

that increases of imports of articles like or directly competitive with crude oil and natural gas contributed importantly to the decline in sales or production and to the total or partial separation of workers at Chevron USA Production Company. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, I make the following certification:

"All workers of Chevron USA Production Company, located in the District of Columbia (TA-W-30,570D) who become totally or partially separated from employment on or after December 19, 1993 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974."

AND

"All workers of Chevron USA Production Company operating at various locations in the following states engaged in employment related to the exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after July 9, 1994 are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974."

Johnson Controls Inc., Bennington, Vermont; Revised Determination on Reopening

On May 12, 1995, the Department, on its own motion, reopened its investigation for the former workers of the subject firm.

The initial investigation resulted in a negative determination on March 15, 1994 because the "contributed importantly" test of the Group Eligibility Requirements of the Trade Act was not met for workers at the subject firm. The denial notice was published in the Federal Register on March 30, 1994 (59 FR 14876).

The new findings show a later response indicating that a customer of the subject firm increased purchases of imported automotive batteries in 1993 and 1994.

Conclusion

After careful consideration of the new facts obtained on reopening, it is concluded that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with automotive batteries produced by the subject firm contributed importantly to the declines in sales and to the total or partial separation of workers of the subject firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Trade Act of 1974, I make the following revised determination:

"All workers of Johnson Controls Inc., Bennington, Vermont, engaged in the production of automotive batteries who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after January 3, 1993, are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974."

Signed in Washington, DC, this 18th day of May 1995.

Johnson Controls Battery Group Inc., Owosso, Michigan; Revised Determination on Reopening

On May 12, 1995, the Department on its own motion, reopened its investigation for the former workers of the subject firm.

The initial investigation resulted in a negative determination on February 21, 1995 because the "contributed importantly" test of the Group Eligibility Requirements of the Trade Act was not met for workers at the subject firm. The denial notice was published in the Federal Register on March 10, 1995 (60 FR 13177).

The new findings show a late response indicating that a customer of the subject firm increased purchases of imported automotive batteries in 1993 and 1994.

Conclusion

After careful consideration of the new facts obtained on reopening, it is concluded that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with automotive batteries produced by the subject firm contributed importantly to the declines in sales and to the total or partial separation of workers of the subject firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Trade Act of 1974, I

Lockheed Fort Worth Co., a Division of Lockheed Corp., Department 73, Fort Worth, Texas; Revised Determination on Reopening

On May 16, 1995, the Department, on its own motion, reopened its investigation for the former workers of the subject firm.

The initial investigation resulted in a negative determination on January 10, 1995 because the "contributed importantly" test of the Group Eligibility Requirements of the Trade Act was not met for workers at the subject firm. The denial notice was published in the Federal Register on February 10, 1995 (60 FR 8061).

New evidence furnished to the Department show company imports of wire harnesses for F-16 fighter aircraft.

Conclusion

After careful consideration of the new facts obtained on reopening, it is concluded that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with wire harnesses produced by the subject firm contributed importantly to the declines in sales and to the total or partial separation of workers of the subject firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Trade Act of 1974, I make the following revised determination:

"All workers of Department 73 of Lockheed Fort Worth Company, a Division of Lockheed Corporation, located in Fort Worth, Texas, who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after October 31, 1993, are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974."
