

Issues for Comment

DOE requests comments and supporting data on any issue related to the relationship between the phaseout of HCFC-141b and revised DOE standards for refrigerator products. DOE also requests comments on the advantages or disadvantages of the approaches described in this notice, and particularly on the preferred option as described in item 4 above. DOE specifically requests input on the following:

- When should new refrigerator standards take effect? Would significant cost savings result from having the standards take effect at the same time as the HCFC production ban? Information and data on the cost impacts of a refrigerator efficiency standard taking effect in 2000 combined with a 2003 phaseout of HCFCs are specifically requested.

- What standard level, or range of standard levels, should be adopted given current information on blowing agents?

- Is new information available on design options, including more efficient compressors, that would indicate that the analysis that accompanied the 1995 proposed rule should be redone?

- What blowing agents will be available to replace HCFC-141b? If there is uncertainty now, will there be sufficient information available in 1999 to make this assessment?

- What will be the range of impacts on manufacturers of using a substitute blowing agent?

- If a later determination is to be made on energy penalties of HCFC-141b substitutes, what procedure should be followed to determine the energy penalty and the resulting final standard? If this approach is adopted, should the final rule specify a baseline or default standard level that would take effect in the event no determination is made?

- Under what range of conditions concerning the cost of HCFC substitutes, and related manufacturing cost impacts, can the existing economic analysis be used?

Issued in Washington, DC, August 6, 1996.
Christine A. Ervin,

Assistant Secretary, Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy.
