Department of the Air Force

Notice Concerning the Idaho Training Range

The Air Force has determined that it will no longer pursue the Idaho Training Range as proposed by the State of Idaho. Accordingly, the Air Force has terminated work on its environmental impact statement (EIS) for the Idaho Training Range. The EIS was being prepared to consider the State of Idaho's proposal for a state-owned tactical training range to be used by the Air Force and the Air National Guard.

The Air Force has committed to working with the State, the Department of Interior, the Shoshone-Paiute Tribes and others to try to identify other tactical training opportunities in Idaho. There are no proposals at this time. Should a new, mutually agreeable proposal be developed, it would be announced and the Air Force would begin a comprehensive environmental analysis of it in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act.

All sessions of the meetings will be closed to the public.

The purpose of the meetings is to provide an assessment of the Department of the Navy Science and Technology Program, make recommendations on how to best posture the Department to be a world class customer of science and technology innovation, and determine whether the Department's execution philosophy and management structure allow for the most effective utilization of innovation. The agenda will include briefings and discussions on perspectives from internal Department of the Navy sources, as well as the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Office of the Secretary of Defense, the Department of the Air Force, the Department of the Army, and the Advanced Research Projects Agency. These briefings and discussions will involve sensitive Department of Defense information. Premature public disclosure of this information would be likely to significantly frustrate proposed agency action. The sensitive matters to be discussed are so inextricably intertwined as to preclude opening any portion of the meetings. Accordingly, the Secretary of the Navy has determined in writing that the public interest requires that all sessions of the meetings be closed to the public because they will be concerned with matters listed in section 552b(c)(9)(B) of title 5, United States Code.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Financial Assistance Award; Intent to Award Cooperative Agreement To Florida State University

AGENCY: Department of Energy (DOE).
ACTION: Notice of intent.

SUMMARY: The Department of Energy announces that pursuant to 10 CFR 600.6(a)(5), it is making a discretionary financial assistance award based on the criteria set forth at 10 CFR 600.7(b)(2)(i) (A) and (B) to Florida State University (FSU), and FSU's Institute for Central and Eastern European Cooperative Environmental Research (ICEECER), both located in Tallahassee, Florida, under Cooperative Agreement Number DE-FC01-95EW55101. The DOE intends to make a noncompetitive financial assistance award. The purposes of the proposed cooperative agreement are to continue FSU's work in environmental research technology and development, which the DOE has funded for the previous five years, and to establish an identification and evaluation program of innovative environmental technologies on an international scale. This five-year effort will have a total estimated cost of $9,373,600.

DATES: Any comments or inquiries should be submitted by June 26, 1995.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Please write the U.S. Department of Energy, Office of Placement and Administration, ATTN: Jeffrey R. Dulberg, HR-561.22, 1000 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, DC 20585.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The proposed cooperative agreement will provide funding to FSU to continue its previous work focusing on both domestic U.S. and international environmental technology research and development and to establish a comprehensive program of identification and evaluation of innovative technologies. This program will encompass those technologies that are either currently being utilized in remediation efforts conducted by, or in development by, the DOE, other Federal agencies, State agencies, and private organizations. This program will also assist in the identification and evaluation of innovative technologies for environmental cleanup, which are under development by foreign scientists. ICEECER will conduct and participate in international symposia, conferences, workshops, and other meetings, which will serve as vehicles for identifying and evaluating these innovative environmental restoration technologies. The term of the project is planned to be five (5) years, commencing on June 30, 1995, and ending on June 29, 2000. The activity to be funded is necessary to the satisfactory completion of, or is a continuation or renewal of, an activity presently being funded by the DOE, and for which competition for support would have a significant adverse effect on continuity or completion of the activity. Without continuance of these worker safety studies funded by the DOE and which are still ongoing in Hungary, Poland, and throughout the former Soviet Union, the Government's investment to date would, in effect, be wasted, since the technologies being investigated are not yet mature enough for full scale implementation at U.S. cleanup sites. The activity is being conducted by the applicant using its own resources. FSU has invested its own resources in performing interdisciplinary research aimed at understanding and mitigating the effects that environmental pollutants have on human health and ecological systems. FSU has also invested its own resources in establishing critical links with academic institutions and private organizations in Central and Eastern Europe in the environmental technology field. By accelerating and significantly expanding FSU's current efforts, Departmental funding would enhance the public benefits to be derived. The DOE knows of no other entity which is conducting or is planning to conduct such an activity.

Based on the evaluation of relevance to the accomplishment of a public purpose, it is determined that the proposal represents a beneficial method and approach: to continue developing and testing advanced environmental technologies that could result in significant cost reductions and increased worker safety for cleanup projects in the U.S.; to perform interdisciplinary research aimed at understanding and mitigating the effects that environmental pollutants have on human health and ecological systems; to heighten public awareness concerning innovative technologies for managing radioactive wastes, hazardous wastes, and mixed wastes; and, to identify and evaluate innovative technologies for site characterization, monitoring, and restoration, as well as for waste management and the environmental consequences of energy production.

Issued in Washington, DC, on June 1, 1995.

Richard G. Lewis,

Contracting Officer, Office of Placement and Administration.
