

will continue to examine different aspects of the Agency's community-based approach to environmental protection in FY'96.

- The Information and Assessments Committee is examining the availability, access, and use of environmental information in support of a community-based approach to environmental protection, as well as examining current environmental assessment processes to determine success factors.

- The Implementation Tools Committee is evaluating opportunities for EPA to reorient the use of its existing statutory and regulatory authorities to integrate a community-based approach to environmental protection into the Agency's decision-making process.

- The Sustainable Economies Committee is examining the defining elements of sustainable economies and opportunities for harmonizing environmental policy, economic activity, and ecosystem management.

NACEPT comprises a representative cross-section of EPA's partners and constituents in order to gain insights and perspectives from all interested parties. As these committees continue their work and to maintain a good balance of capabilities on the committees, nominations for additional membership are being solicited for all committees and NACEPT's executive committee.

EPA is seeking nominees for representation from all sectors, especially state and local planning agencies, industry, tribal organizations, environmental NGOs, and community organizations currently engaged in community-based environmental protection.

Nominations for membership must include a resume and short biography describing the educational and professional qualifications of the nominee and the nominee's current business address and daytime telephone number.

Public Water Supply Supervision Program; Program Revision for the State of Alaska

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given that the State of Alaska is revising its approved State Public Water Supply Supervision Primacy Program. Alaska has adopted drinking water regulations for certain inorganic, volatile organic and synthetic organic chemicals (collectively known as the Phase II, Phase IIB and Phase V contaminants) and for lead and copper. EPA has determined that these State program revisions are no less stringent than the corresponding Federal regulations. Therefore, EPA has tentatively decided to approve these State program revisions. By approving Alaska's Phase II/IIB/V Contaminants Rule and its Lead and Copper Rule, EPA does not intend to affect the rights of Federally recognized Indian tribes within "Indian Country," as defined in 18 U.S.C. 1151, nor does it intend to limit existing rights of the State of Alaska.

All interested parties may request a public hearing. A request for public hearing must be submitted by July 3, 1995 to the Regional Administrator at the address shown below. Frivolous or insubstantial requests for a hearing may be denied by the Regional Administrator. If no timely and appropriate request for a hearing is received and the Regional Administrator does not elect to hold a hearing on his own motion, this determination shall become final and effective July 3, 1995.

Any request for a public hearing shall include the following: (1) The name, address, and telephone number of the individual, organization, or other entity requesting a hearing; (2) a brief statement of the requesting person's interest in the Regional Administrator's determination and of information that the requesting person intends to submit at such hearing; and (3) the signature of the individual making the request; or, if the request is made on behalf of an organization or other entity, the signature of a responsible official of the organization or other entity.
