Summary

The total net countervailable subsidy rate for all producers or exporters of fresh Atlantic salmon in Chile is 1.11 percent, ad valorem, which is de minimis. Therefore, we determine that countervailable subsidies are not being provided to producers, or exporters of fresh Atlantic salmon in Chile.

Verification

In accordance with section 782(i) of the Act, we verified the information used in making our final determination. We followed our standard verification procedures, including meeting with government officials and examination of relevant government records and original source documents. Our verification results are outlined in detail in the public versions of the verification reports, which are on file in the Central Records Unit (Room B-099 of the Main Commerce Building).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

The purpose of the Telecommunications and Information Infrastructure Assistance Program (TIIAP) is to promote the widespread and efficient use of advanced telecommunications services in the public and non-profit sectors to serve America's communities. It does this by providing matching funds to public and non-profit sector organizations to use information infrastructure to provide community-wide information, health, life-long learning, public safety and other public services.

As part of the TIIAP's process to select projects for funding, external experts are used to review applications. Collection of information about potential reviewers is used to determine their eligibility and availability and to facilitate payment for services rendered if they are selected to review.

II. Method of Collection

The reporting requirements associated with this request have been updated annually during the four year history of the TIIAP program. The collection continues to be by mail with some supplementary information received via facsimile.
