities that may later be determined to be unacceptable to FDA. A guideline does not bind the agency, and it does not create or confer any rights, privileges, or benefits for or on any person. When a guideline states a requirement imposed by statute or regulation, however, the requirement is law and its force and effect are not changed in any way by virtue of its inclusion in the guideline.

Interested persons may, at any time, submit to the Dockets Management Branch (address above) written comments on the guideline. Two copies of any comments are to be submitted, except that individuals may submit one copy. Comments are to be identified with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. The guideline and received comments are available for public examination in the Dockets Management Branch between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Received comments will be considered to determine if further revision of the guideline is necessary.

Dated: March 6, 1995.
