Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act
(Regulation X); Escrow Accounting
Procedures: Correcting Amendment and Clarifications

AGENCY: Office of the Assistant
Secretary for Housing-Federal Housing
Commissioner, HUD.

ACTION: Correcting amendment and clarifications of final rule.

SUMMARY: On October 26, 1994, HUD published a final rule establishing escrow accounting procedures under Sections 6(g) and 10 of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act. The final rule was modified on February 15, 1995, and the effective date was changed to May 24, 1995. Today's issuance corrects references in § 3500.8(c)(1) and in Appendix A regarding responsibilities of servicers and settlement agents. This issuance also explains a reference in the commentary of the February 15 modification to a borrower's discretionary payments, such as credit life insurance, in relation to escrow accounts. Several appendices have been revised to illustrate how payments for credit life insurance and similar discretionary payments should be referenced. In addition, the issuance clarifies certain situations involving installment payments and discounts or penalties.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 24, 1995.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On October 26, 1994 (59 FR 53890), HUD published a final rule establishing, in 24 CFR 3500.17, escrow accounting procedures under Sections 6(g) and 10 of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (12 U.S.C. 2605(g) and 2609) (RESPA). The final rule was modified on February 15, 1995 (60 FR 8812), and is effective on May 24, 1995. Other corrections were published on December 19, 1994 (59 FR 65442), and March 1, 1995 (60 FR 11194), and a notice of software availability was published on April 4, 1995 (60 FR 16985).

This technical correction amends § 3500.8 and the related line item instructions of Appendix A of 24 CFR part 3500, regarding responsibilities of servicers and settlement agents in the computation of aggregate adjustments. This correction clarifies that the lender or servicer will normally provide instructions to the settlement agent for closing.

Second, the February 15, 1995, issuance contained a commentary that included a reference to credit life insurance (see 60 FR at 8813, first column), as follows:

(d) [Page 53902, § 3500.17(b), Definitions, "Escrow account item".] Are certain payments that may enter and leave the account within the same month, such as FHA monthly premiums, private mortgage insurance, or credit life insurance, considered to be escrow account items?

Answer: Yes. All items in the account are included so that the projected low monthly balance is zero (-0-) at the end of Step 2 in the Appendix I examples. * * *

The Department received a number of comments regarding the inclusion of the term "credit life insurance" in a description of items that might enter and leave the account in the same month, and questions about whether this reference meant that any discretionary payment by a borrower was subject to all of the provisions of the escrow accounting rule. In response to those inquiries, the Department is clarifying that there are only two circumstances in which credit life insurance or similar payments would be considered to be "in the escrow account": (1) when the payment is for insurance required by the lender as a condition of the loan (and therefore is within the definition of "settlement service" in § 3500.2); or (2) when the servicer chooses to place the discretionary payment into the escrow account and pays the item from such account. In any other circumstance the borrower's discretionary payment is not considered to be an escrow account item.

In reviewing this matter, the Department has also concluded that if the discretionary payments were not notated, the statement histories would be confusing for borrowers who normally pay their principal, interest, escrow, and discretionary payments with a single check or wire transfer. Therefore, where discretionary payments are received, the Department has developed language to be added to the initial and annual account statements. This language is being added by this issuance in a new § 3500.17(o).

In addition, the Department received a number of questions regarding circumstances in which the payee offered an option of either installment payments or a one-time payment with a discount. The preamble to the October 26, 1994, and February 15, 1995, rules indicated that when a choice was available, servicers should make disbursements on an installment basis, rather than an annual basis; however, servicers were permitted (but not required) to make disbursements on an annual basis if a discount were available. Once the choice of payment basis is made, the disbursement date chosen for that basis depends on discount and penalty dates. Section 3500.17(k) states that "[i]n calculating the disbursement date, the servicer shall use a date on or before the earlier of the deadline to take advantage of discounts, if available, or the deadline to avoid a penalty." This provision is consistent with the rule, which is designed to avoid excessive upfront payments and balances in escrow accounts and, therefore, favors installment payments, unless there are penalties or discounts that make annual payments advantageous for the consumer. Also, after settlement a servicer and borrower are not prevented by this rule from mutually agreeing, on an individual case basis, to a different payment basis (installment or annual) or disbursement date.

Consumer protection, Condominiums, Housing, Mortgages, Mortgage servicing, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

Accordingly, 24 CFR part 3500 is corrected by making the following correcting amendments:

PART 3500—REAL ESTATE
SETTLEMENT PROCEDURES ACT

1. The authority citation for part 3500 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 12 U.S.C. 2601 et seq., 42 U.S.C. 3535(d).

2. Section 3500.8 is amended by revising paragraph (c)(1), to read as follows:

§ 3500.8 Use of HUD-1 or HUD-1A settlement statements.

* * * * *

(c) * * *

(1) After itemizing individual deposits in the 1000 series using single-item accounting, the servicer shall make an adjustment based on aggregate accounting. This adjustment equals the difference in the deposit required under aggregate accounting and the sum of the deposits required under single-item accounting. The computation steps for both accounting methods are set out in § 3500.17(d). The adjustment will always be a negative number or zero (-0-). The settlement agent shall enter the aggregate adjustment amount on a final line in the 1000 series of the HUD-1 or HUD-1A statement.

* * * * *

3. Section 3500.17 is amended by adding paragraph (o), to read as follows:

§ 3500.17 Escrow accounts.

* * * * *

(o) Discretionary payments. Any borrower's discretionary payment (such as credit life or disability insurance) made as part of a monthly mortgage payment is to be noted on the initial and annual statements. If a discretionary payment is established or terminated during the escrow account computation year, this change should be noted on the next annual statement. A discretionary payment is not part of the escrow account unless the payment is required by the lender, in accordance with the definition of "settlement service" in § 3500.2, or the servicer chooses to place the discretionary payment in the escrow account. If a servicer has not established an escrow account for a federally related mortgage loan and only receives payments for discretionary items, this section is not applicable.

4. In Appendix A to part 3500, the second paragraph for lines 1000-1008 under the head "Line Item Instructions" is revised, to read as follows:

Appendix A to Part 3500—Instructions for Completing HUD-1 and HUD-1A Settlement Statements

* * * * *

Line Item Instructions

* * * * *

Lines 1000-1008. * * *

After itemizing individual deposits in the 1000 series using single-item accounting, the servicer shall make an adjustment based on aggregate accounting. This adjustment equals the difference between the deposit required under aggregate accounting and the sum of the deposits required under single-item accounting. The computation steps for both accounting methods are set out in § 3500.17(d). The adjustment will always be a negative number or zero (-0-). The settlement agent shall enter the aggregate adjustment amount on a final line in the 1000 series of the HUD-1 or HUD-1A statement.

5. Appendix G-2, "Initial Escrow Account Disclosure Statement—Example," is amended by substituting the phrase "WILL BE" for the word "WAS" in the last sentence, and Appendices G-1, I-1, I-2, I-5, and I-6 are revised, to read as follows:
