

'attacking' the earth's crust (e.g., for cutting and breaking down rock, earth, coal, etc.; earth excavation, digging, drilling, etc.), or for preparing or compacting the terrain (e.g., scraping, levelling, grading, tamping or rolling)." The shield supports do not "attack" the earth's crust, nor do they prepare or compact the terrain. Accordingly, based on the common meaning of the terms "excavating" and "extracting," and the guidance of EN 84.30, the shield supports cannot be classified under heading 8430, HTSUS.

Proposed Change of Practice

Customs believes that the shield supports are classifiable under heading 8479, HTSUS, which provides for machines and mechanical appliances having individual functions, not specified or included elsewhere in the chapter. The function performed by the shield supports is not described by any heading in the tariff schedule.

The shield supports prevent the mine roof from collapsing onto the system's shearer and face conveyor. This function is distinct and separable from that which is performed by the other components of the long wall mining system, which is designed to cut and then transport coal. While the supports also move the entire system forward, they do not perform a cutting or (coal) transportation function. See EN 84.79 (for examples of devices having "individual functions"). Accordingly, the shield supports are classifiable under heading 8479, HTSUS, specifically under subheading 8479.89.95, HTSUS.
