

community's interests, e.g., reflected in its zoning for the area, play a significant role in determining the range of alternatives considered in the environmental analysis for property disposal. Furthermore, Section 91.7(d)(3) of the DOD Rule provides that the Local Redevelopment Authority's plan generally will be used as the basis for the proposed disposal action.

The Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, 40 U.S.C. § 484, as implemented by the FPMR, identifies several mechanisms for disposing of surplus base closure property; by public benefit conveyance (FPMR Sec. 101-47.303-2); by negotiated sale (FPMR Sec. 101-47.304-8); and by competitive sale (FPMR Sec. 101-47.304-7). Additionally, in section 2905(b)(4), the DBCRA established economic development conveyances as a means of disposing of surplus base closure property. The selection of any particular method of conveyance merely implements the Federal agency's decision to dispose of the property. Decisions concerning whether to undertake a public benefit conveyance or an economic development conveyance, or to sell property by negotiation or by competitive bid are committed by law to agency discretion. Selecting a method of disposal implicates a broad range of factors and rests solely within the Secretary of the Navy's discretion.

Conclusion

The Consensus Reuse Plan proposed by the Village of Glenview presents the highest and best use of the NAS Glenview property. The Village of Glenview, as the LRA, has determined in its Consensus Reuse Plan that the property should be used for several purposes, including commercial, light industrial, retail, residential, recreational, public service, and open space uses. The property's physical characteristics and the current uses of adjacent lands make it appropriate for this mixed use redevelopment.

The Consensus Reuse Plan responds to local economic conditions, promotes rapid economic recovery from the impact of the Naval Air Station's closure, and is consistent with President Clinton's Five-Part Plan for revitalizing base closure communities, which emphasizes local economic redevelopment of the closing military facility and creation of new jobs as the means to revitalize these communities. 32 CFR Parts 90 and 91, 59 Fed. Reg. 16,123 (1994). The resultant environmental impacts can be mitigated by the acquiring entity under the direction of Federal, State and local regulatory authorities.

Although the "No Action" alternative has less potential for causing adverse environmental impacts, this alternative would not constitute the highest and best use of the Naval Air Station property. It would not take advantage of the property's physical characteristics and the current uses of adjacent property. It is not compatible with the LRA's Consensus Reuse Plan. It would not foster local economic redevelopment of the Air Station and would not create new jobs.

Accordingly, Navy will dispose of Naval Air Station Glenview in a manner that is consistent with the Village of Glenview's Consensus Reuse Plan for the property.
