Greenhouse Gas Emissions From Municipal Waste Management

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of data availability and request for comments.

SUMMARY: In support of the Source Reduction and Recycling Initiative under the President's Climate Change Action Plan, EPA's Office of Solid Waste and Office of Economy and Environment are releasing for public review a draft contractor report estimating the greenhouse gas emissions and sinks associated with managing ten materials in municipal solid waste in a variety of ways. The ten materials examined are newspaper, office paper, corrugated cardboard, aluminum, steel, HDPE plastic, LDPE plastic, PET plastic, food scraps, and yard trimmings. Together, these materials constitute roughly 50 percent of the municipal solid waste stream. The municipal solid waste management strategies addressed are source reduction, recycling, composting, combustion, and landfilling.

The report employs a streamlined life cycle inventory methodology to calculate the greenhouse gas emissions and sinks associated with managing these materials in specific ways. This methodology includes assessments of the following: (1) Process and transportation greenhouse gas emissions from raw materials acquisition and manufacturing; (2) carbon storage in forests; (3) soil carbon storage; and (4) greenhouse gas emissions and emissions offsets associated with combustion and landfilling. Greenhouse gas emissions estimates are made for each material and management strategy on the basis of metric tons of carbon equivalents per ton of material managed in a specific way.

Preliminary results indicate that municipal solid waste management strategies to reduce greenhouse gas emissions are generally consistent with the municipal solid waste management hierarchy of preferred waste management methods. That is to say, source reduction yields the greatest reductions in greenhouse gas emissions, followed, in order, by recycling (including composting), and disposal (whether combustion or landfilling results in lower greenhouse gas emissions depends on the specific material).

The Agency is providing a 90-day comment period for this draft contractor report. Information on how to submit comments is provided below.
