Section 8365.1-5(b) establishes that it is permissible to collect from the public lands "reasonable amounts" of certain resources for personal use. This action establishes the standards for "reasonable limits" for the recreational collecting of rocks, mineral specimens, common invertebrate fossils, semi-precious gemstones, and petrified wood, as well as summarizes existing rules found in above referenced citation. Recreational Mineral Collecting is commonly called "rockhounding."

EFFECTIVE DATE: February 2, 1998.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Paul Buff, Senior Minerals Specialist, or

Terry O'Sullivan, Senior Recreation Specialist, Arizona State Office, 222 N. Central Avenue, Phoenix, Arizona, 85004; Telephone (602) 417-9200.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: To protect valuable and fragile natural and cultural resources and to provide for public enjoyment, the following supplementary rule is provided.

Rocks, minerals, semiprecious gemstones and petrified wood may be collected on public lands administered by the Arizona Bureau of Land Management (BLM) without charge or permit as long as you collect reasonable amounts of specimens.

1. Arizona BLM sets the "reasonable" limits for personal use as up to 25 pounds per day, plus one piece, with a total limit of 250 pounds per year. These limits are for rocks, mineral specimens, common invertebrate fossils, semi-precious gemstones, and petrified wood.

Authority to establish supplementary rules is 43 CFR 8365.1-6 and violation of these rules are punishable by a fine not to exceed $1,000 and/or imprisonment not to exceed 12 months (43 CFR 8360.0-7).

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: BLM Arizona has developed a brochure which will be available at local BLM offices, containing these supplementary rules and other regulations found in 43 CFR 8365.1-5 pertaining to Recreational Mineral Collecting. Rocks, mineral specimens, common invertebrate fossils, semi-precious gemstones, and petrified wood may be collected on public lands administered by the Arizona Bureau of Land Management (BLM) without charge or permit as long as:

1. The specimens are for personal use and are not being collected for commercial purposes or bartered to commercial dealers.

2. Collection does not occur in developed recreation sites or areas, unless designated as a rockhounding area by the BLM.

3. Collection is not prohibited or restricted and posted.
