

analyses of design basis events affected by the increase have been reviewed or reanalyzed and the consequences found to be bounded by current updated final safety analysis report (UFSAR) consequences or within regulatory requirements. In addition, no significant increases in individual or cumulative occupational radiation exposure would result from the proposed changes in operating conditions. Also, the proposed increase in the NSSS power involves no significant change in the amount of any nonradiological impacts associated with operation of the facility, i.e., those previously evaluated and approved in the FES. The Final Environmental Assessment evaluated the environmental impact, assuming the maximum design thermal output of the PVNGS units to be 4100 MWt. Thus, the proposed increase in power level is within the scope of the previous reviews performed for the environmental impact of operation of the units. Accordingly, the Commission concludes that there are no significant environmental impacts associated with the proposed action.

Alternatives to the Proposed Action

Since the Commission has concluded that there is no measurable environmental impact associated with the proposed action, any alternatives with equal or greater environmental impacts need not be evaluated. The principal alternative to the proposed action would be to deny the requested amendment. Denial would not significantly reduce the environmental impact of plant operation and would restrict operation of the PVNGS units to the currently licensed power level, thereby reducing operational flexibility.

Alternative Use of Resources

This action does not involve the use of any resources not previously considered in the Final Environmental Statement for the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station.

Agencies and Persons Consulted

In accordance with NRC policy, on February 28, 1996, the staff consulted with the Arizona State official, Mr. William Wright of the Arizona Radiation Regulatory Agency, regarding the environmental impact of the proposed action. The State official had no comments.

Finding of No Significant Impact

Based upon the environmental assessment, the Commission concludes that the proposed action will not have a significant effect on the quality of the human environment. Accordingly, the Commission has determined not to prepare an environmental impact statement for the proposed action.

For further details with respect to the proposed action, see the licensee's letter dated January 5, 1996, which is available for public inspection at the Commission's Public Document Room, The Gelman Building, 2120 L Street, NW., Washington, DC, and at the local public document room located at the Phoenix Public Library, 1221 N. Central Avenue, Phoenix, Arizona 85004.
