

intervention models for these populations.

The research design will involve separate samples of African-Americans and Mexican-Americans between the ages of 40 and 64 with Type 2 Diabetes. Significant family members of these individuals will also participate.

Participating families will be divided into two groups, an intervention group that will receive the intervention at the beginning of the study, and a comparison group that will receive a modified version at the end. Both self-report via questionnaires and more objective measures (e.g., hemoglobin blood glucose levels) of self-care adherence and diabetes control will be measured. Information collected will include diabetes knowledge, community characteristics, forms of social support, patient-provider relationship, and health care coverage. The total cost is estimated at $3,707,473.00
