

period. Because the exemption criteria includes consideration of an applicant's driving record for a three-year period, the AHAS concludes: "Thus, while drivers who are not granted exemptions are subject to the 10-year requirement for second and third disqualifying offenses, drivers who are granted exemptions from the federal vision standard are also exempt from reporting convictions for disqualifying offenses that took place more than 3 years prior to the application for exemption." There is absolutely no basis for this conclusion. The previous discussion explains why a 3-year driving history was chosen as a criterion for determining whether the applicant has successfully adjusted to the vision deficiency. The exemption granted to these petitioners applies only to the qualification standard in 49 CFR 391.41(b)(10) (vision). The drivers receiving the exemptions are subject to all other regulations, including all of the CDL and other qualification standards. In fact, as noted above, all these applicants possess a valid CDL.

In its third point, the AHAS objects to the procedure employed in processing these petitions for exemptions, contending that there is no statutory basis for making a "preliminary" determination, which tends to pre-judge the outcome. The AHAS makes an analogy to an interim final rule where an agency "has already made its decision * * * (and) predetermined its view of the merits prior to soliciting and evaluating public comments on the petition." This analogy is misplaced. The agency's "preliminary determination" is much more akin to a notice of proposed rulemaking, where the agency analyzes the basis upon which a new or amended regulation has been considered, and then proposes that the new rule take effect. The agency then considers the information obtained in response to the NPRM and issues a final rule. This is no different. The agency analyzes the information provided in the completed application. Some applications are denied outright. It is only when the agency proposes to grant a petition that it publishes that proposal, together with its analysis of the information submitted in support of the petition, for public comment. After consideration of public comment, a final decision is published. The denials will be summarized periodically, consistent with the statute, and published in the Federal Register. Quoting from 49 U.S.C. 31315(b)(4)(A), the AHAS ignores that part of the quotation that is entirely consistent with the FHWA's approach: "* * * (the FHWA) shall publish in the Federal Register a notice explaining the request that has been filed and shall give the public an opportunity to inspect the safety analysis and any other relevant information known to the (FHWA) and to comment on the request." Obviously, the public is entitled to know how the agency treated the information it received, including whether it intended to grant the application. The AHAS could not seriously argue that the statute requires the agency to conduct a plebiscite on every application it receives.

The AHAS' final point, as it readily admits, is not even relevant to this action, and merely reargues its position that the agency misinterpreted the current law on exemptions by considering them slightly more lenient than the previous law. This was unquestionably the intention of Congress in drafting section 4007 of the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21), Public Law 105-178, 112 Stat. 107, (See 63 FR 67601, quoting from H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 105-550, at 489-490), and the FHWA sees no benefit in addressing this point again in this document.

Notwithstanding the FHWA's ongoing review of the vision standard, as evidenced by the medical panel's report dated October 16, 1998, and filed in this docket, however, the FHWA must comply with Rauenhorst versus United States Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration, 95 F.3d 715 (8th Cir. 1996), and grant individual exemptions under standards that are consistent with public safety. Meeting those standards, the 32 veteran drivers in this case have demonstrated to our satisfaction that they can operate a CMV with their current vision as safely in interstate commerce as they have in intrastate commerce. Accordingly, they qualify for an exemption under 49 U.S.C. 31315 and 31136(e).

Conclusion

After considering the comments to the docket and based upon its evaluation of the 32 waiver applications in accordance with Rauenhorst versus United States Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration, supra, the FHWA exempts Grady Lee Black, Jr., Marvin E. Brock, Roosevelt Bryant, Jr., John Alex Chizmar, Billy M. Coker, Cliff Dovel, George T. Ellis, Jr., Weldon R. Evans, Richard L. Gagnebin, James P. Guth, James J. Hewitt, Paul M. Hoerner, Carroll Joseph Ledet, Charles L. Lovern, Craig M. Mahaffey, Michael S. Maki, Gerald Wayne McGuire, Eldon Miles, Craig W. Miller, Walter F. Moniowczak, Howard R. Payne, Kenneth Adam Reddick, Leonard Rice, Jr., Willard L. Riggle, John A. Sortman, James Archie Strickland, James Terry Sullivan, Edward A. Vanderhei, Buford C. Varnadore, Kevin P. Weinhold, Thomas A. Wise, and Rayford R. Harper from the vision requirement in 49 CFR 391.41(b)(10), subject to the following conditions: (1) That each individual be physically examined every year (a) by an ophthalmologist or optometrist who attests that the vision in the better eye continues to meet the standard in 49 CFR 391.41(b)(10), and (b) by a medical examiner who attests that the individual is otherwise physically qualified under 49 CFR 391.41; (2) that each individual provide a copy of the ophthalmologist's or optometrist's report to the medical examiner at the time of the annual medical examination; and (3) that each individual provide a copy of the annual medical certification to the employer for retention in its driver qualification file, or keep a copy in his/her driver qualification file if he/she is self-employed. The driver must also have a copy of the certification when driving so it may be presented to a duly authorized Federal, State, or local enforcement official.

In accordance with 49 U.S.C. 31315 and 31136(e), each exemption will be valid for 2 years unless revoked earlier by the FHWA. The exemption will be revoked if (1) the person fails to comply with the terms and conditions of the exemption; (2) the exemption has resulted in a lower level of safety than was maintained before it was granted; or (3) continuation of the exemption would not be consistent with the goals and objectives of 49 U.S.C. 31315 and 31136. If the exemption is still effective at the end of the 2-year period, the person may apply to the FHWA for a renewal under procedures in effect at that time.
