The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Coastal Services Coastal Services Center is a coastal resource advisory center that draws on the expertise of NOAA and its partners to address critical coastal resource issues. Established in 1994, in Charlestown, South Carolina, the Center's mission is to identify, develop, and facilitate the use of technologies and information that support sustainable use and management of coastal resources. The Coastal Services Center bridges the gap between coastal scientists and resource managers by bringing Center staff, technologies, and outside partner expertise to bear on national problems related to coastal ecosystems and economies. The Center focuses primarily on issues of resource management, land use impacts, and habitat loss as well as coastal hazards and cumulative secondary impacts of coastal development. Clients of the Coastal Services Center include coastal resource managers, policy makers, scientists, environmental organizations, coastal and marine science educators, and private business people. The Center delivers information to the coastal resource community through advisory services, Internet World Wide Web service, information bases, summary reports, training workshops, short courses, conferences, seminars, fact sheets and publications.

The Graduate School of Oceanography of the University of Rhode Island is one of the largest and most widely known graduate schools of oceanography in the United States. It has joined with NOAA as a partner in establishing a national coastal data network because it has particular strengths in coastal oceanography and in distributed ocean data systems, has one of the largest marine science libraries in the world, and is the location of the Sea Grant Depository. The University has been a national Sea Grant College since 1971, and in 1989 it was designated a NOAA Center of Excellence in coastal marine science.

Final Certification for the Consolidation of 70 Weather Service Offices (WSOs)

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: On January 2, 1997 the Under Secretary of Commerce for Oceans and Atmosphere approved and transmitted 70 consolidation certifications to Congress.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 15, 1997.

ADDRESSES: Requests for copies of the final consolidation certification packages should be sent to Tom Beaver, Room 09356, 1325 East-West Highway, Silver Spring, MD 20910.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Julie Scanlon at 301-713-1698 ext 151.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The 70 consolidation certifications were comprised of three groups as described and listed below. The first group, consisting of 42 consolidations, were proposed and the 60-day public comment period commenced upon publication of three Federal Register notices between December 1995 and February 1996. There were no public comments received. The Modernization Transition Committee (MTC) considered and endorsed these 42 consolidation certifications at its April 24, 1996 meeting, concluding that these certifications would not result in any degradation of service.

The second group, consisting of 18 consolidations, were proposed and the 60-day public comment period commenced upon publication of two Federal Register notices in between March and April 1996. Two public comments were received; one with regard to WSO Bakersfield, CA and one with regard to WSO Indianapolis, IN. These comments and responses are set forth here for reference.

Comment: A comment from Sean Boyd, KSEE 24 Television, Fresno, California questioned the WSR-88D precipitation algorithm. He stated, "Initially, I have concerns, which were unfounded, about the potential health hazards for those in close proximity to the WSR-88D. Those concerns have long been put to rest now. There is no question that the WSR-88D is the finest tool to date for the detection of severe weather, and for precipitation estimates. Regarding the former: severe weather in central California is rare; however the rules for such episodes are different
