

TABLE H-3.—RECOMMENDED RECOVERED MATERIALS CONTENT LEVELS FOR BLASTING GRIT

Material	Postconsumer content (%)	Total recovered materials content (%)
Steel	16—67	25—100
Coal Slag		100
Copper and Nickel Slag		100
Glass	100	100
Glass/Plastic	20	100
Walnut Shells		100

Notes: A final designation would not preclude a procuring agency from purchasing blasting grit manufactured from another material. It simply requires that a procuring agency, when purchasing blasting grit made from steel, coal and metal slag, glass, plastic, or walnut shells, purchase this item made with recovered materials when it meets applicable specifications and performance requirements.

The recommended recovered materials content levels for steel in this table reflect the fact that the designated item can contain steel manufactured in either a Basic Oxygen Furnace (BOF) or an Electric Arc Furnace (EAF). Steel from the BOF process contains 25%—30% total recovered steel, of which, 16% is postconsumer steel. Steel from the EAF process contains a total of 100% recovered steel, of which, 67% is postconsumer steel. In addition, blasting grit can be made from a combination of BOF and EAF steel which, according to industry sources, would result in a steel with 25%—85% total recovered steel content, of which 16%—67% would be postconsumer steel.

Specifications: EPA did not find any specifications that would preclude the use of recovered materials in blasting grit. EPA recommends that procuring agencies exercise OSHA or other required standard safety practices when using blasting grit, particularly when using blasting grit containing slag materials.
