

travelers will be randomly subject to INTEX. Based on initial pilot tests conducted to date, U.S. citizens and certain alien travelers with diplomatic status will be detained no more than 3 to 5 minutes on average. The INTEX process for all other alien travelers will take an average of 30 minutes. Depending on the traffic volume of the POE, between one and five compliance inspections will be conducted per day at each POE. Conducting between one and five INTEX exams at pilot land border and air POEs will yield data concerning about 1,800 inspections over a 30-day period. This amount of data will enable the Inspections program to quantify program effectiveness in detecting inadmissible aliens through the primary inspections process.
