

SAMHSA initiatives to assist the States and service providers such as the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention's (CSAP) State Incentive Grant Program, as well as CSAP's new Regional Centers for the Application of Prevention Technology. The project will also foster technology transfer by making available to all a detailed analysis of each State's prevention activities.

The supplement related to State data capability is intended to address the States' need for information regarding each State's capability to collect, analyze, and report data on the need for, and provision of, substance abuse treatment and prevention services. The States are currently engaged in a variety of related data collection activities funded directly by, or under the maintenance of effort requirements of, the SAPT Block Grant. These activities include prevention and treatment needs assessments, evaluation of managed care activities, treatment outcome performance pilot studies, a prevention minimum data set, the uniform facilities data set, the treatment episode data set, and numerous data systems initiated and maintained by individual States. By providing information on data activities in all States, this project will allow each State to learn from the experience of others and improve the availability and quality of substance abuse prevention and treatment services.

The Federal government is moving aggressively in the direction of assessing performance by measuring outcomes. In this context, the inventory and analysis of State data capability will assist the States in addressing two critical needs. First, it will help them efficiently use Federal funds for data collection activities, thereby improving the performance of the data systems themselves. Second, it will clarify the States' capabilities to measure the performance of their service programs. This project will assist each State in improving its data structure and will provide both the States and the Federal government with the information necessary to plan a realistic transition to performance-based measurement.

This notice is not a request for applications; only NASADAD is eligible to apply for the supplement to the existing cooperative agreement. If the NASADAD supplemental application is recommended for approval by the Special Review Committee and the SAMHSA National Advisory Council, funds will be made available.

Authority: The supplement will be made under the authority of Sections 501(d)(5) and 1935(b)(1)(C) of the Public Health Service Act, as amended (42 U.S.C. 290aa and 42 U.S.C. 300x-35).

The Catalogue of Federal Domestic Assistance number for this program is 93.119.
