Application Forms: The National Institute for Literacy has no application forms or prescribed format for the Literacy Leader Fellowship Program. Applicants must submit a detailed budget, curriculum vitae or resume, and sufficient information to allow the Institute to determine the merits of the proposed activities and rate the application according to the criteria and any applicable priorities. Applicants are also required to submit the following assurances and certifications:

(a) Assurances—Non-Construction Programs (Standard Form 424B).

(b) Certification Regarding Lobbying; Debarment, Suspension, and other Responsibility Matters; and Drug-Free Workplace Requirements (ED 90-0013).

(c) Disclosure of Lobbying Activities (Standard Form LLL) (if applicable) and instructions.

The assurances, and certifications must each have an original signature. No award can be made unless these forms are submitted.

Priorities: (a) The Director invites applications for Literacy Leader Fellowships that meet the following priorities for 1995.

(b) The priorities for 1995 are major areas of concern in the literacy field that are currently being addressed in the Institute's work.

(c) An application may be awarded up to 5 bonus points for addressing a priority or priorities, depending on how well the application meets the priority or priorities.

(d) The publication of these priorities does not bind the Institute to fund only applications addressing priorities. The Director is especially interested in fellowship applications that address one or more of the priorities, but not to the exclusion of other significant issues that may be proposed by applicants.

(e) The priorities selected from the regulations for 1995 are as follows:

(1) Work force and Workplace literacy. Millions of American adults need educational services either to enter to work force or to upgrade their work-related skills. Increasingly literacy programs are offered in the context of the workplace. Workforce education and development is a top national priority and a critical focus in the literacy field.

(2) Family Literacy. Educational research and practice continue to demonstrate the fundamental importance of the family in creating both the motivation and conditions for a child's readiness for school and continued learning throughout life. This intergenerational literacy connection is having an increasingly significant effect on the funding, design, and operation of Federal, State, and local programs for children as well as adults.

(3) English as a Second Language/Immigration and Literacy. Recent studies confirm that adults with limited English proficiency (LEP) experience a variety of social and economic disadvantages: lower wages, limited employment opportunities, limited access to public services, and barriers to becoming active members of their communities and neighborhoods. ESL instruction is currently the largest and fastest growing component of the Adult Education Act, and the demand continues to increase dramatically. About two-thirds of all recent immigrants to America are LEP, and about 76% of the 12 to 14 million LEP adults in America are immigrants. Issues related to the education of immigrants and ESL services are of increasing importance to the literacy and adult education field.

(4) Assessing Progress toward National Educational Goal 6. Goal 6, the adult literacy and lifelong learning goal, states that: "By the year 2000, every adult American will be literate and will possess the knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a global economy and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship." Gauging progress toward this goal is a primary concern of the Institute and a complex undertaking that challenges all sectors of the literacy field.

As a result, there is growing interest in the development of innovative approaches for measuring and documenting this progress in a variety of service settings.

(5) The Role of Adult Learners in Literacy and Adult Education Programs. As the primary consumers of literacy and adult education services, adult learners have the greatest personal stake in the quality of these services, and unique contributions to make in setting policy for, planning, and implementing programs. The Institute is interested in learning more about how current and former adult learners can play meaningful roles at every level of the literacy field nationwide.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: National Institute for Literacy: National Educational Goal 6, which is now included in the Goals 2000 Educate America Act, puts forward an ambitious agenda for adult literacy and lifelong learning in America. To further this goal, the Congress passed Public Law 102-73, the National Literacy Act of 1991, which is the first piece of national legislation to focus exclusively on literacy. The overall intent of the Act, as stated, is:

To enhance the literacy and basic skills of adults, to ensure that all adults in the United States acquire the basic skills necessary to function effectively and achieve the greatest possible opportunity in their work and in their lives and to strengthen and coordinate adult literacy programs.

In designing the Act, among the primary concerns shared by the Congress and literacy stakeholders was the fragmentation and lack of coordination among the many efforts in the field. To address these concerns, the Act created the National Institute for Literacy to:

(A) Provide a national focal point for research, technical assistance and research dissemination, policy analysis and program evaluation in the area of literacy; and

(B) Facilitate a pooling of ideas and expertise across fragmented programs and research efforts.

Among the Institute's authorized activities is the awarding of fellowships to outstanding individuals who are pursuing careers in adult education or literacy in the areas of instruction, management, research, or innovation. These fellowships are to be awarded for activities that advance the field of adult education and literacy.
