

effective and efficient program operation. Grantees whom the Department deemed appropriate for five-year grant cycles would thus be able to devote more energy to service delivery and gain the financial stability of longer grant periods, thereby benefiting the populations and communities they serve.

Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6) requires the Federal government to anticipate and reduce the impact of rules and paperwork requirements on small entities. For each rule with a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities," an analysis must be prepared describing the rule's impact on small entities. Small entities are defined by the Act to include small businesses, small non-profit organizations, and small governmental entities. While these regulations would affect small entities, namely, the approximately 400 organizations that are recipients of various RHY grants, only those among the 400 deemed appropriate for the longer cycle would be affected, while the remaining grantees would continue to operate under the three-year period, at the Department's discretion. In any case, whatever the number of grantees evaluated as suitable for the longer periods, these would experience a reduced regulatory and paperwork burden by having to submit less frequent applications for new grants. For these reasons, the Secretary certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on substantial numbers of small entities other than to permit the more efficient operation of a subset.

Paperwork Reduction Act

Under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 104-13, all Departments are required to submit to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review and approval any reporting or record-keeping requirements inherent in a proposed or final rule. This final rule may indirectly affect record keeping and reporting.

Comments were solicited in the Federal Register on June 19, 2000. ACF will publish a notice in the Federal Register stating the currently valid OMB control number when approval is granted. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1532) requires that a covered agency prepare a budgetary impact statement before promulgating a rule that includes any Federal mandate that may result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year.

If a covered agency must prepare a budgetary impact statement, section 205 further requires that it select the least costly, most-effective or least burdensome alternative that achieves the objective of the rule and is consistent with the statutory requirements. In addition, section 203 requires a plan for informing and advising any small government that may be significantly or uniquely impacted by the proposed rule.

We have determined that this rule will not impose a mandate that will result in the expenditure by State, local and Tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of more than $100 million in any one year. Accordingly, we have not prepared a budgetary impact statement, specifically addressed the regulatory alternatives considered, or prepared a plan for informing and advising any significantly or uniquely impacted small government.

Congressional Review of Rulemaking

This rule is not a "major" rule as defined in Chapter 8 of 5 U.S.C.

The Family Impact Requirement

Section 654 of the Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act of 1999 requires a family impact assessment affecting family well being.

We have determined that this action will not affect the family. Therefore, no analysis or certification of the impact of this action was developed.

Federalism Impact

Executive Order 13132 on Federalism applies to policies that have federalism implications, defined as "regulations, legislative comments or proposed legislation, and other policy statements or actions that have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government." This rule does not have federalism implications as defined in the Executive Order.
