

Court of Appeals.<sup>2</sup> The September 10 order directed First Sellers to make Kansas ad valorem tax refunds, with interest, for the period from 1983 to 1988. Continental's petition is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Freeman states that he is 64 years old, that his company [Continental] was a small sole proprietorship, and that he understands that he is not responsible for the refunds owed by other working interest owners. Freeman states, however, that the principal he owes on his own working interest share of the refunds claimed by Northern, Williams and CIG is significant, amounting to nearly $100,000 ($98,299.36 to Northern, $147.21 to Williams, and $522.93 to CIG).

Freeman also states that he only has a few wells left, and that they are either losing money or barely breaking even. According to Freeman, for the years 1995, 1996, and 1997, these wells generated a total profit of just $9,269.36. Freeman adds that he hopes to draw approximately $1,100 per month in Social Security in just over a year, and he contends that paying the subject refunds would wipe-out his retirement. Accordingly, Freeman requests to be relieved from making the subject refunds on the grounds that to do so would cause him to endure a special hardship.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition should on or before 15 days after the date of publication in the Federal Register of this notice, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE, Washington, DC 20426, a motion to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214, 385.211, 385.1105, and 385.1106). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a motion to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.
