

policies, more direct involvement of the lending institutions through delegated authorities, and a coordinated promotion of the programs. These and other efforts enable small businesses and small business lenders to select the program best suited to their needs and to access either program without the need to meet differing documentation and application requirements. SBA's experience with the pilot has been excellent. During the first ten months of the program, 145 EWCP loans have been made, exceeding the last year's annual production for the ERLC program by 167%. However, the harmonization effort continues and is scheduled to be reviewed and assessed during Fiscal Year 96. For this reason SBA is extending the pilot for an additional six months during which time the Agency will evaluate which aspects of the program should be incorporated into permanent regulations.

During the continuation of the pilot, EWCP loans will not be eligible for sale in the secondary market that exists for 7(a) loans.
