Notice of Public Meeting on the National Estimate of Waterborne Disease Occurrence

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) are holding a public meeting to present EPA and CDC's approach to developing a national estimate of disease attributable to drinking water.

EPA is inviting interested members of the public to participate in the meeting on the development of a national estimate of the occurrence of waterborne infectious disease. EPA maintains an open door policy, however, to assist EPA in managing limitations on conference room seating and to facilitate entry into a government building, we ask that persons who plan on attending, register as directed below.

Subjects to be addressed include the overall plan and schedule for development of a national estimate, an overview of completed and new research studies and surveys that will provide data for the estimate, and a discussion of the methodology for estimating infectious disease attributable to drinking water. The estimate is required under the 1996 amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act (section 1458(d)). A detailed agenda of this meeting and copies of the reports from the two previous workshops on the same subject in 1997 can be obtained directly from the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800) 426–4791.

Date and Location: The meeting will take place on November 18, 1999, from 9:00 am to 5:30 pm, at the Hubert A. Humphrey Building, Room 705A, 200 Independence Avenue, Washington, DC.

Registration: To assure adequate seating and quick passage through building security, EPA asks that persons planning on attending the meeting register with the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800) 426–4791 by November 1, 1999. The Hotline can also provide information on specially reserved hotel accommodation.
