Food Safety and Inspection Service

[Docket No. 95-010N]

Pathogen Reduction; Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) Systems; Notice of Scientific/Technical Conference and Request for Papers

AGENCY: Food Safety and Inspection Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) will hold a scientific/technical conference, "Role of Microbiological Testing in Verifying Food Safety," on May 1-2, 1995, at the Holiday Inn Independence Mall, 4th and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The purpose of the conference is to explore scientific issues related to microbiological testing for verifying the safety of meat and poultry.

ADDRESSES: Papers should be sent to: Dr. Robert L. Buchanan, Deputy Administrator, Science and Technology, FSIS, USDA, Room 402 Cotton Annex, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20250.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For technical information, contact Dr. Jennifer Johnson, Microbiologist, Microbiology Division, Science and Technology, FSIS, USDA, Building 322, Barc-East, Beltsville, MD 20705. (301) 504-8792. To register to attend the conference, call Ms. Mary Gioglio (202) 501-7244.

For hotel reservations, call the Holiday Inn Independence Mall at (215) 923-8660.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 3, 1995, FSIS published a proposed rule "Pathogen Reduction; Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) Systems" (60 FR 6774). In that document, the Agency proposed a number of regulatory changes applicable to Federal- and State-inspected meat and poultry establishments. The proposed changes were designed to reduce the occurrence and numbers of pathogenic microorganisms in meat and poultry products, thereby reducing the incidence of foodborne illness associated with the consumption of these products.

In the proposed rule, FSIS stated that public meetings would be held with the regulated industry and all interested parties to foster the development of beneficial new food safety technologies. FSIS is interested in improving food safety through the use of microbiological testing.

FSIS is aware that any biological characteristic is subject to natural variation. An understanding of the factors influencing variability, particularly relating to collecting samples, must be an integral part of microbiological analyses. FSIS is seeking information on different microbiological testing verification protocols that may assure safer meat and poultry products and, therefore, is hosting a scientific/technical conference.

The conference, "Role of Microbiological Testing in Verifying Food Safety" will be held on May 1-2, 1995, at the Holiday Inn Independence Mall, 4th and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, PA 19106 (215) 923-8660. The conference will begin each day at 8:30 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. on May 1; at 2:00 p.m. on May 2.

Conference Agenda

The conference will consist of three sessions as follows:

Session I: Invited speakers from government agencies, industry, and academia will discuss the use and limitations of microbiological testing for assuring food safety.

Session II: Presentation of papers on the role of microbiological testing in assuring food safety (see Submission of Papers).

Session III: The general public attending the conference, on a first-come basis, will have up to five minutes per person to comment on the conference proceedings.

Dr. Robert L. Buchanan, Deputy Administrator, Science and Technology, FSIS will moderate and be joined by a panel consisting of: Dr. Ann Marie McNamara, Director, Microbiology Division, Science and Technology, FSIS; Dr. E. M. Foster, University of Wisconsin; Dr. Bruce Tompkin, Armour Swift Echrich; Dr. Myron Solberg, Rutgers University; Dr. Katherine Swanson, Pillsbury Company; and Dr. Margarite Neill, Brown University. The panel will summarize the presentations and prepare a report of the proceedings. This report will include general conclusions on the development of microbiological testing for verifying the safety of meat and poultry products. The panel's report, transcripts of the conference, and copies of all the papers submitted to FSIS will be available in the FSIS Docket Clerk's Office, Room 3171, South Agriculture Building, Food Safety and Inspection Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, DC 20250.

Submission of Papers

Interested persons may submit a paper to FSIS for Session II. Papers should present information about microbiological testing for assuring food safety with emphasis on the concepts and methods outlined in the proposed rule "Pathogen Reduction; Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP)." Up to 12 papers will be selected for presentation during Session II. Presenters will be allotted 10 to 15 minutes. All papers will be included in the proceedings of the conference regardless of whether they were selected for presentation.

The papers must be received by April 14, 1995, to be considered for the conference. Two copies of each paper should be submitted (See ADDRESSES), with hard copies of any slides to be used in the presentation.

Attendance and Hotel Reservations

Please call Ms. Mary Gioglio by April 5, 1995, (see FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT) if you plan to attend the conference. FSIS has reserved a block of rooms at the hotel for $85 per night. Reservations may be made by contacting the hotel (see FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT).
