

these actions. Copies of the draft EA and this notice will be distributed to persons who have expressed a prior interest in this or related polar bear conservation issues. Copies are available upon request at the location under the ADDRESSES section. As identified above in the DATES Section, the Service will also conduct two public meetings to promote discussion of the draft EA. Comments and materials received in response to this action will be available for public inspection at this address during normal working hours of 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Discussions regarding development of a unified management approach between Russia and the United States were initiated in Sochi, Russia in October 1988, at the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources (IUCN) Polar Bear Specialists Group Meeting. Further talks occurred in May 1990, and correspondence supporting the development of a bilateral agreement followed. Between 1992 and 1995, protocols of agreement were developed between the natural resources agencies of the respective countries and the Native users of Alaska and Chukotka. During this period numerous discussions between the Service and Native representatives occurred on the possible development of a government-to-government conservation agreement and a companion Native-to-Native agreement. These agreements would be consistent with the terms of the 1973 Agreement and include the principles of sustainable yield, support for research and the collection of biological information and local knowledge, and habitat protection. In April 1994, a "Protocol of Intentions Between the Indigenous Peoples of Chukotka and Alaska on the Conservation, Protection, Management, and Study of the Bering and Chukchi Seas Shared Polar Bear Population" was signed. In the United States representatives of the Service, the Department of State, the Department of the Interior, the Marine Mammal Commission, the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, the North Slope Borough, the Alaska Nanuuq Commission, and the Audubon Society have met several times to discuss principles for a draft conservation agreement. The need for public input and review led to the development of the draft EA in June 1996. The Service plans to submit a request to the Department of State for authority to enter into formal negotiations with Russia, pending the consideration of public comments and development of a final EA.
