

ability of an entity that will use mentally impaired persons to perform the service.

The nonprofit agency is aware of the health and safety requirements the commenters noted and is taking steps to assure compliance with them. Among these steps, the nonprofit agency has retained a retired nurse who worked at the hospital's infectious control unit to develop its quality assurance plan and related procedures and to provide expert advice. The nonprofit agency has acquired and installed the necessary laundry equipment. The nonprofit agency performed laundry service for a local hospital as part of its training and has made arrangements for that hospital to provide backup laundry services as needed.

The Committee's program is currently performing 25 other laundry projects successfully, including several hospital laundries, and the central nonprofit agency responsible for developing those projects has reviewed this nonprofit agency's plans and laundry facility and concluded that it will be able to perform this project successfully. In each of the hospital laundries, people with mental disabilities are successfully performing tasks which require contact with infectious materials, as they will do in performing this service. The contracting activity has visited and approved the nonprofit agency's laundry facility. Given this record, and the central nonprofit agency's expertise in assessing nonprofit agency capability to perform hospital laundry services and assisting such agencies in performing these services, the Committee believes the nonprofit agency is capable of performing this service successfully.

The Committee does not consider the involvement of base contracting personnel in the development of this addition to the Procurement List to be improper. Government personnel are encouraged by a Committee regulation, 41 CFR 51-5.1, to assist the Committee and its central nonprofit agencies in identifying suitable services to be added to the Procurement List, and are required by the same regulation to provide the Committee and the central nonprofit agencies with information needed to determine if a service should be added.

Commenters also indicated that the nonprofit agency would provide the service at a higher price than the contractor. The Committee's statute requires services added to the Procurement List to be sold to the Government at a fair market price, not necessarily the lowest possible price.

The Committee's procedures require prices in the dollar range represented by the hospital laundry service to be set by negotiation between the nonprofit agency and the contracting activity. The price which has been set for this service has followed this fair market pricing procedure and has been recognized by the Committee as a fair market price.

After consideration of the material presented to it concerning capability of qualified nonprofit agencies to provide the service and impact of the addition on the current or most recent contractors, the Committee has determined that the service listed below are suitable for procurement by the Federal Government under 41 U.S.C. 46-48c and 41 CFR 51-2.4.

I certify that the following action will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. The major factors considered for this certification were:

1. The action will not result in any additional reporting, recordkeeping or other compliance requirements for small entities other than the small organizations that will furnish the service to the Government.

2. The action will not have a severe economic impact on current contractors for the service.

3. The action will result in authorizing small entities to furnish the service to the Government.

4. There are no known regulatory alternatives which would accomplish the objectives of the Javits-Wagner-O'Day Act (41 U.S.C. 46-48c) in connection with the service proposed for addition to the Procurement List.

Accordingly, the following service is hereby added to the Procurement List:

Laundry Service, Hospital, Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana

This action does not affect current contracts awarded prior to the effective date of this addition or options that may be exercised under those contracts.

Executive Director.
