

approved for records relating to individual exposures accumulated by bioassay labs and by the Army Ionizing Radiation Dosimetry Center.

3. Department of the Army, Army-wide (N1-AU-01-15, 1 item, 1 temporary item). Master file of the Housing Operation Management System, an electronic information system used to maintain accountability of military housing, furnishings, and equipment. The system includes dwelling unit records, furnishings and equipment inventories, customer applications, eligibility certificates, complaints, and investigations.

4. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation (N1-65-01-02, 2 items, 2 temporary items). Records created at FBI headquarters and field offices relating to the advertising and filling of vacant FBI support employee (non-agent) positions. Included are such records as applications, interview questions, sound recordings of interviews, score sheets, and electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing.

5. Department of Justice, Federal Bureau of Investigation (N1-65-01-03, 2 items, 2 temporary items). Hard copy rap sheets generated from an automated system that are used to identify case files for court-ordered expungements. An automated identification and rap sheet system was previously approved for permanent retention.

6. Department of the Treasury, Office of Information Technology Policy and Strategy (N1-56-01-2, 9 items, 9 temporary items). Records that pertain to Year 2000 efforts, including such matters as the development of plans and strategies, the review and testing of computer systems and applications, and program reviews. Files contain plans, copies of contracts, policy letters, correspondence, and electronic copies of documents created using word processing and electronic mail.

7. Department of Veterans Affairs, Office of the Inspector General (N1-15-99-3, 3 items, 3 temporary items). Audit Case Files and Investigative Case Files, which were previously scheduled under General Records Schedule 22, items 1B and 2. Included are reports, correspondence, supporting work papers, and electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing. Files relating to investigations that attract national media or congressional attention or result in significant changes in agency policies or procedures will be appraised by the National Archives and Records Administration on a case-by-case basis.

8. Federal Reserve System, Board of Governors (N1-82-01-1, 24 items, 20 temporary items). Records documenting the research activities of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, including the production of statistics and analytical support for the Board and the Federal Open Market Committee. Included are such files as statistical releases, input information for electronic systems, and background files for speeches, congressional reports, and briefings. Also included are electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing applications. This schedule authorizes the agency to apply the proposed disposition instructions to records in all media. Recordkeeping copies of such files as the Federal Reserve Bulletin, staff studies, and master data files and technical documentation from research program electronic systems are proposed for permanent retention. Permanent databases will be transferred to the National Archives in an electronic medium. Other permanent records will be transferred to the National Archives in an electronic medium if feasible. If transfer in an electronic medium is not feasible, paper or microfilm copies will be transferred.

9. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Office of Investigations (N1-431-01-1, 3 items, 2 temporary items). Electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing that pertain to investigation case files. This schedule also increases the retention period of recordkeeping copies of case files that were previously approved for disposal and lengthens the amount of time the agency will retain selected files that were previously approved for permanent retention before transferring them to the National Archives.

10. Tennessee Valley Authority, River Systems Operations and Environment (N1-142-99-14, 5 items, 4 temporary items). Engineering laboratory records relating to projects conducted on behalf of agency offices and other agencies and institutions. These files include such records as raw field data, preliminary reports, model studies, reference copies of technical reports, and electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing. This schedule increases the retention period for certain of these records, which were previously approved for disposal. Unidentified or highly technical photographs of routine activities accumulated by the engineering laboratory are also proposed for disposal. Significant program records relating to river system projects and studies undertaken ca. 1935 to 1978 by the Project Planning Branch are proposed for permanent retention.

However, during archival processing, staff of the National Archives and Records Administration will remove and destroy non-permanent material, such as duplicate copies and technical metadata.

11. Tennessee Valley Authority, Agency-wide (N1-142-00-6, 3 items, 3 temporary items). Records relating to the construction, inspection, survey, and modification of individual pipelines. Included are such records as schedules of activities, position responsibilities, standard inspection reports, and electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing.

12. Tennessee Valley Authority, Agency-wide (N1-142-00-7, 4 items, 4 temporary items). Temperature charts, pressure charts, and turbine supervisory charts relating to electrical generating equipment at power plants operated using water power, coal, or oil. Also included are electronic copies of documents created using electronic mail and word processing.
