This rule is promulgated to consolidate within one entity the authority delegated by the Secretary to decide administrative appeals and matters under administrative review. This consolidation should result in administrative efficiencies and cost savings.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 3, 1996.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On April 17, 1996, the Secretary of Labor issued Secretary's Order 2-96 which establishes the Administrative Review Board and transfers to it the authorities and responsibilities previously delegated to the Wage Appeals Board and the Board of Service Contract Appeals. Both the Wage Appeals Board and the Board of Service Contract Appeals are eliminated by Secretary's Order 2-96. In addition to those responsibilities, Secretary's Order 2-96 delegates to the Administrative Review Board the Secretary of Labor's and other deciding officials' authority to issue final agency decisions of administrative appeals and of administrative review cases under certain laws, which are enumerated in the Secretary's Order. Those enumerated laws are those for which the Office of Administrative Appeals was previously assigned the responsibility of advising and assisting the Secretary of Labor and other agency officials in deciding administrative appeals and matters of administrative review. The Office of Administrative Appeals is eliminated by Secretary's Order 2-96.

The rules of practice and procedure for the conduct of an administrative appeal or matter of administrative review brought to the Administrative Review Board shall, until changed, continue to be the rules that are currently prescribed for such an administrative appeal or review.
