

also shipped to Mexico. Transfer of production from the subject firm to another domestic facility, whether or not corporate affiliated, and the shift of equipment to Mexico are not a basis for a worker group certification under the Trade Act of 1974, as amended.

In order to issue a worker group certification, the Department must be able to show that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with the products produced at the workers' firm contributed importantly to the worker separations.

The Department's denial of TAA for workers of the subject firm was based on the fact that the "contributed importantly" test of the Group Eligibility requirements of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended, was not met. The "contributed importantly" test is generally demonstrated through a survey of the workers' firm's customers. The Department of Labor surveyed the major declining customers of the subject firm regarding their purchases of automobile seat covers. None of the respondents increased their import purchases of seat covers while decreasing their purchases from TechnoTrim, Incorporated. The company reports that it does not import seat covers from foreign sources.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 31st day of October 1997.
