

methods they propose. The Commission also requests comment on the practicality of the various methods.

Finally, the Commission requests comment on whether it is appropriate to allow exchanges and/or clearing organizations to hold customer funds offshore without the customers' express authorization and without a direct operational necessity. If so, commenters should indicate what conditions and limitations should be imposed. The Commission welcomes any cost-benefit analysis commenters care to provide in support of their choices.

The Commission requests that commenters, in making their choice among the proposed alternatives or in indicating other alternatives, clearly indicate whether the provision should apply at the FCM level and/or at the clearing level. The Commission will give serious consideration to the comments in determining an appropriate manner in which to revise the requirements set forth in Interpretation No. 12. The Commission wishes: (a) To facilitate access to the United States markets for the growing international customer base using them; (b) to reduce the regulatory burden, where practicable, on FCMs and clearing organizations that accept customer deposits in foreign denominations and use foreign depositories; and (c) to maintain the safety of customer funds.

Issued in Washington, DC on December 23, 1997, by the Commission.

Jean A. Webb,

Secretary of the Commission.
