

notification to the affected individual of the action taken on the administrative disqualification hearing or court decision.

Despite the decrease in FSP participation, IPV activity has not experienced a similar decline. While no discernible trend exists in recent year disqualification data, available data from FY 2000 shows a small decrease in IPV activity when compared to the data used to establish the existing burden. Therefore, we are decreasing the State agency and household annual reporting and recordkeeping burden for the activities related to IPV disqualifications from 36,628 hours to 34,254 hours.

In addition, one of the factors used by a State agency to determine the appropriate disqualification penalty to assign to an individual is whether or not the individual was found to have committed any prior IPV's. The way that State agencies make this determination is by accessing and checking the Disqualified Recipient Subsystem (DRS). DRS is an automated system developed by the Food and Nutrition Service that contains records of disqualifications in every State. State agencies are responsible for updating the system and checking it to determine the appropriate length of each disqualification. The burden associated with State use of DRS for IPV's was not included in this original OMB-approved burden. We now intend to incorporate this activity under this OMB burden number. The additional annual burden associated with the DRS process is estimated at 14,340 hours per year.

Summary of Estimated Burden

The net aggregate change from the existing to the proposed annual burden for this entire Proposed Collection is a decrease of 20,480 hours. For initiating collection action on an overissuance, we are reducing the estimated annual burden for State agencies and households from 148,846 hours to 116,400 hours to reflect the lower number of claims established in FY 2000. The IPV-related State agency and household annual burden, is being reduced from 36,628 hours to 34,254 hours to reflect the lower number of disqualifications. The additional annual burden associated with the DRS process is estimated at 14,340 hours per year.
