

of reporting institutions. The Agencies did not distinguish between the lending characteristics of different charters when averaging the burden. As a result, although the Agencies were careful in their attempt to estimate the burden imposed by CRA on the industry overall, the averages presented do not necessarily reflect the burden experienced by the institutions of any specific agency. For instance, thrift institutions generally report many fewer small business and small farm loans than banks. On the other hand, the number of home mortgage loans reported by the average thrift is higher than that of a bank. These differences in the credit offered by various charters may result in differences between the estimated burden associated with the charters and actual burden experienced. As a whole, however, the Agencies believe that this methodology best expresses the overall aggregate burden imposed on institutions.
