(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the helicopter to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

[Docket No. 00N-1317]

Control of Communicable Diseases; Apprehension and Detention of Persons With Specific Diseases; Transfer of Regulations

AGENCIES: Food and Drug Administration and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, HHS.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Health and Human Service (the Secretary) is transferring a portion of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) “Control of Communicable Diseases” regulations to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). In general, these regulations provide the Secretary with the authority to apprehend, detain, or conditionally release individuals to prevent the spread of specified communicable diseases. The regulations implement the provisions of the Public Health Service Act (PHS Act) to prevent the introduction, transmission, or spread of communicable diseases from one State or possession into any other State or possession. CDC will have authority for interstate quarantine over persons, while FDA will retain regulatory authority over animals and other products that may transmit or spread communicable diseases. The Secretary is taking this action to consolidate regulations designed to control the spread of communicable diseases, thereby increasing the agencies’ efficiency and effectiveness.

DATES: This rule is effective September 15, 2000.

ADDRESSES: Submit written comments on the information collection requirements to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget (OMB), New Executive Office Bldg., 725 17th St. NW., rm. 10235, Washington, DC 20503, Attn: Desk Officer for CDC.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Under sections 361 and 369 of the PHS Act, as amended, the Secretary issues and enforces regulations necessary to prevent the introduction, transmission, or spread of communicable diseases in the United States. FDA and CDC have been delegated regulatory responsibility under these provisions. The regulations contained in part 1240 (21 CFR part 1240), pertain to interstate control of communicable diseases and are currently administered by FDA. Regulations to prevent the introduction, transmission, or spread of communicable diseases from foreign countries into the United States are currently administered by CDC in 42 CFR part 71. The Secretary is taking this action to consolidate regulations designed to control the spread of communicable diseases, thereby increasing the agencies' efficiency and effectiveness.

The Secretary is transferring regulatory authority contained in the following sections of 21 CFR part 1240 to CDC: Section 1240.3 introductory text and paragraphs (b), (c), (e), (g), (h), (l), (n), and (p); § 1240.30; and Subpart C—Restrictions on Travel of Persons (consisting of §§ 1240.40, 1240.45, 1240.50, 1240.54, 1240.55, and 1240.57). The transferred regulations will be sequentially renumbered in 42 CFR part 70. In addition, "Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention" has been inserted in new 42 CFR 70.2 in place of "Commissioner of Food and Drugs," currently in 21 CFR 1240.30.

Although regulatory authority with respect to interstate quarantine over persons in §§ 1240.3, 1240.30, and 1240.45 is being transferred to CDC, FDA is retaining its regulatory authority in §§ 1240.3, 1240.30, and 1240.45 with respect to animals and other products that may transmit or spread communicable diseases, to ensure that FDA's Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition has the necessary authorities to prevent the spread of disease from any conveyance engaged in interstate travel or in the event of inadequate local control. Current § 1240.45 is also being moved to 21 CFR part 1240, subpart B (Administrative Procedures), and subpart C is being removed and reserved. The Secretary is issuing this rule without publishing a general notice of proposed rulemaking because such a notice is not required for this rule of agency organization, procedure, or practice under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A).

TABLE 1

Current 21 CFR Sections (FDA)	New 42 CFR Sections (CDC)
1240.3 introductory text, and paragraphs (b), (c), (e), (g), (h), (l), (n), and (p) transferring and retaining.	70.1
1240.30 transferring and retaining	70.2
1240.40 transferred to	70.3
1240.45 transferring and retaining	70.4
1240.50 transferred to	70.5
1240.54 transferred to	70.6
1240.55 transferred to	70.7
1240.57 transferred to	70.8

This transfer of authority does not affect other authority exercised by FDA under sections 361 and 369, or any other sections, of the PHS Act.

II. Environmental Impact

FDA has determined under 21 CFR 25.30(h) that this action is of a type that does not individually or cumulatively have a significant effect on the human environment. Therefore, neither an environmental assessment nor an environmental impact statement is required. In the absence of an applicable categorical exclusion, CDC conducted an environmental assessment of this transfer of authority in accordance with the Department of Health and Human Services administrative guidance and determined that the transfer presented no significant impact on the human environment.

III. Federalism

Executive Order 13132 applies when agencies formulate or implement policies or regulations that preempt State law or that have federalism implications. Executive Order 13132 provides that agencies are to examine the constitutional and statutory authority supporting any action that would limit the policymaking discretion of the States and assess carefully the need for such actions. FDA and CDC have examined this rule and have determined that it does not preempt State law and it does not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the National Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Rather, the Secretary is taking this action to consolidate regulations to control the spread of communicable diseases, thereby increasing the agencies' efficiency and effectiveness. Therefore, no further action is required by Executive Order 13132.

IV. Analysis of Impacts

FDA and CDC have examined the impacts of this rule under Executive Order 12866. Executive Order 12866 directs agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, when regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety, and other advantages; distributive impacts; and equity). Executive Order 12866 classifies a rule as significant if it meets any one of a number of specified conditions, including having an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, or adversely affecting in a material way a sector of the economy, competition, or jobs, or if it raises novel legal or policy issues. The agencies find that this final rule, which transfers existing regulatory authority from one agency to the other, is not a significant rule as defined by Executive Order 12866. No analysis is required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612) because the Secretary is issuing it without publishing a general notice of proposed rulemaking, as explained previously in this document.

V. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

This final rule contains information collection provisions that are subject to review by OMB under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520). In the Federal Register of April 12, 2000 (65 FR 19772), CDC published a document entitled “Proposed Data Collections Submitted for Public Comment and Recommendations” to collect information under those regulations, and sought public comment for 60 days. The comment period closed on June 12, 2000. CDC will now prepare an information collection request for submission to OMB, and will publish another document in the Federal Register announcing submission of the request to OMB and soliciting that comments be submitted to OMB. CDC will publish an additional document in the Federal Register announcing OMB’s decision to approve, modify, or disapprove the information collection provisions of this final rule. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.
