Rules and Regulations

Federal Register

Vol. 67, No. 52

Monday, March 18, 2002

This section of the FEDERAL REGISTER contains regulatory documents having general applicability and legal effect, most of which are keyed to and codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, which is published under 50 titles pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 1510.

The Code of Federal Regulations is sold by the Superintendent of Documents. Prices of new books are listed in the first FEDERAL REGISTER issue of each week.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Federal Aviation Administration

14 CFR Part 25

[Docket No. NM214, Special Conditions No. 25-198-SC]

Special Conditions: Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 Airplanes; High Intensity Radiated Fields (HIRF)

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final special conditions; request for comments.

SUMMARY: These special conditions are issued for Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. These airplanes will have novel and unusual design features when compared to the state of technology envisioned in the airworthiness standards for transport category airplanes. The modification incorporates the installation of dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems and dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems that perform critical functions. These special conditions contain the additional safety standards that the Administrator considers necessary to establish a level of safety equivalent to that provided by the existing airworthiness standards.

DATES: The effective date of these special conditions is March 6, 2002. Comments must be received on or before April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments on these special conditions may be mailed in duplicate to: Federal Aviation Administration, Transport Airplane Directorate, Attn: Rules Docket (ANM-113), Docket No.

NM214 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington, 98055-4056; or delivered in duplicate to the Transport Airplane Directorate at the above address. All comments must be marked: Docket No. NM214. Comments may be inspected in the Rules Docket weekdays, except Federal holidays, between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Meghan Gordon, FAA, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, Transport Airplane Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington, 98055-4056; telephone (425) 227-2138; facsimile (425) 227-1149.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The FAA has determined that notice and opportunity for prior public comment hereon are impracticable because these procedures would significantly delay certification of the airplane and thus delivery of the affected airplanes. The FAA therefore finds that good cause exists for making these special conditions effective upon issuance.

Comments Invited

The FAA invites interested persons to participate in this rulemaking by submitting written comments, data, or views. The most helpful comments reference a specific portion of the special conditions, explain the reason for any recommended change, and include supporting data. We ask that you send us two copies of written comments.

We will file in the docket all comments we receive, as well as a report summarizing each substantive public contact with FAA personnel concerning these special conditions. The docket is available for public inspection before and after the comment closing date. If you wish to review the docket in person, go to the address in the ADDRESSES section of this preamble between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

We will consider all comments we receive on or before the closing date for comments. We will consider comments filed late if it is possible to do so without incurring expense or delay. We may change these special conditions in light of the comments we receive.

If you want the FAA to acknowledge receipt of your comments on this final action, include with your comments a pre-addressed, stamped postcard on which the docket number appears. We will stamp the date on the postcard and mail it to you.

Background

On January 10, 2002, Garrett Aviation Services, 1200 North Airport Drive—Capital Airport, Springfield, IL 62707, applied for a supplemental type certificate (STC) to modify Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes approved under Type Certificate No. A7EU. The Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 are small transport category airplanes powered by two turbofan engines, with a maximum takeoff weight of 29,000 pounds. These airplanes operate with a 2-pilot crew and can hold up to 10 passengers. The modification incorporates the installation of a Rockwell Collins ProLine 21 Display System, consisting of dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems which replace the existing Primary Flight Display systems, and a Rockwell Collins Attitude Heading Reference System, consisting of dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems. These systems have the potential to be vulnerable to high-intensity radiated fields (HIRF) external to the airplane.

Type Certification Basis

Under the provisions of 14 CFR 21.101, Garrett Aviation Services must show that the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes, as changed, continue to meet the applicable provisions of the regulations incorporated by reference in Type Certificate No. A7EU, or the applicable regulations in effect on the date of application for the change. The regulations incorporated by reference in the type certificate are commonly referred to as the "original type certification basis." The certification basis for the modified Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes includes CAR 4b, dated December 1953, through Amendment 4b-12 and SR422B; and 14 CFR part 25, dated

February 1, 1965, through Amendment 25-41, except for special conditions and exceptions noted in Type Certificate Data Sheet (TCDS) A7EU.

If the Administrator finds that the applicable airworthiness regulations (i.e., CAR 4b and 14 CFR part 25, as amended) do not contain adequate or appropriate safety standards for the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes because of novel or unusual design features, special conditions are prescribed under the provisions of § 21.16.

Special conditions, as defined in § 11.19, are issued in accordance with § 11.38, and become part of the type certification basis in accordance with § 21.101(b)(2).

Special conditions are initially applicable to the model for which they are issued. Should Garrett Aviation Services apply at a later date for design change approval to modify any other model already included on the same type certificate to incorporate the same novel or unusual design feature, these special conditions would also apply to the other model under the provisions of § 21.101(a)(1).

Novel or Unusual Design Features

As noted earlier, the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services will incorporate dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems and dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems that will perform critical functions. The existing airworthiness standards of part 25 do not contain adequate or appropriate safety standards for the protection of this equipment from the adverse effects of HIRF. Accordingly, these systems are considered to be novel or unusual design features.

Discussion

There is no specific regulation that addresses protection requirements for electrical and electronic systems from HIRF. Increased power levels from ground-based radio transmitters and the growing use of sensitive avionics/electronics and electrical systems to command and control airplanes have made it necessary to provide adequate protection.

To ensure that a level of safety is achieved equivalent to that intended by the regulations incorporated by reference, special conditions are needed for the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. These special conditions require that new avionics/electronics and electrical systems that perform critical functions be designed and installed to preclude component damage and interruption of function due to both the direct and indirect effects of HIRF.

High-Intensity Radiated Fields (HIRF)

With the trend toward increased power levels from ground-based transmitters, plus the advent of space and satellite communications, coupled with electronic command and control of the airplane, the immunity of critical digital avionics/electronics and electrical systems to HIRF must be established.

It is not possible to precisely define the HIRF to which the airplane will be exposed in service. There is also uncertainty concerning the effectiveness of airframe shielding for HIRF.

Furthermore, coupling of electromagnetic energy to cockpit-installed equipment through the cockpit window apertures is undefined. Based on surveys and analysis of existing HIRF emitters, an adequate level of protection exists when compliance with the HIRF protection special condition is shown with either paragraph 1 or 2 below:

1. A minimum threat of 100 volts rms (root-mean-square) per meter electric field strength from 10 KHz to 18 GHz.

a. The threat must be applied to the system elements and their associated wiring harnesses without the benefit of airframe shielding.

b. Demonstration of this level of protection is established through system tests and analysis.

2. A threat external to the airframe of the field strengths indicated in the following table for the frequency ranges indicated. Both peak and average field strength components from the table are to be demonstrated.

Frequency	Field strength (volts per meter)
	Peak	Average
10 kHz-100 kHz	50	50
100 kHz-500 kHz	50	50
500 kHz-2 MHz	50	50
2 MHz-30 MHz	100	100
30 MHz-70 MHz	50	50
70 MHz-100 MHz	50	50
100 MHz-200 MHz	100	100
200 MHz-400 MHz	100	100
400 MHz-700 MHz	700	50
700 MHz-1 GHz	700	100
1 GHz-2 GHz	2000	200
2 GHz-4 GHz	3000	200
4 GHz-6 GHz	3000	200
6 GHz-8 GHz	1000	200

Frequency	Field strength (volts per meter)
	Peak	Average
8 GHz-12 GHz	3000	300
12 GHz-18 GHz	2000	200
18 GHz-40 GHz	600	200

The field strengths are expressed in terms of peak of the root-mean-square (rms) over the complete modulation period.

The threat levels identified above are the result of an FAA review of existing studies on the subject of HIRF, in light of the ongoing work of the Electromagnetic Effects Harmonization Working Group of the Aviation Rulemaking Advisory Committee.

Applicability

As discussed above, these special conditions are applicable to Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. Should Garrett Aviation Services apply at a later date for design change approval to modify any other model included on the same type certificate to incorporate the same novel or unusual design feature, these special conditions would apply to that model as well under the provisions of § 21.101(a)(1).

Conclusion

This action affects only certain design features on Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. It is not a rule of general applicability and affects only the applicant who applied to the FAA for approval of these features on the airplane.

The substance of the special conditions for these airplanes has been subjected to the notice and comment procedure in several prior instances and has been derived without substantive change from those previously issued. Because a delay would significantly affect the certification of the airplane, which is imminent, the FAA has determined that prior public notice and comment are unnecessary and impracticable, and good cause exists for adopting these special conditions immediately. The FAA is requesting comments to allow interested persons to submit views that may not have been submitted in response to the prior opportunities for comment described above.

The Special Conditions

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the following special conditions are issued as part of the type certification basis for Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services.

1. Protection from Unwanted Effects of High-Intensity Radiated Fields (HIRF). Each electrical and electronic system that performs critical functions must be designed and installed to ensure that the operation and operational capability of these systems to perform critical functions are not adversely affected when the airplane is exposed to high intensity radiated fields.

2. For the purpose of these special conditions, the following definition applies: Critical Functions: Functions whose failure would contribute to or cause a failure condition that would prevent the continued safe flight and landing of the airplane.

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 Series Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes. For certain airplanes, this action requires repetitive inspections for discrepancies of the rear spar attachments and cracks in the upper flange of the inboard track at the rear spar attachment of each outboard flap, and eventual rework of the flap track assembly and rear spar attachments, including replacement of the flap track with a new track, if necessary. For all airplanes, this action requires repetitive inspections for cracks in the upper flange of the inboard flap tracks at the rear spar attachments, and corrective action, if necessary. The actions specified by this AD are intended to find and fix discrepancies of the inboard tracks of the outboard flaps, which could result in loss of the outboard trailing edge flaps and consequent reduced controllability of the airplane. These actions are intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

DATES: Effective April 22, 2002.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of April 22, 2002.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124-2207. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes was published as a supplemental notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) in the Federal Register on August 2, 2001 (66 FR 40162). That action proposed to expand the applicability and remove the optional terminating action of the proposed AD. For certain airplanes, that action proposed to require new repetitive inspections for discrepancies of the rear spar attachments and cracks in the upper flange of the inboard track at the rear spar attachment of each outboard flap, and eventual rework of the flap track assembly and rear spar attachments, including replacement of the flap track with a new track, if necessary. For all airplanes, that action proposed to require repetitive inspections for cracks in the upper flange of the inboard flap tracks at the rear spar attachments, and corrective action, if necessary.

Comments

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comments received.

Request to Clarify Compliance Time

Several commenters note that in paragraphs (a) and (c)(1) of the Supplemental NPRM, the phrase "whichever occurs later," is used when only one compliance time is given. They ask that the compliance time be clarified.

The FAA concurs that clarification is required and, accordingly, has deleted the phrase "whichever occurs later" from paragraphs (a) and (c)(1) of this final rule.

Request to Clarify Which Airplanes Are Subject to Paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM

One commenter points out that paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM is applicable to all Model 737 series airplanes with line numbers 1 through 1585, whereas the service bulletin cited is effective only for the Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes. The commenter requests clarification as to the applicability of paragraph (a) of the AD.

The FAA concurs that clarification is necessary. Our intent was to have paragraph (a) of this AD apply only to the Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes. Accordingly, we have inserted the phrase "[for] Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series [airplanes]" in paragraph (a) of this final rule to specify the correct applicability.

Another commenter suggests that the part of paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM which reads "* * * and airplanes with [line numbers] L/N 870 through 1585 on which the original flap tracks have been replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1 * * *" could be interpreted in two different ways. The commenter requests clarification.

The FAA agrees that the sentence could be misunderstood and, accordingly, has revised the language in paragraph (a) of this final rule to read

“* * * and those airplanes with L/Ns 870 through 1585 inclusive, which either still have their original flap tracks or which have had the original flap tracks replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1 * * *”

Request to Clarify Which Flap Tracks Are Affected

One commenter states that the Supplemental NPRM does not specify which flap tracks are affected by paragraph (a) of the AD. The commenter requests that specific part numbers and dash numbers be listed in the final rule.

The FAA does not concur. The intent of paragraph (a) of this AD is to include all flap tracks for Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes with L/Ns 1 through 1585, except for certain flap tracks which are specifically excluded in the effectivity of the service bulletin. Accordingly, no change has been made to the final rule in this regard.

Request to Correct Reference to Part of Accomplishment Instructions

One commenter indicates that paragraph (d) of the Supplemental NPRM, which requires repetitive inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments, should refer to Part I of the Accomplishment Instructions rather than Part II of those instructions.

The FAA concurs. The original reference in the Supplemental NPRM to Part II was an error. The language in paragraph (d) of this final rule has been changed accordingly.

Conclusion

After careful review of the available data, including the comments noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes previously described. The FAA has determined that these changes will neither increase the economic burden on any operator nor increase the scope of the AD.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 2,890 Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 1,100 airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD.

It will take approximately 4 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required inspections at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the required inspections on U.S. operators is estimated to be $264,000, or $240 per airplane.

It will take approximately 12 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required rework at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Required parts will cost approximately $532. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the required rework on U.S. operators is estimated to be $1,377,200, or $1,252 per airplane.

The cost impact figures discussed above are based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations adopted herein will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this final rule does not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a “significant rule” under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

2002-05-07 Boeing: Amendment 39-12675. Docket 99-NM-21-AD.

Applicability: Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes; certificated in any category; EXCEPT airplanes on which any replacement flap tracks were installed according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57-1203, dated November 15, 1990, or production equivalent.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (f) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

Note 2: Airplanes modified according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57-1065 are subject to additional work as described in this AD and in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, dated June 1, 2000.

To find and fix discrepancies of the inboard tracks of the outboard flaps, which could result in loss of the outboard trailing edge flaps and consequent reduced controllability of the airplane, accomplish the following:

Initial Inspections

(a) For Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes with line numbers (L/N) 1 through 869 inclusive, and those airplanes with L/Ns 870 through 1585 inclusive, which either still have their original flap tracks or which have had the original flap tracks replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000: Within 6 months after the effective date of this AD, accomplish the requirements of paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this AD, according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000.

(1) Perform a detailed visual inspection for discrepancies (e.g., corrosion, or missing, damaged, or migrated anti-fret strips and tapered shims) of the rear spar attachments of the flap tracks.

(2) Perform detailed visual, high frequency eddy current (HFEC), and ultrasonic inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments.

Note 3: Inspections and rework accomplished according to Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, including Appendix A, dated December 16, 1999, is considered acceptable for compliance with the applicable action specified in this AD.

Note 4: For the purposes of this AD, a detailed visual inspection is defined as: "An intensive visual examination of a specific structural area, system, installation, or assembly to detect damage, failure, or irregularity. Available lighting is normally supplemented with a direct source of good lighting at intensity deemed appropriate by the inspector. Inspection aids such as mirror, magnifying lenses, etc., may be used. Surface cleaning and elaborate access procedures may be required."

Repetitive Inspections

(b) For airplanes subject to paragraph (a) of this AD: If no discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD, thereafter, repeat the inspections specified in paragraph (a) of this AD at intervals not to exceed 9 months, until the actions required by paragraph (c) of this AD have been accomplished.

Rework

(c) For airplanes subject to paragraph (a) of this AD: At the applicable time specified in paragraph (c)(1) or (c)(2) of this AD, accomplish rework of the flap track assembly and aft flap track attachments (including removal of the flap track; a detailed visual inspection for a missing, damaged, or migrated anti-fret strip and tapered shim of the rear spar attachments of the flap track; replacement of the anti-fret strip with a new aluminum anti-fret strip (or installation of an aluminum strip if no strip is installed), as applicable; replacement of the tapered shim with a new shim (or installation of a shim if no shim is installed); eddy current and ultrasonic inspections for fatigue cracking of the flap tracks; a detailed visual inspection for corrosion of the flap tracks; and rework of attachment holes), including replacement of the flap tracks, as applicable, by accomplishing all actions specified in Part II of the Accomplishment Instructions of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000. Do these actions according to that service bulletin, except as provided by paragraph (e) of this AD. Accomplishment of the actions required by this paragraph constitutes terminating action for the repetitive inspections required by paragraph (b) of this AD.

(1) If no discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) or (b) of this AD: Do the rework within 24 months after the effective date of this AD.

(2) If any discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) or (b) of this AD: Do the rework prior to further flight.

Repetitive Inspections

(d) For all airplanes: At the applicable time specified in paragraph (d)(1) or (d)(2) of this AD, and thereafter at least every 24 months, perform detailed visual, HFEC, and ultrasonic inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments according to Part I of the Accomplishment Instructions of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000.

(1) For airplanes subject to paragraph (c) of this AD, do the inspections within 10 years after accomplishment of the rework according to paragraph (c) of this AD.

(2) For airplanes other than those identified in paragraph (d)(1) of this AD, do the inspections within 10 years since the airplane's date of manufacture, or within 6 months after the effective date of this AD, whichever occurs later.

Repair Instructions and Exception to Procedures in Service Information

(e) If any discrepancy is found during any action required by paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this AD, and the service bulletin specifies to contact Boeing for appropriate action; OR if any discrepancy is found during inspections according to paragraph (d) of this AD: Prior to further flight, repair according to a method approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA; or according to data meeting the type certification basis of the airplane approved by a Boeing Company Designated Engineering Representative (DER) who has been authorized by the Manager, Seattle ACO, to make such findings. For a repair method to be approved by the Manager, Seattle ACO, as required by this paragraph, the approval letter must specifically reference this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(f) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Seattle ACO. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Seattle ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(g) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

Incorporation by Reference

(h) Except as provided by paragraph (e) of this AD, the actions shall be done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000. This incorporation by reference was approved by the Director of the Federal Register in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR part 51. Copies may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124-2207. Copies may be inspected at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

Effective Date

(i) This amendment becomes effective on April 22, 2002.

Issued in Renton, Washington, on March 8, 2002.

RIN 2120-AA64

Airworthiness Directives; Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation Model S-76A Helicopters

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment supersedes an existing airworthiness directive (AD) for Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation Model S-76A helicopters that currently requires a service life limit on certain landing gear parts based on hours time-in-service (TIS). This amendment adds another method of calculating the life limit for certain landing gear parts based on cycles and requires the operator to choose and record the method of calculating the service life of each part in the rotorcraft history or equivalent record. This amendment also requires replacing the part based upon either the maximum hours TIS or the maximum cycles but not both. This amendment is prompted by the need to add flight cycles as a method of calculating the life limit for certain landing gear parts based on fatigue analyses. The actions specified by this AD are intended to add or revise the retirement life for certain landing gear parts to prevent fatigue failure of the landing gear and subsequent loss of control of the helicopter.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Richard Noll, Aviation Safety Engineer,

Boston Aircraft Certification Office, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, MA 01803, telephone (781) 238-7160, fax (781) 238-7199.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend 14 CFR part 39 by superseding AD 86-09-11, Amendment 39-5298 (51 FR 17009, May 8, 1986), for Sikorsky Model S76A helicopters, was published in the Federal Register on October 12, 2001 (66 FR 52073). That action proposed retaining a life limit based on hours TIS but also allowing the life limit to be based on cycles for certain landing gear parts. That action also proposed selecting a method for calculating the life limit of the landing gear parts, recording that method in the rotorcraft history or equivalent records, and using only that method throughout the life of the part. A cycle is defined as one takeoff to a hover or other mode of flight and one landing.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comment received.

The manufacturer suggests removing all references to specific dates and pages in the maintenance manual because those references could change in future revisions and lead to confusion for the operators. The FAA agrees; however, that information was only included in the NPRM as part of the discussion and was not included in the regulatory text and is not included in the final rule.

That commenter also states that in Table 1 the correct part number for the main landing gear axle is 1945E85 and not 195E85, and the life limit for the main landing gear retraction actuator piston is 33,000 and not 33,300 hours TIS. The FAA agrees and has corrected this AD accordingly.

After careful review of the available data, including the comment noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes described previously. The FAA has determined that these changes are minor corrections and will only minimally increase the economic burden on operators and will not increase the scope of the AD.

The FAA estimates that 87 helicopters of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 2 work hours per helicopter to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $10,440.

The regulations adopted herein will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this final rule does not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by removing Amendment 39-5298 (51 FR 17009, May 8, 1986), and by adding a new airworthiness directive (AD), to read as follows:

2002-05-06 Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation:
Amendment 39-12674, Docket No. 2000-SW-46-AD. Supersedes AD 86-09-11, Amendment 39-5298, Docket No. 86-ASW-12.

Applicability: Model S-76A helicopters, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each helicopter identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been otherwise modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For helicopters that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (e) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent fatigue failures of the main and nose landing gear parts and subsequent loss of control of the helicopter, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 50 hours time-in-service (TIS), determine either the hours TIS or cycles accumulated on each part listed in Table 1 or Table 2 of this AD, as applicable. A cycle is a takeoff to a hover or other mode of flight and a landing.

(1) If neither the hours TIS nor cycles are known for an affected part, assume the rotorcraft's total hours TIS are the hours TIS for that part.

(2) If only one history is known for the part (either hours TIS or cycles), use that method for tracking the remaining life of that part.

(3) Thereafter, record in the rotorcraft history or equivalent record the selected method of calculating the life limit for each landing gear part, and record either the accumulated hours TIS or cycles for the selected method.

(b) Before further flight, remove from service each part listed in the following Table 1 of this AD on or before reaching the applicable life limit:

(d) This AD revises the Limitations section of the maintenance manual by establishing or revising the retirement lives for the affected parts shown in Tables 1 and 2 of this AD and establishing cycle counting as an additional method to determine retirement for the affected parts. Installing STC SH568NE affects the retirement life of certain parts.

(e) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Boston Aircraft Certification Office, FAA. Operators shall submit their requests through an FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may concur or comment and then send it to the Manager, Boston Aircraft Certification Office.

Note 2: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Boston Aircraft Certification Office.

(f) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with 14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the helicopter to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

(g) This amendment becomes effective on April 2, 2002.

Issued in Fort Worth, Texas, on March 5, 2002.

Revisions and Clarifications to the Export Administration Regulations: Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland

AGENCY: Bureau of Export Administration, Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Export Administration maintains the Export Administration Regulations (EAR). This rule amends the EAR by removing the license requirements for certain regional stability items and for certain crime control items destined to the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland to correctly reflect the status of those countries as NATO members.

DATES: This rule is effective: March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joan Roberts, Acting Director, Office of Strategic Trade and Foreign Policy Controls, Bureau of Export Administration, Telephone: (202) 482–0171, E-mail: jroberts@bxa.doc.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) maintains controls on certain military related items, such as military vehicles and certain specially designed commodities to be used to manufacture military equipment. These controls ensure regional stability in support of foreign policy. BXA also maintains controls on certain crime control and detection instruments and equipment, and related technology and software as a matter of foreign policy, to promote the observance of human rights throughout the world. Countries to which exports and reexports of these items are controlled are identified in Supplement No.1 to part 738 of the

EAR, the Commerce Country Chart, by an X in the regional stability (RS) column identifier RS 2; and crime control (CC) column identifiers: CC 1, CC 2, or CC 3. This rule amends the license requirements for certain crime control items destined to the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland because these countries were recently admitted to NATO. The EAR is amended to correctly reflect the status of these countries as NATO members.

Rulemaking Requirements

1. This final rule has been determined to be not significant for purposes of E.O. 12866.

2. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no person is required to respond nor shall any person be subject to a penalty for failure to comply with, a collection of information, subject to the requirements of the Paperwork Reduction Act, unless that collection of information displays a currently valid OMB Control Number. This rule involves a collection of information subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.). This collection has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 0694-0088, "Multi-Purpose Application," which carries a burden hour estimate of 45 minutes for a manual submission and 40 minutes for an electronic submission.

3. This rule does not contain policies with Federalism implications sufficient to warrant preparation of a Federalism assessment under Executive Order 13132.

4. The provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) requiring notice of proposed rulemaking, the opportunity for public participation, and a delay in effective date, are inapplicable because this regulation involves a military and foreign affairs function of the United States (See 5 U.S.C. 553(a)(1)). Further, no other law requires that a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment be given for this final rule. Because a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment are not required to be given for this rule under 5 U.S.C. 553 or by any other law, the analytical requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) are not applicable.

Therefore, this regulation is issued in final form. Although there is no formal comment period, public comments on this regulation are welcome on a continuing basis. Comments should be submitted to Sheila Quarterman, Regulatory Policy Division, Bureau of Export Administration, Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 273, Washington, DC 20044.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION16 CFR Parts 801 and 802*Premerger Notification; Reporting and Waiting Period Requirements*AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Trade Commission is amending the premerger notification rules, which require the parties to certain mergers or acquisitions to file reports with the Commission and with the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice and to wait a specified period of time before consummating such transactions, pursuant to section 7A of the Clayton Act. The filing and waiting period requirements enable these enforcement agencies to determine whether a proposed merger or acquisition may violate the antitrust laws if consummated and, when appropriate, to seek a preliminary injunction in Federal court to prevent consummation. The rule amendments are necessary to address public comments regarding the proposed rules published February 1, 2001, and will increase the clarity and improve the effectiveness of the rules.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Marian R. Bruno, Assistant Director, Karen E. Berg, Attorney, or B. Michael Verne, Compliance Specialist, Premerger Notification Office, Bureau of Competition, Room 303, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20580. Telephone: (202) 326-3100.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 1, 2001, the Commission published in the Federal Register interim and proposed rules amending the Hart-Scott-Rodino rules ("HSR rules") contained in 16 CFR parts 801, 802 and 803. The interim rules took effect upon publication in the Federal Register and implemented amendments to section 7A of the Clayton Act enacted on December 21, 2000 ("2000 Amendments"). The proposed rules recommended other changes improving and updating the HSR rules and did not take effect upon publication. Both sets of rules invited public comments.

The Commission, with the concurrence of the Assistant Attorney General, is adopting the proposed rules, previously published on February 1, 2001, as final with certain further changes in response to the public comments, as described below. The Commission received eighteen public comments addressing either or both the interim rules (66 FR 8679-8721) and the proposed rules (66 FR 8723-8729). Fifteen of the eighteen public comments received pertained to the proposed rules.

The following provided public comments on the proposed rules to the Commission:

1. Baker & McKenzie (3/19/01)
2. Dockstader, Robert A. (3/19/01)
3. Ford Motor Company (Bolerjack, Stephen D.) (3/19/01)

17. Willkie, Farr & Gallagher (Gartner, Steven J.) (3/19/01)

PART 801—COVERAGE RULES

No public comments were received concerning Part 801 of the proposed rules. These proposed changes include updating examples in §§ 801.4, 801.14 and 801.90; and amending § 801.15 to reflect the $50 million nexus with U.S. commerce threshold for foreign transactions and give proper reference to other rules sections. The Commission is adopting those proposed rules as final without change.

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES*Section 802.2 Certain acquisitions of real property assets.*

The proposed rules would amend § 802.2(g), mainly by removing "associated agricultural assets" from the agricultural real property exemption. Under the current rules, such assets are defined as assets that are integral to the agricultural business activities conducted on the property, including inventory (e.g., livestock, poultry, crops, fruit, vegetables, milk, eggs), structures that house livestock raised on the real property, fertilizer, and animal feed.

Comment 12 questioned the justification for removing the associated agricultural assets—particularly structures and inventories of crops, animal feed or fertilizer—from the exemption. The comment suggested that acquisitions of these assets would not potentially be of substantive antitrust interest.

The Commission has concluded that it is appropriate to remove associated agricultural assets from this real property exemption, as proposed. As the Statement of Basis and Purpose ("SBP") to the Proposed Rules states, doing so will eliminate whatever ambiguity may arguably exist in the definition of "associated agricultural assets." It also refocuses the rule on agricultural real property which was the initial intent of the exemption when promulgated. The more-than-threelfold increase in the statutory size-of-transaction test to $50 million will continue to exempt acquisitions of agricultural property unless the additional assets being acquired—whether within or beyond the definition of "associated agricultural assets"—are valued in excess of $50 million. The Commission believes that the elimination of "associated agricultural assets" from the agricultural property exemption simplifies the rule without significantly limiting the applicability of that exemption. If a significant number of agricultural property transactions are reported under HSR because of the "associated agricultural assets" conveyed in the transaction, the Commission can revisit the language of § 802.2(g).

Section 802.6 Federal agency approval.

Proposed § 802.6(b) was revised to state a general rule regarding mixed transactions rather than one that is industry specific. No comments were received regarding this rule revision, therefore the Commission is adopting this Proposed Rule as final without change.

Section 802.8 Certain supervisory acquisitions.

Proposed § 802.8 corrected a typographical error. No comments were received regarding this rule revision, therefore the Commission is adopting this Proposed Rule as final without change.

Sections 802.50 and 802.51 Foreign acquisitions.

The Proposed Rules would restructure and amend the exemptions contained in §§ 802.50 and 802.51. The Commission received fifteen comments regarding these proposed rules. One proposed amendment to these rules increases the thresholds for measuring nexus with U.S. commerce to $50 million from $15 million and $25 million. No comments were received concerning the increase to $50 million of the $15 million and $25 million nexus with U.S. commerce thresholds contained in these exemptions. Consequently, these increased thresholds will be implemented without change from the Proposed Rules.

The comments focused on five other aspects of the proposed rules: (1) The period used to determine sales in or into the U.S.; (2) the method of valuation used for assets located in the U.S.; (3) the elimination of the $110 million aggregate U.S. sales and assets exemption for transactions valued in excess of $200 million; (4) the elimination of the absolute exemption for acquisitions of assets located outside of the U.S. by a foreign person; and (5) the applicability of aggregation of the sales and assets of multiple foreign issuers from the same acquired person to both U.S. and foreign acquiring persons.

The Commission is adopting Proposed §§ 802.50 and 802.51 as final, with two changes in response to these public comments. First, the measure of sales in or into the U.S. will be sales of the most recent fiscal year, rather than the sum of the most recent fiscal year's sales and sales year-to-date, as proposed. The Commission believes that the burden on the parties of determining any measure of sales in or into the U.S. beyond the most recent fiscal year of the parties may well outweigh the benefit to the agencies in capturing transactions involving a recent upswing in U.S. sales. Second, § 802.51 will be amended to correct a drafting error which resulted in aggregation of sales in or into the U.S. and assets located in the U.S. being applicable only to foreign persons acquiring multiple foreign issuers from the same acquired person. This error was discovered shortly after publication and will be corrected with additional language in paragraph (a) of the rule. This correction makes it clear that this aspect of the rule is intended to apply to acquisitions by both U.S. and foreign acquiring persons. These provisions, as well as others addressed by the comments, are discussed below. Finally, in a technical correction, the reference to § 801.40(c)(2) in paragraphs 802.50(b)(3), 802.51(a)(1), 802.51(b)(1), and 802.51(c)(3), has been changed to § 801.40(d)(2) to reflect the renumbering of that section.

(1) The Measure of Sales in or Into the United States

Comments 1–6 and 10–17 criticized the proposed requirement that sales in or into the U.S. be calculated by adding those sales from the last fiscal year to such sales generated to date since the end of that fiscal year, calculated no more than sixty days prior to the filing of notification or if notification is not required, within sixty days prior to the consummation of the acquisition. This proposed change reflected the recognition that sales figures based on a party's most recent fiscal year may be several months out of date and was intended to ensure that where U.S. sales generated by foreign assets and voting securities trend steeply upward prior to the acquisition, a filing would be required if that trend resulted in over $50 million in U.S. sales. The comments expressed a variety of concerns and offered several alternatives.

Comment 1 stated that this proposed method of calculating combined sales would, in many transactions, remove all benefit of the increased $50 million threshold for U.S. sales. It further noted that the requirement to combine sales could result in a filing obligation even where U.S. sales have been stagnating or even declining. The comment suggested that the requirement would produce widely disparate results based solely on when the transaction closes (i.e., transactions that propose to close later in the year will be less likely to be able to claim the exemption than those that close early in the year). The comment proposed that the agencies' goal could be accomplished by requiring the comparison of U.S. sales over a two year period, and determining the applicability of an exemption based on the greater of U.S. sales for a single year in that period.

Comments 2, 3, 13 and 15 addressed the same concerns and suggested an alternative approach of using the higher of the most recent fiscal year's sales or estimated sales for the current year-to-date. Comment 13 further predicted that the proposed change would substantially narrow the exemption previously available and increase the number of transactions that are reportable.

Comment 4 suggested that a more equitable method would be to determine sales in the twelve months prior to filing or closing the transaction, calculated within sixty calendar days prior to filing notification or, if no filing is required, within sixty calendar days of closing.

Comment 5 stated that determining the value of sales in or into the U.S. is often extraordinarily complex and time-consuming and that the proposed revisions do not reduce that burden. It further noted that while corporations have methods for analyzing such data, these methods are generally geared toward quarterly and annual assessments and are virtually never performed on an ad hoc basis. Outside of the audit procedures currently in place, it suggested that it is not practical, and perhaps not even possible, to take a meaningful snapshot of current revenues. The comment recommended deleting the requirement that current year sales be analyzed.

Comment 6 observed that throughout the rules, the determination of sales is always on an annual basis and is found in the reporting person's last year-end, consolidated statement of operations. It further opined that there is no suggestion that anti-competitive mergers have escaped review because of sharp upward trends in U.S. sales.

Comment 10 questioned why the rules for a foreign exemption should be particularly concerned about changes to sales since the end of the last fiscal year, when § 801.11 (measuring net sales for the size-of-person test) is not. Comment 12 similarly questioned why the change seeks to address an issue (a recent increase in U.S. sales) which arises in both foreign and domestic transactions, and no similar change is proposed for dealing with domestic transactions. It also suggested the possible approach of using the greater of the previous year's sales or sales year-to-date, but noted that the approach would still suffer from inconsistency with other provisions in the rules and further observed that current information is often difficult to obtain from foreign entities.

Comments 11, 14, and 16 noted that requiring the aggregation of sales since the end of the preceding fiscal year will lead in certain cases to uncertainty as to whether or not a transaction is reportable and places on the parties to a transaction the added burden of monitoring the sales of a foreign target while negotiations are in progress. Comment 14 suggested two alternative methods of calculation. One method was to determine a twelve month average of sales by adding the last fiscal year to the sales year-to-date, dividing the total by the number of months included, and multiplying this figure by twelve. The second suggested method was to use the most recent twelve months calculated within sixty days of filing or closing.

Finally, Comment 17 asserted that the proposed change, setting forth the time in which the calculation must be made, is unclear and imposes undue burden upon the parties that could generate delays in transactions. It proposed an alternative test of considering the greater of sales in the most recent fiscal year or sales over the last four available fiscal quarterly periods. It further stated that the parties should be entitled to a consistent cut-off date for calculating sales in or into the U.S., regardless of whether the transaction proves to be subject to notification. The comment recommended that the parties measure these sales as of the end of the most recent quarterly period available as of the date the parties enter into an agreement, so long as no more than 135 days have elapsed since the end of that quarterly period. It suggested that this approach would provide the parties certainty; allow sufficient time to gather information that is not always readily available; minimize the burden imposed by requiring sales for a fiscal year that has not yet ended; properly take into account sales trends; and allow most parties to rely upon their existing reporting practices.

The Commission recognizes the burden on the parties in determining sales in or into the U.S. for any period of time other than the filing person's most recent fiscal year. The Commission also agrees with the observation that aggregating sales from the most recent fiscal year with those year-to-date may have the undesirable result of making acquisitions reportable where sales in or into the U.S. in the current year may be steady or even declining. The Commission considered the many alternative methods suggested in the comments (e.g., most recent four quarters, most recent twelve months, greater of two years, greater of year-to-date or last fiscal year, twelve-month average) but was unable to discern how any of these methods would be significantly less burdensome than the approach put forth in the Proposed Rules. All of these approaches would also require compilation of data that is not captured in the ordinary course of business by many persons filing notification. Consequently, in the Final Rules, the measure of sales in or into the U.S. for purposes of §§ 802.50 and 802.51 will be those of the most recently completed fiscal year.

(2) Valuation of Assets Located in the United States

Comments 1, 3, 6 and 13 objected to the proposed change from book value to fair market value for measuring assets located in the U.S. The Commission believes that this change is appropriate in order to reflect more accurately a foreign person's nexus with U.S. commerce, to harmonize these sections with the rest of the rules, and to address questions frequently asked of the PNO concerning the use of book value to make this determination. Specifically, intangible assets such as U.S. patents and other intellectual property were often not carried on the books of a foreign person, and the question has frequently arisen as to what value should be attributed to these intangible assets and what method should be used to determine their book value. In these instances, the PNO advised parties to use fair market value.

Comment 1 asserted that the Commission's proposal is inconsistent with the rest of the rules and that the implementation of a fair market value test would impose a new, substantial burden upon parties in voting securities transactions. It argued that the size-of-person test is based on an existing balance sheet, not on a market valuation, and that it is only for assets that are being acquired that the rules require a fair market valuation. The comment suggested that in a stock deal, the market value of assets is not easily determinable, and any excess over the book value of the assets of the acquired company is reflected as goodwill on the balance sheet of the acquired company, precisely in recognition of the difficulties of a market value appraisal. It further maintained that the competitive significance and impact on U.S. commerce of a proposed acquisition will likely not turn upon whether the value of the acquired company's assets located in the U.S. has increased since its last book value calculation.

Comment 3 also argued that an additional burden is placed on the parties to extract the specific U.S. assets and determine their fair market value. It states that fair market valuation may be subject to dispute by the agencies, thus subjecting the parties to possible penalties, while book value is a simple, readily available value and provides certainty to parties seeking to determine whether the exemption is available. Comment 13 agreed that an additional burden is imposed by fair market valuation and also complained that some measure of certainty is lost since the agencies could dispute that valuation.

Lastly, Comment 6 claimed that the Commission's stated justification for the proposed rule change appeared to lack a factual foundation, arguing that consistency throughout the rules requires that book value be retained as the measure of value. It further submitted that book value is readily available and that requiring the acquiring person to determine the fair market value of the acquired person's, and in some cases its own, U.S. property imposes an unreasonable new burden. The comment concluded that, absent compelling evidence that a significant number of anticompetitive transactions will escape premerger review without this change, the book value of U.S. assets should continue to govern.

The Commission recognizes that in some instances the requirement to calculate the fair market value of assets located in the U.S. may impose additional burden on the acquiring person. However, in the vast majority of cases it will be readily apparent that the value of the assets clearly is above or below the $50 million threshold, and determination of whether or not the exemption is applicable will require a minimal amount of effort by the acquiring person.

As to the alleged inconsistency with the methodology used in determining the size-of-person of a party, the Commission notes that the $50 million threshold in §§ 802.50 and 802.51 is not a size-of-person test, but rather a "size-of-nexus with the U.S." test. The fair market value of assets located in the U.S. is a far more accurate assessment of the true nexus with U.S. commerce at the present time. The book value may be out of date and may not reflect the true value, especially in the case of assets which constitute an ongoing business, since a portion of the value of those assets may be carried on the books as goodwill. Also, assets may be carried on the books showing significant depreciation that does not reflect their actual value.

For these reasons, the Commission believes that the potential burden on a small number of transactions is outweighed by the benefit to the agencies in requiring a current and meaningful measure of a transaction's nexus with U.S. commerce. Therefore, the Commission will adopt the proposed change to fair market value for calculating the value of assets located in the U.S.

(3) Elimination of the $110 Million Aggregate U.S. Sales and Assets Exemption for Transactions Valued in Excess of $200 Million

Comments 1 and 13 asserted that the elimination of this exemption for transactions valued in excess of $200 million is inappropriate. Comment 1 contended that there is no discussion in the 1978 SBP of the import now apparently attributed by the Commission to the overall value of a transaction in determining whether a transaction may have an anticompetitive impact on U.S. commerce. It argued that the result of this proposed change is not consistent with the original rationale for creating this exemption, and that the value of a transaction outside of the U.S. does not indicate in any way the transaction's potential anticompetitive effects in the U.S. Comment 13 states that the elimination of this portion of the exemption will greatly narrow its reach.

While this change may marginally narrow the exemptions, the general increase in the reporting threshold to over $50 million, together with the increase in the $15 million and $25 million nexus tests to $50 million, will significantly expand the number of exempt foreign transactions.

In the SBP for the Proposed Rules, the Commission referenced the 1978 SBP which explains that the $110 million threshold was adopted to approximate the size-of-person criteria of Section 7A(a)(2), as it seemed appropriate and consistent with congressional intent not to exempt a transaction involving two foreign persons with a U.S. presence similar in size to the general criteria of the act for all persons. 43 FR 33498 (July 31, 1978). Since the new legislation removes the size-of-person test for acquisitions valued at over $200 million, the Commission likewise believes that it is appropriate and consistent to require filings from foreign persons, regardless of the size of their U.S. presence, where the transaction is valued at over $200 million and the $50 million nexus test of these exemption rules is satisfied.

(4) Elimination of the Absolute Exemption for Acquisitions of Assets Located Outside of the U.S. by a Foreign Person

Comment 13 claimed that the Commission sets forth no explanation as to why such transactions are likely to raise competitive issues in the U.S. in order to justify removing the exemption. The Commission clearly stated in the SBP to the Proposed Rules that experience at both agencies has shown that foreign asset acquisitions can and do have a direct impact on the U.S. economy and that this is more likely to be true where the assets generate over $50 million in sales in or into the U.S. Thus, the Commission continues to believe that it is appropriate to require that their acquisition be reported where there is a substantial nexus to U.S. commerce. This approach makes the rule consistent with the treatment of U.S. acquiring persons.

(5) Applicability of Aggregation of the Sales and Assets of Multiple Foreign Issuers From the Same Acquired Person to Both U.S. and Foreign Acquiring Persons

Comments 11 and 17 correctly noted a section numbering error in § 802.51. The intent was to require the aggregation of sales and assets of multiple foreign issuers, which are being acquired from the same acquired person, by both foreign and U.S. acquiring persons. This numbering error was discovered shortly after publication of the Proposed Rules and is corrected by adding paragraph (a)(3) which reads: "If interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether the $50 million thresholds are exceeded." This revision will make the intent of the rule clear. An example has been added to illustrate the aggregation requirement.

Section 802.52 Acquisitions by or from Foreign Governmental Corporations

The example in Section 802.52 has been amended to reflect the new $50 million threshold for measuring nexus with U.S. commerce.

Other Comments

In addition to the above noted comments, Comment 8 opposed all proposed changes to the foreign exemptions on the grounds that they narrowed the scope of the exemptions. It recommended broadening the exemptions instead, but offered no suggestions as to how this should be accomplished. This comment, as well as Comments 1 and 3, based its recommendation on the International Competition Policy Advisory Committee ("ICPAC") (Report to the Attorney General of the International Competition Policy Advisory Committee (February 2000)) finding that there were far too many filings in fiscal year 1999 involving foreign transactions. The ICPAC report dealt with filings subject to the prior $15 million size-of-transaction threshold and does not take into consideration changes in the level of filings as a result of the 2001 Amendments to the statute. Despite the marginal narrowing of the exemption in the areas discussed above, the Commission believes that the increase in the statutory size-of-transaction threshold to $50 million and the increase in the dollar thresholds in §§ 802.50 and 802.51 will dramatically reduce the number of foreign transaction filings overall.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601–612, requires that the agency conduct an initial and final regulatory analysis of the anticipated economic impact of the proposed amendments on small businesses, except where the agency head certifies that the regulatory action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. 5 U.S.C. 605.

Because of the size of the transactions necessary to invoke a Hart-Scott-Rodino filing, the premerger notification rules rarely, if ever, affect small businesses. Indeed, the recent amendments to Section 7A of the Clayton Act, which these rule amendments implement, were intended to reduce the burden of the premerger notification program by exempting all transactions valued at $50 million or less. Further, none of the rule amendments expands the coverage of the premerger notification rules in a way that would affect small business. Accordingly, the Commission certifies that these rules will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This document serves as the required notice of this certification to the Small Business Administration.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 ("PRA"), 44 U.S.C. 3501–3518, requires agencies to submit requirements for "collections of information" to the Office of Management and Budget ("OMB") and obtain clearance prior to instituting them. Such collections of information include reporting, recordkeeping, or disclosure requirements contained in regulations. The HSR premerger notification rules and Form contain information collection requirements as defined by the PRA that have been reviewed and approved by OMB under OMB Control No. 3084–0005 (preceding the latest HSR amendments). Because the Final Rules would not affect the information collection requirements of the premerger notification program beyond those of the proposed rules, they are not being resubmitted to OMB for review pursuant to the PRA. The Supporting Statement accompanying the Request for OMB Review states that the total burden imposed on the members of the public subject to the requirements of the Act, including the final rules, is estimated to be 192,089 hours per year (based on fiscal year 2000 filings). This constitutes approximately a 47% reduction from what the burden estimate would be absent the final rules and based on the number of fiscal year 2000 filings. The Commission is seeking 3-year clearance with the requisite submissions to OMB.

List of Subjects in 16 CFR Parts 801 and 802

Antitrust, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the preamble, the Federal Trade Commission amends 16 CFR Parts 801 and 802 as follows:

PART 801—COVERAGE RULES

1. The authority citation for Part 801 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

2. Amend § 801.4 by revising Example 5 in paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 801.4 Secondary acquisitions.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

Examples: * * *

5. In example 4 above, suppose the consideration paid by "A" for the acquisition of B is $60 million worth of the voting securities of "A." By virtue of § 801.2(d)(2), "A" is both an acquiring and acquired person; B is an acquired person and B's shareholders are acquiring persons. A will still be deemed to have acquired control of B, and therefore the resulting acquisition of the voting securities of X is a secondary acquisition. Although B's shareholders are now also acquiring persons, unless one of them gains control of "A" in the transaction, no B shareholder makes a secondary acquisition of stock held by "A." If the consideration paid by "A" is the voting securities of one of "A's" subsidiaries and a shareholder of B thereby gains control of that subsidiary, the shareholder will make secondary acquisitions of any minority holdings of that subsidiary.

* * * * *

3. Amend § 801.14 by revising Example 2 in paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 801.14 Aggregate total amount of voting securities and assets.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

Examples: * * *

2. In the previous example, assume that the assets acquisition occurred first, and that the acquisition of the voting securities is to occur within 180 days of the first acquisition. "A" now looks to § 801.13(b)(2) and determines that the previously acquired assets are not treated "as part of the present acquisition" because the second acquisition is of voting securities and not assets; thus, the asset and voting securities acquisitions are not treated as one transaction. Therefore, the second acquisition would not be subject to the requirements of the act since the value of the securities to be acquired does not exceed the $50 million size-of-transaction test.

4. Amend § 801.15 by revising the introductory text, paragraphs (a)(2) and (b), and Examples 1, 4, 5, 7, and 8 in paragraph (c), to read as follows:

§ 801.15 Aggregation of voting securities and assets the acquisition of which was exempt.

Notwithstanding § 801.13, for purposes of determining the aggregate total amount of voting securities and assets of the acquired person held by the acquiring person under Section 7A(a)(2) and § 801.1(h), none of the following will be held as a result of an acquisition:

(b) Assets or voting securities the acquisition of which was exempt at the time of acquisition (or would have been exempt, had the act and these rules been in effect), or the present acquisition of which is exempt, under Section 7A(c)(9) and §§ 802.3, 802.4, 802.50(a), 802.51(a), 802.51(b) and 802.64 of this chapter unless the limitations contained in Section 7A(c)(9) or those sections do not apply or as a result of the acquisition would be exceeded, in which case the assets or voting securities so acquired will be held; and

Examples: 1. Assume that acquiring person "A" is simultaneously to acquire $51 million of the convertible voting securities of X and $12 million of the voting common stock of X. Since the overall value of the voting securities to be acquired (§ 801.1 defines convertible voting securities as "voting securities") is greater than $50 million, "A" must determine whether it is obliged to file notification and observe a waiting period before acquiring the securities. However, because § 802.31 of this chapter is one of the exemptions listed in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, "A" would not hold the convertible voting securities as a result of this acquisition. Therefore, since as a result of the acquisition "A" would hold only the $12 million of common stock, the size-of-transaction tests of Section 7A(a)(2) would not be satisfied, and "A" need not observe the requirements of the act before acquiring the common stock. (Note, however, that the $51 million of convertible voting securities would be reflected in "A's" next regularly prepared balance sheet, for purposes of § 801.11.)

* * * * *

4. Assume that acquiring person "B," a United States person, acquired from corporation "X" two manufacturing plants located abroad, and assume that the acquisition price was $160 million. In the most recent fiscal year, sales into the United States attributable to the plants were $40 million, and thus the acquisition was exempt under § 802.50(a) of this chapter. Within 180 days of that acquisition, "B" seeks to acquire a third plant from "X," to which United States sales of $12 million were attributable in the most recent fiscal year. Since under § 801.13(b)(2), as a result of the acquisition, "B" would hold all three plants of "X," and the $50 million limitation in § 802.50(a) of this chapter would be exceeded, under paragraph (b) of this rule, "B" would hold the previously acquired assets for purposes of the second acquisition. Therefore, as a result of the second acquisition, "B" would hold assets of "X" exceeding $50 million in sales in or into the United States, would not qualify for the exemption in § 802.50(a) of this chapter, and must observe the requirements of the act and file notification for the acquisition of all three plants before acquiring the third plant.

5. "A" acquires producing oil reserves valued at $400 million from "B." Two months later, "A" agrees to acquire oil and gas rights valued at $75 million from "B." Paragraph (b) of this section and § 801.13(b)(2) require aggregating the previously exempt acquisition of oil reserves with the second acquisition. If the two acquisitions, when aggregated, exceed the $500 million limitation on the exemption for oil and gas reserves in § 802.3(a), "A" and "B" will be required to file notification for the latter acquisition, including within the filings the earlier acquisition. Since, in this example, the total value of the assets in the two acquisitions, when aggregated, is less than $500 million, both acquisitions are exempt from the notification requirements. In determining whether the value of the assets in the two acquisitions exceeds $500 million, "A" need not determine the current fair market value of the oil reserves acquired in the first transaction, since these assets are now within the person of "A." Instead, "A" is directed by § 801.13(b)(2)(ii) to use the value of the oil reserves at the time of their prior acquisition in accordance with § 801.10(b).

7. In Example 6, above, assume that "X" acquired 30 percent of the voting securities of M and proposes to acquire 40 percent of the voting securities of N, another entity controlled by "Z." Assume also that M's assets at the time of "X's" acquisition of M's voting securities consisted of $90 million worth of producing coal reserves and non-exempt assets with a fair market value of $39 million, and that N's assets currently consist of $60 million worth of producing coal reserves and non-exempt assets with a fair market value of $28 million. Since "X" acquired a minority interest in M and intends to acquire a minority interest in N, and since M and N are controlled by "Z," the assets of M and N must be aggregated, pursuant to §§ 801.15(b) and 801.13, to determine whether the acquisition of N's voting securities is exempt or whether it is reportable pursuant to the terms of § 802.4(c) of this chapter. "X" is required to determine the current fair market value of M's assets. If the fair market value of M's coal reserves is unchanged, the aggregated exempt assets do not exceed the limitation for coal reserves under § 802.3(b) of this chapter. However, if the present fair market value of N's non-exempt assets also is unchanged, the present fair market value of the non-exempt assets of M and N when aggregated is greater than $50 million. Thus the acquisition of the voting securities of N is not exempt under § 802.4 of this chapter. If "X" proposed to acquire 50 percent or more of the voting securities of both M and N in the same acquisition, the assets of M and N must be aggregated to determine if the acquisition of the voting securities of both issuers is exempt. Since the fair market value of the aggregated non-exempt assets exceeds $50 million, the acquisition would not be exempt.

8. "A" acquired 49 percent of the voting securities of M and 45 percent of the voting securities of N. Both M and N are controlled by "B." At the time of the acquisition, M held rights to producing coal reserves worth $90 million and N held a producing coal mine worth $90 million. This acquisition was exempt since the aggregated holdings fell below the $200 million limitation for coal in § 802.3(b) of this chapter. A year later, "A" proposes to acquire an additional 10 percent of the voting securities of both M and N. In the intervening year, M has acquired coal reserves so that its holdings are now valued at $140 million, and the value of N's assets remained unchanged. "A's" second acquisition would not be exempt. "A" is required to determine the value of the exempt assets and any non-exempt assets held by any issuer whose voting securities it intends to acquire before each proposed acquisition (unless "A" already owns 50 percent or more of the voting securities of the issuer) to determine if the value of those holdings of the issuer falls below the limitation of the applicable exemption. Here, the holdings of M and N now exceed the $200 million exemption for acquisitions of coal reserves in § 802.3 of this chapter, and thus do not qualify for the exemption of voting securities provided by § 802.4(a) of this chapter.

5. Amend § 801.90 by revising Example 1 to read as follows:

§ 801.90 Transactions or devices for avoidance.

* * * * *

Examples: 1. Suppose corporations "A" and "B" wish to form a joint venture. "A" and "B" contemplate a total investment of over $100 million in the joint venture; persons "A" and "B" each has total assets in excess of $100 million. Instead of filing notification pursuant to § 801.40, "A" creates a new subsidiary, A1, which issues half of its authorized shares to "A." Assume that A1 has total assets of $3000. "A" then sells 50 percent of its A1 stock to "B" for $1500. Thereafter, "A" and "B" each contribute $53 million to A1 in exchange for the remaining authorized A1 stock (one-fourth each to "A" and "B"). "A"'s creation of A1 was exempt under § 802.30 of this chapter; its $1500 sale of A1 stock to "B" did not meet the size-of-transaction filing threshold in Section 7A(a)(2)(B); and the second acquisitions of stock in A1 by "A" and "B" were exempt under Sections 7A(c)(3) and (10), because "A" and "B" each already controlled A1, based on their holdings of 50 percent of A1's then-outstanding shares. Since this scheme appears to be for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of the act, the sequence of transactions will be disregarded. The transactions will be viewed as the formation of a joint venture corporation by "A" and "B" having over $10 million in assets. Such a transaction would be covered by § 801.40, and "A" and "B" must file notification and observe the waiting period.

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES

6. The authority citation for Part 802 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

7. Revise § 802.2(g) to read as follows:

§ 802.2 Certain acquisitions of real property assets.

* * * * *

(g) Agricultural property. An acquisition of agricultural property and assets incidental to the ownership of such property shall be exempt from the requirements of the act. Agricultural property is real property that primarily generates revenues from the production of crops, fruits, vegetables, livestock, poultry, milk and eggs (activities within NAICS sector 11).

(1) Agricultural property does not include either:

(i) Processing facilities such as poultry and livestock slaughtering, processing and packing facilities; or
(ii) Any real property and assets either adjacent to or used in conjunction with processing facilities that are included in the acquisition.

(2) In an acquisition that includes agricultural property, the transfer of any assets that are not agricultural property or assets incidental to the ownership of such property (cash, prepaid taxes or insurance, rentals receivable and the like) shall be subject to the requirements of the act and these rules as if such assets were being transferred in a separate acquisition.

* * * * *

8. Amend § 802.6 by revising paragraph (b) and its Example to read as follows:

§ 802.6 Federal agency approval.

(b)(1) A mixed transaction is one that has some portion that is exempt under Section 7A (c)(6), (c)(7) or (c)(8) because it requires regulatory agency premerger competitive review and approval, and another portion that does not require such review.

(2) The portion of a mixed transaction that does not require advance competitive review and approval by a regulatory agency is subject to the act and these rules as if it were being acquired in a separate acquisition.

Example: Bank "A" acquires Bank "B", which owns a financial subsidiary engaged in securities underwriting. "A"'s acquisition of "B" requires agency approval by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (depending on whether "A" is a national bank, state member bank, or state non-member bank under section 18(c) of the FDI Act), and therefore is exempt from filing under Section 7A (c)(7). However, the acquisition of the financial subsidiary is subject to HSR reporting requirements, and "A" and "B" each must make a filing for that portion of the transaction and observe the waiting period if the act's thresholds are met.

9. Revise § 802.8(a) to read as follows:

§ 802.8 Certain supervisory acquisitions.

(a) A merger, consolidation, purchase of assets, or acquisition requiring agency approval under sections 403 or 408(e) of the National Housing Act, 12 U.S.C. 1726, 1730a(e), or under section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, 12 U.S.C. 1464, shall be exempt from the requirements of the act, including specifically the filing requirement of Section 7A(c)(8), if the agency whose approval is required finds that approval of such merger, consolidation, purchase of assets, or acquisition is necessary to prevent the probable failure of one of the institutions involved.

* * * * *

10. Revise § 802.50 to read as follows:

§ 802.50 Acquisitions of foreign assets.

(a) The acquisition of assets located outside the United States shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the foreign assets the acquiring person would hold as a result of the acquisition generated sales in or into the U.S. exceeding $50 million during the acquired person's most recent fiscal year.

(b) Where the foreign assets being acquired exceed the threshold in paragraph (a) of this section, the acquisition nevertheless shall be exempt where:

(1) Both acquiring and acquired persons are foreign;

(2) The aggregate sales of the acquiring and acquired persons in or into the United States are less than $110 million in their respective most recent fiscal years;

(3) The aggregate total assets of the acquiring and acquired persons located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) are less than $110 million; and

(4) The transaction does not meet the criteria of Section 7A(a)(2)(A).

Example to § 802.50:

1. Assume that "A" and "B" are both U.S. persons. "A" proposes selling to "B" a manufacturing plant located abroad. Sales in or into the United States attributable to the plant totaled $13 million in the most recent fiscal year. The transaction is exempt under this paragraph (a) of this section.

2. Sixty days after the transaction in example 1, "A" proposes to sell to "B" a second manufacturing plant located abroad; sales in or into the United States attributable to this plant totaled $38 million in the most recent fiscal year. Since "B" would be acquiring the second plant within 180 days of the first plant, both plants would be considered assets of "A" held by "B" as a result of the second acquisition (see § 801.13(b)(2) of this chapter). Since the total sales in or into the United States exceed $50 million, the acquisition of the second plant would not be exempt under this paragraph (a) of this section.

3. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States of $200 million. If "A" acquires only foreign assets of "B," and if those assets generated $50 million or less in sales in or into the United States, the transaction is exempt.

4. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States and assets located in the United States of less than $100 million. If "A" acquires only foreign assets of "B", and those assets generated in excess of $50 million in sales in or into the United States during the most recent fiscal year, the transaction is exempt from reporting if the assets are valued at $200 million or less, but is reportable if valued at greater than $200 million.

11. Revise § 802.51 to read as follows:

§ 802.51 Acquisitions of voting securities of a foreign issuer.

(a) By U.S. persons. (1) The acquisition of voting securities of a foreign issuer by a U.S. person shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the issuer (including all entities controlled by the issuer) either: holds assets located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) having an aggregate total value of over $50 million; or made aggregate sales in or into the United States of over $50 million in its most recent fiscal year.

(2) If interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether either $50 million threshold is exceeded.

(b) By foreign persons. (1) The acquisition of voting securities of a foreign issuer by a foreign person shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the acquisition will confer control of the issuer and the issuer (including all entities controlled by the issuer) either: holds assets located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) having an aggregate total value of over $50 million; or made aggregate sales in or into the United States of over $50 million in its most recent fiscal year.

(2) If controlling interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether either $50 million threshold is exceeded.

(c) Where a foreign issuer whose securities are being acquired exceeds the threshold in paragraph (b)(1) of this section, the acquisition nevertheless shall be exempt where:

(1) Both acquiring and acquired persons are foreign;

(2) The aggregate sales of the acquiring and acquired persons in or into the United States are less than $110 million in their respective most recent fiscal years;

(3) The aggregate total assets of the acquiring and acquired persons located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) are less than $110 million; and

(4) The transaction does not meet the criteria of Section 7A(a)(2)(A).

Example to § 802.51 1. "A," a U.S. person, is to acquire the voting securities of C, a foreign issuer. C has no assets in the United States, but made aggregate sales into the United States of $77 million in the most recent fiscal year. The transaction is not exempt under this section.

2. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States of $200 million, and that "A" is acquiring 100% of the voting securities of "B." Included within "B" is U.S. issuer C, whose total U.S. assets are valued at $161 million. Since "A" will be acquiring control of an issuer, C, with total U.S. assets of more than $50 million, and the parties' aggregate sales in or into the U.S. in the relevant time period exceed $110 million, the acquisition is not exempt under this section.

3. "A," a foreign person, intends to acquire 100 percent of the voting securities of two wholly owned subsidiaries of "B" for a total of $65 million. BSUB1 is a foreign issuer with $10 million in sales into the U.S. in its most recent fiscal year and with assets of $10 million located in the U.S. $20 million of the acquisition price has been allocated to BSUB1. BSUB2 is a U.S. issuer with $60 million in U.S. sales and $60 million in assets located in the U.S. The remaining $45 million of the acquisition price is allocated to BSUB2. Since BSUB1 does not exceed the $50 million limitation for U.S. sales or assets in § 802.51(b), its voting securities are not held as a result of the acquisition (see § 801.15(b) of this chapter). Since the acquisition price for BSUB2 alone would not result in "A" holding in excess of $50 million of voting securities of the acquired person, the transaction is non-reportable in its entirety. Note that the U.S. sales and assets of BSUB1 are not aggregated with those of BSUB2 for purposes of determining whether the limitations in paragraph (b) of this section are exceeded. If BSUB2 were also a foreign issuer, such aggregation would be required under paragraph (b)(3) of this section, and the transaction in its entirety would be reportable.

12. Amend § 802.52 by revising the Example to read as follows:

§ 802.52 Acquisitions by or from foreign governmental agencies.

* * * * *

Example: The government of foreign country X has decided to sell assets of its wholly owned corporation, B, all of which are located in foreign country X. The buyer is "A," a U.S. person. Regardless of the aggregate sales in or into the United States attributable to the assets of B, the transaction is exempt under this section. (If such aggregate sales were $50 million or less, the transaction would also be exempt under § 802.50.)

By direction of the Commission.

Secretary.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

16 CFR Part 802

Premerger Notification; Reporting and Waiting Period Requirements

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Trade Commission is amending the premerger notification rules, which require the parties to certain mergers or acquisitions to file reports with the Commission and with the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice and to wait a specified period of time before consummating such transactions, pursuant to section 7A of the Clayton Act. The filing and waiting period requirements enable these enforcement agencies to determine whether a proposed merger or acquisition may violate the antitrust laws if consummated and, when appropriate, to seek a preliminary injunction in federal court to prevent consummation. This rule amendment is necessary to address public comments regarding a previously published interim rule provision, and will increase the clarity and improve the effectiveness of the rule.

EFFECTIVE DATES: This final rule is effective on March 18, 2002 and will be applied retroactively to February 2, 2002, as explained in SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Marian R. Bruno, Assistant Director, Karen E. Berg, Attorney, or B. Michael

Verne, Compliance Specialist, Premerger Notification Office, Bureau of Competition, Room 303, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20580. Telephone: (202) 326-3100.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 1, 2001, the Commission published in the Federal Register and sought comment on Interim and Proposed Rules to amend the Hart-Scott-Rodino rules ("HSR rules") contained in 16 CFR parts 801, 802 and 803. See 66 FR 8679-8721. The Interim Rules took effect upon publication and implemented amendments to Section 7A of the Clayton Act enacted on December 21, 2000 ("2000 Amendments"). The Commission has decided that it needs more time to consider whether to make the Interim Rules final. A primary focus of this analysis is whether the Commission should make final the dollar-based reporting thresholds that were newly introduced by the Interim Rules. In light of the public comments, however, the Commission has determined to make final at this time an amendment to interim § 802.21(b), containing a transitional filing rule that was scheduled to expire on February 1, 2002, as explained below.

Background

Interim § 802.21 (Acquisitions of voting securities not meeting or exceeding greater notification threshold) contained paragraph (b), which addressed acquisitions of voting securities up to the next notification threshold by "transitional" filers, i.e., acquiring persons who filed using the 1978 notification thresholds and who have met or crossed the threshold for which they filed within a year of the waiting period's expiration, but whose five-year period for making additional acquisitions under § 802.21(a) had not expired as of February 1, 2001 (the effective date of the 2000 Amendments).

Section 802.21(b), as published in the Interim Rules, allowed these transitional filers until February 1, 2002 (one year from the effective date of the 2000 Amendments) to acquire up to what was the next reporting threshold at the time that they filed, and permitted them to do so without filing another notification, even though they might cross a new 2001 threshold. Thereafter, these acquiring persons, along with any other acquiring persons filing on or after February 1, 2001, were required to observe the 2001 thresholds contained in § 801.1(h). Interim § 802.21(b) was an effort to strike a balance between the reliance of transitional filers on rules that were in effect when they filed, and minimizing the agency's burden of administering two different sets of notification thresholds after February 1, 2001.

The Commission received five comments on this transition rule.¹ Comment 3 stated that any burden imposed on the Commission in maintaining two sets of thresholds is vastly outweighed by the burden on the parties who are required to prepare filings and pay additional filing fees, and the burden on the agencies in reviewing these additional filings, which were previously exempt for up to an additional four years. Comment 8 similarly claimed that the burden to the parties would outweigh the burden on the Commission and also expressed concern that the short notice prior to effecting the rule was unfair to parties who had filed recently with the good faith expectation that they would have five years to acquire additional securities. Comment 9 suggested that the transition rule remain unchanged, but that the full five-year period should be extended to acquisitions where a filing was made for an acquisition valued in excess of a 2001 threshold and the subsequent acquisition would not cross another 2001 threshold. For example, if "A" acquired $60 million of B's voting securities and filed indicating the $15 million notification threshold, "A" should be able to acquire up to $100 million of B's voting securities during the five-year period without a new filing. Comments 13 and 15 recommended elimination of the transition rule as an adjunct to restoring intermediate percentage notification thresholds.

The Commission agrees that any burden in administering two sets of notification thresholds for five years may well be outweighed by the burden to transitional filers. Therefore, the final rule restores to parties who filed prior to February 1, 2001, the full five-year period following expiration of the waiting period to acquire up to the next notification threshold that was in effect at the time of filing. With this modification, the change suggested by Comment 9 becomes unnecessary.

Administrative Procedure Act

The Commission has previously solicited public comment on this rule

provision. Since the Commission believes that this final rule adequately addresses the commenters' concerns, the Commission finds that further public comment is unnecessary. See 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(3). Although the Commission believes this rule is strictly procedural in nature, to the extent, if any, that it is substantive, the Commission believes it grants or recognizes an exemption and relieves a restriction that would have taken effect upon expiration of the time period that was set forth in interim § 802.21(b). See 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B). Accordingly, the Commission is adopting this rule as final and effective upon publication and will apply it retroactively to February 2, 2002, in order to ensure the continuity and clarity of the filing procedures that apply to transitional filers, as explained above.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-612, requires that the agency conduct an initial and final regulatory analysis of the anticipated economic impact of the proposed amendments on small businesses, except where the agency head certifies that the regulatory action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. 5 U.S.C. 605.

Because of the size of the transactions necessary to invoke a Hart-Scott-Rodino filing, the premerger notification rules rarely, if ever, affect small businesses. Further, this rule amendment does not expand the coverage of the premerger notification rules in a way that would affect small business. Accordingly, the Commission certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This document serves as the required notice of this certification to the Small Business Administration.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 ("PRA"), 44 U.S.C. 3501-3518, requires agencies to submit requirements for "collections of information" to the Office of Management and Budget ("OMB") and obtain clearance prior to instituting them. Such collections of information include reporting, recordkeeping, or disclosure requirements contained in regulations. The HSR premerger notification rules and Form contain information collection requirements as defined by the PRA that have been reviewed and approved by OMB under OMB Control No. 3084-0005. This final rule implements amendments to section 7A of the Clayton Act, which reduces the burden of the premerger reporting program by exempting all transactions valued at $50 million or less. Because this final rule does not affect the information collection requirements of the premerger notification program as implemented by the interim rules, it has not been resubmitted to OMB under the PRA for review.

List of Subjects in 16 CFR Part 802

Antitrust, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the preamble, the Federal Trade Commission amends 16 CFR part 802 as follows:

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES

1. The authority citation for part 802 continues to read:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

2. Amend § 802.21 by revising the text of paragraph (b) preceding the examples; by removing example 2; by redesignating examples 3 and 4 as examples 2 and 3 respectively; and by revising examples 1 and newly redesignated examples 2 and 3 to read as follows:

§ 802.21 Acquisitions of voting securities not meeting or exceeding greater notification threshold.

(b) Year 2001 transition. For transactions filed using the 1978 thresholds where the waiting period expired after February 1, 1996, an acquiring person may, during the five-year period following expiration of the waiting period, acquire up to what was the next percentage threshold at the time it made its filing without filing another notification, even if in doing so it crosses a 2001 notification threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter. However, after the end of that period, any additional acquisition will be the subject of a new notification if it meets or exceeds a 2001 threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter.

Examples: 1. Corporation A filed to acquire 20 percent of the voting securities of corporation B and indicated the 15 percent threshold. The waiting period expired on October 3, 1999. "A" acquired the 20 percent within the year following expiration of the waiting period. "A" has until October 3, 2004, to acquire additional securities up to 25 percent of "B"'s voting securities, and need not make another filing before doing so, even though such acquisition by "A" may cross the $50 million, $100 million or $500 million notification threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter. After October 3, 2004, "A" and "B" must observe the 2001 notification thresholds set forth in § 801.1(h) of this chapter.

2. Prior to February 1, 2001, "A" filed to acquire 12 percent of the voting securities of corporation B, valued at $120 million, and indicated the $15 million notification threshold. After February 1, 2001, "A" determines that it will make an additional acquisition which will result in its holding 16 percent of the voting securities of B, valued at $160 million. "A" is required to file notification at the $100 million notification threshold prior to making the acquisition since it is now crossing the next higher 1978 threshold (15 percent).

3. Prior to February 1, 2001, "A" filed to acquire 26 percent of the voting securities of "B" and indicated the 25 percent notification threshold. After the end of the five-year period following expiration of the waiting period, "A" will acquire additional shares of "B" which will result in its holding 30 percent of the voting securities of "B", valued at $125 million. "A" is required to file notification at the $100 million notification threshold prior to making the acquisition. "A" could, however, have reached this level (30 percent valued at $125 million) prior to the end of the five-year period without making an additional filing since it would not have crossed the next higher threshold at the time it filed (50 percent) and the acquisition would have been exempted by this § 802.21(b).

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

18 CFR Part 284

[Docket No. RM96-1-019;
Order No. 587-N]

Issued March 11, 2002.

AGENCY: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations governing standards for interstate pipeline business operations and communications to require that pipelines permit releasing shippers, as a condition of a capacity release, to recall released capacity and renominate such recalled capacity at each nomination opportunity. Recalls of released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to rescheduled any bumped volumes, which is similar to the protection afforded interruptible shippers. This rule creates greater flexibility for firm capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The rule also will enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released and creating greater parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service.

DATES: 1. The rule becomes effective April 17, 2002.

2. Pipelines must make tariff filings by May 1, 2002, to become effective by July 1, 2002, to provide shippers with the ability to recall scheduled and unscheduled capacity at the Timely and Evening Nomination cycles and to recall unscheduled capacity at the two other standard nomination times.

3. Comments are to be filed by the North American Energy Standards Board and others by October 1, 2002, regarding standards for implementing partial day or flowing day recalls. Reply comments must be filed by October 15, 2002.

[Docket No. RM96–1–019; Order No. 587–N]

Issued March 11, 2002.

1. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) is amending § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its open access regulations to require that interstate pipelines permit releasing shippers to recall released capacity and renominate that recalled capacity at any of the scheduling opportunities provided by interstate pipelines. Recalls of released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to rescheduled any bumped volumes, which is similar to the protection afforded interruptible shippers. This rule creates greater flexibility for firm capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The rule also will enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released and creating greater parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service.

2. Background

3. In Order No. 636, the Commission adopted regulations permitting shippers (releasing shippers) to release their capacity to other shippers (replacement shippers).¹ Under these regulations, releasing shippers were permitted to "release their capacity in whole or in part, on a permanent or short-term basis, without restriction on the terms and conditions of the release."² The regulation permits releasing shippers to impose terms for a release transaction under which the releasing shipper reserves the right to recall that capacity to use the capacity itself. As an example, a shipper might include a recall condition in the event that temperature drops below a pre-determined level.³

4. In July 1996, in Order No. 587,⁴ the Commission incorporated by reference consensus standards approved by the Gas Industry Standards Board (now the North American Energy Standards Board (NAESB))⁵ designed to standardize business practices and communication protocols of interstate pipelines in order to create a more integrated and efficient pipeline grid. NAESB is a private, consensus standards developer whose wholesale natural gas standards are developed by representatives from all segments of the natural gas industry.

5. One aspect of NAESB's standards adopted in Order No. 587 covered capacity release transactions. Of relevance here, two standards, 5.3.6 and 5.3.7, apply to recalls of capacity release transactions.

Standard 5.3.6: If the releasing shipper wishes to recall capacity to be effective for a gas day, the notice should be provided to the transportation service provider and the acquiring shipper no later than 8 a.m. Central Clock Time on nomination day.⁶

Standard 5.3.7: There should be no partial day recalls of capacity. Transportation service providers should support the function of reupping by releasing shippers.⁷

In this context, a partial day recall (also referred to as a flowing gas recalls)⁸ refers to a recall condition that applies only to part of gas day, rather than the full gas day.⁹

6. In 1996, when NAESB first adopted these standards, NAESB's standards provided for one nomination, at 11:30 a.m. CCT¹⁰ for the next gas day and only one intra-day nomination at an indeterminate time. In order to create a more standardized intra-day nomination schedule,¹¹ NAESB amended its standards to provide for three standardized intra-day nomination opportunities: an Evening nomination at 6 p.m. CCT to take effect at 9 a.m. CCT the next gas day, an Intra-Day 1 nomination at 10 a.m. CCT to take effect at 5 p.m. CCT on the same gas day, and an Intra-Day 2 nomination at 5 p.m. CCT to take effect at 9 p.m. CCT on the same gas day.¹²

	Nomination deadline	Effective time
Timely Nomination	11:30 a.m.	9 a.m. next gas day.
Evening Nomination	6 p.m.	9 a.m. next gas day.
Intra-Day 1	10 a.m.	5 p.m. same gas day.
Intra-Day 2	5 p.m.	9 p.m. same gas day.

⁵ The Commission is revising § 284.12 to reflect the name change. The Commission finds good cause for making such a change without notice and comment since the change is purely administrative. See 5 U.S.C. § 553(b)(A)&(B).

⁷ 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(v) (2001), Capacity Release Related Standard 5.3.7.

⁸ Gulf South, in its comments, contends that the term "partial day recall" is somewhat of a misnomer, and that the more apt term is "flowing day recall." It states that the term partial day recall suggests the recall is for a specified portion of gas day when, in fact, the standard refers only to whether the recall occurs after gas has begun to flow. In this rule, the terms "partial day recall" and "flowing day recall" are used interchangeably to refer to recalls occurring during a gas day after gas has begun to flow, not to recalls between specified times.

¹⁰ CCT refers to Central Clock Time, which includes an adjustment for day light savings time. See 18 CFR § 284.12(b)(1)(i), Nominations Related Standards 1.3.1.

¹² 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(i) (2001), Nominations Related Standard 1.3.2.

NAESB, however, has not amended its capacity release recall standards to take into account its adoption of these standardized intra-day nomination opportunities.

7. In Order No. 637, the Commission adopted § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its regulations which requires interstate pipelines to "permit shippers acquiring released capacity to submit a nomination at the earliest available nomination opportunity after the acquisition of capacity."¹³ The purpose of this regulatory change was to permit capacity release transactions to take place on an intra-day basis so that released capacity can compete with pipeline capacity on a comparable basis.¹⁴ The adoption of § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) permits shippers to acquire released capacity and nominate using that capacity at any of the four intra-day nomination opportunities.¹⁵

8. On February 1, 2001, NAESB filed a report with the Commission, in Docket No. RM98-10-000, concerning its development of standards regarding partial day recalls of capacity. According to NAESB, some members believed that partial day recalls fell within the purview of the scheduling equality requirements of Order No. 637, while others did not. Some members, NAESB asserts, believed that partial day recalls are a valid business practice, irrespective of whether this practice is required by Order No. 637. Due to these disagreements, NAESB reports it has been unable to reach consensus on how to proceed.

9. On March 16, 2001, AGA filed a "Reply to February 1, 2001, Gas Industry Standards Board Report and Petition for Clarification and Directive from FERC Regarding Requirement for Capacity Release Scheduling Equality." AGA argued that the Commission should require pipelines to allow partial day recalls as part of their compliance with § 284.12(c)(1)(ii).

10. On October 12, 2001, the Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NOPR)¹⁶ proposing to require pipelines to afford releasing shippers enhanced ability to recall released capacity by permitting them to use partial day recalls at any of the four nomination opportunities established by the NAESB standards.

11. Comments

12. Twenty-eight comments on the NOPR were filed.¹⁷ The comments can roughly be divided into three categories: those that supported the proposal, those that either supported or did not object to the proposal, but sought clarifications principally regarding implementation details, and those opposing the proposal. The majority of comments support the proposal.¹⁸ They contend it would provide greater flexibility to releasing shippers, enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released, and better accommodate retail unbundling programs at the state level.¹⁹ The local distribution companies (LDCs) maintain that under state unbundling mechanisms, they are frequently the suppliers of last resort and, therefore, need to recall capacity in the event marketers fail to deliver.

13. Those opposing the proposal²⁰ contend it would decrease the reliability of the pipeline grid by reducing (bumping) volumes of already scheduled gas and thereby reduce liquidity. They maintain that partial day recalls will reduce reliability because bumping a replacement shipper's scheduled volumes may affect scheduling on a number of pipelines, and bumped replacement shippers will be forced to try and reschedule their gas. Those opposing the proposal also are concerned partial day recalls will reduce the value of released capacity and create less competition between pipeline firm capacity and capacity release. NiSource maintains that partial day recalls may decrease reliability for LDCs that permit marketers (using other LDCs' released capacity) to bring capacity to their city-gates by permitting a diversion of gas from one LDC market to another.

14. A number of comments raise operational issues relating principally to partial or flowing day recalls occurring during the gas day after capacity has begun to flow. These include: the need for advance notice to pipelines and replacement shippers of capacity to be recalled, and whether the pipeline or releasing shipper should provide the notice;²¹ allocating capacity as well as imbalances and penalties between releasing and replacement shippers when recalls take place during the gas day;²² and ensuring that total volumes delivered do not exceed original contract MDQ.²³ Some comments suggest the Commission convene a technical conference to address these issues.²⁴

16. Overview

17. The Commission is revising § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its regulations to require pipelines to permit recalls of capacity at each nomination opportunity. Specifically, the Commission is requiring pipelines to permit releasing shippers, as a condition of a capacity release, to recall released capacity and renominate such recalled capacity at each nomination opportunity according to the notice and bumping provisions applicable to interruptible shippers.²⁵ Recalls of ²² See Comments by Algonquin/Texas Eastern; Dynegy; Gulf South; ENA; INGAA; Kinder-Morgan; NiSource; Williston. As an example, a replacement shipper with capacity of 2400 Dth/day could nominate the entire 2400 Dth for the full gas day, but take 1200 Dth in the first five hours of the day, leaving only 1200 Dth remaining for the remainder of the gas day. If a releasing shipper sought to recall the full 2400 Dth at the Intra-Day 1 cycle taking, which would take effect at 5 p.m., the issue raised by the comments are how to allocate the 2400 Dth between the releasing and replacement shippers and how to determine imbalances and potential penalties. Williston also raises the issue of how to perform such an allocation when there are multiple capacity releases: e.g., a releasing shipper releases capacity to a single replacement shipper who releases that capacity to three other replacement shippers. If the initial releasing shipper recalls, the capacity, Williston requests clarification as to how the remaining daily quantity should be allocated among the three final replacement shippers.

The proposed rules would provide firm capacity holders, including the Xcel Energy utility operating companies, with increased flexibility in structuring capacity release transactions to best fit their business needs. The Xcel Energy utility operating companies could benefit from the potential increase in value of non-recallable capacity release and from the greater flexibility when a recall is necessary.

released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to reschedule any bumped volumes.²⁶

18. The regulations adopted in this rule will be implemented in two phases. This two-phase approach will ensure an expeditious implementation of partial day recalls for recalls that do not raise the operational details addressed in the comments, while at the same time providing time for NAESB to further consider standards to address the operational issues raised. By May 1, 2002, each pipeline will be required to make a compliance filing, to be effective July 1, 2002, that will permit shippers to recall capacity at both the Timely Nomination cycle and the Evening Nomination Cycle and to recall capacity at any nomination time if the capacity has not been previously scheduled by the replacement shipper. To ease the compliance and review process, the Commission is establishing a standard tariff provision providing a notification schedule for these recalls.

19. Second, the Commission will provide NAESB six months in which to develop standards to apply to the operational details involved in allowing partial or flowing day recalls. NAESB should file a report with the Commission by October 1, 2002, detailing the standards it has adopted (or those it has considered) and all other material relevant to its consideration of such standards. Other industry members can also submit comments by October 1, 2002, and will have an additional 15 days from the filing of the NAESB information to file additional comments on the NAESB report. Upon the receipt of these comments, the Commission will issue a further order regarding implementation of Intra-Day 1 recalls.

20. Regulatory Changes

21. The regulations adopted in this rule will ensure consistency with the original intent of the Commission's capacity release regulations by providing releasing shippers with the flexibility to structure capacity release transactions that best fit their business needs, by providing greater incentives for releasing shippers to release capacity, and by fostering greater competition for pipeline capacity by creating parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service. At the same time, the regulations will afford replacement shippers whose capacity is recalled the same advance notice and protection from bumping as provided to interruptible shippers under the Commission's regulations.

22. In Order No. 636, the Commission established the capacity release mechanism to create competition with pipeline firm and interruptible transportation.²⁷ One of the fundamental tenets of the Commission's capacity release regulations is that releasing shippers have the opportunity to establish any recall conditions for their capacity.

23. When NAESB first considered recall standards, it established one notification time for all recalls (8 a.m. CCT) and did not permit partial or flowing day recalls. When NAESB adopted this standard, however, the standards provided for only one nomination a day, at 11:30 a.m. CCT and a single non-standardized intra-day nomination. But the circumstances under which the recall standards were developed have markedly changed as the number of nomination opportunities have now expanded to four nomination opportunities. At the same time, it is apparent from the comments in this rulemaking that the consensus supporting NAESB's existing recall standards no longer exists, and NAESB itself has recognized that it can no longer make progress in resolving this issue. Although the Commission places great reliance on NAESB's development of consensus standards,²⁸ the Commission has found it necessary to resolve disputes between industry segments when NAESB has been unable to reach consensus on issues concerning Commission policy, so that the standards development process can proceed in line with Commission policies.²⁹ In these circumstances

(where consensus no longer exists on recall standards), the Commission must resolve the policy issue over whether to permit greater recall flexibility.

24. An examination of both past and current Commission policy supports allowing releasing shippers to recall capacity more frequently than currently permitted under NAESB's standards.

25. The Commission's general policy adopted in Order No. 636 would permit more extensive recall rights than those permitted by the NAESB standards. Section 284.8(b) of the Commission's regulations (adopted in Order No. 636) expressly permits shippers to "release their capacity in whole or in part, on a permanent or short-term basis, without restriction on the terms and conditions of the release."³⁰ In Order No. 636-A, the Commission recognized that "a releasing shipper may include terms and conditions, such as recall rights, that will ensure it has adequate peak day capacity."³¹ In Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, for example, the Commission rejected a pipeline's proposed restriction on recall rights, stating "any provision relating to recall rights must not operate to impede the ability of releasing shippers to employ recall provisions as terms and conditions of their releases."³² Thus, all recall conditions, including partial day recalls are consistent with the Commission's regulations.

26. Moreover, in Order No. 637, the Commission sought to create greater scheduling parity between capacity release transactions and pipeline services by enabling capacity release transactions to take place on an intra-day basis at each of the four scheduling opportunities.³³ While this regulatory change will enable shippers to release capacity at any nomination opportunity, the existing NAESB recall standards do not permit releasing shippers to take full advantage of the intra-day nomination opportunities by recalling the capacity and renominating that capacity at each of the four scheduling opportunities. Allowing partial day recalls is, therefore, consistent with the overall regulatory changes promulgated in Order Nos. 636 and 637.

of capacity). The Commission is retaining the portion of Standard 5.3.7 that requires transportation service providers to "support the function of repurchasing by releasing shippers." Repurchasing refers to the ability of a releasing shipper to include a condition in a release under which it can recall capacity when needed and, after the recall has ended, the capacity will revert (be repurchased) to the replacement shipper, without the need for a new release.

³³ 18 CFR 284.12(c)(1)(ii) (2001) (permitting shippers acquiring released capacity to submit a nomination at the earliest available nomination opportunity after the acquisition of capacity).

27. Policy considerations further support enhanced recall rights. Permitting enhanced recall rights will provide firm shippers with added flexibility and will better enable releasing shippers to offer released capacity that competes with the pipelines' interruptible service. The current NAESB standards inhibit the ability of shippers to release capacity because releasing shippers cannot quickly reclaim capacity when they require it for their own use. For example, under the current NAESB standards, in order to recall capacity for the next gas day, a shipper must notify the pipeline by 8 a.m. the day before the recall can take effect and cannot use partial or flowing day recalls. By establishing an 8 a.m. deadline for recall notifications, the standard effectively precludes a releasing shipper from recalling capacity at the Evening Nomination cycle. In fact, a shipper that misses the 8:00 a.m. CCT recall notification time will miss four nomination opportunities and will be unable to have its volume flow until 48 hours after it submits the recall notification.³⁴

28. As a result of such lengthy delays, releasing shippers may not be able to use their recall rights as effectively as possible to ensure that they can retain adequate peak day capacity for their own needs. The delay in rescheduling recalled capacity also can have an adverse competitive impact on the market by reducing the amount of capacity available for release. As AGA points out, if an LDC is a provider of last resort under a state unbundling initiative and is given notice that insufficient supply is being delivered to its city-gate, the LDC will need to recall released capacity for later in the same day or, at least, for the next day. Without the ability to recall capacity more frequently, a releasing shipper with supplier-of-last-resort obligations will be reluctant to release capacity at all since it will not be able to recall that capacity when it is needed. In that event, replacement shippers will have less capacity from which to choose and will have fewer alternatives to purchasing pipeline interruptible service.

29. Replacement shippers benefit from having a more open and competitive capacity market, with more capacity available to compete with pipeline interruptible transportation. As APS/PWEC states, "as a captive shipper on a fully subscribed pipeline, APS/PWEC supports any initiative that would free up excess capacity (even in the short run)." ³⁵ Replacement shippers will not be required to purchase released capacity with partial day recalls, but will be able to choose the capacity with terms that best fits their needs. Releasing shippers will be able to release capacity without a partial day recall condition and will have an incentive to do so, because a release not subject to recall will be more valuable (and higher priced) than a release subject to recall. Replacement shippers will know the terms of releases upfront and can determine whether to purchase callable capacity or seek more reliable capacity, and can take the recall conditions into account in determining how much the capacity is worth.

30. Under the regulations adopted in this rule, the releasing shipper will be able to recall unscheduled capacity at any of the four nomination cycles and can recall scheduled capacity so long as the replacement shipper has an opportunity to reschedule its gas. The replacement shipper will receive protection against loss of service similar to that interruptible shippers currently receive.

31. In Order No. 587-G, the Commission adopted a regulation stating that when an interruptible shipper's volumes are to be reduced as a result of a nomination by a firm shipper, the interruptible shipper must be provided with advanced notice of such reduction and must be notified whether penalties will apply on the day its volumes are reduced.³⁶ The Commission further determined that interruptible shippers could be bumped by firm intra-day nominations at the first three nomination opportunities, but could not be bumped at the third intra-day nomination opportunity (5 p.m. CCT) since they would not have an opportunity to reschedule their gas for that gas day. The Commission provided this protection against bumping to provide stability in the nomination system, so that shippers can be confident by late afternoon that they will receive their scheduled flows.³⁷

32. This rationale applies equally to replacement shippers, which, under the regulations adopted in this rule, must be given advance notification of any recall and cannot have scheduled volumes reduced unless they have been given an opportunity to reschedule their gas. In addition, the Commission required pipelines to waive certain non-critical penalties for bumped interruptible shippers, and the same penalty waiver will be applied to bumped replacement shippers.³⁸

33. The Commission recognizes that implementation of recalls at the Intra-Day 1 and 2 cycles can affect flowing gas and, as the comments point out, result in the need to allocate daily nominations (and potentially penalties) between releasing and replacement shippers. But these issues are not insurmountable and should not prevent implementation of partial day recalls. Some pipelines already have implemented partial day recalls on their systems.³⁹ Rather than having pipelines implement partial day recalls based on their own distinct processes for handling allocation and other operational issues, the Commission is providing an opportunity for NAESB to reach consensus on a set of standards that can be applied to all partial day recalls. Therefore, the Commission will postpone implementation of partial or flowing day recalls of scheduled gas at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 cycles, and provide NAESB with six months to develop standards governing recalls at these cycles that affect flowing gas. At the end of this period, NAESB should file with the Commission the standards it has developed or, if it is unable to reach consensus, a report outlining the standards considered, the voting records with regard to these standards, and the reasons for its inability to reach consensus. Other industry members can also submit comments and will have an additional 15 days from the filing of the NAESB information to file additional comments on the NAESB report. Since NAESB has already been working on the partial day recall issue, six months should provide a sufficient time period for developing standards. Once the Commission receives the report from NAESB and the comments, it will issue an order establishing the requirements for partial day recalls.

34. The Commission, however, sees no reason for delaying implementation of partial day recalls for the Evening Cycle and for recalls of unscheduled capacity. Recalls in these situations will not present allocation or other operational difficulties for the pipelines. Such recalls do not affect flowing volumes and, therefore, do not result in the need to allocate daily gas supplies between releasing and replacement shippers. In order to provide shippers more flexibility in their use of capacity, the Commission will require pipelines by May 1, 2002, to file tariff sheets, as discussed below, to implement partial day recalls for the Evening Cycle and for unscheduled capacity. These tariff sheets are to become effective by July 1, 2002.

³⁴ A releasing shipper that misses the 8 a.m. CCT notification time cannot renominate that capacity until 11:30 a.m. CCT the next day, a nomination under which gas will not flow until 9:00 a.m. CCT the day after.

35. Schedule for Implementation of Recalls for Evening Nomination Cycle and Unscheduled Capacity

36. The NOPR proposed that no advance notice of recalls would be provided, so that the recall and a renomination of the releasing shipper would be provided at each of the standard nomination cycles. For example, under the proposal in the NOPR, the releasing shipper would notify the pipeline at 6 p.m. CCT (Evening Nomination) that capacity is being recalled and would simultaneously submit a nomination at the same time. The replacement shipper would not be notified of the bump, under this proposal, until the deadline for reporting of scheduled volumes (10 p.m. CCT).

37. A number of comments, however, maintain that recall notices and nominations should not be simultaneous and that pipelines and replacement shippers need advance notice of recalls. Whether to establish an advance notification requirement for recalls, and how that notice should be provided, are issues NAESB needs to consider during its deliberations. The treatment of advance notification can determine whether recalls at the Intra-Day 2 cycle can bump scheduled volumes. If NAESB provides for advance notice of recalls to pipelines and replacement shippers, releasing shippers could be permitted to bump scheduled gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle, since replacement shippers will have sufficient advance notice to reschedule bumped gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.⁴⁰ On the other hand, if advance notice is not provided, then, under this rule, recalls would not be permitted at the Intra-Day 2 cycle since the replacement shipper would not have an opportunity to reschedule its gas.

38. Since the Commission is implementing recalls of scheduled gas at the Evening Nomination cycle and recalls of unscheduled gas at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 cycles, pipelines will need to implement an interim schedule for implementing recalls for these cycles. In order to assure expeditious compliance with these requirements, the Commission is establishing, as discussed below, an interim timeline for recalls and will require each pipeline to include standard tariff language in its tariff providing for such recalls.

39. The fundamental precept of the interim schedule being adopted by the Commission is that releasing shippers must be provided with sufficient time after receipt of scheduled quantities to inform the pipeline of a recall. Releasing shippers, such as LDCs, need to be aware of the scheduled volumes for their systems prior to determining whether they will need to recall capacity. Thus, the advance notification period should give releasing shippers the time to evaluate the scheduled quantities information before having to submit the recall notice.⁴¹ Further, although the Commission is not convinced that the existing 3 1/2 hour advance notice requirement for the Timely Nomination cycle⁴² is necessary, the Commission will permit pipelines to continue to use this notification period for notification of recalls for the Timely Nomination cycle while NAESB considers the schedule for recalls.

40. Based on these precepts, the Commission is establishing the following interim schedule for notification to pipelines and replacement shippers of recalls of capacity at the Evening Nomination cycle and for recalls of unscheduled capacity.

Nomination cycle (all times in CCT)	Receipt of scheduled volumes (from prior nomination cycle)	Recall notification to pipeline	Pipeline notification to replacement shipper of recall	Nomination time (same day)
Timely	NA	8 a.m.	9 a.m.	11:30 a.m.
Evening	4:30 p.m. same day	5 p.m.	6 p.m.	6 p.m.
Intra-Day 1	10 p.m. CCT prior day	8 a.m.	9 a.m.	10 a.m.
Intra-Day 2	2 p.m. same day	3 p.m.	4 p.m.	5 p.m.

41. To ease the compliance and review burden on both pipelines and shippers, each pipeline is required to file standard tariff language to implement such recalls stating the following:

Releasing shippers may, to the extent permitted as a condition of the capacity release, recall released capacity (scheduled or unscheduled) at the Timely Nomination cycle and the Evening Nomination cycle, and recall unscheduled released capacity at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 Nomination cycles by providing notice to the Transporter by the following times for each cycle: 8 a.m. CCT for the Timely Nomination cycle; 5:00 p.m. CCT for the Evening Nomination Cycle; 8 a.m. CCT for the Intra-Day 1 Nomination cycle, and 3:00 p.m. for the Intra-Day 2 Nomination cycle. Notification to replacement shippers provided by Transporter within one hour of receipt of recall notification.

The Commission will revisit this schedule after NAESB has had an opportunity to develop standardized timelines for partial day recalls.

42. The Commission will address below those comments opposing or suggesting changes in the regulation or requesting clarification. Comments addressing procedural issues will not be addressed since NAESB will be considering those issues.

⁴⁰ If advance notice of recalls is provided, the bumping rules for recalled capacity may not need to be identical to those for interruptible shippers. Interruptible shippers cannot be bumped at the Intra-Day 2 cycle because, under current NAESB standards, they are not provided with advance notice of the bump and so cannot renominate at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(1), Nominations Related Standards 1.3.2 (Intra-Day 2 nomination is received at 5 p.m. CCT with no advance notice to interruptible shippers of volumes to be bumped). In contrast, if advance notice of recalls is provided to replacement shippers, their scheduled capacity can be recalled at the Intra-Day 2 cycle because the replacement shipper will have sufficient notice to renominate at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

⁴¹ For example, under the Timely Nomination cycle, scheduled volumes are provided at 4:30 p.m.

Releasing shippers need sufficient time to evaluate this information before determining whether to recall capacity for the 6 p.m. Evening Nomination cycle.

⁴² Capacity Release Related Standards 5.3.6 (notice must be given by 8 a.m. CCT for recall effective at the 11:30 a.m. Timely Nomination cycle).

43. Comments on Adoption of Partial Day Recall Requirement

44. Those opposing adoption of a regulation permitting partial day recalls contend that permitting any partial day recalls will operate to diminish the attractiveness of released capacity, and will, therefore, result in limiting competition between pipeline firm and released capacity. They further maintain that allowing partial day recalls will be harmful to replacement shippers, because replacement shippers will be unable to reschedule gas bumped by the partial day recall. DETM contends that, for better or worse, all gas transactions occur for a full gas day, and that this will create difficulties for replacement shippers trying to reschedule gas subject to partial day recalls. DETM further maintains that no data supports the proposition that the availability of partial day recalls will have any measurable impact on the availability of released capacity.

45. Since Order No. 636, the Commission's regulation of released capacity has proceeded from the presumption that the best way to improve access to capacity is to provide both releasing and replacement shippers as much flexibility as possible in structuring their capacity release transactions. In Order No. 637, for instance, the Commission required pipelines to permit releasing and replacement shippers to consummate capacity release transactions at each of the four intra-day nomination opportunities to ensure that replacement shippers could obtain capacity when they need it.⁴³ Similarly, allowing partial day recalls will provide releasing shippers with similar flexibility to structure capacity releases that fit their requirements. Indeed, as the gas market has been developing, shippers want more flexibility, not less, to adjust nominations on an intra-day basis.⁴⁴ Allowing partial day recalls is a step towards the Commission's, as well as the industry's, goal of providing shippers with enhanced scheduling opportunities so that they can adjust their gas nominations to accord with their market needs.⁴⁵

assuming that without partial day recalls, firm shippers will release the same amount of capacity on a full day's basis as they would if partial day recalls are available. However, many of the comments point out that firm shippers that need capacity on short notice are reluctant to release their capacity at all if they are unable to recall that capacity in the event of changed circumstances, such as dropping temperatures or the failure of a marketer to deliver gas.⁴⁶ According to the comments, this is particularly true for LDCs with supplier-of-last-resort obligations that need to be able to recall capacity quickly if marketers fail to provide gas to the LDCs city-gate.⁴⁷ Allowing partial day recalls will remove this disincentive to release capacity, thereby making incremental capacity available and benefitting replacement shippers by providing them with more options, particularly on fully subscribed pipelines.⁴⁸

47. Dynegy, DETM, and EPSA further assert that allowing partial day recalls may make capacity releases subject to such recalls less valuable to replacement shippers. In the first place, as noted above, the commenters are assuming such capacity will be available for release if partial day recall rights were not available to the releasing shipper, an assumption that other comments show is not necessarily correct. Released capacity available subject to partial day recall is certainly more valuable to replacement shippers than not having that capacity available at all.

48. Moreover, if replacement shippers find that released capacity with partial day recalls is too unreliable, they need not purchase that released capacity and can negotiate with the releasing shippers for conditions providing more reliable service. Under the regulations adopted here, releasing shippers are not required to include partial day recalls in their releases. Releasing shippers can release capacity on a full day basis (not subject to partial day recalls) and will have an incentive to do so, because a full day release will be more valuable (and higher priced) than a partial day recall release. The replacement shippers will know the terms of releases upfront and can determine whether to purchase that capacity, negotiate other terms with the releasing shipper, or seek more reliable capacity, and can take the recall conditions into account in determining how much the capacity is worth. In a fully functioning market, buyers and sellers negotiate over the terms of their deals so that the price and other components reflect terms that are mutually agreeable to both parties. Imposing artificial regulatory limits on the negotiating position of one party to the transaction, as proposed by those opposing partial day recalls, is the antithesis of fully functioning markets, and can only create a less efficient marketplace.

49. DETM and Dynegy also contend that permitting partial day recalls will reduce the reliability of the pipeline grid because replacement shippers are subject to losing their capacity and may be unable to reschedule capacity. These arguments are reminiscent of the arguments made in 1998 against allowing firm intra-day nominations to bump interruptible transportation on the grounds that interruptible shippers would have difficulty rescheduling their gas.⁴⁹ In that case, the Commission rejected such claims, finding that:

Firm shippers are paying reservation charges for priority rights and those rights should include the right to have a nomination become effective as early as possible on the gas day following the nomination. Interruptible shippers voluntarily take the risk that their service will be interrupted and while they are entitled to advance notice of such interruption, they should not be able to prevent firm shippers from having their nominations take effect at the earliest possible time. Gas flows on the interstate grid 24-hours a day, and is consumed throughout the day, so interruptible shippers need to be prepared to adjust gas volumes even during non-business hours.⁵⁰

50. In this instance, firm shippers paying reservation charges should similarly have the ability to control the use of their capacity by employing partial day recalls. Shippers purchasing released capacity subject to partial day recalls, like those purchasing interruptible transportation, are taking the risk that their scheduled quantities may be disrupted. As gas markets continue to develop, such adjustments will be increasingly necessary to provide those shippers holding firm

⁴⁶ See Comments of Dominion LDCs, at 4 (partial day recalls "will free up capacity that would otherwise be held by LDCs and other shippers that cannot risk releasing it for an extended period"); Kentucky ("the inability to reschedule recalled capacity will result in the reduction of the amount of capacity available, thereby adversely impacting competition").

51. Moreover, like interruptible shippers, replacement shippers are protected, because bumping of scheduled volumes is only permitted if the replacement shipper has at least one opportunity to reschedule its gas. Replacement shippers also have tools available, such as pooling, gas package identifiers, and ranking, that they can use to manage their gas supplies in the event of a bump.⁵¹

52. WDG maintains that the Commission should not exempt the Intra-Day 2 nomination from a partial day recall. It argues that the replacement shippers have fair notice that their capacity is recallable, and therefore are not prejudiced by having a recall at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

53. The regulation adopted in this rule does not prohibit all recalls at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. Recalls of unscheduled capacity can be made at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. As discussed earlier, NAESB is to consider establishing a notification schedule by which pipelines and replacement shippers are to be notified of recalls. Bumping at the Intra-Day 2 cycle may be permitted depending on whether the replacement shipper is given sufficient time to renominate any bumped gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

54. DETM maintains that the partial day recall issue is not a policy dispute, but a business issue that should be left to NAESB to resolve. It argues that the Commission has historically deferred to the determinations of NAESB on business issues and, therefore, should not overturn the business decision by NAESB to prohibit partial day recalls.

55. The dispute here is not simply a question of business practices, but a question of regulatory policy regarding the relative rights of releasing and replacement shippers under the Commission's capacity release mechanism. Here, the Commission has determined that, under its regulations, releasing shippers should be given full rights to use their capacity flexibly by recalling that capacity on an intra-day basis, and that the contrary NAESB standards should no longer be incorporated by reference.

56. It is true that the Commission gives great weight to the standards adopted by NAESB, because these standards represent a consensus of the industry. In fact, the Commission initially adopted NAESB's consensus standards limiting capacity release recalls, even though the Commission's regulations (§ 284.8 (b)) would have permitted partial day recalls. Now, however, it is clear from the record of deliberations at NAESB, and the comments filed in this proceeding, that the existing NAESB standards on partial day recalls no longer command a consensus of the industry.⁵² At this point, NAESB is stalemated, without being able to achieve a consensus in either direction. Since consensus no longer obtains, the Commission needs to resolve the policy dispute and has determined that allowing partial day recalls is consistent with the Commission's regulations, will provide incentives to release additional capacity, and will foster enhanced competition.

57. Requests for Clarification

58. A number of the comments ask for clarification of aspects of the regulations and the way in which partial day recalls will operate.

59. Applicability of Recall Conditions

60. NiSource maintains the Commission's regulation is vague and seems to imply that all released capacity is subject to partial day recalls. Williams and ENA similarly seek clarification that parties retain the flexibility to decide whether capacity is recallable on an intra-day basis. Williams further seeks clarification that the proposed rule is prospective only and does not affect previous capacity release contracts.

61. The Commission has revised its proposed regulation to make clear that pipelines need only provide releasing shippers with the opportunity to include partial day recalls as a condition in capacity release offers. Whether a partial day recall applies to a capacity release will depend upon the terms of the agreement between the releasing and replacement shipper. Because the terms of the agreement govern, the Commission agrees with Williams that implementation of this regulation is prospective only and will not change the terms of already negotiated capacity release transactions.

⁵² Under NAESB's procedures, a consensus is required to approve standards, but equally a consensus is needed to change or remove a standard. For example, if NAESB's current partial day recall standards (5.3.6 and 5.3.7) were resubmitted for a vote today, the comments make clear that these standards would not command a consensus at NAESB.

62. Schedule for Notification of Recalls for Timely Nomination Cycle and Reputs

63. The Industrials maintain that the Commission should not eliminate NAESB standard 5.3.6 which establishes 8 a.m. CCT as the deadline for notification of a recall applicable to the Timely Nomination cycle (11:30 a.m.). The Industrials are concerned that the elimination of this provision will force all recalls into the intra-day cycles or will mean that recall timing will be left either to the contract between the releasing and replacement shipper or to individual tariff provisions. The Industrials further request that the Commission consider a timeline for notification of reputs (in which recalled capacity reverts to the replacement shipper after a recall ends), or request NAESB to consider this issue.

64. The Commission recognizes that a standard timeline for recall notification is needed and is referring this issue to NAESB for consideration of a new standard. In the interim while NAESB is considering a new standard, the Commission is permitting pipelines to continue to use the notification period in current standard 5.3.6 for the Timely Nomination cycle, and, as described earlier, has established an interim notification schedule for the other nomination cycles. NAESB also should consider whether a schedule or timeline for reput notification is necessary.

65. Penalty Exposure

66. Dynegy and NGSa maintain that partial day recalls should not result in greater penalty exposure for shippers whose capacity has been recalled. As discussed earlier, the Commission in Order No. 587-G required pipelines to waive non-critical penalties for bumped interruptible shippers. Pipelines should apply the same waivers for gas bumped through partial day recalls.

67. Effect on Alternate Points

68. NiSource seeks clarification that partial day recalls will not permit the releasing shipper recalling capacity to change to an alternate point and bump firm capacity that is already scheduled (by a third party) at that point. The recall only permits the releasing shipper to displace gas scheduled by the replacement shipper. The Commission agrees that partial day recalls will not give the recalling shipper any greater scheduling rights vis a vis third parties.

69. Pipelines Offering Non-Standard Nomination Opportunities

70. Dominion requests clarification that pipelines offering more nomination opportunities than the four standard times provided in the NAESB standards, need not offer partial day recall at non-standard nomination times. Dominion maintains that it provides additional nomination times early in the morning (7:45 a.m. CCT) and late in the evening (8:45 p.m.), and states that its staffing, and that of shippers, at these times does not permit processing of recalls. In addition, Dominion contends that other pipelines are not equipped to coordinate recalls at those hours.

71. Pipelines are certainly free to provide for recalls at non-standard nomination periods. However, in implementing recalls during the interim period in which NAESB is considering standards, the Commission will require recalls to be processed only at the standard nomination periods; pipelines need not permit recalls at any non-standard nomination times. In considering standards for partial day recalls, NAESB should consider whether standards should be developed to permit recalls at certain non-standard nomination opportunities.

72. Effect on Already Accepted Partial Day Recall Programs

73. Dominion requests clarification that the final rule does not affect Dominion's settlement in its Order No. 637 proceeding in which it provides partial day recalls at certain nomination opportunities. For example, Dominion states that it currently does not permit recalls at the Intra-Day 1 cycle, although it does not object to permitting such recalls if required by the Commission.

74. All pipelines will be required to conform to the requirements of the Commission regulation, regardless of the terms of previous approved tariffs. The Commission is acting under section 5 of the Natural Gas Act in requiring pipelines to permit releasing shippers to use partial day recalls and is seeking to establish standards to apply to such recalls across the interstate grid. Accordingly, all pipelines with tariffs inconsistent with the Commission's regulation must comply with that regulation. Dominion, for instance, is required, as are the other pipelines, to permit recalls at the Intra-Day 1 cycle (to which it has no objection). Similarly, Dominion is required to permit recalls under the schedule established by the Commission in this rule for the interim period while NAESB is considering standards for partial day recalls, and will be required to comply with subsequent timeline NAESB develops and the Commission adopts.

75. Pipeline Capacity

76. EIP is concerned that partial day recalls are at odds with the NAESB standards requiring that all nominations be for daily quantities. EIP maintains that if partial day recalls are permitted for released capacity, pipelines should be permitted to sell their capacity for less than a full day as well.

77. EIP appears to be suggesting that a partial day recall refers to a sale of capacity for a time period of less than one day, whereas pipelines under the NAESB standards can only sell capacity for a full day's quantity. The Commission is not establishing different standards for pipeline capacity as compared to released capacity. As Gulf South explains in its comments, a partial day recall should not be viewed as a recall for a specific portion (number of hours) of a gas day. Rather, the recall is for a proportionate share of the total contract quantity. For example, if a capacity release is for a contract quantity of 2400 Dth, and the replacement shipper flowed 800 Dth during the first eight hours prior to recall, the releasing shipper would still have a contract quantity of 1600 Dth remaining on the contract for the remainder of the gas day. In the same way, pipelines can sell capacity at each of the intra-day nomination opportunities whenever capacity is available.⁵³

⁵³ Indeed, Commission policy requires pipelines to sell capacity at the maximum tariff rate whenever that capacity is available, including on an intra-day basis. Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, 91 FERC ¶ 61,053, at 61,190 (2000); 18 CFR 284.7 & 284.9 (must sell services without regard to duration of the service).

78. Notice of Use of Voluntary Consensus Standards

Office of Management and Budget Circular A-119 (§ 11) (February 10, 1998) provides that when a federal agency issues or revises a regulation containing a standard, the agency should publish a statement in the final rule identifying whether a voluntary consensus standard or a government-unique standard is being adopted. In this rulemaking, the Commission is issuing its own regulation and rescinding the incorporation by reference of NAESB standard 5.3.6 and part of 5.3.7, because the existing NAESB standard has not been revised to take into account changed circumstances, there is no longer consensus supporting this standard, and the existing standard fails to reflect Commission policy.

79. Information Collection Statement

80. The Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) regulations in 5 CFR 1320.11 require that it approve certain reporting and recordkeeping requirements (collections of information) imposed by an agency. Upon approval of a collection of information, OMB will assign an OMB control number and an expiration date. Respondents subject to the filing requirements of this Rule will not be penalized for failing to respond to these collections of information unless the collections of information display a valid OMB control number.

81. The final rule will affect one existing data collection, FERC-545 "Gas Pipeline Rates: Rate Change (Non-Formal)" (OMB Control No. 1902-0154). The following burden estimates are related only to this rule and include the costs of complying with the tariff filing requirement. Since this final rule will be implemented in two phases, the number of responses per respondent has been increased from one, as proposed in the NOPR, to two because each respondent will need to make two tariff filings, one for phase one and one for phase two.

Data collection	Number of respondents	Number of responses per respondent	Hours per response	Total annual hours
FERC-545	93	2	38	7,068
				FERC-545
Annualized Capital/Startup Costs				$397,714
Annualized Costs (Operations & Maintenance)				0

The cost per respondent is $4,276.00 (rounded off).

82. The Commission sought comments to comply with these requirements. Comments were received from twenty-eight entities. No comments addressed the reporting burden imposed by these requirements. The substantive issues raised by the commenters are addressed within the rule.

83. The Commission's regulations adopted in this rule are necessary to further the process begun in Order No. 587 of creating a more efficient and integrated pipeline grid by standardizing the business practices and electronic communication of interstate pipelines. Adoption of these regulations will update the Commission's regulations relating to business practices and provide greater flexibility for capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The public also benefits by having greater competition across the pipeline grid as a result of firm capacity holders having increased flexibility in structuring their capacity release transactions.

84. The Commission has assured itself, by means of its internal review, that there is specific, objective support for the burden estimates associated with the information requirements. The information required in the Final Rule will help the Commission carry out its responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act and conforms to the Commission's plan for efficient information collection, communication, and management within the natural gas industry.

Interested persons may obtain information on the reporting requirements by contacting the following: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426 [Attention: Michael Miller, Office of the Chief Information Officer, CI-1, (202) 208-1415, or mike.miller@ferc.fed.gov] or the Office of Management and Budget, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Attention: Desk Officer for the

86. Environmental Analysis

87. The Commission is required to prepare an Environmental Assessment or an Environmental Impact Statement for any action that may have a significant adverse effect on the human environment.⁵⁴ The Commission has categorically excluded certain actions from these requirements as not having a significant effect on the human environment.⁵⁵ The regulations adopted in this rule fall within categorical exclusions in the Commission's regulations for rules that are clarifying, corrective, or procedural, for information gathering, analysis, and dissemination, and for sales, exchange, and transportation of natural gas that requires no construction of facilities.⁵⁶ Therefore, an environmental assessment is unnecessary and has not been prepared.

88. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

89. The Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (RFA)⁵⁷ generally requires a description and analysis of final rules that will have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The regulations proposed here impose requirements only on interstate pipelines, which are not small businesses, and, these requirements are, in fact, designed to benefit all customers, including small businesses. Accordingly, pursuant to § 605(b) of the RFA, the Commission hereby certifies that the regulations adopted herein will not have a significant adverse impact on a substantial number of small entities.

95. Implementation Dates

96. As discussed herein, interstate pipelines are required, by May 1, 2002, to make tariff filings, to become effective by July 1, 2002, to comply with the requirement to implement recalls of scheduled and unscheduled capacity for the Timely and Evening Nomination cycles and for recalls of unscheduled capacity. Each tariff filing must include the tariff language set forth at P. 41.

97. By October 1, 2002, NAESB should file comments with the Commission detailing the standards NAESB has adopted relating to partial day recalls or, if none has been adopted, those that were considered, as well as all other material relevant to NAESB's consideration of the standards. Other industry members also can submit comments by October 1, 2002, and will have until October 15, 2002 to file additional comments on the NAESB report.

98. Effective Date

99. These regulations are effective April 17, 2002. The Commission has determined, with the concurrence of the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, that this rule is not a "major rule" as defined in section 351 of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996.

BILLING CODE 6717-01-P

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms

27 CFR Part 4

[T.D. ATF-475; Ref. Notice No. 924]

RIN: 1512-AC29

Addition of New Grape Variety Names for American Wines (2000R-322P)

AGENCY: Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Department of the Treasury.

ACTION: Treasury decision, final rule.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) is adding four new names to the list of prime grape variety names for use in designating American wines: Albariño, Alvarinho, Black Corinth, and Fiano.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Effective May 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jennifer Berry, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Regulations Division, 111 W. Huron Street, Room 219, Buffalo, NY 14202-2301; telephone (716) 434-8039.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Under the Federal Alcohol Administration Act (27 U.S.C. 201 et seq.) (FAA Act), wine labels must provide the consumer with adequate information as to the identity of the product. The FAA Act also requires that the information appearing on wine labels not mislead the consumer.

To help carry out these statutory requirements, ATF has issued regulations, including those that designate grape varieties. Under 27 CFR 4.23(b) and (c), a wine bottler may use a grape variety name as the designation of a wine if at least 75 percent of the wine (51 percent in the case of wine made from Vitis labrusca grapes) is derived from that grape variety. Under § 4.23(d), a bottler may use two or more grape variety names as the designation of a wine if all of the grapes used to make the wine are of the labeled varieties, and the percentage of the wine derived from each variety is shown on the label.

Treasury Decision ATF-370 (61 FR 522), January 8, 1996, adopted a list of grape variety names that ATF determined to be appropriate for use in designating American wines. The list of prime grape names and their synonyms appears at § 4.91, while alternative grape names temporarily authorized for use are listed at § 4.92. We believe the listing of approved grape variety names for American wines will help standardize wine label terminology and prevent consumer confusion.

How May New Varieties Be Added to the List of Prime Grape Names?

Under § 4.93, any interested person may petition ATF to add additional grape varieties to the list of prime grape names. The petitioner should provide evidence of the following:

- Acceptance of the grape variety;
- The validity of the name for identifying the grape variety;
- That the variety is used or will be used in winemaking; and
- That the variety is grown and used in the United States.

Documentation submitted with the petition may include:

- A reference to the publication of the variety's name in a scientific or professional journal of horticulture or a published report by a professional, scientific or winegrowers' organization;
- A reference to a plant patent, if patented; and
- Information about the commercial potential of the variety, such as the acreage planted and its location or market studies.

Section 4.93 also places certain eligibility restrictions on the approval of grape names. We will not approve a name:

- If it has previously been used for a different grape variety;
- If it contains a term or name found to be misleading under § 4.39; or
- If a name of a new grape variety contains the term "Riesling."

The Director will not approve the name of a new grape variety developed in the United States if the name contains words of geographical significance, place names, or foreign words which are misleading under § 4.39.

Notice 924

In Notice 924, published on July 19, 2001, ATF proposed to add the names Albariño, Alvarinho, Black Corinth, and Fiano to the list of approved grape variety names in § 4.91. We based the proposal on the petitions and evidence described below. We received no comments to the notice. Because the petitioners provided sufficient evidence to support the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding the new names to the approved list.

Petitions

Petition for Albariño/Alvarinho

Havens Wine Cellars of Napa, California, petitioned ATF to add "Albariño" to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. Grown for centuries in Spain and Portugal, Albariño, a white Vitis vinifera grape, is relatively new to the United States. In Portugal the grape is called "Alvarinho."

The petitioners stated that Albariño has long been recognized in Europe and in academic communities. As evidence of this, the petitioners submitted the following supporting documents provided by Professor Carole Meredith of the Viticulture and Enology Department at the University of California at Davis (UC Davis):

- European Union Regulation 3201/90: This regulation permits the use of the name "Albariño" on labels of Spanish wines, and the name "Alvarinho" on labels of Portuguese wines.
- Two scientific papers published in the American Journal of Enology and Viticulture: "Effects of Grapevine Leafroll-Associated Virus 3 on the Physiology and Must of Vitis vinifera L. cv. Albariño Following Contamination in the Field," (Vol. 50, 1999) which discusses a study conducted on Albariño grape vines, and "Contribution of Saccharomyces and Non-Saccharomyces Populations to the Production of Some Components of Albariño Wine Aroma," (Vol. 47, 1996) which describes a study conducted on Albariño musts.

- "The Genetic Resources of Vitis": This listing of international grape variety names and synonyms, published in 1988 by the German Federal Grape Breeding Institute, lists Alvarinho as the prime name for the grape varietal with Albariño as a synonym.

- An abstract of an article from the Journal of the American Society for Horticultural Science: "Molecular marker analysis of Vitis vinifera 'Albariño' and some similar grapevine cultivars," published September 1998, describing a DNA analysis conducted on Albariño grapevines.

The petitioner also submitted several wine literature articles from sources such as Wine Spectator and Wine Today, which mention Albariño/Alvarinho wine.

ATF contacted Professor Meredith and asked her if the name "Alvarinho" should be added to the list as a synonym of Albariño. She replied that both names are well established in Europe and are equally valid names for the grape. She stated that because the grape is relatively new to the U.S., she didn't know which name is most commonly used by U.S. winemakers. She noted that UC Davis has an example of the grapevine in its collection and uses the name "Alvarinho", most likely because the plant originally came from Portugal.

Havens Wine Cellar reported that it has 2½ acres of Albariño in production, with the first crop picked in 1999. We also know of two other California wineries and a Virginia winery that are growing Albariño. Since the evidence submitted satisfies the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding Albariño and Alvarinho to the list of prime grape names in § 4.91.

Petition for Black Corinth

Hallcrest Vineyards of Felton, California, petitioned ATF to add the grape variety Black Corinth to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. Black Corinth grapes are widely grown in California, where the vast majority of them are dried into raisins and marketed under the name "Zante Currant."

As evidence of the grape's acceptance and use in California, Hallcrest Vineyards submitted the following statistical reports issued by the State of California:

- Final Grape Crush Report for the 1999 crop, issued by the California Department of Food and Agriculture.
- California Grape Acreage report for 1999, issued by the California Agricultural Statistics Service, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Both reports include statistical tables with the data broken down by grape varietal. Black Corinth is one of the listed varieties. The petitioner stated that this is clear evidence that the grape is grown in California and is recognized by the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Other documentation included The Oxford Companion to Wine (Jancis Robinson, Oxford University Press, 1999), which states that Black Corinth is one of the most commonly used grape varieties in the world raisin industry, and is occasionally used in winemaking.

Hallcrest Vineyards stated it has made a fruity, blush dessert wine from the Black Corinth grape. We are aware of at least one other winery using the grape to produce a table wine. Because the evidence satisfies the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding Black Corinth to the list of prime grape names in § 4.91. Because we believe the name "Zante Currant" could mislead consumers into thinking the wine is made from currants and not grapes, we did not propose that name as a synonym.

Petition for Fiano

United Distillers and Vintners North America, Inc. (UDV) petitioned ATF to add the name "Fiano" to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. UDV owns three wineries in California—Beaulieu Vineyards, Glenn Ellen Carneros Winery, and Blossom Hill.

Fiano is a white varietal, long grown in the Campania region of Italy where it is used to produce the Denominazione di Origine Controllata wine Fiano di Avellino. According to information submitted by the petitioner, Fiano is an old grape with a history dating back to the ancient Romans. Records show that Holy Roman Emperor Frederick II (1215–1250) placed an order for Fiano wine and that Charles d'Anjou (1227–1285) planted 16,000 Fiano vines. Modern reference sources referring to the Fiano grape include The New Sotheby's Wine Encyclopedia (Tom Stevenson, DK Publishing, Inc., 1997) and The Oxford Companion to Wine (Jancis Robinson, Oxford University Press, 1999).

As evidence of the grape's use in the United States, UDV submitted a price list from Herrick Grapevines in St. Helena, California, listing Fiano in its grapevine inventory. According to this inventory, the Fiano was planted in 1997 and was obtained from Duarte Nursery in Modesto, California. UDV further stated that Beaulieu Vineyard has produced two vintages of Fiano wine, and submitted evidence that at least three other California vineyards and one New York vineyard are also growing Fiano. The petitioner submitted a letter from Monterey Pacific, one of the California growers, stating that they have five years of experience with Fiano and find it to be a grape with distinctive varietal character.

Based on the evidence presented in the petition, we are adding the Fiano grape to the list of approved prime names in § 4.91.

Regulatory Analyses and Notices

Does the Paperwork Reduction Act Apply to This Final Rule?

The provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, 44 U.S.C. Chapter 35, and its implementing regulations, 5 CFR part 1320, do not apply to this rule. This rule does not require winemakers to collect any additional information.

How Does the Regulatory Flexibility Act Apply to This Final Rule?

We certify that this final regulation will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This regulation will permit the use of new grape varietal names. We do not expect any negative impact on small entities. We are not imposing new requirements. Accordingly, the act does not require a regulatory flexibility analysis.

Is This a Significant Regulatory Action as Defined by Executive Order 12866?

This is not a significant regulatory action as defined by Executive Order 12866. Therefore, the order does not require a regulatory assessment.

Drawbridge Operation Regulations;
Great Egg Harbor Bay, New Jersey

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Fifth Coast Guard District, has approved a temporary deviation from the regulations governing the operation of the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge across Great Egg Harbor Bay, mile 3.5, between Somers Point and Beesleys Point, in New Jersey. From March 11, 2002, through April 5, 2002, the bridge may remain in the closed position Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. However, on Saturday and Sunday the bridge will open on signal for marine traffic. This closure is necessary to conduct the emergency structural repairs to the bascule span.

DATES: This deviation is effective from 7 a.m. on March 11, 2002, until 5 p.m. on April 5, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ann B. Deaton, Bridge Administrator, Fifth Coast Guard District, at (757) 398-6222.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Coast Guard received a letter from the bridge manager, requesting a temporary deviation from the current operating schedule of the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge to undertake repairs. The draw currently is required to open on signal at all times. This requirement is included in the general operating regulations at 33 CFR 117.5. The work involves ironwork repairs to the bascule span of the bridge. To facilitate the repairs, the bascule span will be locked in the closed position so that concrete can undergo the curing process. This work requires completely immobilizing the operation of the bascule span. In the event of an emergency, openings of the span will be provided as quickly as possible, but may take up to 48 hours to accomplish. Requests for emergency openings can be made by calling the bridge manager at (609) 390-3190 or (609) 624-0949.

In accordance with 33 CFR 117.35, the District Commander approved the contractor's request for a temporary deviation from the governing regulations in a letter dated February 22, 2002.

The Coast Guard has informed the known commercial users of the waterway of the bridge closure so that these vessels can arrange their transits to minimize any impact caused by the temporary deviation.

The temporary deviation allows the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge across Great Egg Harbor, mile 3.5, between Somers Point and Beesleys Point, New Jersey to remain closed Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. on March 11, 2002, until 5 p.m. on April 5, 2002.

Dated: March 6, 2002.

Drawbridge Operation Regulations:
Commercial Boulevard Bridge (SR 870), Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, Mile 1059.0, Lauderdale-by-the-Sea,
Broward County, FL

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations, request for comments.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Seventh Coast Guard District, has approved a test deviation from the regulations governing the operation of the Commercial Boulevard (SR 870) bridge at Lauderdale-by-the-Sea across the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, mile 1059.0 in Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, Florida. This deviation allows the drawbridge to open on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. This action is intended to improve the movement of vehicular traffic while not unreasonably interfering with the movement of vessel traffic. Comments on this test deviation are encouraged.

DATES: This rule is effective from April 17, 2002, until July 16, 2002.

ADDRESSES: You may mail comments and related material to Commander (obr), Seventh Coast Guard District, 909 S.E. 1st Avenue, Room 432, Miami, FL 33131. Comments and material received from the public, as well as comments indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket [CGD07-02-009] and are available for inspection or copying at Commander (obr), Seventh Coast Guard District, 909 S.E. 1st Avenue, Room 432, Miami, FL 33131 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Request for Comments

We encourage you to comment on this test schedule by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this notice [CGD07-02-009], indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know they reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to the Seventh Coast Guard District Bridge Branch at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid in the Discussion of the Test Schedule, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Discussion of the Test Schedule

The existing regulations of the Commercial Boulevard bridge (SR 870), mile 1059.0, at Lauderdale-by-the-Sea allow the draw to open on signal, except that, from November 1 through May 15

from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, the draw need open only on the hour, quarter-hour, half-hour, and three-quarter-hour, and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, and federal holidays, the draw need open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour.

The City of Fort Lauderdale requested on January 3, 2002, that the Coast Guard review the existing regulation of the Commercial Boulevard bridge as they believe the existing regulations are not meeting the needs of vehicle and vessel traffic. This test deviation will allow the draw to open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour. We will utilize the data collected from this test deviation to determine if new operating regulations need to be created for this bridge to facilitate vehicle and vessel traffic movement.

The District Commander has granted a test deviation from the operating requirements listed in 33 CFR 117.261(ee) to evaluate the effect of this new schedule on vehicle and vessel traffic. Under this deviation, the Commercial Boulevard Bridge need open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour from April 17, 2002, until July 16, 2002.

Dated: March 7, 2002.

Greg Shapley,

Chief, Bridge Administration, Seventh Coast Guard District.

Drawbridge Operating Regulation; Pascagoula River, Mississippi

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Eighth Coast Guard District has issued a temporary deviation from the regulation governing the operation of the CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge across the Pascagoula River, mile 1.5 at Pascagoula, Mississippi. This deviation allows the draw of the railroad bascule span bridge to remain closed to navigation from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on March 18, 2002. This temporary deviation will allow for rewiring the electrical components of the operating mechanism.

DATES: This deviation is effective from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Monday, March 18, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Unless otherwise indicated, documents referred to in this notice are available for inspection or copying at the office of the Eighth Coast Guard District, Bridge Administration Branch, Commander (obc), 501 Magazine Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, 70130-3396. The Bridge Administration Branch maintains the public docket for this temporary deviation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge across the Pascagoula River, mile 1.5 at Pascagoula, Mississippi has a vertical clearance in the closed-to-navigation position of 0.8 feet above mean high water and 2.4 feet above mean low water. The bridge provides unlimited vertical clearance in the open-to-navigation position. Navigation on the waterway consists of small cargo ships, tugs with tows, fishing vessels and recreational craft including sailboats and power boats. Presently, the draw opens on signal.

CSX Transportation requested a temporary deviation for the operation of the drawbridge to accommodate maintenance work. The work involves replacement of the deficient wiring in the electrical system of the operating mechanism. This work is essential for continued operation of the draw span of the bridge and is expected to eliminate frequent breakdowns resulting in emergency bridge closures.

This deviation allows the draw of the CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge to remain closed to navigation from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on March 18, 2002.

Dated: March 8, 2002.

Security Zone; Corpus Christi Inner Harbor, Corpus Christi, TX

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard is establishing a temporary security zone to ensure the security within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor, Corpus Christi, TX, from the Inner Harbor Bridge to the Viola Turning Basin and all waters in between. The security zone is needed to protect personnel, vessels, waterfront facilities, and national security interests in this harbor from any and all subversive actions by any groups or individuals whose objective it is to destroy or disrupt maritime activities. Entry of recreational vessels, passenger vessels, or commercial fishing vessels into this zone is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Captain of the Port Corpus Christi.

DATES: This rule is effective from 8 a.m. on February 20, 2002 through 8 a.m. on June 15, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket [COTP Corpus Christi 02-001] and are available for inspection or copying at U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office Corpus Christi, 555 N. Carancahua Street, Suite 500, Corpus Christi, Texas, 78478 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: LTJG C. J. Bright, Chief, Waterways Section, Coast Guard Captain of the Port Corpus Christi, 555 N. Carancahua St. Suite 500, Corpus Christi, Texas, 78478, (361) 888-3162.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Regulatory Information

We did not publish a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) for this regulation. Under 5 U.S.C. 553 (b) (B), the Coast Guard finds that good cause exists for not publishing an NPRM, and under 5 U.S.C. 553 (d)(3), good cause exists for making this rule effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. Publishing a NPRM and delaying its effective date would be contrary to public interest since immediate action is needed to respond to the security risks associated with recreational, passenger, or commercial fishing vessels entering the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor.

Background and Purpose

On September 11, 2001, both towers of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon were attacked by terrorists. In response to these terrorist acts, heightened awareness and security of our ports and harbors is necessary therefore, the Captain of the Port, Corpus Christi is establishing a temporary security zone within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor.

The Port of Corpus Christi is the fourth largest petro-chemical port within the United States. A large number of these petro-chemical waterfront facilities are located within the Inner Harbor that serves as a major industrial channel. These petro-chemical waterfront facilities conduct business with both United States and foreign deep draft vessels. The Port of Corpus Christi is also designated as an alternate military strategic load-out port with docks and facilities located within the Inner Harbor. These docks and facilities are vital to the national security interest of the United States.

The Inner Harbor channel is approximately 8 miles long and 300-to-800 feet wide, and has a controlling depth of 45 feet. Restricting the access of recreational, passenger and commercial fishing vessels reduces potential methods of attack on a vessel or waterfront facility within the zone. This security zone is designed to limit the access of vessels that do not have business to conduct with facilities or structures within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor. Entry of recreational vessels, passenger vessels, or commercial fishing vessels into this zone is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Captain of the Port Corpus Christi.

Regulatory Evaluation

This rule is not a "significant regulatory action" under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not "significant" under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

The Coast Guard expects the economic impact of this rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10(e) of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we considered whether this rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term "small entities" comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Recreational vessels, passenger vessels, and commercial fishing vessels do not frequent the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor. The Inner Harbor is an industrial area primarily used for bulk material transfers. Should a recreational vessel, passenger vessel, or commercial fishing vessel need to enter the Inner Harbor to conduct business with a small entity, such as a ship yard facility, there is no cost and little burden associated with obtaining permission from the Captain of the Port prior to entry.

If you are a small business entity and are significantly affected by this regulation please contact LTJG C. J. Bright, Chief Waterways Section, Coast Guard Captain of the Port Corpus Christi at (361) 888–3162.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we offered to assist small entities in understanding the rule so that they could better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking process.

Small businesses may send comments on the actions of Federal employees who enforce, or otherwise determine compliance with, Federal regulations to the Small Business and Agriculture Regulatory Enforcement Ombudsman and the Regional Small Business Regulatory Fairness Boards. The Ombudsman evaluates these actions annually and rates each agency's responsiveness to small business. If you wish to comment on actions by employees of the Coast Guard, call 1–888–REG–FAIR (1–888–734–3247).

This rule calls for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires

Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this rule will not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This rule will not affect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and does not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that may disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it does not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes.

Energy Effect

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a "significant energy action" under that order because it is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this rule and concluded that under figure 2–1, paragraph 34(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

Safety Zone; Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, AK

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard is establishing two temporary safety zones in Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, Alaska. One safety zone will surround the barge SWINOMOSH which will be conducting dredging and blasting operations in the navigable waters of Ouzinkie Harbor. The second safety zone will close all of Ouzinkie Harbor when the barge SWINOMOSH conducts blasting operations. The safety zones are necessary to protect vessels transiting the area from the potential hazards associated with the dredging and blasting operations conducted by the barge SWINOMOSH.

DATES: This rule is effective from 12:01 a.m. Alaska Standard Time (AST) March 13, 2002, until 9 p.m. AST April 30, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments and material received from the public, as well as documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket (COTP Western Alaska 02–003) and are available for inspection or copying at Coast Guard Marine Safety Office Anchorage, Alaska between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Lieutenant Matt Jones, USCG Marine Safety Detachment Kodiak, at (907) 486–5918 or Lieutenant Commander Chris Woodley, USCG Marine Safety Office Anchorage, at (907) 271–6700.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Regulatory Information

On January 31, 2002 we published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) entitled “Safety Zone; Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, Alaska” in the Federal Register (67 FR 4692). We did not receive any comments from the public.

No public hearing was requested, and none was held.

Because we received the request late, we find that good cause exists, under 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3), for making this rule effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, through its contractor Western Marine Construction, Inc., will be conducting dredging and blasting operations on portions of Ouzinkie Harbor (Army Corps Of Engineers project number DACW85–01–C–0010). This dredging project will help maintain safe navigation within Ouzinkie Harbor. A 500-yard safety zone around the barge SWINOMOSH and a safety zone closing the harbor and evacuating all vessels from the harbor during blasting operations, is necessary to ensure the safety of the maritime community from the potential hazards associated with dredging and blasting operations.

Discussion of Comments and Changes

We did not receive any comments but we made a few technical and clarification changes to the rule. In paragraph (a) of section 165.T17–002, we changed the phrase “dredging and blasting operations” to “dredging or blasting operations,” to clarify that the barge zone will be enforced when the barge SWINOMOSH was engaged in dredging alone. We changed the start date for the effective period in paragraph (b) to reflect a delay in the start of the dredging operations, and clarified that blasting and dredging operations will only occur in daylight hours. We also added the time zone in which this safety zone will occur. In paragraph(c) we added wording to clarify how the tug WALDO will notify vessels of blasting operations about to occur.

Regulatory Evaluation

This rule is not a “significant regulatory action” under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12886, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not “significant” under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10(e) of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary. This finding is based on the fact that the safety zone around the barge SWINOMOSH will not restrict vessels from transiting through the harbor. Also, the safety zone closing Ouzinkie Harbor during blasting operations will be announced well in advance so as to allow vessels ample time to plan ahead, and the actual blasting operations will be short in duration. The areas will not affect maritime vessel traffic transiting the shipping channel at Ouzinkie Narrows. Vessel traffic at this time of the year is minimal.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we have considered whether this rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term “small entities” comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This rule will affect the following entities, some of which may be small entities: The owners or operators of vessels intending to transit or anchor in the vicinity of Ouzinkie Harbor during the time this zone is activated.

These safety zones will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities for the following reasons. The safety zone area around the barge SWINOMOSH will not restrict vessels from transiting through Ouzinkie Harbor and vessels could pass safely around it. Also, the safety zone closing Ouzinkie Harbor during blasting operations will be announced well in advance so as to allow vessels ample time to plan ahead, and the actual blasting operations will be short in duration. Limited vessel traffic occurs in this area during these months. Before and during the effective period, we will issue a broadcast notice to mariners to warn maritime vessel traffic of the safety zones and operations occurring within the safety zones.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we offered to assist small entities in understanding the rule so that they could better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking process.

Collection of Information

This rule calls for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this rule will not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This rule will not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and does not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that may disproportionately affect children.

Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments

This rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it does not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a “significant energy action” under that order because it is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this rule and concluded that under figure 2–1, paragraph 34(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. This rule fits paragraph 34(g) as it establishes a safety zone. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available in the docket for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

National Ambient Air Quality Standards for Ozone; Notice of Public Meeting

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of public meeting.

SUMMARY: The purpose of this document is to announce that EPA has scheduled a public meeting to solicit comments on various options to implement the 8-hour ozone national ambient air quality standard (NAAQS). The options contain EPA's preliminary views and are intended to initiate a dialogue with the public on approaches for implementing the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The EPA is interested in hearing the views from interested stakeholders on the options that we've developed and their ideas on how to best implement the 8-hour ozone NAAQS consistent with the Supreme Court's decision in Whitman v.

American Trucking Association. An overarching issue that EPA would like public input on is how EPA should address the Supreme Court's holding that subpart 2 of part D of title I of the Clean Air Act (CAA) applies for purposes of classifying areas under a revised ozone NAAQS.

DATES: The one-day meeting will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (MST) on Wednesday, April 3, 2002, in Tempe, Arizona.

ADDRESSES: The meeting will be held at: Fiesta Inn Resort, 2100 S. Priest Drive, Tempe, Arizona 85282-1192.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For general information on the meeting, contact: Denise M. Gerth, U.S. EPA, Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards, C539-02, Research Triangle Park, NC 27711, phone (919) 541-5550, or e-mail: gerth.denise@epa.gov. To register for the meeting, please contact: Barbara Bauer, E. H. Pechan and Associates, Durham, NC, phone (919) 493-3144, extension 188, or e-mail: barbara.bauer@pechan.com.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On July 18, 1997, EPA revised the ozone NAAQS (62 FR 38856). At that time, EPA indicated it would implement the 8-hour ozone NAAQS under the less detailed requirements of subpart 1 of part D of title I of the CAA rather than more detailed requirements of subpart 2 requirements. Various industry groups and States challenged EPA's final rule promulgating the 8-hour ozone NAAQS in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.¹ In May 1999, the Appeals Court remanded the ozone standard to EPA on the basis that EPA's interpretation of its authority under the standard-setting provisions of the CAA resulted in an unconstitutional delegation of authority. American Trucking Assns., Inc. v. EPA, 175 F.3d 1027, aff'd, 195 F.3d 4 (D.C. Cir. 1999). In addition, the Court held that EPA improperly interpreted the statute to provide for implementation of the 8-hour standard under subpart 1, but also determined that EPA could not implement a revised ozone standard under subpart 2. The EPA sought review of these two issues by the U.S. Supreme Court. In February 2001, the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the air quality standard setting. Whitman v. American Trucking Assoc., 121 S. Ct. 903. In addition, the Supreme Court held that EPA has authority to implement a revised ozone standard but that EPA could not ignore subpart 2 when implementing the 8-hour standard. Specifically, the Court noted EPA could not ignore the provisions of subpart 2 that "eliminate[s] regulatory discretion" allowed by subpart 1. After determining that EPA could not ignore the provisions of subpart 2, the Court went on to identify several portions of the classification scheme that are "ill-fitted" to the revised standard, but left it to EPA to develop a reasonable approach for implementation. Any implementation approach that EPA develops must address the requirements of the CAA, as interpreted by the Supreme Court.

The EPA has initiated a process to obtain stakeholder feedback on options the Agency is developing for implementation of the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The EPA plans to issue a final rule on the implementation strategy prior to designating areas for the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The implementation rule will provide specific requirements for State and local air pollution control agencies and tribes to prepare implementation plans to attain and maintain the 8-hour NAAQS. States with areas that are not attaining the 8-hour ozone NAAQS will have to develop—as part of its State implementation plan (SIP)—emission limits and other requirements to attain the NAAQS within the time frames set forth in the CAA.² Tribal lands that are not attaining the 8-hour ozone standard may be affected, and could voluntarily submit a tribal implementation plan (TIP), but would not be required to submit a TIP. However, in cases where a TIP is not submitted, EPA would have the responsibility for planning in those areas.

The EPA is holding this meeting in order to obtain stakeholder feedback regarding the options that EPA has developed as well as to listen to any new or different ideas that stakeholders may be interested in presenting. The following topics will be covered at the meeting: (1) Classifications and attainment dates; (2) designations and transport; (3) attainment demonstration issues and transportation planning; and (4) other general SIP issues. New Source Review (NSR) programs that accompany nonattainment designations will not be the subject of this meeting since the EPA is currently considering whether and how to change the NSR program regulations in other contexts. The EPA has placed a variety of materials regarding implementation options, and which will be the focus of the meeting, on the website: www.epa.gov/ttn/rto/ozonotech/o3imp8hr/o3imp8hr.htm. Additional material will be placed on the website as they are developed.

¹ On July 18, 1997, EPA also promulgated a revised particulate matter (PM) standard (62 FR 38652). Litigation on the PM standard paralleled the litigation on the ozone standard and the court issued one opinion addressing both challenges.

² The CAA requires EPA to set ambient air quality standards and requires States to submit SIPs to implement those standards.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting should check the website for new material on a regular basis prior to the meetings.

The materials that are available on the website are also available at: Air and Radiation Docket and Information Center, Docket Number A-2001-31, U.S. EPA, 401 M Street, SW., Room M-1500 (Mail Code 6102), Washington, DC 20460. The docket is available for public inspection and copying between 8:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding legal holidays. A reasonable fee may be charged for copying.

Finding of Failure To Submit a Required State Implementation Plan for Particulate Matter, California—San Joaquin Valley

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: EPA is taking final action to find that California failed to make a particulate matter (PM-10) nonattainment area state implementation plan (SIP) submittal required for the San Joaquin Valley Planning Area under the Clean Air Act (CAA or Act). The San Joaquin Planning Area is a serious PM-10 nonattainment area. Under the Act, states are required to submit SIPs providing for, among other things, reasonable further progress and attainment of the PM-10 national ambient air quality standards (NAAQS) in areas classified as serious. The State of California submitted a serious area plan for the San Joaquin Valley in 1997. On February 26, 2002, prior to action on the plan by EPA, the State withdrew the submittal from the Agency's consideration. As a result of that withdrawal, EPA is today finding that California failed to make the PM-10 nonattainment area SIP submittal required for the San Joaquin Valley Planning Area under the Act.

This action triggers the 18-month time clock for mandatory application of sanctions and 2-year time clock for a federal implementation plan (FIP) under

EFFECTIVE DATE: This action is effective as of February 28, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

A. CAA Planning Requirements

In 1990, Congress amended the Clean Air Act to address, among other things, continued nonattainment of the PM-10 NAAQS.¹ Public Law 101-549, 104 Stat. 2399, codified at 42 U.S.C. 7401-7671q (1991). On the date of enactment of the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments, PM-10 areas, including the San Joaquin Valley planning area, meeting the qualifications of section 107(d)(4)(B) of the amended Act, were designated nonattainment by operation of law. See 56 FR 11101 (March 15, 1991). EPA codified the boundaries of the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 nonattainment area at 40 CFR 81.305.

Once an area is designated nonattainment for PM-10, section 188 of the CAA outlines the process for classifying the area and establishing the area's attainment deadline. In accordance with section 188(a), at the time of designation, all PM-10 nonattainment areas, including the San Joaquin Valley, were initially classified as moderate.

Section 188(b)(1) of the Act provides that moderate areas can subsequently be reclassified as serious before the applicable moderate area attainment date if at any time EPA determines that the area cannot "practically" attain the PM-10 NAAQS by the moderate area attainment deadline, December 31, 1994. On January 8, 1993 (58 FR 3334, 3337), EPA made such a determination and reclassified the San Joaquin Valley nonattainment area as serious.

¹ EPA revised the NAAQS for PM-10 on July 1, 1987 (52 FR 24672), replacing standards for total suspended particulates with new standards applying only to particulate matter up to 10 microns in diameter (PM-10). At that time, EPA established two PM-10 standards. The annual PM-10 standard is attained when the expected annual arithmetic average of the 24-hour samples for a period of one year does not exceed 50 micrograms per cubic meter (ug/m³). The 24-hour PM-10 standard of 150 ug/m³ is attained if samples taken for 24-hour periods have no more than one expected exceedance per year, averaged over 3 years. See 40 CFR 50.6 and 40 CFR part 50, appendix K.

Breathing particulate matter can cause significant health effects, including an increase in respiratory illness and premature death.

In accordance with section 189(b)(2) of the Act, SIP revisions for the San Joaquin Valley addressing the requirements for serious PM-10 nonattainment areas in section 189(b) and (c) of the Act were required to be submitted by August 8, 1994 and 1994 and February 8, 1997.

The serious area PM-10 requirements, as they pertain to the San Joaquin Valley nonattainment area, include:²

(a) A comprehensive, accurate, and current inventory of actual emissions from all sources of the relevant pollutant, here, PM-10 and its precursors (CAA section 172(c)(3));

(b) A demonstration (including air quality modeling) that the plan will provide for attainment as expeditiously as practicable but no later than December 31, 2001, or an alternative demonstration that attainment by that date would be impracticable and that the plan provides for attainment by the most expeditious alternative date practicable (CAA section 189(b)(1)(A)(i) and (ii));

(c) Quantitative milestones that are to be achieved every 3 years and that demonstrate reasonable further progress toward attainment by December 31, 2001 (CAA section 189(c)); and

(d) Provisions to assure that the best available control measures (BACM), including best available control technology (BACT), shall be implemented no later than four years after the reclassification of the area to a serious nonattainment area (CAA section 189(b)(1)(B)).

B. California's Serious Area PM-10 SIP Submittals for the San Joaquin Valley

The State of California submitted on October 12, 1994 the "San Joaquin Valley PM-10 BACM SIP Submittal" to EPA as a proposed revision to the California PM-10 SIP. On July 17, 1997, CARB submitted to EPA the serious area "PM-10 Attainment Demonstration Plan" (Serious PM-10 Plan). The 1997 Plan incorporated and superseded the 1994 San Joaquin Valley PM-10 BACM SIP (1997 Plan, p. 1-1).

II. EPA Actions Relating to the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 Nonattainment Area

As discussed further in section III below, EPA intended to propose to

² EPA has concluded that certain moderate area PM-10 requirements continue to apply after an area has been reclassified to serious. For a more detailed discussion of the planning requirements applicable to the San Joaquin Valley and the relationship between the moderate area and serious area requirements after reclassification of the area to serious, see, e.g., 65 FR 37324 (June 14, 2000).

disapprove the Serious PM-10 Plan for the San Joaquin Valley by March 1, 2002. However, just as the Agency was preparing the proposed disapproval notice for signature by the Regional Administrator and publication in the Federal Register, the State notified EPA that it had withdrawn the Plan from consideration by the Agency. See letter (with enclosures) from Michael Kenny, Executive Officer, California Air Resources Board, to Wayne Nastri, Regional Administrator, EPA Region 9, faxed to EPA on February 26, 2002. As a result, EPA is unable to move forward with its proposed plan disapproval.

The CAA establishes specific consequences if EPA finds that a State has failed to meet certain requirements of the CAA. Of particular relevance here is CAA section 179(a)(1), the mandatory sanctions provision. Section 179(a) sets forth four findings that form the basis for application of a sanction. The first finding, that a State has failed to submit a plan required under the CAA, is the finding relevant to this rulemaking because withdrawal of a plan is tantamount to failing to submit it.

If California has not made the required complete submittal (in this case resubmittal) within 18 months of the effective date of today's rulemaking, pursuant to CAA section 179(a) and 40 CFR 52.31, the offset sanction identified in CAA section 179(b) will be applied in the affected area. If the State has still not made a complete submission 6 months after the offset sanction is imposed, then the highway funding sanction will apply in the affected area, in accordance with 40 CFR 52.31.³ The 18-month clock will stop and the sanctions will not take effect if, within 18 months after the date of the finding, EPA finds that the State has made a complete submittal of a plan addressing the applicable serious area PM-10 requirements for the San Joaquin Valley.

In addition, CAA section 110(c)(1) provides that EPA must promulgate a federal implementation plan (FIP) no later than 2 years after a finding under section 179(a) unless EPA takes final action to approve the submittal within 2 years of EPA's finding.

In a separate action, EPA is today also proposing to find that the San Joaquin

Valley failed to attain the PM-10 NAAQS by the statutory deadline, December 31, 2001. EPA has the responsibility, pursuant to sections 179(c) and 188(b)(2) of the Act, of determining within 6 months of the applicable attainment date (i.e., June 30, 2002), whether the area has attained the annual and 24-hour NAAQS. Section 179(c)(1) of the Act provides that these determinations are to be based upon an area's "air quality as of the attainment date," and section 188(b)(2) is consistent with this requirement. Under CAA section 189(d), serious PM-10 nonattainment areas that fail to attain are required to submit within 12 months of the applicable attainment date, "plan revisions which provide for attainment of the PM-10 air quality standards and, from the date of such submission until attainment, for an annual reduction in PM-10 or PM-10 precursor emissions within the area of not less than 5 percent of the amount of such emissions as reported in the most recent inventory prepared for such area."

III. Ongoing Planning Efforts in the San Joaquin Valley

As noted above, California now has an obligation to develop and submit a new PM-10 attainment plan for the San Joaquin Valley. In order to assist in these efforts, we outline below some of the bases on which we intended to disapprove the Serious PM-10 Plan:⁴

(a) The emissions inventory is neither accurate nor comprehensive because, among other reasons, it contains no emissions for ammonia, a PM-10 precursor that contributes to PM-10 exceedances; the inventory combines together in one category a number of sources that constitute 83% of the total primary PM-10 inventory; the inventory is not representative of a number of areas in the Valley; and there is no supporting documentation for the motor vehicle emissions;

(b) The Plan does not provide for attainment of the annual standard by

December 31, 2001 as evidenced by NAAQS exceedances cited in our proposed finding of failure to attain. For the 24-hour standard, the State in the Plan sought an extension of the attainment deadline to December 31, 2006 pursuant to CAA section 188(e), but did not provide the supporting documentation required by that section;

(c) The Plan does not meet the requirements of CAA section 189(b)(1)(B) and EPA guidance for best available control measures (BACM); the Plan does not provide for BACM for each significant source category; it does not document the State's selection of BACM; and the Plan's BACM commitments are not being met; and

(d) The Plan does not provide for quantitative milestones to be achieved every three years until the area is redesignated attainment and does not demonstrate reasonable further progress (RFP) toward attainment by December 31, 2001.

Efforts are underway by the State and local air district to develop a plan that will bring clean air to Valley residents as quickly as possible. EPA is committed to working closely with the State and local regulators, the regulated community, and the public to ensure that such plan is technically sound and protective of public health.

IV. Final Action

A. Rule

EPA is today making a finding that the State of California failed to submit a SIP revision addressing the CAA's serious area PM-10 requirements to attain the 24-hour and annual PM-10 NAAQS for the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 nonattainment area.

B. Effective Date Under the Administrative Procedures Act

Today's action will be effective on February 28, 2002. Under the Administrative Procedures Act (APA), 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3), an agency rulemaking may take effect before 30 days after the date of publication in the Federal Register if an agency has good cause to mandate an earlier effective date. Today's action concerns a SIP submission that is already overdue and the State has been aware of applicable provisions of the CAA relating to overdue SIPs. In addition, today's action simply starts a "clock" that will not result in sanctions for 18 months, and that the State may "turn off" through the submission of a complete SIP submittal. These reasons support an effective date prior to 30 days after the date of publication.

³ In a 1994 rulemaking, EPA established the Agency's selection of the sequence of these two sanctions: the offset sanction under section 179(b)(2) shall apply at 18 months, followed 6 months later by the highway sanction under section 179(b)(1) of the Act. EPA does not choose to deviate from this presumptive sequence in this instance. For more details on the timing and implementation of the sanctions, see 59 FR 39832 (August 4, 1994), promulgating 40 CFR 52.31, "Selection of sequence of mandatory sanctions for findings made pursuant to section 179 of the Clean Air Act."

⁴ EPA's review of the 1997 Plan is based on section 189 of the CAA; EPA guidance, known as the "General Preamble," which describes EPA's preliminary views on how the Agency intends to review SIPs and SIP revisions submitted under title I of the Act, and an Addendum to the General Preamble ("Addendum") describing the Agency's preliminary views on how it intends to review SIPs and SIP revisions containing serious area PM-10 plan provisions. See "State Implementation Plans; General Preamble for the Implementation of Title I of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990," 57 FR 13498 (April 16, 1992); 57 FR 18070 (April 28, 1992) and "State Implementation Plans for Serious PM-10 Nonattainment Areas, and Attainment Date Waivers for PM-10 Nonattainment Areas Generally; Addendum to the General Preamble for the Implementation of Title I of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990," 59 FR 41998 (August 16, 1994).

C. Notice-and-Comment Under the Administrative Procedures Act

This final agency action is not subject to the notice-and-comment requirements of the APA, 5 U.S.C. 533(b). EPA believes that because of the limited time provided to make findings of failure to submit regarding SIP submissions, Congress did not intend such findings to be subject to notice-and-comment rulemaking. However, to the extent such findings are subject to notice-and-comment rulemaking, EPA invokes the good cause exception pursuant to the APA, 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). Notice and comment are unnecessary because no EPA judgment is involved in making a nonsubstantive finding of failure to submit SIPs required by the CAA. Furthermore, providing notice and comment would be impracticable because of the limited time provided under the statute for making such determinations. Finally, notice and comment would be contrary to the public interest because it would divert Agency resources from the critical substantive review of submitted SIPs. See 58 FR 51270, 51272, note 17 (October 1, 1993); 59 FR 39832, 39853 (August 4, 1994).

V. Administrative Requirements

A. Executive Order 12866

The Office of Management and Budget has exempted this regulatory action from Executive Order 12866, entitled "Regulatory Planning and Review."

B. Executive Order 13211

This rule is not subject to Executive Order 13211, "Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use" (66 Fed. Reg. 28355 (May 22, 2001)) because it is not a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866.

C. Executive Order 13045

Executive Order 13045, entitled Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997), applies to any rule that: (1) Is determined to be "economically significant" as defined under Executive Order 12866, and (2) concerns an environmental health or safety risk that EPA has reason to believe may have a disproportionate effect on children. If the regulatory action meets both criteria, the Agency must evaluate the environmental health or safety effects of the planned rule on children, and explain why the planned regulation is preferable to other potentially effective and reasonably feasible alternatives considered by the Agency.

This rule is not subject to Executive Order 13045 because it does not involve decisions intended to mitigate environmental health or safety risks.

D. Executive Order 13132

Executive Order 13132, entitled Federalism (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999) revokes and replaces Executive Orders 12612, Federalism and 12875, Enhancing the Intergovernmental Partnership. Executive Order 13132 requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by State and local officials in the development of regulatory policies that have federalism implications." "Policies that have federalism implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government." Under Executive Order 13132, EPA may not issue a regulation that has federalism implications, that imposes substantial direct compliance costs, and that is not required by statute, unless the Federal government provides the funds necessary to pay the direct compliance costs incurred by State and local governments, or EPA consults with State and local officials early in the process of developing the proposed regulation. EPA also may not issue a regulation that has federalism implications and that preempts State law unless the Agency consults with State and local officials early in the process of developing the proposed regulation.

This rule will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, as specified in Executive Order 13132, because it does not alter the relationship or the distribution of power and responsibilities established in the Clean Air Act. Thus, the requirements of section 6 of the Executive Order do not apply to this rule.

E. Executive Order 13175

Executive Order 13175, entitled "Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments" (65 FR 67249, November 6, 2000), requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by tribal officials in the development of regulatory policies that have tribal implications." "Policies that have tribal implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal government and the Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes."

This final rule does not have tribal implications. It will not have substantial direct effects on tribal governments, on the relationship between the Federal government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes, as specified in Executive Order 13175. Thus, Executive Order 13175 does not apply to this rule.

F. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) generally requires an agency to conduct a regulatory flexibility analysis of any rule subject to notice and comment rulemaking requirements unless the agency certifies that the rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Small entities include small businesses, small not-for-profit enterprises, and small governmental jurisdictions.

This final rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities because findings of failure to submit required SIP revisions do not by themselves create any new requirements. Therefore, I certify that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

G. Unfunded Mandates

Under section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 ("Unfunded Mandates Act"), signed into law on March 22, 1995, EPA must prepare a budgetary impact statement to accompany any proposed or final rule that includes a Federal mandate that may result in estimated costs to State, local, or tribal governments in the aggregate; or to private sector, of $100 million or more. Under section 205, EPA must select the most cost-effective and least burdensome alternative that achieves the objectives of the rule and is consistent with statutory requirements. Section 203 requires EPA to establish a plan for informing and advising any small governments that may be significantly or uniquely impacted by the rule.

EPA has determined that today's action does not include a Federal mandate that may result in estimated costs of $100 million or more to either State, local, or tribal governments in the aggregate, or to the private sector. The CAA provision discussed in this notice requires states to submit SIPs. This notice merely provides a finding that California has not met that requirement. Accordingly, no additional costs to State, local, or tribal governments, or to the private sector, result from this action.

H. National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act

Section 12 of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act (NTTAA) of 1995 requires Federal agencies to evaluate existing technical standards when developing a new regulation. To comply with NTTAA, EPA must consider and use "voluntary consensus standards" (VCS) if available and applicable when developing programs and policies unless doing so would be inconsistent with applicable law or otherwise impractical.

EPA believes that VCS are inapplicable to today's action because it does not require the public to perform activities conducive to the use of VCS.

I. Submission to Congress and the Comptroller General

The Congressional Review Act, 5 U.S.C. 801 et seq., as added by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996, generally provides that before a rule may take effect, the agency promulgating the rule must submit a rule report, which includes a copy of the rule, to each House of the Congress and to the Comptroller General of the United States. EPA will submit a report containing this rule and other required information to the U.S. Senate, the U.S. House of Representatives, and the Comptroller General of the United States prior to publication of the rule in the Federal Register. A major rule cannot take effect until 60 days after it is published in the Federal Register. This rule is not a "major" rule as defined by 5 U.S.C. 804(2).

J. Petitions for Judicial Review

Under section 307(b)(1) of the Clean Air Act, petitions for judicial review of this action must be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the appropriate circuit by May 17, 2002. Filing a petition for reconsideration by the Administrator of this final rule does not affect the finality of this rule for the purposes of judicial review nor does it extend the time within which a petition for judicial review may be filed, and shall not postpone the effectiveness of such rule or action. This action may not be challenged later in proceedings to enforce its requirements. (See section 307(b)(2).)

Medicare and Federal Health Care Programs: Fraud and Abuse; Revisions and Technical Corrections

AGENCY: Office of Inspector General (OIG), HHS.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This final rule sets forth several revisions and technical corrections to the OIG regulations pertaining to fraud and abuse in Federal health care programs. This rule contains revisions and clarifications with respect to the definition of the term "item or service," the reinstatement procedures relating to exclusions resulting from a default on health education or scholarship obligations, the factors considered in determining civil money penalty amounts for patient dumping violations, and several other matters. In addition, this rule makes a number of minor technical corrections to the current regulations in order to clarify various issues and inadvertent errors appearing in the OIG's existing regulatory authorities.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These regulations are effective on April 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joel J. Schaer, Office of Counsel to the Inspector General, (202) 619-0089.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Office of Inspector General's (OIG's) exclusion authorities are intended to protect the Federal health care programs and their beneficiaries from untrustworthy health care providers, i.e., individuals and entities whose behavior has demonstrated that they pose a risk to program beneficiaries or to the integrity of these programs.

These authorities encompass both mandatory exclusions (section 1128(a) of the Social Security Act (the Act)) and permissive exclusions (section 1128(b) of the Act). The mandatory exclusion authorities require the OIG to exclude from program participation any individual or entity convicted of a "program-related" crime; patient abuse or neglect; or certain felonies related to health care delivery, governmental health care programs or controlled substances. Mandatory exclusions must be imposed for a minimum 5-year period. The permissive authorities do not require the imposition of an exclusion, and may either be (1) "derivative" exclusions that are based on actions previously taken by a court or other law enforcement or regulatory agencies, or (2) "non-derivative" exclusions that are based on OIG-initiated determinations of misconduct, e.g., poor quality care or submission of false claims for Medicare or Medicaid payment. With certain exceptions, there are no specified minimum periods of exclusion under these permissive authorities.

In addition, as an administrative remedy to remedy health care fraud and abuse, section 1128A of the Act allows the OIG to seek civil money penalties (CMPs), assessments and exclusions against those engaged in filing false claims (and certain other offenses) against the Department's programs and beneficiaries. Since enactment in 1981, the CMP provisions have been expanded to apply to numerous types of fraud and abuse activities related to Medicare and other Federal health care programs. Providers who may be subject to any of the OIG's administrative sanctions have full due process rights, including administrative hearings and appeals to the Federal courts.

On October 20, 2000, the OIG published a proposed rule in the Federal Register (65 FR 63035) that proposed several revisions and technical corrections to the OIG regulations codified in 42 CFR chapter V.

II. Summary of the Proposed Rule, Response to Public Comments and Provisions of the Final Rule

In response to the proposed rule, the OIG received a total of 6 timely-filed public comments from organizations, associations and other interested parties. Set forth below is a brief explanation of the intended revisions set forth in the proposed rule, a summary of the comments received and a response to those concerns, and a description of the final changes and clarifications being made to 42 CFR chapter V as a result of this final rule.

A. Limitations Period for Exclusions

Proposed change: In response to questions raised as to whether a limitations period is applicable to the imposition of OIG program exclusions, the OIG proposed to clarify § 1001.1 to clarify that there is no time limitation on the imposition of a program exclusion. In Wesley J. Hammer v. IG, DAB 1693 (1999), the Departmental Appeals Board ruled that exclusion under section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, where such exclusion is based on an act which is described in section 1128A of the Act, is subject to the 6 year statute of limitations contained in section 1128A.

Comment/Response: The proposed rule stated that there would be no time limitation on the OIG's imposition of a program exclusion since no statute of limitations is specified in the Act with respect to exclusions under section 1128, and program exclusions are remedial in nature. Two commenters questioned this interpretation. The commenters suggested that if a program exclusion is based on the Secretary's determination that there has been a violation of another statute, the program exclusion action should be subject to the same limitations period that would apply to an action taken under the other statute. If not, the commenters believed that an individual or entity could be excluded for activities that occurred years before and that do not bear on their current trustworthiness or integrity. In addition, the commenters expressed concern that after the passage of significant time, evidence becomes difficult or impossible to gather and thus there is a need for a statute of limitations with respect to the imposition of program exclusions.

The comments raise concerns about exclusions under section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, the only exclusion authority that is based upon the Secretary's determination that there was an act committed that is a violation of another statute.¹ Based on the concerns raised by the commenters, the OIG has chosen not to finalize the proposed revision, but to leave the current regulation unchanged.

B. Actual Versus Reasonably Expected Loss

Proposed change: With regard to financial loss and threshold amounts with respect to exclusion actions, we

proposed to revise §§ 1001.102(b)(1) and 1001.201(b)(2)(i) to increase the financial loss considered to be an aggravating factor from $1,500 to $5,000 to more properly reflect the current health care economy and establish a more reasonable threshold amount as a basis for lengthening a period of exclusion, and to reflect as an aggravating factor both the actual and intended loss to the programs associated with the conduct of the sanctioned individual or entity. The OIG received two public comments on this proposed revision.

Comment: Commenters objected to allowing "intended loss" to be considered as an aggravating factor, asserting that the concept of intent is subjective and allows for speculation and difficulty in questions of proof and defense. They indicated that while an objective approach is used to determine whether an actual loss has occurred, it is subjective to determine whether an individual or entity intended to cause a loss when no actual loss has occurred. One commenter indicated that an internal OIG decision should not carry the same weight as a decision that was adjudicated by a third party. Because the OIG would be able to consider "intended losses" based on "similar acts not adjudicated," commenters believed the OIG would have significant latitude to give weight to "unsubstantiated allegations, charges supported by inadmissible evidence, statements that have not been subject to cross-examination * * *" that would not be supported by the judicial process.

Response: We have clarified and amended the proposed change to this section to provide that the OIG will consider acts "that caused, or reasonably could have been expected to cause, a financial loss. * * *" The purpose of this provision is to consider the magnitude of the individual or entity's conduct when determining the appropriate length of exclusion. The trustworthiness of an individual or entity relates to the amount of loss their conduct reasonably could have been expected to cause, regardless of whether the conduct was discovered before or after the payment was made. For example, the fact that a Medicare contractor detected a false claim prior to payment, and therefore no loss was incurred by the program, does not reduce the culpability and untrustworthiness of those responsible for the submission of the false claim.

The OIG intends to consider "reasonably expected loss" only in those situations where there is adequate reliable evidence to discern the amounts that would have been paid as a result of the individual's or entity's false claim or other improper conduct had the conduct not been detected prior to the payment of the claims.

Comment: Regarding the proposed increase of the threshold amount for an aggravating factor to $5,000 (from $1,500), one commenter asked whether the $5,000 amount would also apply to intended loss as well as to actual loss. The commenter also questioned whether the higher threshold amount would mean that prosecution would not be pursued if the loss is less than $5,000.

Response: We will consider the total reasonably expected loss in assessing whether this $5,000 threshold has been met for the purpose of determining the length of exclusion. This threshold is only relevant to determine the length of exclusion and has no relationship with a prosecutor's decision or whether to pursue certain cases.

Final rule revision: We are revising the language in §§ 1001.102(b)(1) and 1001.201(b)(2)(i) to indicate that among the factors that may be considered to be aggravating and a basis for lengthening the period of exclusion are acts resulting in the conviction, or similar acts, "that caused, or reasonably could have been expected to cause, a financial loss" to a Government program or to one or more entities of $5,000 or more.

C. Expansion of the Scope of Exclusion to "all Federal Health Care Programs"

Proposed change: Section 4331(c) of the Balanced Budget Act (BBA) of 1997 extended the scope of all OIG exclusions beyond Medicare and State health care programs to all Federal health care programs. While several revisions to implement this expansion were made to the OIG exclusion regulations in the final rulemaking addressing BBA (July 22, 1999; 64 FR 39420), conforming revisions were not made in §§ 1001.102(c), 1001.951 and 1001.952. We proposed to amend these regulatory sections to accurately reflect this expanded authority. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising §§ 1001.102(c), 1001.951 and 1001.952 to accurately reflect the scope of an OIG exclusion beyond the Medicare and State health care programs to all other Federal health care programs.

D. Clarification on Length of Exclusion in § 1001.102(b)(9)

Proposed change: The OIG proposed a minor technical change in § 1001.102 that would have involved inserting the word "even" before the limiting clause "if the adverse action is based on the same * * *” in existing paragraph (b)(9) of this section.

Comment: One commenter believed that the effect of this change would be that the exclusion period could be lengthened based on an adverse action, whether or not the action served as the basis of the imposition of the exclusion.

Response: Upon further review, the OIG has decided not to make this change to § 1001.102(b)(9).

E. Discount Safe Harbor

Proposed change: We proposed several clarifying wording changes in the safe harbor discount provision, set forth in § 1001.952(h), to be consistent with similar context language used in the same paragraph, and clarifying the definition of the term “rebate” in paragraph (h)(4) of this section to make clear that a rebate is a price reduction after the time of sale.

Comment/Response: We received several comments regarding these proposed revisions and clarifications to § 1001.952(h) and other technical corrections to our other safe harbor regulations. The OIG is continuing to evaluate these comments and plans to address specific changes to § 1001.952 at a future date through separate rulemaking.

Final rule revision: As indicated above in section II.C., at this time we are only revising those portions of § 1001.952 to correct technical errors appearing in the regulations text to extend the scope of any OIG exclusion beyond the Medicare and State health care programs to all other Federal health care programs.

F. Reinstatement of Individuals as a Result of an Exclusion Based on Default of Health Education Loan or Scholarship Obligations

Proposed change: The current regulation at § 1001.1501 provides that an individual will be excluded until the Public Health Service (PHS) notifies the OIG that the obligations have been resolved to the PHS’s satisfaction. Because the regulatory language is unclear as to exactly when a determination may be made that a default is cured or that the financial obligations have been adequately resolved, the proposed rule provided for exclusion “until such time as PHS notifies the OIG that . . . there is no longer an outstanding debt.” Specifically, we proposed to revise paragraph (b) of this section to clarify that once an individual is excluded, he or she will be reinstated only (1) after the debt is repaid by the individual, or (2) where there is no longer an outstanding debt as determined by the PHS (e.g., the debt has been written off).

Comment: One commenter believed it was unclear what effect the changing of “right to request reinstatement” in the current rule to “right to apply for reinstatement” in the proposed rule will be. The commenter requested that any revision should minimize the administrative delay in reinstating such individuals once the PHS has concluded that there is no longer an outstanding debt.

Response: This is a minor revision concerning internal communications between PHS and the OIG that will cause no administrative delays in allowing individuals eligible to apply for reinstatement. All individuals who have been excluded under this authority must formally apply for such reinstatement in accordance with the procedures that are set forth in their exclusion letter and the applicable regulations.

Final rule revision: We are clarifying and revising § 1001.1501 to indicate that, with respect to an exclusion resulting from the default of a health education loan or scholarship obligations, an individual will be excluded until such time as PHS notifies the OIG that the default has been cured or that there is no longer an outstanding debt, and upon such notice, the OIG will inform the individual of his or her right to apply for reinstatement.

G. Waivers of Exclusions

Proposed change: We proposed to amend § 1001.1801 to permit any Federal health care program to request the waiver of an exclusion. This amendment was designed to conform the waiver provisions of section 1128 of the Act to statutory amendments that broadened the scope of an OIG program exclusion to all Federal health care programs.

Response: While the OIG received no public comments on this proposed change, we have determined that this revision would be more appropriately addressed through the legislative process. Although Congress expanded the OIG’s exclusion authority in the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (Pub. L. 104–191) to all “Federal health care programs,” it did not make a corresponding change to the statutory waiver for exclusions (sections 1128(c)(3)(B) and 1128(d)(3)(B) of the Act), i.e., only States are authorized to request such waivers. We now believe that legislative action, rather than a regulatory change, is necessary to address this issue.

H. Collateral Estoppel and Appeal of Exclusions

Proposed change: Section 1001.2007 has contained a provision that precludes the relitigation of the underlying determination in the administrative appeal of exclusions. We proposed to clarify in this section that a civil judgment rendered by a Federal, State or local court is an additional type of prior determination that may be given collateral estoppel effect in an exclusion action, and may not be relitigated in the exclusion proceeding. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising § 1001.2007(d) consistent with the language set forth in the earlier proposed rule.

I. Reversed or Vacated Decisions

Proposed change: With respect to appeals of exclusions, § 1001.3005 does not specify at what point in the appeal process reinstatement will occur where an OIG action is reversed or vacated on appeal. We proposed to amend this section to provide that when an exclusion action is reversed or vacated at any stage of an administrative appeal process, the OIG will reinstate the individual or entity at that time retroactive to the effective date of the underlying exclusion. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are amending § 1001.3005, Reversed or vacated decisions, by revising paragraph (a) and adding a new paragraph (e) to specify at what point in the appeal process retroactive reinstatement will occur.

J. Definition for “Item or Service”

Proposed change: To reflect the varying reimbursement systems and mechanisms in place, we proposed to modify the definition of the term “item or service” in § 1003.101 to clarify that, in addition to itemized claims or cost reports, the term also includes any item or service that is reimbursed through any health care payment mechanism, such as a prospective payment system. The OIG received no public comments on this revised definition.

Final rule revision: The OIG is adopting the change as proposed.

K. Calculation of Penalty Amount for Patient Dumping Violations

Proposed change: The existing language in § 1003.106(a)(4) allows the OIG to take into account a “prior history of offenses” with respect to patient dumping in determining the amount of CMP imposed for a patient dumping violation. We proposed an amendment to § 1003.106(a)(4)(iii) that would allow the OIG and the administrative law judge (ALJ) to consider other “instances”—and not just “offenses”—regardless of when they occurred, that is, not just “prior to” the matter conduct upon which the CMP action is based.

Comment: Commenters expressed the view that CMP amounts in patient dumping cases should be based only on judgments and other actions which have been adjudicated, such as convictions or administrative sanctions. The commenters believed that allowing the OIG the authority to “bypass” courts and the administrative appeals process would penalize physicians for alleged behavior that has not been ruled upon by a court or an ALJ. One commenter stated that in determining CMP amounts under this provision, the OIG should only be allowed to cite subsequent offenses to the same extent that the OIG now considers prior offenses. Without such limitation, the commenter believed that physicians’ due process rights would be violated since they would not be able to contest the underlying alleged behavior.

Response: In assessing the appropriate CMP amount in a dumping case, we continue to believe that it is appropriate to include matters which occurred after the events that resulted in the OIG’s issuance of a letter to a provider proposing a CMP. Specifically, with respect to the provider’s “prior history,” we have found instances, which may occur several years later between the time of the initial event and the initiation of litigation, where a provider has committed other acts similar in nature to the violation that is the basis for the proposed CMP. The OIG believes that those other similar acts should be considered so that an appropriate CMP can be determined and assessed. By considering not just “prior history” as a factor, an appropriate penalty may be higher, for example, for a party with multiple instances of problematic conduct, as compared to a party who has only one such instance.

With respect to amending the current reference of “offenses” to “instances,” we believe that the current term restricts consideration of incidents that are relevant to the provider’s culpability but have not resulted in convictions, or judicial or administrative decisions. Because these prior similar incidents generally become known during the administrative appeals process, we believe that the term “offenses” is too limiting, and that the revision in the regulations will allow the OIG and the ALJs a broader range of conduct and options to consider in their determinations. The primary concerns expressed by the commenter do not apply because the ALJ will be able to fully evaluate all evidence in the record in deciding the amount of a CMP and give appropriate weight to such evidence. When the OIG is able to consider subsequent instances of conduct by the provider, the ALJ, Departmental Appeals Board and the courts will still remain free to accept or reject this additional information and evidence in determining an appropriate CMP amount.

Final rule revision: We are amending § 1003.106 by adding a new paragraph (a)(4)(iii) to include as a factor in determining the amount of penalty for patient dumping violations any other instances where the respondent failed to provide appropriate emergency medical screening, stabilization and treatment of individuals coming to a hospital’s emergency department, or to effect an appropriate transfer.

L. Time Frames Governing the Discovery Process

Proposed change: To ensure that the hearing process proceeds in an orderly and timely manner, and to allow parties a reasonable period of time to produce requested documents or object to a request, we proposed to expand the specified time frames set forth in § 1005.7(e)(1) from the current 15 days to 30 days. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising § 1005.7(e)(1) to expand the specified time frames governing the discovery process to 30 days.

M. Written Testimony of Experts

Proposed change: We proposed to amend § 1005.16 to give the ALJs discretion to admit prior written sworn expert testimony that has been subject to cross-examination. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed revision.

Final rule revision: We are revising paragraph (b) of § 1005.16, Witnesses, to specifically state that the ALJ may, at his or her discretion, admit prior sworn testimony of experts which has been subject to adverse examination, such as a deposition or trial testimony.

N. Admissibility of Evidence in Administrative Proceedings

Proposed change: In order to protect the credibility of witnesses from being inappropriately attacked through the introduction of evidence regarding bad character, we proposed to amend § 1005.17, Evidence, to require adherence to Rule 608 of the Federal Rules of Evidence (FRE) in administrative proceedings.

Response: While the OIG received no public comments on this proposed change, there is a concern that requiring ALJs to apply specific evidentiary rules in an administrative hearing would unnecessarily restrict the evidence the ALJ may consider. The OIG will continue to evaluate the scope of this amendment, and has chosen not to finalize the proposed revision to § 1005.17 at this time.

O. Additional Technical Revisions

Proposed changes: Minor technical errors in §§ 1003.100 and 1008.37 were also proposed for correction in the proposed rule. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revisions: We are making technical revisions to § 1003.100(b) to properly reflect the basis and purpose of the OIG’s CMP and assessment authorities that were set forth in two different OIG rulemakings. Specifically, we are amending § 1003.100 by revising paragraphs (b)(1)(iv), (b)(1)(xii) and (b)(1)(xiii), and by adding paragraphs (b)(1)(xiv) and (b)(1)(xv) to accurately reflect the range of existing CMP and assessment authorities delegated to the OIG. In addition, we are correcting a typographical error appearing for a United States Code citation which appears in § 1008.37, as indicated in the proposed rule.

III. Regulatory Impact Statement

We have examined the impacts of this rule as required by Executive Order 12866 September 1993, Regulatory Planning and Review) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (September 19, 1980; Public Law 96–354), section 1102(b) of the Social Security Act, the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Public Law 104–4), and Executive Order 13132. Executive Order 12866 directs agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety effects, distributive impacts and equity). A regulatory impact analysis (RIA) must be prepared for major rules with economically significant effects ($100 million or more in any given year).

This is not a major rule as defined at 5 U.S.C. 804 (2), and it is not economically significant since it will not have a significant effect on program expenditures and there are no additional substantive costs to implement the resulting provisions. The revisions in this rule are either technical in nature or are designed to further clarify OIG statutory requirements. Specifically, these provisions are intended to clarify the scope of the OIG's existing authorities to exclude individuals and entities from Medicare, Medicaid and all other Federal health care programs, and to strengthen current legal authorities pertaining to the imposition of CMPs against individuals and entities engaged in prohibited actions and activities. We believe that any aggregate economic effect of these revised regulatory provisions will be minimal and will impact only those limited few who engage in prohibited behavior in violation of the statute. As such, we believe that the aggregate economic impact of these final regulations is minimal and would have no appreciable effect on the economy or on Federal or State expenditures.

The RFA, and the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement and Fairness Act of 1996 which amended the RFA, requires agencies to analyze options for regulatory relief of small businesses. For purposes of the RFA, small entities include small businesses, nonprofit organizations, and Government agencies. Most hospitals (and most other providers) are considered to be small entities, either by nonprofit status or by having revenues of $5 million to $25 million or less in any 1 year. Individuals and States are not included in the definition of a small entity.

In addition, section 1102(b) of the Social Security Act requires us to prepare a regulatory impact analysis if a rule may have a significant impact on the operations of a substantial number of small rural providers. This analysis must conform to the provisions of section 604 of the RFA. While these provisions may have some impact on small entities and rural providers, we believe that the aggregate economic impact of this rulemaking will be minimal since it is the nature of the conduct and not the size or type of the entity that will result in a violation of the statute and the regulations. As a result, this rule should not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, or a significant impact on the operations of a substantial number of small rural providers.

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 also requires that agencies assess anticipated costs and benefits before issuing any rule that may result in expenditure in any 1 year by State, local or tribal Governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $110 million. We believe that there are no significant costs associated with these revisions that would impose any mandates on State, local or tribal governments, or the private sector that will result in an expenditure of $110 million or more (adjusted for inflation) in any given year.

Executive Order 13132, Federalism, establishes certain requirements that an agency must meet when it promulgates a final rule that imposes substantial direct requirements costs on State and local Governments, preempts State law, or otherwise has Federalism implications. In reviewing this rule under the threshold criteria of Executive Order 13132, we have determined that this rule will not significantly effect the rights, roles and responsibilities of States or local Governments. The Office of Management and Budget has reviewed this rule in accordance with Executive Order 12866. In Paperwork Reduction Act—The provisions of these regulations impose no new reporting or recordkeeping requirements necessitating clearance by OMB.

The following payment practices shall not be treated as a criminal offense under section 1128B of the Act and shall not serve as the basis for an exclusion:

* * * * *

(b) Space rental. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made by a lessee to a lessor for the use of premises, as long as all of the following six standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The aggregate rental charge is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

(6) * * * Note that for purposes of paragraph (b) of this section, the term fair market value means the value of the rental property for general commercial purposes, but shall not be adjusted to reflect the additional value that one party (either the prospective lessee or lessor) would attribute to the property as a result of its proximity or convenience to sources of referrals or business otherwise generated for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid and all other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(c) Equipment rental. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made by a lessee or equipment to the lessor of the equipment for the use of the equipment, as long as all of the following six standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The aggregate rental charge is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or all other Federal health care programs.

(6) * * * Note that for purposes of paragraph (c) of this section, the term fair market value means that the value of the equipment when obtained from a manufacturer or professional distributor, but shall not be adjusted to reflect the additional value one party (either the prospective lessee or lessor) would attribute to the equipment as a result of its proximity or convenience to sources of referrals or business otherwise generated for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

(d) Personal services and management contracts. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made by a principal to an agent as compensation for the services of the agent, as long as all of the following seven standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The aggregate compensation paid to the agent over the term of the agreement is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(e) Sale of practice. (1) As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made to a practitioner by another practitioner where the former practice is selling his or her practice to the latter practitioner, as long as the following two standards are met—

* * * * *

(ii) The practitioner who is selling his or her practice will not be in a professional position to make referrals to, or otherwise generate business for, the purchasing practitioner for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs after 1 year from the date of the first agreement pertaining to the sale.

(2) As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment made to a practitioner by a hospital or other entity where the practitioner is selling his or her practice to the hospital or other entity, so long as the following four standards are met—

(f) Referral services. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment or exchange of anything of value between an individual or entity ("participant") and another entity serving as a referral service ("referral service"), as long as all of the following four standards are met—

* * * * *

(2) Any payment the participant makes to the referral service is assessed equally against and collected equally from all participants, and is only based on the cost of operating the referral service, and not on the volume or value of any referrals to or business otherwise generated by either party for the referral service for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(h) Discounts. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include a discount, as defined in paragraph (h)(5) of this section, on an item or service for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs for a buyer as long as the buyer complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(1) of this section; a seller as long as the seller complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(2) of this section; and an offeror of a discount who is not a seller under paragraph (h)(2) of this section so long as such offeror complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(3) of this section.

* * * * *

(3) The offeror of a discount is an individual or entity who is not a seller under paragraph (h)(2) of this section, but promotes the purchase of an item or service by a buyer under paragraph (h)(1) of this section at a reduced price for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs. The offeror must comply with all of the applicable standards within the following three categories—

* * * * *

(iii) If the buyer is an individual or entity in whose name a request for payment is submitted for the discounted item or service and payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs (not including individuals or entities defined as buyers in paragraph (h)(1)(i) or (h)(1)(ii) of this section), the offeror must comply with the following two standards—

(j) Group purchasing organizations. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment by a vendor of goods or services to a group purchasing organization (GPO), as part of an agreement to furnish such goods or services to an individual or entity, as long as both of the following two standards are met—

* * * * *

(n) Practitioner recruitment. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment or exchange of anything of value by an entity in order to induce a practitioner who has been practicing within his or her current specialty for less than 1 year to locate, or to induce any other practitioner to relocate, his or her primary place of practice into a HPSA for his or her specialty area, as defined in Departmental regulations, that is served by the entity, as long as all of the following nine standards are met—

* * * * *

(6) The amount or value of the benefits provided by the entity may not vary (or be adjusted or renegotiated) in any manner based on the volume or value of any expected referrals to or business otherwise generated for the entity by the practitioner for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or any other Federal health care programs.

BILLING CODE 4152–01–P

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

45 CFR Part 689

RIN 3145–AA39

Research Misconduct

AGENCY: National Science Foundation (NSF).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: NSF is issuing a final rule that revises its existing misconduct in science and engineering regulations. These revisions implement the Federal Policy on Research Misconduct issued by the Executive Office of the President's Office of Science and Technology on December 6, 2000. They will enable NSF to continue to address allegations of research misconduct. DATES: This rule is effective April 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Anita Eisenstadt, Office of the General Counsel, at 703–292–8060.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Office of Science and Technology Policy issued a final Federal research misconduct policy on December 6, 2000 in 65 FR 76260–76264 (“the Federal policy”). The Federal policy consists of a definition of research misconduct and basic guidelines to help Federal agencies and Federally funded research institutions respond to allegations of research misconduct. The policy directs Federal agencies that support or conduct research to implement it within one year.

On January 25, 2002, NSF published a proposed rule to revise its existing misconduct regulations (45 CFR part 689) to make them fully consistent with the Federal policy. (67 FR 3666–3669). NSF invited public comment on the proposed rule. NSF received four comments that were supportive of the proposed rule.

Three of these commenters, however, expressed general concern for the protection of confidentiality of inquiries and investigations of alleged research misconduct. They suggested that NSF add language to the regulation that provides that to the extent permitted by law, NSF will protect research misconduct investigative and adjudicative files as exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act. The commenters noted that this language is consistent with the Federal policy.

NSF stated in the preamble to the proposed rule that, consistent with the Federal policy, we would continue to protect research misconduct investigative and adjudicative files as exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act, to the extent permitted by law. (67 FR 3666). In response to these comments, we will include this language in § 689.2 of the final rule.

One of the commenters also expressed concern over the preponderance of evidence standard of proof for a finding of research misconduct. The commenter expressed concern that this standard will increase the risk of a false finding of research misconduct, and recommended a higher standard of proof such as “clear and convincing evidence” or “beyond a reasonable doubt.”

The Federal policy adopted the preponderance of evidence standard. In the preamble to the Federal policy, OSTP noted that this is the uniform standard of proof for most civil fraud cases and most Federal administrative proceedings, including debarment. (65 FR 76262). Awardee institutions have the discretion to apply a higher standard of proof in their internal misconduct proceedings. However, if a higher standard is used, and the awardee institution wishes for NSF to defer to its investigation, the awardee institution should also evaluate whether the allegation is proven by a preponderance of evidence.

Determinations

The Office of Management and Budget has reviewed this final rule under Executive Order 12866. The rule is not an economically significant rule or a major rule under the Congressional Review Act. The Congressional Review Act provides that agencies shall submit a report, including a copy of all final rules, to each House of Congress and the Comptroller General of the United States. The Foundation will submit this report, identifying this rule as non-major, prior to the publication of this rule in the Federal Register.

The Unfunded Mandate Reform Act of 1995, in sections 202 and 205, requires that agencies prepare several analytic statements before proposing a rule that may result in annual expenditures of $100 million by State, local and Indian tribal governments, or by the private sector. As any final rule would not result in expenditures of this magnitude, such statements are not necessary. As required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act, it is hereby certified that this rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small businesses.

The provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 104-13, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq., and its implementing regulations, 5 CFR Part 1320, do not apply to this rule because there are no new or revised recordkeeping or reporting requirements. Finally, NSF has reviewed this rule in light of Section 2 of Executive Order 12778 and certifies that this rule meets the applicable standards provided in sections 2(a) and 2(b) of that order.

(b) Research misconduct does not include honest error or differences of opinion.

§ 689.2 General policies and responsibilities.

(a) NSF will take appropriate action against individuals or institutions upon a finding that research misconduct has occurred. Possible actions are described in § 689.3. NSF may also take interim action during an investigation, as described in § 689.8.

(b) NSF will find research misconduct only after careful inquiry and investigation by an awardee institution, by another Federal agency, or by NSF. An "inquiry" consists of preliminary information-gathering and preliminary fact-finding to determine whether an allegation or apparent instance of research misconduct has substance and if an investigation is warranted. An investigation must be undertaken if the inquiry determines the allegation or apparent instance of research misconduct has substance. An "investigation" is a formal development, examination and evaluation of a factual record to determine whether research misconduct has taken place, to assess its extent and consequences, and to evaluate appropriate action.

(c) A finding of research misconduct requires that—

(1) There be a significant departure from accepted practices of the relevant research community; and

(2) The research misconduct be committed intentionally, or knowingly, or recklessly; and

(3) The allegation be proven by a preponderance of evidence.

(d) Before NSF makes any final finding of research misconduct or takes any final action on such a finding, NSF will normally afford the accused individual or institution notice, a chance to provide comments and rebuttal, and a chance to appeal. In structuring procedures in individual cases, NSF may take into account procedures already followed by other entities investigating or adjudicating the same allegation of research misconduct.

(e) Debarment or suspension for research misconduct will be imposed only after further procedures described in applicable debarment and suspension regulations, as described in §§ 689.8 and 689.9, respectively. Severe research misconduct, as established under the regulations in this part, is an independent cause for debarment or suspension under the procedures established by the debarment and suspension regulations.

(f) The Office of Inspector General (OIG) oversees investigations of research misconduct and conducts any NSF inquiries and investigations into suspected or alleged research misconduct.

(g) The Deputy Director adjudicates research misconduct proceedings and the Director decides appeals.

(h) Investigative and adjudicative research misconduct records maintained by the agency are exempt from public disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) and the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) to the extent permitted by law and regulation.

§ 689.3 Actions.

(a) Possible final actions listed in this paragraph (a) for guidance range from minimal restrictions (Group I) to the most severe and restrictive (Group III). They are not exhaustive and do not include possible criminal sanctions.

(1) Group I actions. (i) Send a letter of reprimand to the individual or institution.

(ii) Require as a condition of an award that for a specified period an individual or institution obtain special prior approval of particular activities from NSF.

(iii) Require for a specified period that an institutional official other than those guilty of misconduct certify the accuracy of reports generated under an award or provide assurance of compliance with particular policies, regulations, guidelines, or special terms and conditions.

(2) Group II actions. (i) Totally or partially suspend an active award, or restrict for a specified period designated activities or expenditures under an active award.

(ii) Require for a specified period special reviews of all requests for funding from an affected individual or institution to ensure that steps have been taken to prevent repetition of the misconduct.

(iii) Require a correction to the research record.

(3) Group III actions. (i) Terminate an active award.

(ii) Prohibit participation of an individual as an NSF reviewer, advisor, or consultant for a specified period.

(iii) Debar or suspend an individual or institution from participation in Federal programs for a specified period after further proceedings under applicable regulations.

(b) In deciding what final actions are appropriate when misconduct is found, NSF officials should consider:

(1) How serious the misconduct was;

(2) The degree to which the misconduct was knowing, intentional, or reckless;

(3) Whether it was an isolated event or part of a pattern;

(4) Whether it had a significant impact on the research record, research subjects, other researchers, institutions or the public welfare; and

(5) Other relevant circumstances.

(c) Interim actions may include, but are not limited to:

(1) Totally or partially suspending an existing award;

(2) Suspending eligibility for Federal awards in accordance with debarment-and-suspension regulations;

(3) Proscribing or restricting particular research activities, as, for example, to protect human or animal subjects;

(4) Requiring special certifications, assurances, or other, administrative arrangements to ensure compliance with applicable regulations or terms of the award;

(5) Requiring more prior approvals by NSF;

(6) Deferring funding action on continuing grant increments;

(7) Deferring a pending award;

(8) Restricting or suspending participation as an NSF reviewer, advisor, or consultant.

(d) For those cases governed by the debarment and suspension regulations, the standards of proof contained in the debarment and suspension regulations shall control. Otherwise, NSF will take no final action under this section without a finding of misconduct supported by a preponderance of the relevant evidence.

§ 689.4 Role of awardee institutions.

(a) Awardee institutions bear primary responsibility for prevention and detection of research misconduct and for the inquiry, investigation, and adjudication of alleged research misconduct. In most instances, NSF will rely on awardee institutions to promptly:

(1) Initiate an inquiry into any suspected or alleged research misconduct;

(2) Conduct a subsequent investigation, if warranted;

(3) Take action necessary to ensure the integrity of research, the rights and interests of research subjects and the public, and the observance of legal requirements or responsibilities; and

(4) Provide appropriate safeguards for subjects of allegations as well as informants.

(b) If an institution wishes NSF to defer independent inquiry or investigation, it should:

(1) Complete any inquiry and decide whether an investigation is warranted within 90 days. If completion of an inquiry is delayed, but the institution wishes NSF deferral to continue, NSF may require submission of periodic status reports.

(2) Inform OIG immediately if an initial inquiry supports a formal investigation.

(3) Keep OIG informed during such an investigation.

(4) Complete any investigation and reach a disposition within 180 days. If completion of an investigation is delayed, but the institution wishes NSF deferral to continue, NSF may require submission of periodic status reports.

(5) Provide OIG with the final report from any investigation.

(c) NSF expects institutions to promptly notify OIG should the institution become aware during an inquiry or investigation that:

(1) Public health or safety is at risk;

(2) NSF's resources, reputation, or other interests need protecting;

(3) There is reasonable indication of possible violations of civil or criminal law;

(4) Research activities should be suspended;

(5) Federal action may be needed to protect the interests of a subject of the investigation or of others potentially affected; or

(6) The scientific community or the public should be informed.

(d) Awardee institutions should maintain and effectively communicate to their staffs appropriate policies and procedures relating to research misconduct, which should indicate when NSF should be notified.

§ 689.5 Initial NSF handling of misconduct matters.

(a) NSF staff who learn of alleged misconduct will promptly and discreetly inform OIG or refer informants to OIG.

(b) The identity of informants who wish to remain anonymous will be kept confidential to the extent permitted by law or regulation.

(c) If OIG determines that alleged research misconduct involves potential civil or criminal violations, OIG may refer the matter to the Department of Justice.

(d) Otherwise OIG may:

(1) Inform the awardee institution of the alleged research misconduct and encourage it to undertake an inquiry;

(2) Defer to inquiries or investigations of the awardee institution or of another Federal agency; or

(3) At any time proceed with its own inquiry.

(e) If OIG proceeds with its own inquiry it will normally complete the inquiry no more than 90 days after initiating it.

(f) On the basis of what it learns from an inquiry and in consultation as appropriate with other NSF offices, OIG will decide whether a formal NSF investigation is warranted.

§ 689.6 Investigations.

(a) When an awardee institution or another Federal agency has promptly initiated its own investigation, OIG may defer an NSF inquiry or investigation until it receives the results of that external investigation. If it does not receive the results within 180 days, OIG may proceed with its own investigation.

(b) If OIG decides to initiate an NSF investigation, it must give prompt written notice to the individual or institutions to be investigated, unless notice would prejudice the investigation or unless a criminal investigation is underway or under active consideration. If notice is delayed, it must be given as soon as it will no longer prejudice the investigation or contravene requirements of law or Federal law-enforcement policies.

(c) If a criminal investigation by the Department of Justice, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, or another Federal agency is underway or under active consideration by these agencies or the NSF, OIG will determine what information, if any, may be disclosed to the subject of the investigation or to other NSF employees.

(d) An NSF investigation may include:

(1) Review of award files, reports, and other documents already readily available at NSF or in the public domain;

(2) Review of procedures or methods and inspection of laboratory materials, specimens, and records at awardee institutions;

(3) Interviews with subjects or witnesses;

(4) Review of any documents or other evidence provided by or properly obtainable from parties, witnesses, or other sources;

(5) Cooperation with other Federal agencies; and

(6) Opportunity for the subject of the investigation to be heard.

(e) OIG may invite outside consultants or experts to participate in an NSF investigation. They should be appointed in a manner that ensures the official nature of their involvement and provides them with legal protections available to federal employees.

(f) OIG will make every reasonable effort to complete an NSF investigation and to report its recommendations, if any, to the Deputy Director within 180 days after initiating it.

§ 689.7 Pending proposals and awards.

(a) Upon learning of alleged research misconduct OIG will identify potentially implicated awards or proposals and when appropriate, will ensure that program, grant, and contracting officers handling them are informed (subject to § 689.6(c)).

(b) Neither a suspicion or allegation of research misconduct nor a pending inquiry or investigation will normally delay review of proposals. To avoid influencing reviews, reviewers or panelists will not be informed of allegations or of ongoing inquiries or investigations. However, if allegations, inquiries, or investigations have been rumored or publicized, the responsible Program Director may consult with OIG and, after further consultation with the Office of General Counsel, either defer review, inform reviewers to disregard the matter, or inform reviewers of the status of the matter.

§ 689.8 Interim administrative actions.

(a) After an inquiry or during an external or NSF investigation the Deputy Director may order that interim actions (as described in § 689.3(c)) be taken to protect Federal resources or to guard against continuation of any suspected or alleged research misconduct. Such an order will normally be issued on recommendation from OIG and in consultation with the Division of Contracts, Policy, and Oversight or Division of Grants and Agreements, the Office of the General Counsel, the responsible Directorate, and other parts of the Foundation as appropriate.

(b) When suspension is determined to be appropriate, the case will be referred to the suspending official pursuant to 45 CFR part 620, and the suspension procedures of 45 CFR part 620 will be followed, but the suspending official will be either the Deputy Director or an official designated by the Deputy Director.

(c) Such interim actions may be taken whenever information developed during an investigation indicates a need to do so. Any interim action will be reviewed periodically during an investigation by NSF and modified as warranted. An interested party may request a review or modification by the Deputy Director of any interim action.

(d) The Deputy Director will make and OIG will retain a record of interim actions taken and the reasons for taking them.

(e) Interim administrative actions are not final agency actions subject to appeal.

§ 689.9 Dispositions.

(a) After receiving a report from an external investigation by an awardee institution or another Federal agency, OIG will assess the accuracy and completeness of the report and whether the investigating entity followed reasonable procedures. It will either recommend adoption of the findings in whole or in part or, normally within 30 days, initiate a new investigation.

(b) When any satisfactory external investigation or an NSF investigation fails to confirm alleged misconduct—

(1) OIG will notify the subject of the investigation and, if appropriate, those who reported the suspected or alleged misconduct. This notification may include the investigation report.

(2) Any interim administrative restrictions that were imposed will be lifted.

(c) When any satisfactory investigation confirms misconduct—

(1) In cases in which debarment is considered by OIG to be an appropriate disposition, the case will be referred to the debarring official pursuant to 45 CFR part 620 and the procedures of 45 CFR part 620 will be followed, but:

(i) The debarring official will be either the Deputy Director, or an official designated by the Deputy Director.

(ii) Except in unusual circumstances, the investigation report and recommended disposition will be included among the materials provided to the subject of the investigation as part of the notice of proposed debarment.

(iii) The notice of the debarring official's decision will include instructions on how to pursue an appeal to the Director.

(2) In all other cases—

(i) Except in unusual circumstances, the investigation report will be provided by OIG to the subject of the investigation, who will be invited to submit comments or rebuttal. Comments or rebuttal submitted within the period allowed, normally 30 days, will receive full consideration and may lead to revision of the report or of a recommended disposition.

(ii) Normally within 45 days after completing an NSF investigation or receiving the report from a satisfactory external investigation, OIG will submit to the Deputy Director the investigation report, any comments or rebuttal from the subject of the investigation, and a recommended disposition. The recommended disposition will propose any final actions to be taken by NSF. Section 689.3 lists possible final actions and considerations to be used in determining them.

(iii) The Deputy Director will review the investigation report and OIG's recommended disposition. Before issuing a disposition the Deputy Director may initiate further hearings or investigation. Normally within 120 days after receiving OIG's recommendations or after completion of any further proceedings, the Deputy Director will send the affected individual or institution a written disposition, specifying actions to be taken. The decision will include instructions on how to pursue an appeal to the Director.

§ 689.10 Appeals.

(a) An affected individual or institution may appeal to the Director in writing within 30 days after receiving the Deputy Director's written decision. The Deputy Director's decision becomes a final administrative action if it is not appealed within the 30 day period.

(b) The Director may appoint an uninvolved NSF officer or employee to review an appeal and make recommendations.

(c) The Director will normally inform the appellant of a final decision within 60 days after receiving the appeal. That decision will be the final administrative action of the Foundation.

46 CFR Part 356

[Docket No. MARAD-2001-10518]

RIN 2133-AB45

Eligibility of U.S.-Flag Vessels of 100 Feet or Greater in Registered Length To Obtain a Fishery Endorsement to the Vessel's Documentation

AGENCY: Maritime Administration, Department of Transportation.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: In an interim final rule published on August 31, 2001, the Maritime Administration ("MARAD," "we," "our," or "us") amended our regulations implementing the new U.S. citizenship requirements set forth in the American Fisheries Act of 1998 ("AFA"). MARAD's regulation, at 46 CFR part 356, contains the substantive requirements mandated by the AFA and procedural requirements established by MARAD for administration of the AFA. We promulgated an amendment that provides us with the ability to waive any procedural requirement, if there is good cause to do so and the waiver would not be inconsistent with the AFA and the intent of part 356. The waiver provision was effective, as an interim final rule, upon publication, but we are now publishing this waiver provision as a final rule.

DATES: The effective date of this final rule is March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Murray A. Bloom, Citizenship Approval Officer, Maritime Administration, MAR-222 Room 7228, 400 7th Street, SW, Washington, DC 20590. Telephone: (202) 366-5320.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The AFA imposes new citizenship requirements for the owners of vessels of 100 feet or greater in registered length which hold a fishery endorsement or for which a fishery endorsement is sought and for entities holding a preferred ship mortgage on such vessels. We are required by the AFA to "rigorously" scrutinize any transfer of ownership and control over fishing vessels, fish processing vessels and fish tender vessels. In so doing, we must pay particular attention to leases, charters, financing arrangements, mortgages, and other documents to determine if they constitute an impermissible conveyance of control to persons not eligible to own a vessel with a fishery endorsement.

MARAD's detailed regulations, 46 CFR part 356, were published in the Federal Register on July 19, 2000 (65 FR 44859), following notice and opportunity for submission of comments. The new citizenship requirements became effective on October 1, 2001. Vessel owners were directed to submit citizenship affidavits and other documents to us by June 1, 2001. We have provided information on the new requirements on MARAD's web site, <http://marad.dot.gov/afa.html>, mailed information to owners of fishing industry vessels and conducted briefings open to the public.

The new regulations applied for the first time to a population of individuals who had not communicated or worked with MARAD. Therefore, we were concerned about circumstances and issues that were not anticipated by us or the public and that could not be resolved in the short period of time before October 1, 2001. In addition, we were concerned that some confusion may have arisen for the public because the U.S. Coast Guard will administer the AFA's citizenship requirements with regard to vessels under 100 feet in registered length under its own procedures. Our concerns were based on actual contacts between MARAD staff and the public that brought to our attention the potential for certain inequitable results that could stem from the implementation of the regulations if MARAD did not have the ability to waive certain procedural requirements. At that time, we expected to review about 500 affidavits along with underlying articles of incorporation, bylaws, charters, management agreements, sales agreements and other documents.

In the course of reviewing this large number of complicated business arrangements, it became apparent that there were circumstances, often not the fault of the vessel owner, that prevented us in several instances from making a complete citizenship finding by October 1, 2001. Our regulations provide the opportunity for the applicant to work with us to resolve matters prior to issuing a determination whether the applicant qualifies as a U.S. citizen. However, the AFA rule would have caused the vessel owner's fishery endorsement to be deemed invalid on October 1, 2001 if we had not issued a citizenship determination. Thus, there were times when a waiver of our procedures would have been appropriate to avoid this result. Accordingly, MARAD promulgated this amendment to 46 CFR part 356, on August 31, 2001 at 66 FR 45945, which allows us to waive procedural provisions of the rule not mandated by the AFA. The waiver provision is not applicable to the substantive requirements set out in the AFA and the rule. In addition, any waiver must be supported by good cause shown.

The waiver provision became effective as an interim measure immediately upon publication on August 31, 2001 so that it was in place before October 1, 2001, the date when MARAD was required to determine the U.S. citizenship status of 500-700 vessel owners and operators. The need to fairly administer the new and intricate requirements of the AFA within the stringent time constraints fully supports a finding of good cause, under the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553(b) and (d), that the final rule should be effective upon publication.

Our practical experience with the waiver authority validated our original assumptions. More than a dozen waivers have been issued so far. Each waiver was well justified in that they allowed vessel owners some additional time to revise troublesome provisions of complicated vessel charters or corporate documents or provided needed time for us to resolve complex issues. Going forward, we expect the waiver provision to be used sparingly. However, there is still a need for the waiver provision, because vessel owners enter into new business arrangements constantly, and we need to ensure a thorough review of such arrangements.

We received no comments from the public either in favor or opposed to making the interim final rule a final rule.

Rulemaking Analyses and Notices

Executive Order 12866 (Regulatory Planning and Review)

After discussing compliance requirements with interested vessel owners, operators and mortgagees, we became aware of a need to have a waiver provision in the AFA regulations so that non-material discrepancies in a vessel's documentation would not arbitrarily cause a vessel owner to lose their fishery endorsement. The waiver provision will not entail any cost to vessel owners, mortgagees, charterers, or other parties regulated by 46 CFR part 356.

This final rule is not a significant regulatory action under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866. Consequently, it was not reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget. The economic impact, if any, should be minimal; therefore, no further analysis is necessary. This final rule is not significant according to the Regulatory Policies and Procedures of the Department of Transportation, 44 FR 11034 (February 26, 1979) as it merely allows waiver of administrative and procedural requirements.

Federalism

We analyzed this rulemaking in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in E.O. 13132 ("Federalism") and have determined that it does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant consultation with State and local officials. The regulations have no substantial effects on the States, or on the current Federal-State relationship, or on the current distribution of power and responsibilities among the various local officials.

Executive Order 13175

MARAD does not believe that this final rule will significantly or uniquely affect the communities of Indian tribal governments when analyzed under the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 13175 ("Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments"). Therefore, the funding and consultation requirements of this Executive Order would not apply.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) requires us to consider whether our proposals will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. "Small entities" include independently owned and operated small businesses that are not dominant in their field and that otherwise qualify as "small business concerns" under section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632). This rulemaking may reasonably be expected to affect small businesses or entities that currently own documented fishing vessels, fish processing vessels, or fish tender vessels, that have financed such vessels, or that are engaging in the fisheries of the United States with such vessels. The Small Business Administration defines businesses within the fishing industry that have annual receipts of $3 million or less as small businesses, 13 CFR 121.201. We believe that any cost to small business entities to comply with this final rule will be minimal, if any, because this final rule allows waiver of procedural (i.e., administrative) requirements that may cause a vessel owner to lose its fishery endorsement. Therefore, MARAD certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Environmental Impact Statement

We have analyzed this rule for purposes of compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) and have concluded that under the categorical exclusions provision in section 4.05 of Maritime Administrative Order 600-1, "Procedures for Considering Environmental Impacts," 50 FR 11606 (March 22, 1985), the preparation of an Environmental Assessment, and an Environmental Impact Statement, or a Finding of No Significant Impact for this rulemaking is not required. This rulemaking involves administrative and procedural regulations that clearly have no environmental impact.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This rulemaking does not establish any new requirement for the collection of information.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This final rule will not impose an unfunded mandate under the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995. It will not result in costs of $100 million or more, in the aggregate, to any of the following: State, local, or Native American tribal governments, or the private sector. This final rule is the least burdensome alternative that achieves the objective of the rule.

Regulation Identifier Number

A regulation identifier number (RIN) is assigned to each regulatory action listed in the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Regulatory Information Service Center publishes the Unified Agenda in April and October of each year. The RIN number contained in the heading of this document can be used to cross reference this action with the Unified Agenda.

Fisheries off West Coast States and in the Western Pacific; Precious Corals Fisheries; Harvest Quotas, Definitions, Size Limits, Gear Restrictions, and Bed Classification

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: NMFS has partially approved a regulatory amendment under the Fishery Management Plan for Precious Coral Fisheries of the Western Pacific Region (FMP) submitted by the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council) and is issuing a final rule that will implement gear restrictions, size limits, and definitions governing the harvest of precious coral resources managed under the FMP. Precious coral management measures that were published in the proposed rule that apply only to the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands (NWHI) are not being implemented by NMFS because they were determined to be inconsistent with certain provisions of Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, which together establish the NWHI Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve (Reserve).

DATES: Effective April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the background documents, including an environmental assessment/initial regulatory flexibility analysis/regulatory impact review (EA/IRFA/RIR) (March 2001) and an RIR/final regulatory flexibility analysis (FRFA), (March 2002) are available from Dr. Charles Karnella, Administrator, NMFS, Pacific Islands Area Office (PIAO), 1601 Kapiolani Blvd., Suite 1110, Honolulu, HI 96814.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Alvin Katekaru, PIAO, 808-973-2937.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On September 5, 2000, NMFS published a proposed rule (65 FR 53692) on regulatory adjustments governing the harvest of precious coral resources managed under the FMP. The rule contained eight measures intended to conserve and reduce the risk of overfishing the precious coral resource; promote optimal utilization of the resource and minimize waste; and protect the precious coral beds in the NWHI that provide foraging habitat for the endangered Hawaiian monk seal. In December 2000, and January 2001, President Clinton issued Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, respectively, which together established the Reserve. NMFS has determined that two of the proposed precious coral measures that apply only to precious coral beds around the NWHI are inconsistent with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196.

This final rule implements the following six measures: (1) Suspends the harvest of gold coral at Makapu'u Bed off the Island of Oahu; (2) redefines "dead precious coral" as coral that has no live coral polyps or tissue, and redefines "live precious coral" accordingly; (3) applies minimum size restrictions only to live precious corals; (4) prohibits the harvest of black coral unless it has attained a minimum stem diameter of 1 inch (2.54 cm) or a minimum height of 48 inches (122 cm), except in certain cases; (5) prohibits the use of non-selective fishing gear to harvest precious corals; and (6) applies the current minimum size restriction for pink coral to all permit areas.

Comment and Response

One letter was received commenting on the proposed rule.

Comment: The measures to define live coral as coral harboring living polyps and to apply size and quota restrictions to live coral only, mean that the harvest of dead gold coral will be unregulated. Unrestricted takes of dead gold coral may have negative impacts on live gold coral as there is some evidence from the NWHI that dead coral may be the preferred substrate for resettlement (i.e., seeding) of new gold coral colonies.

Response: NMFS shares this concern. The amount of information on the relationship between dead gold coral and the seeding of new colonies is limited at this time. NMFS however believes the concern is mitigated by restrictions imposed on commercial harvesting of precious corals, under Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196 establishing the Reserve.

NMFS is not implementing two precious coral measures that would have (a) revised the boundaries of the Brooks Banks Bed, NWHI, reduced this bed's harvest quota for pink coral, and suspended the harvest quota (i.e., reduced to zero) for gold coral; and (b) established a NWHI precious coral permit area, French Frigate Shoals (FFS) Gold Pinnacles Bed, and classified this bed as a "conditional" bed with a zero harvest quota for all species of precious corals. The final rule is changed from the proposed rule because continued management of precious coral fisheries around the NWHI is inconsistent with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196. Specifically, the measures establishing pink and gold coral harvest quotas at NWHI Brooks Banks Bed are inconsistent with section 7(b)(5) of the Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196. In this section, the Executive Order establishes zero harvest in the Reserve where the Brooks Banks Bed is located. Establishment of a quota for pink coral at Brooks Banks Bed also conflicts with the Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196 since they generally prohibit the harvest of living and nonliving resources throughout the Reserve. Although creation of a new FFS Gold Pinnacles Bed and its classification as a "conditional" bed are not literally contrary to the E.O.s, a zero harvest quota duplicates restrictions in the E.O.s, and therefore is unnecessary.

Another change between the final rule and proposed rule is that § 660.86 (b)(2) has been revised to allow for expedient issuance of exemptions from black coral harvest size requirements. This change allows NMFS to streamline the exemption process by relying on a State of Hawaii precious corals database to determine eligible harvesters.

The final rule contains a technical correction to the location of the Wespac Bed, Permit Area R-1, by redefining the current position of 28°50.2' N. lat. to 23°18' N. lat.

Classification

This final rule has been determined to be not significant for purposes of Executive Order 12866.

NMFS prepared a FRFA describing the impact of the action on small entities. The IRFA was summarized in the proposed rule published on September 5, 2000 (65 FR 53692). None of the comments received on the proposed rule directly or indirectly addressed the results of the IRFA, which also provided analysis on the proposed measures that are not included in the final rule. The following is a summary of the FRFA (March 1, 2002).

The Council considered eight adjustments to management measures in the FMP. Six of those management measures are discussed below. The remaining two management measures, that involve the Reserve, were not approved by NMFS for the reasons stated above. This partial disapproval is not expected to have any economic impact because no commercial precious coral harvest is currently occurring in the Reserve.

Under Management Objective 1, (reduce the potential for overfishing of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed), four alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the harvest quota for gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed will be suspended until further information on the impact of harvesting on subsequent recruitment of gold coral is available. A gold coral quota of zero would likely have some adverse economic impact on potential harvesters. However, the density of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed is already very low. It is likely that any harvest effort occurring at Makapu'u bed will be directed mainly toward pink coral because this coral is relatively abundant at the bed and has a higher market value than gold coral ($440/kg for pink coral (C. secundum) vs. $330/kg for gold coral according to Maui Divers of Hawaii, Ltd.). A suspension of the quota is not expected to have an adverse economic impact on processors of precious corals in Hawaii. The fishery in the EEZ around Hawaii for deep-water species of precious coral, including pink, gold and bamboo coral, has been nearly dormant for two decades. Consequently, the processors of these corals in Hawaii have relied almost exclusively on imported material.

Three alternatives were considered and rejected for the first management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the biennial gold coral quota of 600 kg (132 lb) at Makapu'u Bed. Maintaining the current biennial harvest quota of 600 kg (132 lb) for gold coral at Makapu'u Bed would continue to make available to prospective harvesters a quantity of gold coral worth $198,000 every two years ($99,000 annually) if the actual stock is of sufficient size to support such a harvest. However, a recent survey of the bed revealed that the current standing stock of gold coral is low and may not yield the current harvest quota. In addition, the adverse economic impacts over the long term would be significant if further harvesting diminishes the number of colonies to the point that no recovery is possible.

The second rejected alternative would have suspended the harvest quota for gold coral at all established and conditional beds until additional information is available on the impact of harvesting on subsequent recruitment of gold coral. The total harvest quota for gold coral at all established and conditional beds is 1,080 kg (238 lb) every two years, with an estimated dockside value of $356,400. However, the gold coral quota at the Makapu'u Bed accounts for more than half of this total. As noted above, the current standing stock of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed may not yield the current biennial harvest quota of 600 kg (132 lb). If no gold coral is harvested from the Makapu'u Bed the amount of potential gross revenues foregone by suspending the harvest quota at all established and conditional beds is estimated to be about $158,400 every two years.

The third rejected alternative would have implemented a minimum size limit for gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed. This alternative was rejected because the calculation of an appropriate minimum size requires estimates of growth rates, mortality rates and size at reproductive maturity. These data estimates are lacking for gold coral. Without this information the size limit established may be too low, thereby insufficiently protecting the coral from overfishing and eventually leading to reduced economic returns, or may be too high, thereby resulting in an overly conservative size limit that unnecessarily reduces potential economic returns.

Under Management Objective 2 (reduce the potential for harvest of coral which has live coral polyps or tissue), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, dead precious coral will be defined as precious coral that no longer has any live coral polyps or tissue, and live precious coral will be defined as precious coral that has live polyps or tissue. Only live coral will be counted toward the quotas limiting the amount of precious coral that may be taken in any permit area during the fishing year. It is possible that some of the coral at a given bed that was regarded as dead under the current definition would be regarded as live under the alternative definition, and therefore be subject to the harvest quota for that bed. However, the amount of additional coral that would be subject to the quota is likely to be small, as coral colonies that contain holes from borers or are discolored or encrusted generally no longer have any living polyps or tissue. There is insufficient information on the amount of coral meeting this definition at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the second management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current definition of dead precious coral as any precious coral that contains holes from borers or is discolored or encrusted at the time of removal from the seabed. This alternative was rejected because allowing the harvest of coral that is currently defined as dead and is believed to provide foraging habitat to the endangered Hawaiian monk seal may lead to emergency closures of specific sites or alterations of fishing operations. The economic impact of closures or other measures would depend on the length of time that these measures are in effect.

The second rejected alternative would have defined dead precious coral as precious coral that is no longer standing upright, and define live precious coral as precious coral that is standing upright. However, the amount of additional coral that would be subject to the quota is likely to be small, as coral colonies that contain holes from borers or are discolored or encrusted are often no longer standing upright. There is insufficient information on the amount of coral meeting this definition at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

Under Management Objective 3, (allow greater utilization of dead coral resources), two alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, size limits will be applied only to live coral. This alternative will allow greater utilization of dead coral resources and thus increase potential income to harvesters. There is insufficient information on the quantity of dead coral at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

The rejected alternative would have maintained the application of minimum size limits to both live and dead coral. This alternative was rejected because it prohibits the harvest of dead coral that is below the minimum size limit despite the fact that the harvest of dead coral is not considered to be detrimental. There is insufficient information on the quantity of dead coral at different beds to quantify the economic impact.

Under Management Objective 4 (regulate the harvest of black coral), four alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the harvest of black coral will be prohibited unless it has attained either a minimum stem diameter of 1 inch (2.54 cm), measured no less than 1 inch (2.54 cm) from the top of the living holdfast, or a minimum height of 48 inches (122 cm), measured from the base to the greatest distal extremity of the colony. Persons who reported a landing of black coral to the State of Hawaii within 5 years before the effective date of the final rule may apply for an exemption which allows the hand harvest of black coral that has attained a 3/4 inch (1.905 cm) base diameter, measured on the widest portion of the

Three alternatives were considered and rejected for this management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current situation of no restrictions on the harvest of black coral. This alternative was rejected because it would allow fishing pressure to increase in an uncontrolled manner and could lead to overfishing of black coral.

The second rejected alternative would have prohibited the harvest of black coral unless it has attained a minimum base diameter of 3/4 inch (1.905 cm), which is believed to inadequately protect black coral resources from overfishing.

The third rejected alternative would have established a weight quota for black coral and was rejected because a weight quota may not be as effective as a size limit in avoiding overfishing of the resource. Information on the standing stock and sustainable yield of managed species of black coral is limited. The use of minimum size limits based on knowledge of the reproductive biology of precious corals is the preferred basis for management of the fishery when selective harvesting is expected to be economically feasible as information on the standing stock and its sustainable yield in terms of weight is limited.

Under Management Objective 5 (protect precious coral resources and essential fish habitat (EFH) from the effects of ecologically destructive and wasteful harvest gear), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. The preferred alternative will require that selective gear be used to harvest precious corals from all permit areas. The cost of purchasing an unmanned submersible (i.e., remotely operated vehicle) may be as low as $50,000, which is roughly equal to the capital investment in gear required to initiate a non-selective harvest operation using tangle nets. Although the capital and operating costs of manned submersibles may be high, they are not economically prohibitive, as is evidenced by the recent interest of two firms in using this type of selective gear to harvest precious corals in the waters around Hawaii. In addition, it is likely that some harvesters of precious coral will be able to defray the costs of using selective gear by finding other lucrative uses for the gear, such as salvage and research. The use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals is an inefficient use of fishery resources. Non-selective gear tends to damage the precious coral trees as it harvests them, thereby greatly reducing the value of the coral. In contrast, selective gear harvests coral so that it retains its highest value.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the fifth management objective to protect precious coral resources and EFH from the effects of ecologically destructive and wasteful harvest gear.

The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current regulations requiring selective gear only at the Makapu'u, Keahole Point, and Kaena Point Beds. This alternative was rejected because the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals is not an efficient use of fishery resources. The value of precious coral colonies is dependent on its size, color and condition. Large, completely intact trees of coral have the greatest value. Non-selective gear such as dredges harvest pieces of broken coral knocked down by the dredge stone and entangled in the nets as the dredge is pulled along the sea floor. Breakage may reduce a coral's value by as much as 80 percent.

Allowing the continued use of this relatively inexpensive gear in exploratory areas may encourage the discovery and exploration of new beds. However, the use of non-selective gear is unlikely to provide sufficient data to develop reliable estimates of the standing stock and maximum sustained yield (MSY) for newly discovered beds because this gear cannot discriminate or differentiate between types, size, quality or characteristics of living or dead corals. Further, the degradation of precious coral beds may reduce monk seal foraging habitat. The economic impact of such adverse modifications would be likely to include emergency closures of specific sites, including Brooks Bank, or alteration of fishing operations. The specific cost of closures or other measures would depend on the length of time that these measures are in effect.

The second rejected alternative would have required that selective gear be used to harvest precious corals from all established and conditional beds. This alternative was rejected as it would fail to protect those precious coral resources located outside of these beds.

Under Management Objective 6 (reduce the potential for overfishing of pink coral at conditional beds and exploratory areas), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the current 10 inch size limit for pink coral will be applied to all established beds, conditional beds, and exploratory areas. The feasibility of this alternative is contingent on a prohibition on the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals for commercial purposes in all permit areas. Applying the size limit for pink coral to all permit areas is unlikely to have a significant negative economic impact because the potential financial return from harvesting colonies of pink coral that are less than 10 inches (25.4 cm) in height is low. According to Maui Divers of Hawaii, Ltd., harvesting colonies less than 10 inches (25.4 cm) is not economically practical, because the return does not justify the time spent harvesting.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the sixth management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the application of the 10-inch (25.4 cm) size limit for pink coral at the established Makapu'u, Keahole Point, and Kaena Point Beds only, and was rejected because long-term negative impacts on harvest levels and gross revenues could be potentially large if the resources are overfished. Given the life-history characteristics of pink coral, such as slow growth and long generation time, overfishing could degrade the productivity of affected precious coral beds for many years.

The second rejected alternative would have applied the current 10-inch (25.4 cm) size limit for pink coral only to established and conditional beds. This alternative would have had economic impacts similar to the preferred alternative. However, it was rejected because it would not provide protection for the minimum sizes to pink corals located in exploratory areas.

This final rule could affect five to seven small businesses. There are three to five small-boat fishermen who harvest black coral using scuba gear in beds overlapping State of Hawaii and Federal waters, as well as two historical or potential operations targeting other precious corals. Between 1990 and 1997, the total annual harvest of black coral in Hawaii varied from a low of 864 lbs (391 kg) to a high of 6,017 lbs (272 kg), with a yearly average of 3,084 lbs (139 kg). The 415 lbs (188 kg) of black coral sold in 1997 had a dockside value of about $10,394, assuming a price of $25/lb. NMFS cannot determine the proportions of the harvest of black coral made in State and Federal waters based on the available information. Details on the harvest of other precious corals cannot be released due to confidentiality requirements as there have been less than three operations active in the past decade.

Due to the low level of participation in the western Pacific precious coral fishery, aggregate economic impacts resulting from the final rule will be minimal. The analysis, however, shows that prohibiting the harvest of gold coral at Makapu'u Bed could result in the loss of potential revenues of approximately $100,000 annually in the short term, if the actual stock is of sufficient size to support the current harvest quota.

Establishment of a universal minimum harvest size for all pink coral management unit species could result in a positive economic impact in the form of long-term maintenance of MSYs. On the other hand, imposing a minimum harvest size for black corals could have a negative economic impact on fishery revenues, except for five harvesters expected to be exempt from the minimum harvest size requirement. A prohibition on the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals could result in additional costs for future participants. Hand-harvesters for black corals would be unaffected by this prohibition. The exact costs of selective gear technologies are unknown, although a remotely operated submersible coral harvester can now be obtained for $50,000, which may be approximately equal to the cost of setting up a non-selective harvest operation using tangle nets. The effective yield is higher for selective harvesting of precious corals using submersibles compared to the wasteful practice of harvesting precious corals using non-selective gear.

Due to a lack of information on the long term effects of alternative management measures on coral stocks, harvest effort or catch rates, a detailed quantitative analysis of the costs and benefits of alternative management measures is not possible at this time.

Although long-term data are unavailable, analysis of this fishery is ongoing, and may lead to simulation models capable of predicting the biological (and economic) effects of each alternative. From a conceptual point of view, the precious corals fishery represents a difficult economic analysis. Although standard bioeconomic theory suggests that the harvest rate should be no more than the growth rate of the coral population at its MSY (accounting for economic production cost relationships and the discount rate), the growth rate of coral is so slow that a mining approach might be considered preferable, i.e., that the resource might be allowed to be over-fished in the short-term, and then harvesting prohibited for the many years which would be required for it to be fully restored. However, this approach was rejected because it would be inconsistent, with National Standard 1 of the Magnuson-Stevens Act which prohibits overfishing. It is anticipated by NMFS that by allowing the coral populations to maintain their long-term sustainability, there will be a larger standing stock of corals which will optimize harvest rates and reduce the relative costs of harvesting (due to increased density). By limiting the harvest rates to those allowed by MSY, the likelihood that long-term benefits will exceed costs is increased. In addition, these restrictions may preclude new entry into the fishery, therefore improving social benefits (i.e., avoiding over-capacity). To the extent that these initial explorations are successful in identifying additional coral resources for harvesting, and as new economic information is acquired, a re-evaluation of the relative benefits and costs of these management measures would be warranted.

None of the alternatives considered is expected to have significant social impacts on fishery participants or Hawaii fishing communities in terms of employment, enjoyment of the fishery, vessel and crew safety, social or cultural activity in the fishery, or other social factors.

To minimize impact, this final rule removes size limits for dead corals. However, this revision could cause some risk to certain corals, such as gold corals, that may use dead corals for resettlement of new colonies.

This final rule does not contain any reporting or record-keeping requirements.

An informal consultation under the Endangered Species Act was conducted to determine whether this regulatory amendment was likely to affect any endangered or threatened species, including Hawaiian monk seals. This consultation was completed on December 20, 2000, and concluded that this regulatory amendment is not likely to adversely affect any endangered or threatened resources. The disapproval of the two NWHI measures does not affect that determination.

This final rule is consistent with Executive Order 13089, which is intended to preserve and protect the biodiversity, health, heritage, and social and economic value of U.S. coral reef ecosystems and the marine environment.

The modification incorporates the installation of dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems and dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems that perform critical functions. These special conditions contain the additional safety standards that the Administrator considers necessary to establish a level of safety equivalent to that provided by the existing airworthiness standards.

DATES: The effective date of these special conditions is March 6, 2002. Comments must be received on or before April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments on these special conditions may be mailed in duplicate to: Federal Aviation Administration, Transport Airplane Directorate, Attn: Rules Docket (ANM-113), Docket No.

NM214 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington, 98055-4056; or delivered in duplicate to the Transport Airplane Directorate at the above address. All comments must be marked: Docket No. NM214. Comments may be inspected in the Rules Docket weekdays, except Federal holidays, between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Meghan Gordon, FAA, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, Transport Airplane Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service, 1601 Lind Avenue SW., Renton, Washington, 98055-4056; telephone (425) 227-2138; facsimile (425) 227-1149.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The FAA has determined that notice and opportunity for prior public comment hereon are impracticable because these procedures would significantly delay certification of the airplane and thus delivery of the affected airplanes. The FAA therefore finds that good cause exists for making these special conditions effective upon issuance.

Background

On January 10, 2002, Garrett Aviation Services, 1200 North Airport Drive—Capital Airport, Springfield, IL 62707, applied for a supplemental type certificate (STC) to modify Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes approved under Type Certificate No. A7EU. The Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 are small transport category airplanes powered by two turbofan engines, with a maximum takeoff weight of 29,000 pounds. These airplanes operate with a 2-pilot crew and can hold up to 10 passengers. The modification incorporates the installation of a Rockwell Collins ProLine 21 Display System, consisting of dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems which replace the existing Primary Flight Display systems, and a Rockwell Collins Attitude Heading Reference System, consisting of dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems. These systems have the potential to be vulnerable to high-intensity radiated fields (HIRF) external to the airplane.

Type Certification Basis

Under the provisions of 14 CFR 21.101, Garrett Aviation Services must show that the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes, as changed, continue to meet the applicable provisions of the regulations incorporated by reference in Type Certificate No. A7EU, or the applicable regulations in effect on the date of application for the change. The regulations incorporated by reference in the type certificate are commonly referred to as the "original type certification basis." The certification basis for the modified Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes includes CAR 4b, dated December 1953, through Amendment 4b-12 and SR422B; and 14 CFR part 25, dated

February 1, 1965, through Amendment 25-41, except for special conditions and exceptions noted in Type Certificate Data Sheet (TCDS) A7EU.

If the Administrator finds that the applicable airworthiness regulations (i.e., CAR 4b and 14 CFR part 25, as amended) do not contain adequate or appropriate safety standards for the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes because of novel or unusual design features, special conditions are prescribed under the provisions of § 21.16.

Special conditions, as defined in § 11.19, are issued in accordance with § 11.38, and become part of the type certification basis in accordance with § 21.101(b)(2).

Special conditions are initially applicable to the model for which they are issued. Should Garrett Aviation Services apply at a later date for design change approval to modify any other model already included on the same type certificate to incorporate the same novel or unusual design feature, these special conditions would also apply to the other model under the provisions of § 21.101(a)(1).

Novel or Unusual Design Features

As noted earlier, the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services will incorporate dual Electronic Primary Flight Display systems and dual Electronic Primary Attitude Source systems that will perform critical functions. The existing airworthiness standards of part 25 do not contain adequate or appropriate safety standards for the protection of this equipment from the adverse effects of HIRF. Accordingly, these systems are considered to be novel or unusual design features.

Discussion

There is no specific regulation that addresses protection requirements for electrical and electronic systems from HIRF. Increased power levels from ground-based radio transmitters and the growing use of sensitive avionics/electronics and electrical systems to command and control airplanes have made it necessary to provide adequate protection.

To ensure that a level of safety is achieved equivalent to that intended by the regulations incorporated by reference, special conditions are needed for the Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. These special conditions require that new avionics/electronics and electrical systems that perform critical functions be designed and installed to preclude component damage and interruption of function due to both the direct and indirect effects of HIRF.

High-Intensity Radiated Fields (HIRF)

With the trend toward increased power levels from ground-based transmitters, plus the advent of space and satellite communications, coupled with electronic command and control of the airplane, the immunity of critical digital avionics/electronics and electrical systems to HIRF must be established.

It is not possible to precisely define the HIRF to which the airplane will be exposed in service. There is also uncertainty concerning the effectiveness of airframe shielding for HIRF.

Furthermore, coupling of electromagnetic energy to cockpit-installed equipment through the cockpit window apertures is undefined. Based on surveys and analysis of existing HIRF emitters, an adequate level of protection exists when compliance with the HIRF protection special condition is shown with either paragraph 1 or 2 below:

1. A minimum threat of 100 volts rms (root-mean-square) per meter electric field strength from 10 KHz to 18 GHz.

a. The threat must be applied to the system elements and their associated wiring harnesses without the benefit of airframe shielding.

b. Demonstration of this level of protection is established through system tests and analysis.

2. A threat external to the airframe of the field strengths indicated in the following table for the frequency ranges indicated. Both peak and average field strength components from the table are to be demonstrated.

Frequency	Field strength (volts per meter)
	Peak	Average
10 kHz-100 kHz	50	50
100 kHz-500 kHz	50	50
500 kHz-2 MHz	50	50
2 MHz-30 MHz	100	100
30 MHz-70 MHz	50	50
70 MHz-100 MHz	50	50
100 MHz-200 MHz	100	100
200 MHz-400 MHz	100	100
400 MHz-700 MHz	700	50
700 MHz-1 GHz	700	100
1 GHz-2 GHz	2000	200
2 GHz-4 GHz	3000	200
4 GHz-6 GHz	3000	200
6 GHz-8 GHz	1000	200

Frequency	Field strength (volts per meter)
	Peak	Average
8 GHz-12 GHz	3000	300
12 GHz-18 GHz	2000	200
18 GHz-40 GHz	600	200

The field strengths are expressed in terms of peak of the root-mean-square (rms) over the complete modulation period.

The threat levels identified above are the result of an FAA review of existing studies on the subject of HIRF, in light of the ongoing work of the Electromagnetic Effects Harmonization Working Group of the Aviation Rulemaking Advisory Committee.

Applicability

As discussed above, these special conditions are applicable to Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. Should Garrett Aviation Services apply at a later date for design change approval to modify any other model included on the same type certificate to incorporate the same novel or unusual design feature, these special conditions would apply to that model as well under the provisions of § 21.101(a)(1).

Conclusion

This action affects only certain design features on Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services. It is not a rule of general applicability and affects only the applicant who applied to the FAA for approval of these features on the airplane.

The substance of the special conditions for these airplanes has been subjected to the notice and comment procedure in several prior instances and has been derived without substantive change from those previously issued. Because a delay would significantly affect the certification of the airplane, which is imminent, the FAA has determined that prior public notice and comment are unnecessary and impracticable, and good cause exists for adopting these special conditions immediately. The FAA is requesting comments to allow interested persons to submit views that may not have been submitted in response to the prior opportunities for comment described above.

The Special Conditions

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the following special conditions are issued as part of the type certification basis for Dassault Aviation Fan Jet Falcon, Fan Jet Falcon Series C, D, E, and F, and Mystere-Falcon 20-C5, 20-D5, 20-E5, and 20-F5 airplanes modified by Garrett Aviation Services.

1. Protection from Unwanted Effects of High-Intensity Radiated Fields (HIRF). Each electrical and electronic system that performs critical functions must be designed and installed to ensure that the operation and operational capability of these systems to perform critical functions are not adversely affected when the airplane is exposed to high intensity radiated fields.

2. For the purpose of these special conditions, the following definition applies: Critical Functions: Functions whose failure would contribute to or cause a failure condition that would prevent the continued safe flight and landing of the airplane.

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 Series Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes. For certain airplanes, this action requires repetitive inspections for discrepancies of the rear spar attachments and cracks in the upper flange of the inboard track at the rear spar attachment of each outboard flap, and eventual rework of the flap track assembly and rear spar attachments, including replacement of the flap track with a new track, if necessary. For all airplanes, this action requires repetitive inspections for cracks in the upper flange of the inboard flap tracks at the rear spar attachments, and corrective action, if necessary. The actions specified by this AD are intended to find and fix discrepancies of the inboard tracks of the outboard flaps, which could result in loss of the outboard trailing edge flaps and consequent reduced controllability of the airplane. These actions are intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

DATES: Effective April 22, 2002.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of April 22, 2002.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124-2207. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes was published as a supplemental notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) in the Federal Register on August 2, 2001 (66 FR 40162). That action proposed to expand the applicability and remove the optional terminating action of the proposed AD. For certain airplanes, that action proposed to require new repetitive inspections for discrepancies of the rear spar attachments and cracks in the upper flange of the inboard track at the rear spar attachment of each outboard flap, and eventual rework of the flap track assembly and rear spar attachments, including replacement of the flap track with a new track, if necessary. For all airplanes, that action proposed to require repetitive inspections for cracks in the upper flange of the inboard flap tracks at the rear spar attachments, and corrective action, if necessary.

Comments

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comments received.

Request to Clarify Compliance Time

Several commenters note that in paragraphs (a) and (c)(1) of the Supplemental NPRM, the phrase "whichever occurs later," is used when only one compliance time is given. They ask that the compliance time be clarified.

The FAA concurs that clarification is required and, accordingly, has deleted the phrase "whichever occurs later" from paragraphs (a) and (c)(1) of this final rule.

Request to Clarify Which Airplanes Are Subject to Paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM

One commenter points out that paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM is applicable to all Model 737 series airplanes with line numbers 1 through 1585, whereas the service bulletin cited is effective only for the Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes. The commenter requests clarification as to the applicability of paragraph (a) of the AD.

The FAA concurs that clarification is necessary. Our intent was to have paragraph (a) of this AD apply only to the Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes. Accordingly, we have inserted the phrase "[for] Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series [airplanes]" in paragraph (a) of this final rule to specify the correct applicability.

Another commenter suggests that the part of paragraph (a) of the Supplemental NPRM which reads "* * * and airplanes with [line numbers] L/N 870 through 1585 on which the original flap tracks have been replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1 * * *" could be interpreted in two different ways. The commenter requests clarification.

The FAA agrees that the sentence could be misunderstood and, accordingly, has revised the language in paragraph (a) of this final rule to read

“* * * and those airplanes with L/Ns 870 through 1585 inclusive, which either still have their original flap tracks or which have had the original flap tracks replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1 * * *”

Request to Clarify Which Flap Tracks Are Affected

One commenter states that the Supplemental NPRM does not specify which flap tracks are affected by paragraph (a) of the AD. The commenter requests that specific part numbers and dash numbers be listed in the final rule.

The FAA does not concur. The intent of paragraph (a) of this AD is to include all flap tracks for Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes with L/Ns 1 through 1585, except for certain flap tracks which are specifically excluded in the effectivity of the service bulletin. Accordingly, no change has been made to the final rule in this regard.

Request to Correct Reference to Part of Accomplishment Instructions

One commenter indicates that paragraph (d) of the Supplemental NPRM, which requires repetitive inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments, should refer to Part I of the Accomplishment Instructions rather than Part II of those instructions.

The FAA concurs. The original reference in the Supplemental NPRM to Part II was an error. The language in paragraph (d) of this final rule has been changed accordingly.

Conclusion

After careful review of the available data, including the comments noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes previously described. The FAA has determined that these changes will neither increase the economic burden on any operator nor increase the scope of the AD.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 2,890 Boeing Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 1,100 airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD.

It will take approximately 4 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required inspections at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the required inspections on U.S. operators is estimated to be $264,000, or $240 per airplane.

It will take approximately 12 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required rework at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Required parts will cost approximately $532. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the required rework on U.S. operators is estimated to be $1,377,200, or $1,252 per airplane.

The cost impact figures discussed above are based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations adopted herein will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this final rule does not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a “significant rule” under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

2002-05-07 Boeing: Amendment 39-12675. Docket 99-NM-21-AD.

Applicability: Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes; certificated in any category; EXCEPT airplanes on which any replacement flap tracks were installed according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57-1203, dated November 15, 1990, or production equivalent.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (f) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

Note 2: Airplanes modified according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57-1065 are subject to additional work as described in this AD and in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, dated June 1, 2000.

To find and fix discrepancies of the inboard tracks of the outboard flaps, which could result in loss of the outboard trailing edge flaps and consequent reduced controllability of the airplane, accomplish the following:

Initial Inspections

(a) For Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes with line numbers (L/N) 1 through 869 inclusive, and those airplanes with L/Ns 870 through 1585 inclusive, which either still have their original flap tracks or which have had the original flap tracks replaced with certain tracks as specified in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000: Within 6 months after the effective date of this AD, accomplish the requirements of paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this AD, according to Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000.

(1) Perform a detailed visual inspection for discrepancies (e.g., corrosion, or missing, damaged, or migrated anti-fret strips and tapered shims) of the rear spar attachments of the flap tracks.

(2) Perform detailed visual, high frequency eddy current (HFEC), and ultrasonic inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments.

Note 3: Inspections and rework accomplished according to Boeing Alert Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, including Appendix A, dated December 16, 1999, is considered acceptable for compliance with the applicable action specified in this AD.

Note 4: For the purposes of this AD, a detailed visual inspection is defined as: "An intensive visual examination of a specific structural area, system, installation, or assembly to detect damage, failure, or irregularity. Available lighting is normally supplemented with a direct source of good lighting at intensity deemed appropriate by the inspector. Inspection aids such as mirror, magnifying lenses, etc., may be used. Surface cleaning and elaborate access procedures may be required."

Repetitive Inspections

(b) For airplanes subject to paragraph (a) of this AD: If no discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD, thereafter, repeat the inspections specified in paragraph (a) of this AD at intervals not to exceed 9 months, until the actions required by paragraph (c) of this AD have been accomplished.

Rework

(c) For airplanes subject to paragraph (a) of this AD: At the applicable time specified in paragraph (c)(1) or (c)(2) of this AD, accomplish rework of the flap track assembly and aft flap track attachments (including removal of the flap track; a detailed visual inspection for a missing, damaged, or migrated anti-fret strip and tapered shim of the rear spar attachments of the flap track; replacement of the anti-fret strip with a new aluminum anti-fret strip (or installation of an aluminum strip if no strip is installed), as applicable; replacement of the tapered shim with a new shim (or installation of a shim if no shim is installed); eddy current and ultrasonic inspections for fatigue cracking of the flap tracks; a detailed visual inspection for corrosion of the flap tracks; and rework of attachment holes), including replacement of the flap tracks, as applicable, by accomplishing all actions specified in Part II of the Accomplishment Instructions of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000. Do these actions according to that service bulletin, except as provided by paragraph (e) of this AD. Accomplishment of the actions required by this paragraph constitutes terminating action for the repetitive inspections required by paragraph (b) of this AD.

(1) If no discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) or (b) of this AD: Do the rework within 24 months after the effective date of this AD.

(2) If any discrepancy is found during any inspection required by paragraph (a) or (b) of this AD: Do the rework prior to further flight.

Repetitive Inspections

(d) For all airplanes: At the applicable time specified in paragraph (d)(1) or (d)(2) of this AD, and thereafter at least every 24 months, perform detailed visual, HFEC, and ultrasonic inspections for cracking in the upper flange of the inboard track of each outboard flap at the rear spar attachments according to Part I of the Accomplishment Instructions of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000.

(1) For airplanes subject to paragraph (c) of this AD, do the inspections within 10 years after accomplishment of the rework according to paragraph (c) of this AD.

(2) For airplanes other than those identified in paragraph (d)(1) of this AD, do the inspections within 10 years since the airplane's date of manufacture, or within 6 months after the effective date of this AD, whichever occurs later.

Repair Instructions and Exception to Procedures in Service Information

(e) If any discrepancy is found during any action required by paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this AD, and the service bulletin specifies to contact Boeing for appropriate action; OR if any discrepancy is found during inspections according to paragraph (d) of this AD: Prior to further flight, repair according to a method approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA; or according to data meeting the type certification basis of the airplane approved by a Boeing Company Designated Engineering Representative (DER) who has been authorized by the Manager, Seattle ACO, to make such findings. For a repair method to be approved by the Manager, Seattle ACO, as required by this paragraph, the approval letter must specifically reference this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(f) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Seattle ACO. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Seattle ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(g) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

Incorporation by Reference

(h) Except as provided by paragraph (e) of this AD, the actions shall be done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-57A1249, Revision 1, including Appendix A, dated June 1, 2000. This incorporation by reference was approved by the Director of the Federal Register in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR part 51. Copies may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124-2207. Copies may be inspected at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

Effective Date

(i) This amendment becomes effective on April 22, 2002.

Issued in Renton, Washington, on March 8, 2002.

Airworthiness Directives; Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation Model S-76A Helicopters

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment supersedes an existing airworthiness directive (AD) for Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation Model S-76A helicopters that currently requires a service life limit on certain landing gear parts based on hours time-in-service (TIS). This amendment adds another method of calculating the life limit for certain landing gear parts based on cycles and requires the operator to choose and record the method of calculating the service life of each part in the rotorcraft history or equivalent record. This amendment also requires replacing the part based upon either the maximum hours TIS or the maximum cycles but not both. This amendment is prompted by the need to add flight cycles as a method of calculating the life limit for certain landing gear parts based on fatigue analyses. The actions specified by this AD are intended to add or revise the retirement life for certain landing gear parts to prevent fatigue failure of the landing gear and subsequent loss of control of the helicopter.

DATES: Effective April 22, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Richard Noll, Aviation Safety Engineer,

Boston Aircraft Certification Office, 12 New England Executive Park, Burlington, MA 01803, telephone (781) 238-7160, fax (781) 238-7199.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend 14 CFR part 39 by superseding AD 86-09-11, Amendment 39-5298 (51 FR 17009, May 8, 1986), for Sikorsky Model S76A helicopters, was published in the Federal Register on October 12, 2001 (66 FR 52073). That action proposed retaining a life limit based on hours TIS but also allowing the life limit to be based on cycles for certain landing gear parts. That action also proposed selecting a method for calculating the life limit of the landing gear parts, recording that method in the rotorcraft history or equivalent records, and using only that method throughout the life of the part. A cycle is defined as one takeoff to a hover or other mode of flight and one landing.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comment received.

The manufacturer suggests removing all references to specific dates and pages in the maintenance manual because those references could change in future revisions and lead to confusion for the operators. The FAA agrees; however, that information was only included in the NPRM as part of the discussion and was not included in the regulatory text and is not included in the final rule.

That commenter also states that in Table 1 the correct part number for the main landing gear axle is 1945E85 and not 195E85, and the life limit for the main landing gear retraction actuator piston is 33,000 and not 33,300 hours TIS. The FAA agrees and has corrected this AD accordingly.

After careful review of the available data, including the comment noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes described previously. The FAA has determined that these changes are minor corrections and will only minimally increase the economic burden on operators and will not increase the scope of the AD.

The FAA estimates that 87 helicopters of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 2 work hours per helicopter to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $10,440.

The regulations adopted herein will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this final rule does not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by removing Amendment 39-5298 (51 FR 17009, May 8, 1986), and by adding a new airworthiness directive (AD), to read as follows:

2002-05-06 Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation:
Amendment 39-12674, Docket No. 2000-SW-46-AD. Supersedes AD 86-09-11, Amendment 39-5298, Docket No. 86-ASW-12.

Applicability: Model S-76A helicopters, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each helicopter identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been otherwise modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For helicopters that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (e) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent fatigue failures of the main and nose landing gear parts and subsequent loss of control of the helicopter, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 50 hours time-in-service (TIS), determine either the hours TIS or cycles accumulated on each part listed in Table 1 or Table 2 of this AD, as applicable. A cycle is a takeoff to a hover or other mode of flight and a landing.

(1) If neither the hours TIS nor cycles are known for an affected part, assume the rotorcraft's total hours TIS are the hours TIS for that part.

(2) If only one history is known for the part (either hours TIS or cycles), use that method for tracking the remaining life of that part.

(3) Thereafter, record in the rotorcraft history or equivalent record the selected method of calculating the life limit for each landing gear part, and record either the accumulated hours TIS or cycles for the selected method.

(b) Before further flight, remove from service each part listed in the following Table 1 of this AD on or before reaching the applicable life limit:

Revisions and Clarifications to the Export Administration Regulations: Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland

AGENCY: Bureau of Export Administration, Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Export Administration maintains the Export Administration Regulations (EAR). This rule amends the EAR by removing the license requirements for certain regional stability items and for certain crime control items destined to the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland to correctly reflect the status of those countries as NATO members.

DATES: This rule is effective: March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joan Roberts, Acting Director, Office of Strategic Trade and Foreign Policy Controls, Bureau of Export Administration, Telephone: (202) 482–0171, E-mail: jroberts@bxa.doc.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) maintains controls on certain military related items, such as military vehicles and certain specially designed commodities to be used to manufacture military equipment. These controls ensure regional stability in support of foreign policy. BXA also maintains controls on certain crime control and detection instruments and equipment, and related technology and software as a matter of foreign policy, to promote the observance of human rights throughout the world. Countries to which exports and reexports of these items are controlled are identified in Supplement No.1 to part 738 of the

EAR, the Commerce Country Chart, by an X in the regional stability (RS) column identifier RS 2; and crime control (CC) column identifiers: CC 1, CC 2, or CC 3. This rule amends the license requirements for certain crime control items destined to the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland because these countries were recently admitted to NATO. The EAR is amended to correctly reflect the status of these countries as NATO members.

Rulemaking Requirements

1. This final rule has been determined to be not significant for purposes of E.O. 12866.

2. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no person is required to respond nor shall any person be subject to a penalty for failure to comply with, a collection of information, subject to the requirements of the Paperwork Reduction Act, unless that collection of information displays a currently valid OMB Control Number. This rule involves a collection of information subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.). This collection has been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 0694-0088, "Multi-Purpose Application," which carries a burden hour estimate of 45 minutes for a manual submission and 40 minutes for an electronic submission.

3. This rule does not contain policies with Federalism implications sufficient to warrant preparation of a Federalism assessment under Executive Order 13132.

4. The provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) requiring notice of proposed rulemaking, the opportunity for public participation, and a delay in effective date, are inapplicable because this regulation involves a military and foreign affairs function of the United States (See 5 U.S.C. 553(a)(1)). Further, no other law requires that a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment be given for this final rule. Because a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment are not required to be given for this rule under 5 U.S.C. 553 or by any other law, the analytical requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) are not applicable.

Therefore, this regulation is issued in final form. Although there is no formal comment period, public comments on this regulation are welcome on a continuing basis. Comments should be submitted to Sheila Quarterman, Regulatory Policy Division, Bureau of Export Administration, Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 273, Washington, DC 20044.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION16 CFR Parts 801 and 802*Premerger Notification; Reporting and Waiting Period Requirements*AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Trade Commission is amending the premerger notification rules, which require the parties to certain mergers or acquisitions to file reports with the Commission and with the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice and to wait a specified period of time before consummating such transactions, pursuant to section 7A of the Clayton Act. The filing and waiting period requirements enable these enforcement agencies to determine whether a proposed merger or acquisition may violate the antitrust laws if consummated and, when appropriate, to seek a preliminary injunction in Federal court to prevent consummation. The rule amendments are necessary to address public comments regarding the proposed rules published February 1, 2001, and will increase the clarity and improve the effectiveness of the rules.

DATES: These final rules are effective on April 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Marian R. Bruno, Assistant Director, Karen E. Berg, Attorney, or B. Michael Verne, Compliance Specialist, Premerger Notification Office, Bureau of Competition, Room 303, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20580. Telephone: (202) 326-3100.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 1, 2001, the Commission published in the Federal Register interim and proposed rules amending the Hart-Scott-Rodino rules ("HSR rules") contained in 16 CFR parts 801, 802 and 803. The interim rules took effect upon publication in the Federal Register and implemented amendments to section 7A of the Clayton Act enacted on December 21, 2000 ("2000 Amendments"). The proposed rules recommended other changes improving and updating the HSR rules and did not take effect upon publication. Both sets of rules invited public comments.

The Commission, with the concurrence of the Assistant Attorney General, is adopting the proposed rules, previously published on February 1, 2001, as final with certain further changes in response to the public comments, as described below. The Commission received eighteen public comments addressing either or both the interim rules (66 FR 8679-8721) and the proposed rules (66 FR 8723-8729). Fifteen of the eighteen public comments received pertained to the proposed rules.

The following provided public comments on the proposed rules to the Commission:

2. Dockstader, Robert A. (3/19/01)
3. Ford Motor Company (Bolerjack, Stephen D.) (3/19/01)

PART 801—COVERAGE RULES

No public comments were received concerning Part 801 of the proposed rules. These proposed changes include updating examples in §§ 801.4, 801.14 and 801.90; and amending § 801.15 to reflect the $50 million nexus with U.S. commerce threshold for foreign transactions and give proper reference to other rules sections. The Commission is adopting those proposed rules as final without change.

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES*Section 802.2 Certain acquisitions of real property assets.*

The proposed rules would amend § 802.2(g), mainly by removing "associated agricultural assets" from the agricultural real property exemption. Under the current rules, such assets are defined as assets that are integral to the agricultural business activities conducted on the property, including inventory (e.g., livestock, poultry, crops, fruit, vegetables, milk, eggs), structures that house livestock raised on the real property, fertilizer, and animal feed.

Comment 12 questioned the justification for removing the associated agricultural assets—particularly structures and inventories of crops, animal feed or fertilizer—from the exemption. The comment suggested that acquisitions of these assets would not potentially be of substantive antitrust interest.

The Commission has concluded that it is appropriate to remove associated agricultural assets from this real property exemption, as proposed. As the Statement of Basis and Purpose ("SBP") to the Proposed Rules states, doing so will eliminate whatever ambiguity may arguably exist in the definition of "associated agricultural assets." It also refocuses the rule on agricultural real property which was the initial intent of the exemption when promulgated. The more-than-threelfold increase in the statutory size-of-transaction test to $50 million will continue to exempt acquisitions of agricultural property unless the additional assets being acquired—whether within or beyond the definition of "associated agricultural assets"—are valued in excess of $50 million. The Commission believes that the elimination of "associated agricultural assets" from the agricultural property exemption simplifies the rule without significantly limiting the applicability of that exemption. If a significant number of agricultural property transactions are reported under HSR because of the "associated agricultural assets" conveyed in the transaction, the Commission can revisit the language of § 802.2(g).

Section 802.6 Federal agency approval.

Proposed § 802.6(b) was revised to state a general rule regarding mixed transactions rather than one that is industry specific. No comments were received regarding this rule revision, therefore the Commission is adopting this Proposed Rule as final without change.

Section 802.8 Certain supervisory acquisitions.

Proposed § 802.8 corrected a typographical error. No comments were received regarding this rule revision, therefore the Commission is adopting this Proposed Rule as final without change.

Sections 802.50 and 802.51 Foreign acquisitions.

The Proposed Rules would restructure and amend the exemptions contained in §§ 802.50 and 802.51. The Commission received fifteen comments regarding these proposed rules. One proposed amendment to these rules increases the thresholds for measuring nexus with U.S. commerce to $50 million from $15 million and $25 million. No comments were received concerning the increase to $50 million of the $15 million and $25 million nexus with U.S. commerce thresholds contained in these exemptions. Consequently, these increased thresholds will be implemented without change from the Proposed Rules.

The comments focused on five other aspects of the proposed rules: (1) The period used to determine sales in or into the U.S.; (2) the method of valuation used for assets located in the U.S.; (3) the elimination of the $110 million aggregate U.S. sales and assets exemption for transactions valued in excess of $200 million; (4) the elimination of the absolute exemption for acquisitions of assets located outside of the U.S. by a foreign person; and (5) the applicability of aggregation of the sales and assets of multiple foreign issuers from the same acquired person to both U.S. and foreign acquiring persons.

The Commission is adopting Proposed §§ 802.50 and 802.51 as final, with two changes in response to these public comments. First, the measure of sales in or into the U.S. will be sales of the most recent fiscal year, rather than the sum of the most recent fiscal year's sales and sales year-to-date, as proposed. The Commission believes that the burden on the parties of determining any measure of sales in or into the U.S. beyond the most recent fiscal year of the parties may well outweigh the benefit to the agencies in capturing transactions involving a recent upswing in U.S. sales. Second, § 802.51 will be amended to correct a drafting error which resulted in aggregation of sales in or into the U.S. and assets located in the U.S. being applicable only to foreign persons acquiring multiple foreign issuers from the same acquired person. This error was discovered shortly after publication and will be corrected with additional language in paragraph (a) of the rule. This correction makes it clear that this aspect of the rule is intended to apply to acquisitions by both U.S. and foreign acquiring persons. These provisions, as well as others addressed by the comments, are discussed below. Finally, in a technical correction, the reference to § 801.40(c)(2) in paragraphs 802.50(b)(3), 802.51(a)(1), 802.51(b)(1), and 802.51(c)(3), has been changed to § 801.40(d)(2) to reflect the renumbering of that section.

(1) The Measure of Sales in or Into the United States

Comments 1–6 and 10–17 criticized the proposed requirement that sales in or into the U.S. be calculated by adding those sales from the last fiscal year to such sales generated to date since the end of that fiscal year, calculated no more than sixty days prior to the filing of notification or if notification is not required, within sixty days prior to the consummation of the acquisition. This proposed change reflected the recognition that sales figures based on a party's most recent fiscal year may be several months out of date and was intended to ensure that where U.S. sales generated by foreign assets and voting securities trend steeply upward prior to the acquisition, a filing would be required if that trend resulted in over $50 million in U.S. sales. The comments expressed a variety of concerns and offered several alternatives.

Comment 1 stated that this proposed method of calculating combined sales would, in many transactions, remove all benefit of the increased $50 million threshold for U.S. sales. It further noted that the requirement to combine sales could result in a filing obligation even where U.S. sales have been stagnating or even declining. The comment suggested that the requirement would produce widely disparate results based solely on when the transaction closes (i.e., transactions that propose to close later in the year will be less likely to be able to claim the exemption than those that close early in the year). The comment proposed that the agencies' goal could be accomplished by requiring the comparison of U.S. sales over a two year period, and determining the applicability of an exemption based on the greater of U.S. sales for a single year in that period.

Comments 2, 3, 13 and 15 addressed the same concerns and suggested an alternative approach of using the higher of the most recent fiscal year's sales or estimated sales for the current year-to-date. Comment 13 further predicted that the proposed change would substantially narrow the exemption previously available and increase the number of transactions that are reportable.

Comment 4 suggested that a more equitable method would be to determine sales in the twelve months prior to filing or closing the transaction, calculated within sixty calendar days prior to filing notification or, if no filing is required, within sixty calendar days of closing.

Comment 5 stated that determining the value of sales in or into the U.S. is often extraordinarily complex and time-consuming and that the proposed revisions do not reduce that burden. It further noted that while corporations have methods for analyzing such data, these methods are generally geared toward quarterly and annual assessments and are virtually never performed on an ad hoc basis. Outside of the audit procedures currently in place, it suggested that it is not practical, and perhaps not even possible, to take a meaningful snapshot of current revenues. The comment recommended deleting the requirement that current year sales be analyzed.

Comment 6 observed that throughout the rules, the determination of sales is always on an annual basis and is found in the reporting person's last year-end, consolidated statement of operations. It further opined that there is no suggestion that anti-competitive mergers have escaped review because of sharp upward trends in U.S. sales.

Comment 10 questioned why the rules for a foreign exemption should be particularly concerned about changes to sales since the end of the last fiscal year, when § 801.11 (measuring net sales for the size-of-person test) is not. Comment 12 similarly questioned why the change seeks to address an issue (a recent increase in U.S. sales) which arises in both foreign and domestic transactions, and no similar change is proposed for dealing with domestic transactions. It also suggested the possible approach of using the greater of the previous year's sales or sales year-to-date, but noted that the approach would still suffer from inconsistency with other provisions in the rules and further observed that current information is often difficult to obtain from foreign entities.

Comments 11, 14, and 16 noted that requiring the aggregation of sales since the end of the preceding fiscal year will lead in certain cases to uncertainty as to whether or not a transaction is reportable and places on the parties to a transaction the added burden of monitoring the sales of a foreign target while negotiations are in progress. Comment 14 suggested two alternative methods of calculation. One method was to determine a twelve month average of sales by adding the last fiscal year to the sales year-to-date, dividing the total by the number of months included, and multiplying this figure by twelve. The second suggested method was to use the most recent twelve months calculated within sixty days of filing or closing.

Finally, Comment 17 asserted that the proposed change, setting forth the time in which the calculation must be made, is unclear and imposes undue burden upon the parties that could generate delays in transactions. It proposed an alternative test of considering the greater of sales in the most recent fiscal year or sales over the last four available fiscal quarterly periods. It further stated that the parties should be entitled to a consistent cut-off date for calculating sales in or into the U.S., regardless of whether the transaction proves to be subject to notification. The comment recommended that the parties measure these sales as of the end of the most recent quarterly period available as of the date the parties enter into an agreement, so long as no more than 135 days have elapsed since the end of that quarterly period. It suggested that this approach would provide the parties certainty; allow sufficient time to gather information that is not always readily available; minimize the burden imposed by requiring sales for a fiscal year that has not yet ended; properly take into account sales trends; and allow most parties to rely upon their existing reporting practices.

The Commission recognizes the burden on the parties in determining sales in or into the U.S. for any period of time other than the filing person's most recent fiscal year. The Commission also agrees with the observation that aggregating sales from the most recent fiscal year with those year-to-date may have the undesirable result of making acquisitions reportable where sales in or into the U.S. in the current year may be steady or even declining. The Commission considered the many alternative methods suggested in the comments (e.g., most recent four quarters, most recent twelve months, greater of two years, greater of year-to-date or last fiscal year, twelve-month average) but was unable to discern how any of these methods would be significantly less burdensome than the approach put forth in the Proposed Rules. All of these approaches would also require compilation of data that is not captured in the ordinary course of business by many persons filing notification. Consequently, in the Final Rules, the measure of sales in or into the U.S. for purposes of §§ 802.50 and 802.51 will be those of the most recently completed fiscal year.

(2) Valuation of Assets Located in the United States

Comments 1, 3, 6 and 13 objected to the proposed change from book value to fair market value for measuring assets located in the U.S. The Commission believes that this change is appropriate in order to reflect more accurately a foreign person's nexus with U.S. commerce, to harmonize these sections with the rest of the rules, and to address questions frequently asked of the PNO concerning the use of book value to make this determination. Specifically, intangible assets such as U.S. patents and other intellectual property were often not carried on the books of a foreign person, and the question has frequently arisen as to what value should be attributed to these intangible assets and what method should be used to determine their book value. In these instances, the PNO advised parties to use fair market value.

Comment 1 asserted that the Commission's proposal is inconsistent with the rest of the rules and that the implementation of a fair market value test would impose a new, substantial burden upon parties in voting securities transactions. It argued that the size-of-person test is based on an existing balance sheet, not on a market valuation, and that it is only for assets that are being acquired that the rules require a fair market valuation. The comment suggested that in a stock deal, the market value of assets is not easily determinable, and any excess over the book value of the assets of the acquired company is reflected as goodwill on the balance sheet of the acquired company, precisely in recognition of the difficulties of a market value appraisal. It further maintained that the competitive significance and impact on U.S. commerce of a proposed acquisition will likely not turn upon whether the value of the acquired company's assets located in the U.S. has increased since its last book value calculation.

Comment 3 also argued that an additional burden is placed on the parties to extract the specific U.S. assets and determine their fair market value. It states that fair market valuation may be subject to dispute by the agencies, thus subjecting the parties to possible penalties, while book value is a simple, readily available value and provides certainty to parties seeking to determine whether the exemption is available. Comment 13 agreed that an additional burden is imposed by fair market valuation and also complained that some measure of certainty is lost since the agencies could dispute that valuation.

Lastly, Comment 6 claimed that the Commission's stated justification for the proposed rule change appeared to lack a factual foundation, arguing that consistency throughout the rules requires that book value be retained as the measure of value. It further submitted that book value is readily available and that requiring the acquiring person to determine the fair market value of the acquired person's, and in some cases its own, U.S. property imposes an unreasonable new burden. The comment concluded that, absent compelling evidence that a significant number of anticompetitive transactions will escape premerger review without this change, the book value of U.S. assets should continue to govern.

The Commission recognizes that in some instances the requirement to calculate the fair market value of assets located in the U.S. may impose additional burden on the acquiring person. However, in the vast majority of cases it will be readily apparent that the value of the assets clearly is above or below the $50 million threshold, and determination of whether or not the exemption is applicable will require a minimal amount of effort by the acquiring person.

As to the alleged inconsistency with the methodology used in determining the size-of-person of a party, the Commission notes that the $50 million threshold in §§ 802.50 and 802.51 is not a size-of-person test, but rather a "size-of-nexus with the U.S." test. The fair market value of assets located in the U.S. is a far more accurate assessment of the true nexus with U.S. commerce at the present time. The book value may be out of date and may not reflect the true value, especially in the case of assets which constitute an ongoing business, since a portion of the value of those assets may be carried on the books as goodwill. Also, assets may be carried on the books showing significant depreciation that does not reflect their actual value.

For these reasons, the Commission believes that the potential burden on a small number of transactions is outweighed by the benefit to the agencies in requiring a current and meaningful measure of a transaction's nexus with U.S. commerce. Therefore, the Commission will adopt the proposed change to fair market value for calculating the value of assets located in the U.S.

(3) Elimination of the $110 Million Aggregate U.S. Sales and Assets Exemption for Transactions Valued in Excess of $200 Million

Comments 1 and 13 asserted that the elimination of this exemption for transactions valued in excess of $200 million is inappropriate. Comment 1 contended that there is no discussion in the 1978 SBP of the import now apparently attributed by the Commission to the overall value of a transaction in determining whether a transaction may have an anticompetitive impact on U.S. commerce. It argued that the result of this proposed change is not consistent with the original rationale for creating this exemption, and that the value of a transaction outside of the U.S. does not indicate in any way the transaction's potential anticompetitive effects in the U.S. Comment 13 states that the elimination of this portion of the exemption will greatly narrow its reach.

While this change may marginally narrow the exemptions, the general increase in the reporting threshold to over $50 million, together with the increase in the $15 million and $25 million nexus tests to $50 million, will significantly expand the number of exempt foreign transactions.

In the SBP for the Proposed Rules, the Commission referenced the 1978 SBP which explains that the $110 million threshold was adopted to approximate the size-of-person criteria of Section 7A(a)(2), as it seemed appropriate and consistent with congressional intent not to exempt a transaction involving two foreign persons with a U.S. presence similar in size to the general criteria of the act for all persons. 43 FR 33498 (July 31, 1978). Since the new legislation removes the size-of-person test for acquisitions valued at over $200 million, the Commission likewise believes that it is appropriate and consistent to require filings from foreign persons, regardless of the size of their U.S. presence, where the transaction is valued at over $200 million and the $50 million nexus test of these exemption rules is satisfied.

(4) Elimination of the Absolute Exemption for Acquisitions of Assets Located Outside of the U.S. by a Foreign Person

Comment 13 claimed that the Commission sets forth no explanation as to why such transactions are likely to raise competitive issues in the U.S. in order to justify removing the exemption. The Commission clearly stated in the SBP to the Proposed Rules that experience at both agencies has shown that foreign asset acquisitions can and do have a direct impact on the U.S. economy and that this is more likely to be true where the assets generate over $50 million in sales in or into the U.S. Thus, the Commission continues to believe that it is appropriate to require that their acquisition be reported where there is a substantial nexus to U.S. commerce. This approach makes the rule consistent with the treatment of U.S. acquiring persons.

(5) Applicability of Aggregation of the Sales and Assets of Multiple Foreign Issuers From the Same Acquired Person to Both U.S. and Foreign Acquiring Persons

Comments 11 and 17 correctly noted a section numbering error in § 802.51. The intent was to require the aggregation of sales and assets of multiple foreign issuers, which are being acquired from the same acquired person, by both foreign and U.S. acquiring persons. This numbering error was discovered shortly after publication of the Proposed Rules and is corrected by adding paragraph (a)(3) which reads: "If interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether the $50 million thresholds are exceeded." This revision will make the intent of the rule clear. An example has been added to illustrate the aggregation requirement.

Section 802.52 Acquisitions by or from Foreign Governmental Corporations

The example in Section 802.52 has been amended to reflect the new $50 million threshold for measuring nexus with U.S. commerce.

Other Comments

In addition to the above noted comments, Comment 8 opposed all proposed changes to the foreign exemptions on the grounds that they narrowed the scope of the exemptions. It recommended broadening the exemptions instead, but offered no suggestions as to how this should be accomplished. This comment, as well as Comments 1 and 3, based its recommendation on the International Competition Policy Advisory Committee ("ICPAC") (Report to the Attorney General of the International Competition Policy Advisory Committee (February 2000)) finding that there were far too many filings in fiscal year 1999 involving foreign transactions. The ICPAC report dealt with filings subject to the prior $15 million size-of-transaction threshold and does not take into consideration changes in the level of filings as a result of the 2001 Amendments to the statute. Despite the marginal narrowing of the exemption in the areas discussed above, the Commission believes that the increase in the statutory size-of-transaction threshold to $50 million and the increase in the dollar thresholds in §§ 802.50 and 802.51 will dramatically reduce the number of foreign transaction filings overall.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601–612, requires that the agency conduct an initial and final regulatory analysis of the anticipated economic impact of the proposed amendments on small businesses, except where the agency head certifies that the regulatory action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. 5 U.S.C. 605.

Because of the size of the transactions necessary to invoke a Hart-Scott-Rodino filing, the premerger notification rules rarely, if ever, affect small businesses. Indeed, the recent amendments to Section 7A of the Clayton Act, which these rule amendments implement, were intended to reduce the burden of the premerger notification program by exempting all transactions valued at $50 million or less. Further, none of the rule amendments expands the coverage of the premerger notification rules in a way that would affect small business. Accordingly, the Commission certifies that these rules will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This document serves as the required notice of this certification to the Small Business Administration.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 ("PRA"), 44 U.S.C. 3501–3518, requires agencies to submit requirements for "collections of information" to the Office of Management and Budget ("OMB") and obtain clearance prior to instituting them. Such collections of information include reporting, recordkeeping, or disclosure requirements contained in regulations. The HSR premerger notification rules and Form contain information collection requirements as defined by the PRA that have been reviewed and approved by OMB under OMB Control No. 3084–0005 (preceding the latest HSR amendments). Because the Final Rules would not affect the information collection requirements of the premerger notification program beyond those of the proposed rules, they are not being resubmitted to OMB for review pursuant to the PRA. The Supporting Statement accompanying the Request for OMB Review states that the total burden imposed on the members of the public subject to the requirements of the Act, including the final rules, is estimated to be 192,089 hours per year (based on fiscal year 2000 filings). This constitutes approximately a 47% reduction from what the burden estimate would be absent the final rules and based on the number of fiscal year 2000 filings. The Commission is seeking 3-year clearance with the requisite submissions to OMB.

List of Subjects in 16 CFR Parts 801 and 802

Antitrust, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the preamble, the Federal Trade Commission amends 16 CFR Parts 801 and 802 as follows:

PART 801—COVERAGE RULES

1. The authority citation for Part 801 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

2. Amend § 801.4 by revising Example 5 in paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 801.4 Secondary acquisitions.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

Examples: * * *

5. In example 4 above, suppose the consideration paid by "A" for the acquisition of B is $60 million worth of the voting securities of "A." By virtue of § 801.2(d)(2), "A" is both an acquiring and acquired person; B is an acquired person and B's shareholders are acquiring persons. A will still be deemed to have acquired control of B, and therefore the resulting acquisition of the voting securities of X is a secondary acquisition. Although B's shareholders are now also acquiring persons, unless one of them gains control of "A" in the transaction, no B shareholder makes a secondary acquisition of stock held by "A." If the consideration paid by "A" is the voting securities of one of "A's" subsidiaries and a shareholder of B thereby gains control of that subsidiary, the shareholder will make secondary acquisitions of any minority holdings of that subsidiary.

* * * * *

3. Amend § 801.14 by revising Example 2 in paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 801.14 Aggregate total amount of voting securities and assets.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

Examples: * * *

2. In the previous example, assume that the assets acquisition occurred first, and that the acquisition of the voting securities is to occur within 180 days of the first acquisition. "A" now looks to § 801.13(b)(2) and determines that the previously acquired assets are not treated "as part of the present acquisition" because the second acquisition is of voting securities and not assets; thus, the asset and voting securities acquisitions are not treated as one transaction. Therefore, the second acquisition would not be subject to the requirements of the act since the value of the securities to be acquired does not exceed the $50 million size-of-transaction test.

4. Amend § 801.15 by revising the introductory text, paragraphs (a)(2) and (b), and Examples 1, 4, 5, 7, and 8 in paragraph (c), to read as follows:

§ 801.15 Aggregation of voting securities and assets the acquisition of which was exempt.

Notwithstanding § 801.13, for purposes of determining the aggregate total amount of voting securities and assets of the acquired person held by the acquiring person under Section 7A(a)(2) and § 801.1(h), none of the following will be held as a result of an acquisition:

(b) Assets or voting securities the acquisition of which was exempt at the time of acquisition (or would have been exempt, had the act and these rules been in effect), or the present acquisition of which is exempt, under Section 7A(c)(9) and §§ 802.3, 802.4, 802.50(a), 802.51(a), 802.51(b) and 802.64 of this chapter unless the limitations contained in Section 7A(c)(9) or those sections do not apply or as a result of the acquisition would be exceeded, in which case the assets or voting securities so acquired will be held; and

(c) * * *

Examples: 1. Assume that acquiring person "A" is simultaneously to acquire $51 million of the convertible voting securities of X and $12 million of the voting common stock of X. Since the overall value of the voting securities to be acquired (§ 801.1 defines convertible voting securities as "voting securities") is greater than $50 million, "A" must determine whether it is obliged to file notification and observe a waiting period before acquiring the securities. However, because § 802.31 of this chapter is one of the exemptions listed in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, "A" would not hold the convertible voting securities as a result of this acquisition. Therefore, since as a result of the acquisition "A" would hold only the $12 million of common stock, the size-of-transaction tests of Section 7A(a)(2) would not be satisfied, and "A" need not observe the requirements of the act before acquiring the common stock. (Note, however, that the $51 million of convertible voting securities would be reflected in "A's" next regularly prepared balance sheet, for purposes of § 801.11.)

* * * * *

4. Assume that acquiring person "B," a United States person, acquired from corporation "X" two manufacturing plants located abroad, and assume that the acquisition price was $160 million. In the most recent fiscal year, sales into the United States attributable to the plants were $40 million, and thus the acquisition was exempt under § 802.50(a) of this chapter. Within 180 days of that acquisition, "B" seeks to acquire a third plant from "X," to which United States sales of $12 million were attributable in the most recent fiscal year. Since under § 801.13(b)(2), as a result of the acquisition, "B" would hold all three plants of "X," and the $50 million limitation in § 802.50(a) of this chapter would be exceeded, under paragraph (b) of this rule, "B" would hold the previously acquired assets for purposes of the second acquisition. Therefore, as a result of the second acquisition, "B" would hold assets of "X" exceeding $50 million in sales in or into the United States, would not qualify for the exemption in § 802.50(a) of this chapter, and must observe the requirements of the act and file notification for the acquisition of all three plants before acquiring the third plant.

5. "A" acquires producing oil reserves valued at $400 million from "B." Two months later, "A" agrees to acquire oil and gas rights valued at $75 million from "B." Paragraph (b) of this section and § 801.13(b)(2) require aggregating the previously exempt acquisition of oil reserves with the second acquisition. If the two acquisitions, when aggregated, exceed the $500 million limitation on the exemption for oil and gas reserves in § 802.3(a), "A" and "B" will be required to file notification for the latter acquisition, including within the filings the earlier acquisition. Since, in this example, the total value of the assets in the two acquisitions, when aggregated, is less than $500 million, both acquisitions are exempt from the notification requirements. In determining whether the value of the assets in the two acquisitions exceeds $500 million, "A" need not determine the current fair market value of the oil reserves acquired in the first transaction, since these assets are now within the person of "A." Instead, "A" is directed by § 801.13(b)(2)(ii) to use the value of the oil reserves at the time of their prior acquisition in accordance with § 801.10(b).

* * * * *

7. In Example 6, above, assume that "X" acquired 30 percent of the voting securities of M and proposes to acquire 40 percent of the voting securities of N, another entity controlled by "Z." Assume also that M's assets at the time of "X's" acquisition of M's voting securities consisted of $90 million worth of producing coal reserves and non-exempt assets with a fair market value of $39 million, and that N's assets currently consist of $60 million worth of producing coal reserves and non-exempt assets with a fair market value of $28 million. Since "X" acquired a minority interest in M and intends to acquire a minority interest in N, and since M and N are controlled by "Z," the assets of M and N must be aggregated, pursuant to §§ 801.15(b) and 801.13, to determine whether the acquisition of N's voting securities is exempt or whether it is reportable pursuant to the terms of § 802.4(c) of this chapter. "X" is required to determine the current fair market value of M's assets. If the fair market value of M's coal reserves is unchanged, the aggregated exempt assets do not exceed the limitation for coal reserves under § 802.3(b) of this chapter. However, if the present fair market value of N's non-exempt assets also is unchanged, the present fair market value of the non-exempt assets of M and N when aggregated is greater than $50 million. Thus the acquisition of the voting securities of N is not exempt under § 802.4 of this chapter. If "X" proposed to acquire 50 percent or more of the voting securities of both M and N in the same acquisition, the assets of M and N must be aggregated to determine if the acquisition of the voting securities of both issuers is exempt. Since the fair market value of the aggregated non-exempt assets exceeds $50 million, the acquisition would not be exempt.

8. "A" acquired 49 percent of the voting securities of M and 45 percent of the voting securities of N. Both M and N are controlled by "B." At the time of the acquisition, M held rights to producing coal reserves worth $90 million and N held a producing coal mine worth $90 million. This acquisition was exempt since the aggregated holdings fell below the $200 million limitation for coal in § 802.3(b) of this chapter. A year later, "A" proposes to acquire an additional 10 percent of the voting securities of both M and N. In the intervening year, M has acquired coal reserves so that its holdings are now valued at $140 million, and the value of N's assets remained unchanged. "A's" second acquisition would not be exempt. "A" is required to determine the value of the exempt assets and any non-exempt assets held by any issuer whose voting securities it intends to acquire before each proposed acquisition (unless "A" already owns 50 percent or more of the voting securities of the issuer) to determine if the value of those holdings of the issuer falls below the limitation of the applicable exemption. Here, the holdings of M and N now exceed the $200 million exemption for acquisitions of coal reserves in § 802.3 of this chapter, and thus do not qualify for the exemption of voting securities provided by § 802.4(a) of this chapter.

5. Amend § 801.90 by revising Example 1 to read as follows:

§ 801.90 Transactions or devices for avoidance.

* * * * *

Examples: 1. Suppose corporations "A" and "B" wish to form a joint venture. "A" and "B" contemplate a total investment of over $100 million in the joint venture; persons "A" and "B" each has total assets in excess of $100 million. Instead of filing notification pursuant to § 801.40, "A" creates a new subsidiary, A1, which issues half of its authorized shares to "A." Assume that A1 has total assets of $3000. "A" then sells 50 percent of its A1 stock to "B" for $1500. Thereafter, "A" and "B" each contribute $53 million to A1 in exchange for the remaining authorized A1 stock (one-fourth each to "A" and "B"). "A"'s creation of A1 was exempt under § 802.30 of this chapter; its $1500 sale of A1 stock to "B" did not meet the size-of-transaction filing threshold in Section 7A(a)(2)(B); and the second acquisitions of stock in A1 by "A" and "B" were exempt under Sections 7A(c)(3) and (10), because "A" and "B" each already controlled A1, based on their holdings of 50 percent of A1's then-outstanding shares. Since this scheme appears to be for the purpose of avoiding the requirements of the act, the sequence of transactions will be disregarded. The transactions will be viewed as the formation of a joint venture corporation by "A" and "B" having over $10 million in assets. Such a transaction would be covered by § 801.40, and "A" and "B" must file notification and observe the waiting period.

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES

6. The authority citation for Part 802 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

7. Revise § 802.2(g) to read as follows:

§ 802.2 Certain acquisitions of real property assets.

* * * * *

(g) Agricultural property. An acquisition of agricultural property and assets incidental to the ownership of such property shall be exempt from the requirements of the act. Agricultural property is real property that primarily generates revenues from the production of crops, fruits, vegetables, livestock, poultry, milk and eggs (activities within NAICS sector 11).

(1) Agricultural property does not include either:

(i) Processing facilities such as poultry and livestock slaughtering, processing and packing facilities; or
(ii) Any real property and assets either adjacent to or used in conjunction with processing facilities that are included in the acquisition.

(2) In an acquisition that includes agricultural property, the transfer of any assets that are not agricultural property or assets incidental to the ownership of such property (cash, prepaid taxes or insurance, rentals receivable and the like) shall be subject to the requirements of the act and these rules as if such assets were being transferred in a separate acquisition.

* * * * *

8. Amend § 802.6 by revising paragraph (b) and its Example to read as follows:

§ 802.6 Federal agency approval.

* * * * *

(b)(1) A mixed transaction is one that has some portion that is exempt under Section 7A (c)(6), (c)(7) or (c)(8) because it requires regulatory agency premerger competitive review and approval, and another portion that does not require such review.

(2) The portion of a mixed transaction that does not require advance competitive review and approval by a regulatory agency is subject to the act and these rules as if it were being acquired in a separate acquisition.

Example: Bank "A" acquires Bank "B", which owns a financial subsidiary engaged in securities underwriting. "A"'s acquisition of "B" requires agency approval by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System or Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (depending on whether "A" is a national bank, state member bank, or state non-member bank under section 18(c) of the FDI Act), and therefore is exempt from filing under Section 7A (c)(7). However, the acquisition of the financial subsidiary is subject to HSR reporting requirements, and "A" and "B" each must make a filing for that portion of the transaction and observe the waiting period if the act's thresholds are met.

9. Revise § 802.8(a) to read as follows:

§ 802.8 Certain supervisory acquisitions.

(a) A merger, consolidation, purchase of assets, or acquisition requiring agency approval under sections 403 or 408(e) of the National Housing Act, 12 U.S.C. 1726, 1730a(e), or under section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, 12 U.S.C. 1464, shall be exempt from the requirements of the act, including specifically the filing requirement of Section 7A(c)(8), if the agency whose approval is required finds that approval of such merger, consolidation, purchase of assets, or acquisition is necessary to prevent the probable failure of one of the institutions involved.

* * * * *

10. Revise § 802.50 to read as follows:

§ 802.50 Acquisitions of foreign assets.

(a) The acquisition of assets located outside the United States shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the foreign assets the acquiring person would hold as a result of the acquisition generated sales in or into the U.S. exceeding $50 million during the acquired person's most recent fiscal year.

(b) Where the foreign assets being acquired exceed the threshold in paragraph (a) of this section, the acquisition nevertheless shall be exempt where:

(1) Both acquiring and acquired persons are foreign;

(2) The aggregate sales of the acquiring and acquired persons in or into the United States are less than $110 million in their respective most recent fiscal years;

(3) The aggregate total assets of the acquiring and acquired persons located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) are less than $110 million; and

(4) The transaction does not meet the criteria of Section 7A(a)(2)(A).

Example to § 802.50:

1. Assume that "A" and "B" are both U.S. persons. "A" proposes selling to "B" a manufacturing plant located abroad. Sales in or into the United States attributable to the plant totaled $13 million in the most recent fiscal year. The transaction is exempt under this paragraph (a) of this section.

2. Sixty days after the transaction in example 1, "A" proposes to sell to "B" a second manufacturing plant located abroad; sales in or into the United States attributable to this plant totaled $38 million in the most recent fiscal year. Since "B" would be acquiring the second plant within 180 days of the first plant, both plants would be considered assets of "A" held by "B" as a result of the second acquisition (see § 801.13(b)(2) of this chapter). Since the total sales in or into the United States exceed $50 million, the acquisition of the second plant would not be exempt under this paragraph (a) of this section.

3. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States of $200 million. If "A" acquires only foreign assets of "B," and if those assets generated $50 million or less in sales in or into the United States, the transaction is exempt.

4. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States and assets located in the United States of less than $100 million. If "A" acquires only foreign assets of "B", and those assets generated in excess of $50 million in sales in or into the United States during the most recent fiscal year, the transaction is exempt from reporting if the assets are valued at $200 million or less, but is reportable if valued at greater than $200 million.

11. Revise § 802.51 to read as follows:

§ 802.51 Acquisitions of voting securities of a foreign issuer.

(a) By U.S. persons. (1) The acquisition of voting securities of a foreign issuer by a U.S. person shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the issuer (including all entities controlled by the issuer) either: holds assets located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) having an aggregate total value of over $50 million; or made aggregate sales in or into the United States of over $50 million in its most recent fiscal year.

(2) If interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether either $50 million threshold is exceeded.

(b) By foreign persons. (1) The acquisition of voting securities of a foreign issuer by a foreign person shall be exempt from the requirements of the act unless the acquisition will confer control of the issuer and the issuer (including all entities controlled by the issuer) either: holds assets located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) having an aggregate total value of over $50 million; or made aggregate sales in or into the United States of over $50 million in its most recent fiscal year.

(2) If controlling interests in multiple foreign issuers are being acquired from the same acquired person, the assets located in the United States and sales in or into the United States of all the issuers must be aggregated to determine whether either $50 million threshold is exceeded.

(c) Where a foreign issuer whose securities are being acquired exceeds the threshold in paragraph (b)(1) of this section, the acquisition nevertheless shall be exempt where:

(1) Both acquiring and acquired persons are foreign;

(2) The aggregate sales of the acquiring and acquired persons in or into the United States are less than $110 million in their respective most recent fiscal years;

(3) The aggregate total assets of the acquiring and acquired persons located in the United States (other than investment assets, voting or nonvoting securities of another person, and assets included pursuant to § 801.40(d)(2) of this chapter) are less than $110 million; and

(4) The transaction does not meet the criteria of Section 7A(a)(2)(A).

Example to § 802.51 1. "A," a U.S. person, is to acquire the voting securities of C, a foreign issuer. C has no assets in the United States, but made aggregate sales into the United States of $77 million in the most recent fiscal year. The transaction is not exempt under this section.

2. Assume that "A" and "B" are foreign persons with aggregate sales in or into the United States of $200 million, and that "A" is acquiring 100% of the voting securities of "B." Included within "B" is U.S. issuer C, whose total U.S. assets are valued at $161 million. Since "A" will be acquiring control of an issuer, C, with total U.S. assets of more than $50 million, and the parties' aggregate sales in or into the U.S. in the relevant time period exceed $110 million, the acquisition is not exempt under this section.

3. "A," a foreign person, intends to acquire 100 percent of the voting securities of two wholly owned subsidiaries of "B" for a total of $65 million. BSUB1 is a foreign issuer with $10 million in sales into the U.S. in its most recent fiscal year and with assets of $10 million located in the U.S. $20 million of the acquisition price has been allocated to BSUB1. BSUB2 is a U.S. issuer with $60 million in U.S. sales and $60 million in assets located in the U.S. The remaining $45 million of the acquisition price is allocated to BSUB2. Since BSUB1 does not exceed the $50 million limitation for U.S. sales or assets in § 802.51(b), its voting securities are not held as a result of the acquisition (see § 801.15(b) of this chapter). Since the acquisition price for BSUB2 alone would not result in "A" holding in excess of $50 million of voting securities of the acquired person, the transaction is non-reportable in its entirety. Note that the U.S. sales and assets of BSUB1 are not aggregated with those of BSUB2 for purposes of determining whether the limitations in paragraph (b) of this section are exceeded. If BSUB2 were also a foreign issuer, such aggregation would be required under paragraph (b)(3) of this section, and the transaction in its entirety would be reportable.

12. Amend § 802.52 by revising the Example to read as follows:

§ 802.52 Acquisitions by or from foreign governmental agencies.

* * * * *

Example: The government of foreign country X has decided to sell assets of its wholly owned corporation, B, all of which are located in foreign country X. The buyer is "A," a U.S. person. Regardless of the aggregate sales in or into the United States attributable to the assets of B, the transaction is exempt under this section. (If such aggregate sales were $50 million or less, the transaction would also be exempt under § 802.50.)

By direction of the Commission.

Secretary.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

16 CFR Part 802

Premerger Notification; Reporting and Waiting Period Requirements

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Trade Commission is amending the premerger notification rules, which require the parties to certain mergers or acquisitions to file reports with the Commission and with the Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice and to wait a specified period of time before consummating such transactions, pursuant to section 7A of the Clayton Act. The filing and waiting period requirements enable these enforcement agencies to determine whether a proposed merger or acquisition may violate the antitrust laws if consummated and, when appropriate, to seek a preliminary injunction in federal court to prevent consummation. This rule amendment is necessary to address public comments regarding a previously published interim rule provision, and will increase the clarity and improve the effectiveness of the rule.

EFFECTIVE DATES: This final rule is effective on March 18, 2002 and will be applied retroactively to February 2, 2002, as explained in SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Marian R. Bruno, Assistant Director, Karen E. Berg, Attorney, or B. Michael

Verne, Compliance Specialist, Premerger Notification Office, Bureau of Competition, Room 303, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20580. Telephone: (202) 326-3100.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 1, 2001, the Commission published in the Federal Register and sought comment on Interim and Proposed Rules to amend the Hart-Scott-Rodino rules ("HSR rules") contained in 16 CFR parts 801, 802 and 803. See 66 FR 8679-8721. The Interim Rules took effect upon publication and implemented amendments to Section 7A of the Clayton Act enacted on December 21, 2000 ("2000 Amendments"). The Commission has decided that it needs more time to consider whether to make the Interim Rules final. A primary focus of this analysis is whether the Commission should make final the dollar-based reporting thresholds that were newly introduced by the Interim Rules. In light of the public comments, however, the Commission has determined to make final at this time an amendment to interim § 802.21(b), containing a transitional filing rule that was scheduled to expire on February 1, 2002, as explained below.

Background

Interim § 802.21 (Acquisitions of voting securities not meeting or exceeding greater notification threshold) contained paragraph (b), which addressed acquisitions of voting securities up to the next notification threshold by "transitional" filers, i.e., acquiring persons who filed using the 1978 notification thresholds and who have met or crossed the threshold for which they filed within a year of the waiting period's expiration, but whose five-year period for making additional acquisitions under § 802.21(a) had not expired as of February 1, 2001 (the effective date of the 2000 Amendments).

Section 802.21(b), as published in the Interim Rules, allowed these transitional filers until February 1, 2002 (one year from the effective date of the 2000 Amendments) to acquire up to what was the next reporting threshold at the time that they filed, and permitted them to do so without filing another notification, even though they might cross a new 2001 threshold. Thereafter, these acquiring persons, along with any other acquiring persons filing on or after February 1, 2001, were required to observe the 2001 thresholds contained in § 801.1(h). Interim § 802.21(b) was an effort to strike a balance between the reliance of transitional filers on rules that were in effect when they filed, and minimizing the agency's burden of administering two different sets of notification thresholds after February 1, 2001.

The Commission received five comments on this transition rule.¹ Comment 3 stated that any burden imposed on the Commission in maintaining two sets of thresholds is vastly outweighed by the burden on the parties who are required to prepare filings and pay additional filing fees, and the burden on the agencies in reviewing these additional filings, which were previously exempt for up to an additional four years. Comment 8 similarly claimed that the burden to the parties would outweigh the burden on the Commission and also expressed concern that the short notice prior to effecting the rule was unfair to parties who had filed recently with the good faith expectation that they would have five years to acquire additional securities. Comment 9 suggested that the transition rule remain unchanged, but that the full five-year period should be extended to acquisitions where a filing was made for an acquisition valued in excess of a 2001 threshold and the subsequent acquisition would not cross another 2001 threshold. For example, if "A" acquired $60 million of B's voting securities and filed indicating the $15 million notification threshold, "A" should be able to acquire up to $100 million of B's voting securities during the five-year period without a new filing. Comments 13 and 15 recommended elimination of the transition rule as an adjunct to restoring intermediate percentage notification thresholds.

The Commission agrees that any burden in administering two sets of notification thresholds for five years may well be outweighed by the burden to transitional filers. Therefore, the final rule restores to parties who filed prior to February 1, 2001, the full five-year period following expiration of the waiting period to acquire up to the next notification threshold that was in effect at the time of filing. With this modification, the change suggested by Comment 9 becomes unnecessary.

Administrative Procedure Act

The Commission has previously solicited public comment on this rule

provision. Since the Commission believes that this final rule adequately addresses the commenters' concerns, the Commission finds that further public comment is unnecessary. See 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(3). Although the Commission believes this rule is strictly procedural in nature, to the extent, if any, that it is substantive, the Commission believes it grants or recognizes an exemption and relieves a restriction that would have taken effect upon expiration of the time period that was set forth in interim § 802.21(b). See 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B). Accordingly, the Commission is adopting this rule as final and effective upon publication and will apply it retroactively to February 2, 2002, in order to ensure the continuity and clarity of the filing procedures that apply to transitional filers, as explained above.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-612, requires that the agency conduct an initial and final regulatory analysis of the anticipated economic impact of the proposed amendments on small businesses, except where the agency head certifies that the regulatory action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. 5 U.S.C. 605.

Because of the size of the transactions necessary to invoke a Hart-Scott-Rodino filing, the premerger notification rules rarely, if ever, affect small businesses. Further, this rule amendment does not expand the coverage of the premerger notification rules in a way that would affect small business. Accordingly, the Commission certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This document serves as the required notice of this certification to the Small Business Administration.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 ("PRA"), 44 U.S.C. 3501-3518, requires agencies to submit requirements for "collections of information" to the Office of Management and Budget ("OMB") and obtain clearance prior to instituting them. Such collections of information include reporting, recordkeeping, or disclosure requirements contained in regulations. The HSR premerger notification rules and Form contain information collection requirements as defined by the PRA that have been reviewed and approved by OMB under OMB Control No. 3084-0005. This final rule implements amendments to section 7A of the Clayton Act, which reduces the burden of the premerger reporting program by exempting all transactions valued at $50 million or less. Because this final rule does not affect the information collection requirements of the premerger notification program as implemented by the interim rules, it has not been resubmitted to OMB under the PRA for review.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the preamble, the Federal Trade Commission amends 16 CFR part 802 as follows:

PART 802—EXEMPTION RULES

1. The authority citation for part 802 continues to read:

Authority: 15 U.S.C. 18a(d).

2. Amend § 802.21 by revising the text of paragraph (b) preceding the examples; by removing example 2; by redesignating examples 3 and 4 as examples 2 and 3 respectively; and by revising examples 1 and newly redesignated examples 2 and 3 to read as follows:

§ 802.21 Acquisitions of voting securities not meeting or exceeding greater notification threshold.

(b) Year 2001 transition. For transactions filed using the 1978 thresholds where the waiting period expired after February 1, 1996, an acquiring person may, during the five-year period following expiration of the waiting period, acquire up to what was the next percentage threshold at the time it made its filing without filing another notification, even if in doing so it crosses a 2001 notification threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter. However, after the end of that period, any additional acquisition will be the subject of a new notification if it meets or exceeds a 2001 threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter.

Examples: 1. Corporation A filed to acquire 20 percent of the voting securities of corporation B and indicated the 15 percent threshold. The waiting period expired on October 3, 1999. "A" acquired the 20 percent within the year following expiration of the waiting period. "A" has until October 3, 2004, to acquire additional securities up to 25 percent of "B"'s voting securities, and need not make another filing before doing so, even though such acquisition by "A" may cross the $50 million, $100 million or $500 million notification threshold in § 801.1(h) of this chapter. After October 3, 2004, "A" and "B" must observe the 2001 notification thresholds set forth in § 801.1(h) of this chapter.

2. Prior to February 1, 2001, "A" filed to acquire 12 percent of the voting securities of corporation B, valued at $120 million, and indicated the $15 million notification threshold. After February 1, 2001, "A" determines that it will make an additional acquisition which will result in its holding 16 percent of the voting securities of B, valued at $160 million. "A" is required to file notification at the $100 million notification threshold prior to making the acquisition since it is now crossing the next higher 1978 threshold (15 percent).

3. Prior to February 1, 2001, "A" filed to acquire 26 percent of the voting securities of "B" and indicated the 25 percent notification threshold. After the end of the five-year period following expiration of the waiting period, "A" will acquire additional shares of "B" which will result in its holding 30 percent of the voting securities of "B", valued at $125 million. "A" is required to file notification at the $100 million notification threshold prior to making the acquisition. "A" could, however, have reached this level (30 percent valued at $125 million) prior to the end of the five-year period without making an additional filing since it would not have crossed the next higher threshold at the time it filed (50 percent) and the acquisition would have been exempted by this § 802.21(b).

Order No. 587-N]

Standards for Business Practices of Interstate Natural Gas Pipelines

Issued March 11, 2002.

AGENCY: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations governing standards for interstate pipeline business operations and communications to require that pipelines permit releasing shippers, as a condition of a capacity release, to recall released capacity and renominate such recalled capacity at each nomination opportunity. Recalls of released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to rescheduled any bumped volumes, which is similar to the protection afforded interruptible shippers. This rule creates greater flexibility for firm capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The rule also will enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released and creating greater parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service.

DATES: 1. The rule becomes effective April 17, 2002.

2. Pipelines must make tariff filings by May 1, 2002, to become effective by July 1, 2002, to provide shippers with the ability to recall scheduled and unscheduled capacity at the Timely and Evening Nomination cycles and to recall unscheduled capacity at the two other standard nomination times.

3. Comments are to be filed by the North American Energy Standards Board and others by October 1, 2002, regarding standards for implementing partial day or flowing day recalls. Reply comments must be filed by October 15, 2002.

[Docket No. RM96–1–019; Order No. 587–N]

Issued March 11, 2002.

1. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) is amending § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its open access regulations to require that interstate pipelines permit releasing shippers to recall released capacity and renominate that recalled capacity at any of the scheduling opportunities provided by interstate pipelines. Recalls of released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to rescheduled any bumped volumes, which is similar to the protection afforded interruptible shippers. This rule creates greater flexibility for firm capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The rule also will enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released and creating greater parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service.

2. Background

3. In Order No. 636, the Commission adopted regulations permitting shippers (releasing shippers) to release their capacity to other shippers (replacement shippers).¹ Under these regulations, releasing shippers were permitted to "release their capacity in whole or in part, on a permanent or short-term basis, without restriction on the terms and conditions of the release."² The regulation permits releasing shippers to impose terms for a release transaction under which the releasing shipper reserves the right to recall that capacity to use the capacity itself. As an example, a shipper might include a recall condition in the event that temperature drops below a pre-determined level.³

4. In July 1996, in Order No. 587,⁴ the Commission incorporated by reference consensus standards approved by the Gas Industry Standards Board (now the North American Energy Standards Board (NAESB))⁵ designed to standardize business practices and communication protocols of interstate pipelines in order to create a more integrated and efficient pipeline grid. NAESB is a private, consensus standards developer whose wholesale natural gas standards are developed by representatives from all segments of the natural gas industry.

5. One aspect of NAESB's standards adopted in Order No. 587 covered capacity release transactions. Of relevance here, two standards, 5.3.6 and 5.3.7, apply to recalls of capacity release transactions.

Standard 5.3.6: If the releasing shipper wishes to recall capacity to be effective for a gas day, the notice should be provided to the transportation service provider and the acquiring shipper no later than 8 a.m. Central Clock Time on nomination day.⁶

Standard 5.3.7: There should be no partial day recalls of capacity. Transportation service providers should support the function of reupping by releasing shippers.⁷

In this context, a partial day recall (also referred to as a flowing gas recalls)⁸ refers to a recall condition that applies only to part of gas day, rather than the full gas day.⁹

6. In 1996, when NAESB first adopted these standards, NAESB's standards provided for one nomination, at 11:30 a.m. CCT¹⁰ for the next gas day and only one intra-day nomination at an indeterminate time. In order to create a more standardized intra-day nomination schedule,¹¹ NAESB amended its standards to provide for three standardized intra-day nomination opportunities: an Evening nomination at 6 p.m. CCT to take effect at 9 a.m. CCT the next gas day, an Intra-Day 1 nomination at 10 a.m. CCT to take effect at 5 p.m. CCT on the same gas day, and an Intra-Day 2 nomination at 5 p.m. CCT to take effect at 9 p.m. CCT on the same gas day.¹²

	Nomination deadline	Effective time
Timely Nomination	11:30 a.m.	9 a.m. next gas day.
Evening Nomination	6 p.m.	9 a.m. next gas day.
Intra-Day 1	10 a.m.	5 p.m. same gas day.
Intra-Day 2	5 p.m.	9 p.m. same gas day.

⁵ The Commission is revising § 284.12 to reflect the name change. The Commission finds good cause for making such a change without notice and

comment since the change is purely administrative. See 5 U.S.C. § 553(b)(A)&(B).

⁸ Gulf South, in its comments, contends that the term "partial day recall" is somewhat of a misnomer, and that the more apt term is "flowing day recall." It states that the term partial day recall suggests the recall is for a specified portion of gas day when, in fact, the standard refers only to whether the recall occurs after gas has begun to flow. In this rule, the terms "partial day recall" and "flowing day recall" are used interchangeably to refer to recalls occurring during a gas day after gas has begun to flow, not to recalls between specified times.

⁹ Under the NAESB standards, a gas day runs from 9 a.m. central clock time (CCT) on Day 1 to 9 a.m. CCT the next day (Day 2). 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(i), Nominations Related Standards 1.3.1.

¹⁰ CCT refers to Central Clock Time, which includes an adjustment for day light savings time. See 18 CFR § 284.12(b)(1)(i), Nominations Related Standards 1.3.1.

¹² 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(i) (2001), Nominations Related Standard 1.3.2.

NAESB, however, has not amended its capacity release recall standards to take into account its adoption of these standardized intra-day nomination opportunities.

7. In Order No. 637, the Commission adopted § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its regulations which requires interstate pipelines to "permit shippers acquiring released capacity to submit a nomination at the earliest available nomination opportunity after the acquisition of capacity."¹³ The purpose of this regulatory change was to permit capacity release transactions to take place on an intra-day basis so that released capacity can compete with pipeline capacity on a comparable basis.¹⁴ The adoption of § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) permits shippers to acquire released capacity and nominate using that capacity at any of the four intra-day nomination opportunities.¹⁵

8. On February 1, 2001, NAESB filed a report with the Commission, in Docket No. RM98-10-000, concerning its development of standards regarding partial day recalls of capacity. According to NAESB, some members believed that partial day recalls fell within the purview of the scheduling equality requirements of Order No. 637, while others did not. Some members, NAESB asserts, believed that partial day recalls are a valid business practice, irrespective of whether this practice is required by Order No. 637. Due to these disagreements, NAESB reports it has been unable to reach consensus on how to proceed.

9. On March 16, 2001, AGA filed a "Reply to February 1, 2001, Gas Industry Standards Board Report and Petition for Clarification and Directive from FERC Regarding Requirement for Capacity Release Scheduling Equality." AGA argued that the Commission should require pipelines to allow partial day recalls as part of their compliance with § 284.12(c)(1)(ii).

10. On October 12, 2001, the Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NOPR)¹⁶ proposing to require pipelines to afford releasing shippers enhanced ability to recall released capacity by permitting them to use partial day recalls at any of the four nomination opportunities established by the NAESB standards.

11. Comments

12. Twenty-eight comments on the NOPR were filed.¹⁷ The comments can roughly be divided into three categories: those that supported the proposal, those that either supported or did not object to the proposal, but sought clarifications principally regarding implementation details, and those opposing the proposal. The majority of comments support the proposal.¹⁸ They contend it would provide greater flexibility to releasing shippers, enhance competition by freeing up capacity that otherwise would not be released, and better accommodate retail unbundling programs at the state level.¹⁹ The local distribution companies (LDCs) maintain that under state unbundling mechanisms, they are frequently the suppliers of last resort and, therefore, need to recall capacity in the event marketers fail to deliver.

13. Those opposing the proposal²⁰ contend it would decrease the reliability of the pipeline grid by reducing (bumping) volumes of already scheduled gas and thereby reduce liquidity. They maintain that partial day recalls will reduce reliability because bumping a replacement shipper's scheduled volumes may affect scheduling on a number of pipelines, and bumped replacement shippers will be forced to try and reschedule their gas. Those opposing the proposal also are concerned partial day recalls will reduce the value of released capacity and create less competition between pipeline firm capacity and capacity release. NiSource maintains that partial day recalls may decrease reliability for LDCs that permit marketers (using other LDCs' released capacity) to bring capacity to their city-gates by permitting a diversion of gas from one LDC market to another.

14. A number of comments raise operational issues relating principally to partial or flowing day recalls occurring during the gas day after capacity has begun to flow. These include: the need for advance notice to pipelines and replacement shippers of capacity to be recalled, and whether the pipeline or releasing shipper should provide the notice;²¹ allocating capacity as well as imbalances and penalties between releasing and replacement shippers when recalls take place during the gas day;²² and ensuring that total volumes delivered do not exceed original contract MDQ.²³ Some comments suggest the Commission convene a technical conference to address these issues.²⁴

15. Discussion

16. Overview

17. The Commission is revising § 284.12(c)(1)(ii) of its regulations to require pipelines to permit recalls of capacity at each nomination opportunity. Specifically, the Commission is requiring pipelines to permit releasing shippers, as a condition of a capacity release, to recall released capacity and renominate such recalled capacity at each nomination opportunity according to the notice and bumping provisions applicable to interruptible shippers.²⁵ Recalls of ²² See Comments by Algonquin/Texas Eastern; Dynegy; Gulf South; ENA; INGAA; Kinder-Morgan; NiSource; Williston. As an example, a replacement shipper with capacity of 2400 Dth/day could nominate the entire 2400 Dth for the full gas day, but take 1200 Dth in the first five hours of the day, leaving only 1200 Dth remaining for the remainder of the gas day. If a releasing shipper sought to recall the full 2400 Dth at the Intra-Day 1 cycle taking, which would take effect at 5 p.m., the issue raised by the comments are how to allocate the 2400 Dth between the releasing and replacement shippers and how to determine imbalances and potential penalties. Williston also raises the issue of how to perform such an allocation when there are multiple capacity releases: e.g., a releasing shipper releases capacity to a single replacement shipper who releases that capacity to three other replacement shippers. If the initial releasing shipper recalls, the capacity, Williston requests clarification as to how the remaining daily quantity should be allocated among the three final replacement shippers.

¹⁵ Prior to Order No. 637, NAESB's capacity release nomination standards had not been amended to reflect the intra-day nomination standards. Thus, prior to Order No. 637, a replacement shipper acquiring released capacity had to acquire the capacity and notify the pipeline by 9 a.m. CCT in order to nominate at the Timely Nomination cycle (11:30 a.m. CCT) for the next gas day and could not make use of any intra-day nomination opportunities for the current gas day. With the changes made in § 284.12(c)(1)(ii), shippers will be able to acquire released capacity and submit a nomination at each intra-day nomination opportunity.

¹⁹ Xcel provides a succinct summary of the position:

The proposed rules would provide firm capacity holders, including the Xcel Energy utility operating companies, with increased flexibility in structuring capacity release transactions to best fit their business needs. The Xcel Energy utility operating companies could benefit from the potential increase in value of non-recallable capacity release and from the greater flexibility when a recall is necessary.

released capacity will not be permitted to reduce (bump) already scheduled volumes for replacement shippers unless the replacement shippers are provided with at least one opportunity to reschedule any bumped volumes.²⁶

18. The regulations adopted in this rule will be implemented in two phases. This two-phase approach will ensure an expeditious implementation of partial day recalls for recalls that do not raise the operational details addressed in the comments, while at the same time providing time for NAESB to further consider standards to address the operational issues raised. By May 1, 2002, each pipeline will be required to make a compliance filing, to be effective July 1, 2002, that will permit shippers to recall capacity at both the Timely Nomination cycle and the Evening Nomination Cycle and to recall capacity at any nomination time if the capacity has not been previously scheduled by the replacement shipper. To ease the compliance and review process, the Commission is establishing a standard tariff provision providing a notification schedule for these recalls.

19. Second, the Commission will provide NAESB six months in which to develop standards to apply to the operational details involved in allowing partial or flowing day recalls. NAESB should file a report with the Commission by October 1, 2002, detailing the standards it has adopted (or those it has considered) and all other material relevant to its consideration of such standards. Other industry members can also submit comments by October 1, 2002, and will have an additional 15 days from the filing of the NAESB information to file additional comments on the NAESB report. Upon the receipt of these comments, the Commission will issue a further order regarding implementation of Intra-Day 1 recalls.

20. Regulatory Changes

21. The regulations adopted in this rule will ensure consistency with the original intent of the Commission's capacity release regulations by providing releasing shippers with the flexibility to structure capacity release transactions that best fit their business needs, by providing greater incentives for releasing shippers to release capacity, and by fostering greater competition for pipeline capacity by creating parity between scheduling of capacity release transactions and pipeline interruptible service. At the same time, the regulations will afford replacement shippers whose capacity is recalled the same advance notice and protection from bumping as provided to interruptible shippers under the Commission's regulations.

22. In Order No. 636, the Commission established the capacity release mechanism to create competition with pipeline firm and interruptible transportation.²⁷ One of the fundamental tenets of the Commission's capacity release regulations is that releasing shippers have the opportunity to establish any recall conditions for their capacity.

23. When NAESB first considered recall standards, it established one notification time for all recalls (8 a.m. CCT) and did not permit partial or flowing day recalls. When NAESB adopted this standard, however, the standards provided for only one nomination a day, at 11:30 a.m. CCT and a single non-standardized intra-day nomination. But the circumstances under which the recall standards were developed have markedly changed as the number of nomination opportunities have now expanded to four nomination opportunities. At the same time, it is apparent from the comments in this rulemaking that the consensus supporting NAESB's existing recall standards no longer exists, and NAESB itself has recognized that it can no longer make progress in resolving this issue. Although the Commission places great reliance on NAESB's development of consensus standards,²⁸ the Commission has found it necessary to resolve disputes between industry segments when NAESB has been unable to reach consensus on issues concerning Commission policy, so that the standards development process can proceed in line with Commission policies.²⁹ In these circumstances

(where consensus no longer exists on recall standards), the Commission must resolve the policy issue over whether to permit greater recall flexibility.

24. An examination of both past and current Commission policy supports allowing releasing shippers to recall capacity more frequently than currently permitted under NAESB's standards.

25. The Commission's general policy adopted in Order No. 636 would permit more extensive recall rights than those permitted by the NAESB standards. Section 284.8(b) of the Commission's regulations (adopted in Order No. 636) expressly permits shippers to "release their capacity in whole or in part, on a permanent or short-term basis, without restriction on the terms and conditions of the release."³⁰ In Order No. 636-A, the Commission recognized that "a releasing shipper may include terms and conditions, such as recall rights, that will ensure it has adequate peak day capacity."³¹ In Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, for example, the Commission rejected a pipeline's proposed restriction on recall rights, stating "any provision relating to recall rights must not operate to impede the ability of releasing shippers to employ recall provisions as terms and conditions of their releases."³² Thus, all recall conditions, including partial day recalls are consistent with the Commission's regulations.

26. Moreover, in Order No. 637, the Commission sought to create greater scheduling parity between capacity release transactions and pipeline services by enabling capacity release transactions to take place on an intra-day basis at each of the four scheduling opportunities.³³ While this regulatory change will enable shippers to release capacity at any nomination opportunity, the existing NAESB recall standards do not permit releasing shippers to take full advantage of the intra-day nomination opportunities by recalling the capacity and renominating that capacity at each of the four scheduling opportunities. Allowing partial day recalls is, therefore, consistent with the overall regulatory changes promulgated in Order Nos. 636 and 637.

of capacity). The Commission is retaining the portion of Standard 5.3.7 that requires transportation service providers to "support the function of repurchasing by releasing shippers." Repurchasing refers to the ability of a releasing shipper to include a condition in a release under which it can recall capacity when needed and, after the recall has ended, the capacity will revert (be repurchased) to the replacement shipper, without the need for a new release.

³³ 18 CFR 284.12(c)(1)(ii) (2001) (permitting shippers acquiring released capacity to submit a nomination at the earliest available nomination opportunity after the acquisition of capacity).

27. Policy considerations further support enhanced recall rights. Permitting enhanced recall rights will provide firm shippers with added flexibility and will better enable releasing shippers to offer released capacity that competes with the pipelines' interruptible service. The current NAESB standards inhibit the ability of shippers to release capacity because releasing shippers cannot quickly reclaim capacity when they require it for their own use. For example, under the current NAESB standards, in order to recall capacity for the next gas day, a shipper must notify the pipeline by 8 a.m. the day before the recall can take effect and cannot use partial or flowing day recalls. By establishing an 8 a.m. deadline for recall notifications, the standard effectively precludes a releasing shipper from recalling capacity at the Evening Nomination cycle. In fact, a shipper that misses the 8:00 a.m. CCT recall notification time will miss four nomination opportunities and will be unable to have its volume flow until 48 hours after it submits the recall notification.³⁴

28. As a result of such lengthy delays, releasing shippers may not be able to use their recall rights as effectively as possible to ensure that they can retain adequate peak day capacity for their own needs. The delay in rescheduling recalled capacity also can have an adverse competitive impact on the market by reducing the amount of capacity available for release. As AGA points out, if an LDC is a provider of last resort under a state unbundling initiative and is given notice that insufficient supply is being delivered to its city-gate, the LDC will need to recall released capacity for later in the same day or, at least, for the next day. Without the ability to recall capacity more frequently, a releasing shipper with supplier-of-last-resort obligations will be reluctant to release capacity at all since it will not be able to recall that capacity when it is needed. In that event, replacement shippers will have less capacity from which to choose and will have fewer alternatives to purchasing pipeline interruptible service.

29. Replacement shippers benefit from having a more open and competitive capacity market, with more capacity available to compete with pipeline interruptible transportation. As APS/PWEC states, "as a captive shipper on a fully subscribed pipeline, APS/PWEC supports any initiative that would free up excess capacity (even in the short run)." ³⁵ Replacement shippers will not be required to purchase released capacity with partial day recalls, but will be able to choose the capacity with terms that best fits their needs. Releasing shippers will be able to release capacity without a partial day recall condition and will have an incentive to do so, because a release not subject to recall will be more valuable (and higher priced) than a release subject to recall. Replacement shippers will know the terms of releases upfront and can determine whether to purchase callable capacity or seek more reliable capacity, and can take the recall conditions into account in determining how much the capacity is worth.

30. Under the regulations adopted in this rule, the releasing shipper will be able to recall unscheduled capacity at any of the four nomination cycles and can recall scheduled capacity so long as the replacement shipper has an opportunity to reschedule its gas. The replacement shipper will receive protection against loss of service similar to that interruptible shippers currently receive.

31. In Order No. 587-G, the Commission adopted a regulation stating that when an interruptible shipper's volumes are to be reduced as a result of a nomination by a firm shipper, the interruptible shipper must be provided with advanced notice of such reduction and must be notified whether penalties will apply on the day its volumes are reduced.³⁶ The Commission further determined that interruptible shippers could be bumped by firm intra-day nominations at the first three nomination opportunities, but could not be bumped at the third intra-day nomination opportunity (5 p.m. CCT) since they would not have an opportunity to reschedule their gas for that gas day. The Commission provided this protection against bumping to provide stability in the nomination system, so that shippers can be confident by late afternoon that they will receive their scheduled flows.³⁷

32. This rationale applies equally to replacement shippers, which, under the regulations adopted in this rule, must be given advance notification of any recall and cannot have scheduled volumes reduced unless they have been given an opportunity to reschedule their gas. In addition, the Commission required pipelines to waive certain non-critical penalties for bumped interruptible shippers, and the same penalty waiver will be applied to bumped replacement shippers.³⁸

33. The Commission recognizes that implementation of recalls at the Intra-Day 1 and 2 cycles can affect flowing gas and, as the comments point out, result in the need to allocate daily nominations (and potentially penalties) between releasing and replacement shippers. But these issues are not insurmountable and should not prevent implementation of partial day recalls. Some pipelines already have implemented partial day recalls on their systems.³⁹ Rather than having pipelines implement partial day recalls based on their own distinct processes for handling allocation and other operational issues, the Commission is providing an opportunity for NAESB to reach consensus on a set of standards that can be applied to all partial day recalls. Therefore, the Commission will postpone implementation of partial or flowing day recalls of scheduled gas at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 cycles, and provide NAESB with six months to develop standards governing recalls at these cycles that affect flowing gas. At the end of this period, NAESB should file with the Commission the standards it has developed or, if it is unable to reach consensus, a report outlining the standards considered, the voting records with regard to these standards, and the reasons for its inability to reach consensus. Other industry members can also submit comments and will have an additional 15 days from the filing of the NAESB information to file additional comments on the NAESB report. Since NAESB has already been working on the partial day recall issue, six months should provide a sufficient time period for developing standards. Once the Commission receives the report from NAESB and the comments, it will issue an order establishing the requirements for partial day recalls.

34. The Commission, however, sees no reason for delaying implementation of partial day recalls for the Evening Cycle and for recalls of unscheduled capacity. Recalls in these situations will not present allocation or other operational difficulties for the pipelines. Such recalls do not affect flowing volumes and, therefore, do not result in the need to allocate daily gas supplies between releasing and replacement shippers. In order to provide shippers more flexibility in their use of capacity, the Commission will require pipelines by May 1, 2002, to file tariff sheets, as discussed below, to implement partial day recalls for the Evening Cycle and for unscheduled capacity. These tariff sheets are to become effective by July 1, 2002.

³⁴ A releasing shipper that misses the 8 a.m. CCT notification time cannot renominate that capacity until 11:30 a.m. CCT the next day, a nomination under which gas will not flow until 9:00 a.m. CCT the day after.

35. Schedule for Implementation of Recalls for Evening Nomination Cycle and Unscheduled Capacity

36. The NOPR proposed that no advance notice of recalls would be provided, so that the recall and a renomination of the releasing shipper would be provided at each of the standard nomination cycles. For example, under the proposal in the NOPR, the releasing shipper would notify the pipeline at 6 p.m. CCT (Evening Nomination) that capacity is being recalled and would simultaneously submit a nomination at the same time. The replacement shipper would not be notified of the bump, under this proposal, until the deadline for reporting of scheduled volumes (10 p.m. CCT).

37. A number of comments, however, maintain that recall notices and nominations should not be simultaneous and that pipelines and replacement shippers need advance notice of recalls. Whether to establish an advance notification requirement for recalls, and how that notice should be provided, are issues NAESB needs to consider during its deliberations. The treatment of advance notification can determine whether recalls at the Intra-Day 2 cycle can bump scheduled volumes. If NAESB provides for advance notice of recalls to pipelines and replacement shippers, releasing shippers could be permitted to bump scheduled gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle, since replacement shippers will have sufficient advance notice to reschedule bumped gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.⁴⁰ On the other hand, if advance notice is not provided, then, under this rule, recalls would not be permitted at the Intra-Day 2 cycle since the replacement shipper would not have an opportunity to reschedule its gas.

38. Since the Commission is implementing recalls of scheduled gas at the Evening Nomination cycle and recalls of unscheduled gas at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 cycles, pipelines will need to implement an interim schedule for implementing recalls for these cycles. In order to assure expeditious compliance with these requirements, the Commission is establishing, as discussed below, an interim timeline for recalls and will require each pipeline to include standard tariff language in its tariff providing for such recalls.

39. The fundamental precept of the interim schedule being adopted by the Commission is that releasing shippers must be provided with sufficient time after receipt of scheduled quantities to inform the pipeline of a recall. Releasing shippers, such as LDCs, need to be aware of the scheduled volumes for their systems prior to determining whether they will need to recall capacity. Thus, the advance notification period should give releasing shippers the time to evaluate the scheduled quantities information before having to submit the recall notice.⁴¹ Further, although the Commission is not convinced that the existing 3 1/2 hour advance notice requirement for the Timely Nomination cycle⁴² is necessary, the Commission will permit pipelines to continue to use this notification period for notification of recalls for the Timely Nomination cycle while NAESB considers the schedule for recalls.

40. Based on these precepts, the Commission is establishing the following interim schedule for notification to pipelines and replacement shippers of recalls of capacity at the Evening Nomination cycle and for recalls of unscheduled capacity.

Nomination cycle (all times in CCT)	Receipt of scheduled volumes (from prior nomination cycle)	Recall notification to pipeline	Pipeline notification to replacement shipper of recall	Nomination time (same day)
Timely	NA	8 a.m.	9 a.m.	11:30 a.m.
Evening	4:30 p.m. same day	5 p.m.	6 p.m.	6 p.m.
Intra-Day 1	10 p.m. CCT prior day	8 a.m.	9 a.m.	10 a.m.
Intra-Day 2	2 p.m. same day	3 p.m.	4 p.m.	5 p.m.

41. To ease the compliance and review burden on both pipelines and shippers, each pipeline is required to file standard tariff language to implement such recalls stating the following:

Releasing shippers may, to the extent permitted as a condition of the capacity release, recall released capacity (scheduled or unscheduled) at the Timely Nomination cycle and the Evening Nomination cycle, and recall unscheduled released capacity at the Intra-Day 1 and Intra-Day 2 Nomination cycles by providing notice to the Transporter by the following times for each cycle: 8 a.m. CCT for the Timely Nomination cycle; 5:00 p.m. CCT for the Evening Nomination Cycle; 8 a.m. CCT for the Intra-Day 1 Nomination cycle, and 3:00 p.m. for the Intra-Day 2 Nomination cycle. Notification to replacement shippers provided by Transporter within one hour of receipt of recall notification.

The Commission will revisit this schedule after NAESB has had an opportunity to develop standardized timelines for partial day recalls.

42. The Commission will address below those comments opposing or suggesting changes in the regulation or requesting clarification. Comments addressing procedural issues will not be addressed since NAESB will be considering those issues.

⁴⁰ If advance notice of recalls is provided, the bumping rules for recalled capacity may not need to be identical to those for interruptible shippers. Interruptible shippers cannot be bumped at the Intra-Day 2 cycle because, under current NAESB standards, they are not provided with advance notice of the bump and so cannot renominate at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. 18 CFR 284.12(b)(1)(1), Nominations Related Standards 1.3.2 (Intra-Day 2 nomination is received at 5 p.m. CCT with no advance notice to interruptible shippers of volumes to be bumped). In contrast, if advance notice of recalls is provided to replacement shippers, their scheduled capacity can be recalled at the Intra-Day 2 cycle because the replacement shipper will have sufficient notice to renominate at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

⁴¹ For example, under the Timely Nomination cycle, scheduled volumes are provided at 4:30 p.m.

Releasing shippers need sufficient time to evaluate this information before determining whether to recall capacity for the 6 p.m. Evening Nomination cycle.

⁴² Capacity Release Related Standards 5.3.6 (notice must be given by 8 a.m. CCT for recall effective at the 11:30 a.m. Timely Nomination cycle).

43. Comments on Adoption of Partial Day Recall Requirement

44. Those opposing adoption of a regulation permitting partial day recalls contend that permitting any partial day recalls will operate to diminish the attractiveness of released capacity, and will, therefore, result in limiting competition between pipeline firm and released capacity. They further maintain that allowing partial day recalls will be harmful to replacement shippers, because replacement shippers will be unable to reschedule gas bumped by the partial day recall. DETM contends that, for better or worse, all gas transactions occur for a full gas day, and that this will create difficulties for replacement shippers trying to reschedule gas subject to partial day recalls. DETM further maintains that no data supports the proposition that the availability of partial day recalls will have any measurable impact on the availability of released capacity.

45. Since Order No. 636, the Commission's regulation of released capacity has proceeded from the presumption that the best way to improve access to capacity is to provide both releasing and replacement shippers as much flexibility as possible in structuring their capacity release transactions. In Order No. 637, for instance, the Commission required pipelines to permit releasing and replacement shippers to consummate capacity release transactions at each of the four intra-day nomination opportunities to ensure that replacement shippers could obtain capacity when they need it.⁴³ Similarly, allowing partial day recalls will provide releasing shippers with similar flexibility to structure capacity releases that fit their requirements. Indeed, as the gas market has been developing, shippers want more flexibility, not less, to adjust nominations on an intra-day basis.⁴⁴ Allowing partial day recalls is a step towards the Commission's, as well as the industry's, goal of providing shippers with enhanced scheduling opportunities so that they can adjust their gas nominations to accord with their market needs.⁴⁵

46. Moreover, it is not clear that prohibiting partial day recalls would benefit replacement shippers in the long run. DETM and Dynegy appear to be

assuming that without partial day recalls, firm shippers will release the same amount of capacity on a full day's basis as they would if partial day recalls are available. However, many of the comments point out that firm shippers that need capacity on short notice are reluctant to release their capacity at all if they are unable to recall that capacity in the event of changed circumstances, such as dropping temperatures or the failure of a marketer to deliver gas.⁴⁶ According to the comments, this is particularly true for LDCs with supplier-of-last-resort obligations that need to be able to recall capacity quickly if marketers fail to provide gas to the LDCs city-gate.⁴⁷ Allowing partial day recalls will remove this disincentive to release capacity, thereby making incremental capacity available and benefitting replacement shippers by providing them with more options, particularly on fully subscribed pipelines.⁴⁸

47. Dynegy, DETM, and EPSA further assert that allowing partial day recalls may make capacity releases subject to such recalls less valuable to replacement shippers. In the first place, as noted above, the commenters are assuming such capacity will be available for release if partial day recall rights were not available to the releasing shipper, an assumption that other comments show is not necessarily correct. Released capacity available subject to partial day recall is certainly more valuable to replacement shippers than not having that capacity available at all.

48. Moreover, if replacement shippers find that released capacity with partial day recalls is too unreliable, they need not purchase that released capacity and can negotiate with the releasing shippers for conditions providing more reliable service. Under the regulations adopted here, releasing shippers are not required to include partial day recalls in their releases. Releasing shippers can release capacity on a full day basis (not subject to partial day recalls) and will have an incentive to do so, because a full day release will be more valuable (and higher priced) than a partial day recall release. The replacement shippers will know the terms of releases upfront and can determine whether to purchase that capacity, negotiate other terms with the releasing shipper, or seek more reliable capacity, and can take the recall conditions into account in determining how much the capacity is worth. In a fully functioning market, buyers and sellers negotiate over the terms of their deals so that the price and other components reflect terms that are mutually agreeable to both parties. Imposing artificial regulatory limits on the negotiating position of one party to the transaction, as proposed by those opposing partial day recalls, is the antithesis of fully functioning markets, and can only create a less efficient marketplace.

49. DETM and Dynegy also contend that permitting partial day recalls will reduce the reliability of the pipeline grid because replacement shippers are subject to losing their capacity and may be unable to reschedule capacity. These arguments are reminiscent of the arguments made in 1998 against allowing firm intra-day nominations to bump interruptible transportation on the grounds that interruptible shippers would have difficulty rescheduling their gas.⁴⁹ In that case, the Commission rejected such claims, finding that:

Firm shippers are paying reservation charges for priority rights and those rights should include the right to have a nomination become effective as early as possible on the gas day following the nomination. Interruptible shippers voluntarily take the risk that their service will be interrupted and while they are entitled to advance notice of such interruption, they should not be able to prevent firm shippers from having their nominations take effect at the earliest possible time. Gas flows on the interstate grid 24-hours a day, and is consumed throughout the day, so interruptible shippers need to be prepared to adjust gas volumes even during non-business hours.⁵⁰

50. In this instance, firm shippers paying reservation charges should similarly have the ability to control the use of their capacity by employing partial day recalls. Shippers purchasing released capacity subject to partial day recalls, like those purchasing interruptible transportation, are taking the risk that their scheduled quantities may be disrupted. As gas markets continue to develop, such adjustments will be increasingly necessary to provide those shippers holding firm

⁴⁶ See Comments of Dominion LDCs, at 4 (partial day recalls "will free up capacity that would otherwise be held by LDCs and other shippers that cannot risk releasing it for an extended period"); Kentucky ("the inability to reschedule recalled capacity will result in the reduction of the amount of capacity available, thereby adversely impacting competition").

51. Moreover, like interruptible shippers, replacement shippers are protected, because bumping of scheduled volumes is only permitted if the replacement shipper has at least one opportunity to reschedule its gas. Replacement shippers also have tools available, such as pooling, gas package identifiers, and ranking, that they can use to manage their gas supplies in the event of a bump.⁵¹

52. WDG maintains that the Commission should not exempt the Intra-Day 2 nomination from a partial day recall. It argues that the replacement shippers have fair notice that their capacity is recallable, and therefore are not prejudiced by having a recall at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

53. The regulation adopted in this rule does not prohibit all recalls at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. Recalls of unscheduled capacity can be made at the Intra-Day 2 cycle. As discussed earlier, NAESB is to consider establishing a notification schedule by which pipelines and replacement shippers are to be notified of recalls. Bumping at the Intra-Day 2 cycle may be permitted depending on whether the replacement shipper is given sufficient time to renominate any bumped gas at the Intra-Day 2 cycle.

54. DETM maintains that the partial day recall issue is not a policy dispute, but a business issue that should be left to NAESB to resolve. It argues that the Commission has historically deferred to the determinations of NAESB on business issues and, therefore, should not overturn the business decision by NAESB to prohibit partial day recalls.

55. The dispute here is not simply a question of business practices, but a question of regulatory policy regarding the relative rights of releasing and replacement shippers under the Commission's capacity release mechanism. Here, the Commission has determined that, under its regulations, releasing shippers should be given full rights to use their capacity flexibly by recalling that capacity on an intra-day basis, and that the contrary NAESB standards should no longer be incorporated by reference.

56. It is true that the Commission gives great weight to the standards adopted by NAESB, because these standards represent a consensus of the industry. In fact, the Commission initially adopted NAESB's consensus standards limiting capacity release recalls, even though the Commission's regulations (§ 284.8 (b)) would have permitted partial day recalls. Now, however, it is clear from the record of deliberations at NAESB, and the comments filed in this proceeding, that the existing NAESB standards on partial day recalls no longer command a consensus of the industry.⁵² At this point, NAESB is stalemated, without being able to achieve a consensus in either direction. Since consensus no longer obtains, the Commission needs to resolve the policy dispute and has determined that allowing partial day recalls is consistent with the Commission's regulations, will provide incentives to release additional capacity, and will foster enhanced competition.

57. Requests for Clarification

58. A number of the comments ask for clarification of aspects of the regulations and the way in which partial day recalls will operate.

59. Applicability of Recall Conditions

60. NiSource maintains the Commission's regulation is vague and seems to imply that all released capacity is subject to partial day recalls. Williams and ENA similarly seek clarification that parties retain the flexibility to decide whether capacity is recallable on an intra-day basis. Williams further seeks clarification that the proposed rule is prospective only and does not affect previous capacity release contracts.

61. The Commission has revised its proposed regulation to make clear that pipelines need only provide releasing shippers with the opportunity to include partial day recalls as a condition in capacity release offers. Whether a partial day recall applies to a capacity release will depend upon the terms of the agreement between the releasing and replacement shipper. Because the terms of the agreement govern, the Commission agrees with Williams that implementation of this regulation is prospective only and will not change the terms of already negotiated capacity release transactions.

⁵² Under NAESB's procedures, a consensus is required to approve standards, but equally a consensus is needed to change or remove a standard. For example, if NAESB's current partial day recall standards (5.3.6 and 5.3.7) were resubmitted for a vote today, the comments make clear that these standards would not command a consensus at NAESB.

62. Schedule for Notification of Recalls for Timely Nomination Cycle and Reputs

63. The Industrials maintain that the Commission should not eliminate NAESB standard 5.3.6 which establishes 8 a.m. CCT as the deadline for notification of a recall applicable to the Timely Nomination cycle (11:30 a.m.). The Industrials are concerned that the elimination of this provision will force all recalls into the intra-day cycles or will mean that recall timing will be left either to the contract between the releasing and replacement shipper or to individual tariff provisions. The Industrials further request that the Commission consider a timeline for notification of reputs (in which recalled capacity reverts to the replacement shipper after a recall ends), or request NAESB to consider this issue.

64. The Commission recognizes that a standard timeline for recall notification is needed and is referring this issue to NAESB for consideration of a new standard. In the interim while NAESB is considering a new standard, the Commission is permitting pipelines to continue to use the notification period in current standard 5.3.6 for the Timely Nomination cycle, and, as described earlier, has established an interim notification schedule for the other nomination cycles. NAESB also should consider whether a schedule or timeline for reput notification is necessary.

65. Penalty Exposure

66. Dynegy and NGSa maintain that partial day recalls should not result in greater penalty exposure for shippers whose capacity has been recalled. As discussed earlier, the Commission in Order No. 587-G required pipelines to waive non-critical penalties for bumped interruptible shippers. Pipelines should apply the same waivers for gas bumped through partial day recalls.

67. Effect on Alternate Points

68. NiSource seeks clarification that partial day recalls will not permit the releasing shipper recalling capacity to change to an alternate point and bump firm capacity that is already scheduled (by a third party) at that point. The recall only permits the releasing shipper to displace gas scheduled by the replacement shipper. The Commission agrees that partial day recalls will not give the recalling shipper any greater scheduling rights vis a vis third parties.

69. Pipelines Offering Non-Standard Nomination Opportunities

70. Dominion requests clarification that pipelines offering more nomination opportunities than the four standard times provided in the NAESB standards, need not offer partial day recall at non-standard nomination times. Dominion maintains that it provides additional nomination times early in the morning (7:45 a.m. CCT) and late in the evening (8:45 p.m.), and states that its staffing, and that of shippers, at these times does not permit processing of recalls. In addition, Dominion contends that other pipelines are not equipped to coordinate recalls at those hours.

71. Pipelines are certainly free to provide for recalls at non-standard nomination periods. However, in implementing recalls during the interim period in which NAESB is considering standards, the Commission will require recalls to be processed only at the standard nomination periods; pipelines need not permit recalls at any non-standard nomination times. In considering standards for partial day recalls, NAESB should consider whether standards should be developed to permit recalls at certain non-standard nomination opportunities.

72. Effect on Already Accepted Partial Day Recall Programs

73. Dominion requests clarification that the final rule does not affect Dominion's settlement in its Order No. 637 proceeding in which it provides partial day recalls at certain nomination opportunities. For example, Dominion states that it currently does not permit recalls at the Intra-Day 1 cycle, although it does not object to permitting such recalls if required by the Commission.

74. All pipelines will be required to conform to the requirements of the Commission regulation, regardless of the terms of previous approved tariffs. The Commission is acting under section 5 of the Natural Gas Act in requiring pipelines to permit releasing shippers to use partial day recalls and is seeking to establish standards to apply to such recalls across the interstate grid. Accordingly, all pipelines with tariffs inconsistent with the Commission's regulation must comply with that regulation. Dominion, for instance, is required, as are the other pipelines, to permit recalls at the Intra-Day 1 cycle (to which it has no objection). Similarly, Dominion is required to permit recalls under the schedule established by the Commission in this rule for the interim period while NAESB is considering standards for partial day recalls, and will be required to comply with subsequent timeline NAESB develops and the Commission adopts.

75. Pipeline Capacity

76. EIP is concerned that partial day recalls are at odds with the NAESB standards requiring that all nominations be for daily quantities. EIP maintains that if partial day recalls are permitted for released capacity, pipelines should be permitted to sell their capacity for less than a full day as well.

77. EIP appears to be suggesting that a partial day recall refers to a sale of capacity for a time period of less than one day, whereas pipelines under the NAESB standards can only sell capacity for a full day's quantity. The Commission is not establishing different standards for pipeline capacity as compared to released capacity. As Gulf South explains in its comments, a partial day recall should not be viewed as a recall for a specific portion (number of hours) of a gas day. Rather, the recall is for a proportionate share of the total contract quantity. For example, if a capacity release is for a contract quantity of 2400 Dth, and the replacement shipper flowed 800 Dth during the first eight hours prior to recall, the releasing shipper would still have a contract quantity of 1600 Dth remaining on the contract for the remainder of the gas day. In the same way, pipelines can sell capacity at each of the intra-day nomination opportunities whenever capacity is available.⁵³

⁵³ Indeed, Commission policy requires pipelines to sell capacity at the maximum tariff rate whenever that capacity is available, including on an intra-day basis. Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, 91 FERC ¶ 61,053, at 61,190 (2000); 18 CFR 284.7 & 284.9 (must sell services without regard to duration of the service).

78. Notice of Use of Voluntary Consensus Standards

Office of Management and Budget Circular A-119 (§ 11) (February 10, 1998) provides that when a federal agency issues or revises a regulation containing a standard, the agency should publish a statement in the final rule identifying whether a voluntary consensus standard or a government-unique standard is being adopted. In this rulemaking, the Commission is issuing its own regulation and rescinding the incorporation by reference of NAESB standard 5.3.6 and part of 5.3.7, because the existing NAESB standard has not been revised to take into account changed circumstances, there is no longer consensus supporting this standard, and the existing standard fails to reflect Commission policy.

79. Information Collection Statement

80. The Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) regulations in 5 CFR 1320.11 require that it approve certain reporting and recordkeeping requirements (collections of information) imposed by an agency. Upon approval of a collection of information, OMB will assign an OMB control number and an expiration date. Respondents subject to the filing requirements of this Rule will not be penalized for failing to respond to these collections of information unless the collections of information display a valid OMB control number.

81. The final rule will affect one existing data collection, FERC-545 "Gas Pipeline Rates: Rate Change (Non-Formal)" (OMB Control No. 1902-0154). The following burden estimates are related only to this rule and include the costs of complying with the tariff filing requirement. Since this final rule will be implemented in two phases, the number of responses per respondent has been increased from one, as proposed in the NOPR, to two because each respondent will need to make two tariff filings, one for phase one and one for phase two.

Data collection	Number of respondents	Number of responses per respondent	Hours per response	Total annual hours
FERC-545	93	2	38	7,068
				FERC-545
Annualized Capital/Startup Costs				$397,714
Annualized Costs (Operations & Maintenance)				0
Total Annualized Costs				397,714

The cost per respondent is $4,276.00 (rounded off).

82. The Commission sought comments to comply with these requirements. Comments were received from twenty-eight entities. No comments addressed the reporting burden imposed by these requirements. The substantive issues raised by the commenters are addressed within the rule.

83. The Commission's regulations adopted in this rule are necessary to further the process begun in Order No. 587 of creating a more efficient and integrated pipeline grid by standardizing the business practices and electronic communication of interstate pipelines. Adoption of these regulations will update the Commission's regulations relating to business practices and provide greater flexibility for capacity holders on interstate pipelines by synchronizing the Commission's regulation of recalled capacity with its standards for intra-day nominations. The public also benefits by having greater competition across the pipeline grid as a result of firm capacity holders having increased flexibility in structuring their capacity release transactions.

84. The Commission has assured itself, by means of its internal review, that there is specific, objective support for the burden estimates associated with the information requirements. The information required in the Final Rule will help the Commission carry out its responsibilities under the Natural Gas Act and conforms to the Commission's plan for efficient information collection, communication, and management within the natural gas industry.

85. Interested persons may obtain information on the reporting requirements by contacting the following: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426 [Attention: Michael Miller, Office of the Chief Information Officer, CI-1, (202) 208-1415, or mike.miller@ferc.fed.gov] or the Office of Management and Budget, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Attention: Desk Officer for the

86. Environmental Analysis

87. The Commission is required to prepare an Environmental Assessment or an Environmental Impact Statement for any action that may have a significant adverse effect on the human environment.⁵⁴ The Commission has categorically excluded certain actions from these requirements as not having a significant effect on the human environment.⁵⁵ The regulations adopted in this rule fall within categorical exclusions in the Commission's regulations for rules that are clarifying, corrective, or procedural, for information gathering, analysis, and dissemination, and for sales, exchange, and transportation of natural gas that requires no construction of facilities.⁵⁶ Therefore, an environmental assessment is unnecessary and has not been prepared.

88. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

89. The Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (RFA)⁵⁷ generally requires a description and analysis of final rules that will have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The regulations proposed here impose requirements only on interstate pipelines, which are not small businesses, and, these requirements are, in fact, designed to benefit all customers, including small businesses. Accordingly, pursuant to § 605(b) of the RFA, the Commission hereby certifies that the regulations adopted herein will not have a significant adverse impact on a substantial number of small entities.

95. Implementation Dates

96. As discussed herein, interstate pipelines are required, by May 1, 2002, to make tariff filings, to become effective by July 1, 2002, to comply with the requirement to implement recalls of scheduled and unscheduled capacity for the Timely and Evening Nomination cycles and for recalls of unscheduled capacity. Each tariff filing must include the tariff language set forth at P. 41.

97. By October 1, 2002, NAESB should file comments with the Commission detailing the standards NAESB has adopted relating to partial day recalls or, if none has been adopted, those that were considered, as well as all other material relevant to NAESB's consideration of the standards. Other industry members also can submit comments by October 1, 2002, and will have until October 15, 2002 to file additional comments on the NAESB report.

98. Effective Date

99. These regulations are effective April 17, 2002. The Commission has determined, with the concurrence of the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, that this rule is not a "major rule" as defined in section 351 of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996.

BILLING CODE 6717-01-P

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms

27 CFR Part 4

[T.D. ATF-475; Ref. Notice No. 924]

RIN: 1512-AC29

Addition of New Grape Variety Names for American Wines (2000R-322P)

AGENCY: Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Department of the Treasury.

ACTION: Treasury decision, final rule.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) is adding four new names to the list of prime grape variety names for use in designating American wines: Albariño, Alvarinho, Black Corinth, and Fiano.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Effective May 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jennifer Berry, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Regulations Division, 111 W. Huron Street, Room 219, Buffalo, NY 14202-2301; telephone (716) 434-8039.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Under the Federal Alcohol Administration Act (27 U.S.C. 201 et seq.) (FAA Act), wine labels must provide the consumer with adequate information as to the identity of the product. The FAA Act also requires that the information appearing on wine labels not mislead the consumer.

To help carry out these statutory requirements, ATF has issued regulations, including those that designate grape varieties. Under 27 CFR 4.23(b) and (c), a wine bottler may use a grape variety name as the designation of a wine if at least 75 percent of the wine (51 percent in the case of wine made from Vitis labrusca grapes) is derived from that grape variety. Under § 4.23(d), a bottler may use two or more grape variety names as the designation of a wine if all of the grapes used to make the wine are of the labeled varieties, and the percentage of the wine derived from each variety is shown on the label.

Treasury Decision ATF-370 (61 FR 522), January 8, 1996, adopted a list of grape variety names that ATF determined to be appropriate for use in designating American wines. The list of prime grape names and their synonyms appears at § 4.91, while alternative grape names temporarily authorized for use are listed at § 4.92. We believe the listing of approved grape variety names for American wines will help standardize wine label terminology and prevent consumer confusion.

How May New Varieties Be Added to the List of Prime Grape Names?

Under § 4.93, any interested person may petition ATF to add additional grape varieties to the list of prime grape names. The petitioner should provide evidence of the following:

- Acceptance of the grape variety;
 - The validity of the name for identifying the grape variety;
 - That the variety is used or will be used in winemaking; and
 - That the variety is grown and used in the United States.
- Documentation submitted with the petition may include:
- A reference to the publication of the variety's name in a scientific or professional journal of horticulture or a published report by a professional, scientific or winegrowers' organization;
 - A reference to a plant patent, if patented; and
 - Information about the commercial potential of the variety, such as the acreage planted and its location or market studies.

Section 4.93 also places certain eligibility restrictions on the approval of grape names. We will not approve a name:

- If it has previously been used for a different grape variety;
- If it contains a term or name found to be misleading under § 4.39; or
- If a name of a new grape variety contains the term "Riesling."

The Director will not approve the name of a new grape variety developed in the United States if the name contains words of geographical significance, place names, or foreign words which are misleading under § 4.39.

Notice 924

In Notice 924, published on July 19, 2001, ATF proposed to add the names Albariño, Alvarinho, Black Corinth, and Fiano to the list of approved grape variety names in § 4.91. We based the proposal on the petitions and evidence described below. We received no comments to the notice. Because the petitioners provided sufficient evidence to support the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding the new names to the approved list.

Petitions

Petition for Albariño/Alvarinho

Havens Wine Cellars of Napa, California, petitioned ATF to add "Albariño" to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. Grown for centuries in Spain and Portugal, Albariño, a white Vitis vinifera grape, is relatively new to the United States. In Portugal the grape is called "Alvarinho."

The petitioners stated that Albariño has long been recognized in Europe and in academic communities. As evidence of this, the petitioners submitted the following supporting documents provided by Professor Carole Meredith of the Viticulture and Enology Department at the University of California at Davis (UC Davis):

- European Union Regulation 3201/90: This regulation permits the use of the name "Albariño" on labels of Spanish wines, and the name "Alvarinho" on labels of Portuguese wines.
- Two scientific papers published in the American Journal of Enology and Viticulture: "Effects of Grapevine Leafroll-Associated Virus 3 on the Physiology and Must of Vitis vinifera L. cv. Albariño Following Contamination in the Field," (Vol. 50, 1999) which discusses a study conducted on Albariño grape vines, and "Contribution of Saccharomyces and Non-Saccharomyces Populations to the Production of Some Components of Albariño Wine Aroma," (Vol. 47, 1996) which describes a study conducted on Albariño musts.

- "The Genetic Resources of Vitis": This listing of international grape variety names and synonyms, published in 1988 by the German Federal Grape Breeding Institute, lists Alvarinho as the prime name for the grape varietal with Albariño as a synonym.

- An abstract of an article from the Journal of the American Society for Horticultural Science: "Molecular marker analysis of Vitis vinifera 'Albariño' and some similar grapevine cultivars," published September 1998, describing a DNA analysis conducted on Albariño grapevines.

The petitioner also submitted several wine literature articles from sources such as Wine Spectator and Wine Today, which mention Albariño/Alvarinho wine.

ATF contacted Professor Meredith and asked her if the name "Alvarinho" should be added to the list as a synonym of Albariño. She replied that both names are well established in Europe and are equally valid names for the grape. She stated that because the grape is relatively new to the U.S., she didn't know which name is most commonly used by U.S. winemakers. She noted that UC Davis has an example of the grapevine in its collection and uses the name "Alvarinho", most likely because the plant originally came from Portugal.

Havens Wine Cellar reported that it has 2½ acres of Albariño in production, with the first crop picked in 1999. We also know of two other California wineries and a Virginia winery that are growing Albariño. Since the evidence submitted satisfies the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding Albariño and Alvarinho to the list of prime grape names in § 4.91.

Petition for Black Corinth

Hallcrest Vineyards of Felton, California, petitioned ATF to add the grape variety Black Corinth to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. Black Corinth grapes are widely grown in California, where the vast majority of them are dried into raisins and marketed under the name "Zante Currant."

As evidence of the grape's acceptance and use in California, Hallcrest Vineyards submitted the following statistical reports issued by the State of California:

- Final Grape Crush Report for the 1999 crop, issued by the California Department of Food and Agriculture.
- California Grape Acreage report for 1999, issued by the California Agricultural Statistics Service, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Both reports include statistical tables with the data broken down by grape varietal. Black Corinth is one of the listed varieties. The petitioner stated that this is clear evidence that the grape is grown in California and is recognized by the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Other documentation included The Oxford Companion to Wine (Jancis Robinson, Oxford University Press, 1999), which states that Black Corinth is one of the most commonly used grape varieties in the world raisin industry, and is occasionally used in winemaking.

Hallcrest Vineyards stated it has made a fruity, blush dessert wine from the Black Corinth grape. We are aware of at least one other winery using the grape to produce a table wine. Because the evidence satisfies the requirements of § 4.93, we are adding Black Corinth to the list of prime grape names in § 4.91. Because we believe the name "Zante Currant" could mislead consumers into thinking the wine is made from currants and not grapes, we did not propose that name as a synonym.

Petition for Fiano

United Distillers and Vintners North America, Inc. (UDV) petitioned ATF to add the name "Fiano" to the list of prime grape names approved for the designation of American wines. UDV owns three wineries in California—Beaulieu Vineyards, Glenn Ellen Carneros Winery, and Blossom Hill.

Fiano is a white varietal, long grown in the Campania region of Italy where it is used to produce the Denominazione di Origine Controllata wine Fiano di Avellino. According to information submitted by the petitioner, Fiano is an old grape with a history dating back to the ancient Romans. Records show that Holy Roman Emperor Frederick II (1215–1250) placed an order for Fiano wine and that Charles d'Anjou (1227–1285) planted 16,000 Fiano vines. Modern reference sources referring to the Fiano grape include The New Sotheby's Wine Encyclopedia (Tom Stevenson, DK Publishing, Inc., 1997) and The Oxford Companion to Wine (Jancis Robinson, Oxford University Press, 1999).

As evidence of the grape's use in the United States, UDV submitted a price list from Herrick Grapevines in St. Helena, California, listing Fiano in its grapevine inventory. According to this inventory, the Fiano was planted in 1997 and was obtained from Duarte Nursery in Modesto, California. UDV further stated that Beaulieu Vineyard has produced two vintages of Fiano wine, and submitted evidence that at least three other California vineyards and one New York vineyard are also growing Fiano. The petitioner submitted a letter from Monterey Pacific, one of the California growers, stating that they have five years of experience with Fiano and find it to be a grape with distinctive varietal character.

Based on the evidence presented in the petition, we are adding the Fiano grape to the list of approved prime names in § 4.91.

Regulatory Analyses and Notices

Does the Paperwork Reduction Act Apply to This Final Rule?

The provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, 44 U.S.C. Chapter 35, and its implementing regulations, 5 CFR part 1320, do not apply to this rule. This rule does not require winemakers to collect any additional information.

How Does the Regulatory Flexibility Act Apply to This Final Rule?

We certify that this final regulation will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This regulation will permit the use of new grape varietal names. We do not expect any negative impact on small entities. We are not imposing new requirements. Accordingly, the act does not require a regulatory flexibility analysis.

Is This a Significant Regulatory Action as Defined by Executive Order 12866?

This is not a significant regulatory action as defined by Executive Order 12866. Therefore, the order does not require a regulatory assessment.

Great Egg Harbor Bay, New Jersey

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Fifth Coast Guard District, has approved a temporary deviation from the regulations governing the operation of the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge across Great Egg Harbor Bay, mile 3.5, between Somers Point and Beesleys Point, in New Jersey. From March 11, 2002, through April 5, 2002, the bridge may remain in the closed position Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. However, on Saturday and Sunday the bridge will open on signal for marine traffic. This closure is necessary to conduct the emergency structural repairs to the bascule span.

DATES: This deviation is effective from 7 a.m. on March 11, 2002, until 5 p.m. on April 5, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ann B. Deaton, Bridge Administrator, Fifth Coast Guard District, at (757) 398-6222.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Coast Guard received a letter from the bridge manager, requesting a temporary deviation from the current operating schedule of the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge to undertake repairs. The draw currently is required to open on signal at all times. This requirement is included in the general operating regulations at 33 CFR 117.5. The work involves ironwork repairs to the bascule span of the bridge. To facilitate the repairs, the bascule span will be locked in the closed position so that concrete can undergo the curing process. This work requires completely immobilizing the operation of the bascule span. In the event of an emergency, openings of the span will be provided as quickly as possible, but may take up to 48 hours to accomplish. Requests for emergency openings can be made by calling the bridge manager at (609) 390-3190 or (609) 624-0949.

In accordance with 33 CFR 117.35, the District Commander approved the contractor's request for a temporary deviation from the governing regulations in a letter dated February 22, 2002.

The Coast Guard has informed the known commercial users of the waterway of the bridge closure so that these vessels can arrange their transits to minimize any impact caused by the temporary deviation.

The temporary deviation allows the Route 9/Beesleys Point Bridge across Great Egg Harbor, mile 3.5, between Somers Point and Beesleys Point, New Jersey to remain closed Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. on March 11, 2002, until 5 p.m. on April 5, 2002.

Dated: March 6, 2002.

Ann B. Deaton,
Chief, Bridge Administration Section, Fifth Coast Guard District.

Drawbridge Operation Regulations:
Commercial Boulevard Bridge (SR 870), Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, Mile 1059.0, Lauderdale-by-the-Sea,
Broward County, FL

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations, request for comments.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Seventh Coast Guard District, has approved a test deviation from the regulations governing the operation of the Commercial Boulevard (SR 870) bridge at Lauderdale-by-the-Sea across the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway, mile 1059.0 in Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, Florida. This deviation allows the drawbridge to open on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. This action is intended to improve the movement of vehicular traffic while not unreasonably interfering with the movement of vessel traffic. Comments on this test deviation are encouraged.

DATES: This rule is effective from April 17, 2002, until July 16, 2002.

ADDRESSES: You may mail comments and related material to Commander (obr), Seventh Coast Guard District, 909 S.E. 1st Avenue, Room 432, Miami, FL 33131. Comments and material received from the public, as well as comments indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket [CGD07-02-009] and are available for inspection or copying at Commander (obr), Seventh Coast Guard District, 909 S.E. 1st Avenue, Room 432, Miami, FL 33131 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Barry Dragon, Chief, Operations Section, Seventh Coast Guard District, Bridge Branch at (305) 415-6743.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Request for Comments

We encourage you to comment on this test schedule by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this notice [CGD07-02-009], indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know they reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to the Seventh Coast Guard District Bridge Branch at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid in the Discussion of the Test Schedule, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Discussion of the Test Schedule

The existing regulations of the Commercial Boulevard bridge (SR 870), mile 1059.0, at Lauderdale-by-the-Sea allow the draw to open on signal, except that, from November 1 through May 15

from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, the draw need open only on the hour, quarter-hour, half-hour, and three-quarter-hour, and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays, and federal holidays, the draw need open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour.

The City of Fort Lauderdale requested on January 3, 2002, that the Coast Guard review the existing regulation of the Commercial Boulevard bridge as they believe the existing regulations are not meeting the needs of vehicle and vessel traffic. This test deviation will allow the draw to open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour. We will utilize the data collected from this test deviation to determine if new operating regulations need to be created for this bridge to facilitate vehicle and vessel traffic movement.

The District Commander has granted a test deviation from the operating requirements listed in 33 CFR 117.261(ee) to evaluate the effect of this new schedule on vehicle and vessel traffic. Under this deviation, the Commercial Boulevard Bridge need open only on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour, and 40 minutes after the hour from April 17, 2002, until July 16, 2002.

Dated: March 7, 2002.

Greg Shapley,

Chief, Bridge Administration, Seventh Coast Guard District.

Drawbridge Operating Regulation; Pascagoula River, Mississippi

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of temporary deviation from regulations.

SUMMARY: The Commander, Eighth Coast Guard District has issued a temporary deviation from the regulation governing the operation of the CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge across the Pascagoula River, mile 1.5 at Pascagoula, Mississippi. This deviation allows the draw of the railroad bascule span bridge to remain closed to navigation from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on March 18, 2002. This temporary deviation will allow for rewiring the electrical components of the operating mechanism.

DATES: This deviation is effective from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Monday, March 18, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Unless otherwise indicated, documents referred to in this notice are available for inspection or copying at the office of the Eighth Coast Guard District, Bridge Administration Branch, Commander (obc), 501 Magazine Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, 70130-3396. The Bridge Administration Branch maintains the public docket for this temporary deviation.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Phil Johnson, Bridge Administration Branch, telephone (504) 589-2965.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge across the Pascagoula River, mile 1.5 at Pascagoula, Mississippi has a vertical clearance in the closed-to-navigation position of 0.8 feet above mean high water and 2.4 feet above mean low water. The bridge provides unlimited vertical clearance in the open-to-navigation position. Navigation on the waterway consists of small cargo ships, tugs with tows, fishing vessels and recreational craft including sailboats and power boats. Presently, the draw opens on signal.

CSX Transportation requested a temporary deviation for the operation of the drawbridge to accommodate maintenance work. The work involves replacement of the deficient wiring in the electrical system of the operating mechanism. This work is essential for continued operation of the draw span of the bridge and is expected to eliminate frequent breakdowns resulting in emergency bridge closures.

This deviation allows the draw of the CSX Transportation railroad bascule span drawbridge to remain closed to navigation from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on March 18, 2002.

Dated: March 8, 2002.

Security Zone; Corpus Christi Inner Harbor, Corpus Christi, TX

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard is establishing a temporary security zone to ensure the security within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor, Corpus Christi, TX, from the Inner Harbor Bridge to the Viola Turning Basin and all waters in between. The security zone is needed to protect personnel, vessels, waterfront facilities, and national security interests in this harbor from any and all subversive actions by any groups or individuals whose objective it is to destroy or disrupt maritime activities. Entry of recreational vessels, passenger vessels, or commercial fishing vessels into this zone is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Captain of the Port Corpus Christi.

DATES: This rule is effective from 8 a.m. on February 20, 2002 through 8 a.m. on June 15, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket [COTP Corpus Christi 02-001] and are available for inspection or copying at U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office Corpus Christi, 555 N. Carancahua Street, Suite 500, Corpus Christi, Texas, 78478 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: LTJG C. J. Bright, Chief, Waterways Section, Coast Guard Captain of the Port Corpus Christi, 555 N. Carancahua St. Suite 500, Corpus Christi, Texas, 78478, (361) 888-3162.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Regulatory Information

We did not publish a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) for this regulation. Under 5 U.S.C. 553 (b) (B), the Coast Guard finds that good cause exists for not publishing an NPRM, and under 5 U.S.C. 553 (d)(3), good cause exists for making this rule effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. Publishing a NPRM and delaying its effective date would be contrary to public interest since immediate action is needed to respond to the security risks associated with recreational, passenger, or commercial fishing vessels entering the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor.

Background and Purpose

On September 11, 2001, both towers of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon were attacked by terrorists. In response to these terrorist acts, heightened awareness and security of our ports and harbors is necessary therefore, the Captain of the Port, Corpus Christi is establishing a temporary security zone within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor.

The Port of Corpus Christi is the fourth largest petro-chemical port within the United States. A large number of these petro-chemical waterfront facilities are located within the Inner Harbor that serves as a major industrial channel. These petro-chemical waterfront facilities conduct business with both United States and foreign deep draft vessels. The Port of Corpus Christi is also designated as an alternate military strategic load-out port with docks and facilities located within the Inner Harbor. These docks and facilities are vital to the national security interest of the United States.

The Inner Harbor channel is approximately 8 miles long and 300-to-800 feet wide, and has a controlling depth of 45 feet. Restricting the access of recreational, passenger and commercial fishing vessels reduces potential methods of attack on a vessel or waterfront facility within the zone. This security zone is designed to limit the access of vessels that do not have business to conduct with facilities or structures within the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor. Entry of recreational vessels, passenger vessels, or commercial fishing vessels into this zone is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Captain of the Port Corpus Christi.

Regulatory Evaluation

This rule is not a "significant regulatory action" under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not "significant" under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

The Coast Guard expects the economic impact of this rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10(e) of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we considered whether this rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term "small entities" comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Recreational vessels, passenger vessels, and commercial fishing vessels do not frequent the Corpus Christi Inner Harbor. The Inner Harbor is an industrial area primarily used for bulk material transfers. Should a recreational vessel, passenger vessel, or commercial fishing vessel need to enter the Inner Harbor to conduct business with a small entity, such as a ship yard facility, there is no cost and little burden associated with obtaining permission from the Captain of the Port prior to entry.

If you are a small business entity and are significantly affected by this regulation please contact LTJG C. J. Bright, Chief Waterways Section, Coast Guard Captain of the Port Corpus Christi at (361) 888–3162.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we offered to assist small entities in understanding the rule so that they could better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking process.

Small businesses may send comments on the actions of Federal employees who enforce, or otherwise determine compliance with, Federal regulations to the Small Business and Agriculture Regulatory Enforcement Ombudsman and the Regional Small Business Regulatory Fairness Boards. The Ombudsman evaluates these actions annually and rates each agency's responsiveness to small business. If you wish to comment on actions by employees of the Coast Guard, call 1–888–REG–FAIR (1–888–734–3247).

Collection of Information

This rule calls for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires

Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this rule will not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This rule will not affect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and does not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that may disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it does not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes.

Energy Effect

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a "significant energy action" under that order because it is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this rule and concluded that under figure 2–1, paragraph 34(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

Safety Zone; Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, AK

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard is establishing two temporary safety zones in Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, Alaska. One safety zone will surround the barge SWINOMOSH which will be conducting dredging and blasting operations in the navigable waters of Ouzinkie Harbor. The second safety zone will close all of Ouzinkie Harbor when the barge SWINOMOSH conducts blasting operations. The safety zones are necessary to protect vessels transiting the area from the potential hazards associated with the dredging and blasting operations conducted by the barge SWINOMOSH.

DATES: This rule is effective from 12:01 a.m. Alaska Standard Time (AST) March 13, 2002, until 9 p.m. AST April 30, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments and material received from the public, as well as documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, are part of docket (COTP Western Alaska 02–003) and are available for inspection or copying at Coast Guard Marine Safety Office Anchorage, Alaska between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Lieutenant Matt Jones, USCG Marine Safety Detachment Kodiak, at (907) 486–5918 or Lieutenant Commander Chris Woodley, USCG Marine Safety Office Anchorage, at (907) 271–6700.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Regulatory Information

On January 31, 2002 we published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) entitled “Safety Zone; Ouzinkie Harbor, Ouzinkie, Alaska” in the Federal Register (67 FR 4692). We did not receive any comments from the public.

No public hearing was requested, and none was held.

Because we received the request late, we find that good cause exists, under 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3), for making this rule effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, through its contractor Western Marine Construction, Inc., will be conducting dredging and blasting operations on portions of Ouzinkie Harbor (Army Corps Of Engineers project number DACW85–01–C–0010). This dredging project will help maintain safe navigation within Ouzinkie Harbor. A 500-yard safety zone around the barge SWINOMOSH and a safety zone closing the harbor and evacuating all vessels from the harbor during blasting operations, is necessary to ensure the safety of the maritime community from the potential hazards associated with dredging and blasting operations.

Discussion of Comments and Changes

We did not receive any comments but we made a few technical and clarification changes to the rule. In paragraph (a) of section 165.T17–002, we changed the phrase “dredging and blasting operations” to “dredging or blasting operations,” to clarify that the barge zone will be enforced when the barge SWINOMOSH was engaged in dredging alone. We changed the start date for the effective period in paragraph (b) to reflect a delay in the start of the dredging operations, and clarified that blasting and dredging operations will only occur in daylight hours. We also added the time zone in which this safety zone will occur. In paragraph(c) we added wording to clarify how the tug WALDO will notify vessels of blasting operations about to occur.

Regulatory Evaluation

This rule is not a “significant regulatory action” under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12886, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not “significant” under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10(e) of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary. This finding is based on the fact that the safety zone around the barge SWINOMOSH will not restrict vessels from transiting through the harbor. Also, the safety zone closing Ouzinkie Harbor during blasting operations will be announced well in advance so as to allow vessels ample time to plan ahead, and the actual blasting operations will be short in duration. The areas will not affect maritime vessel traffic transiting the shipping channel at Ouzinkie Narrows. Vessel traffic at this time of the year is minimal.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we have considered whether this rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term “small entities” comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This rule will affect the following entities, some of which may be small entities: The owners or operators of vessels intending to transit or anchor in the vicinity of Ouzinkie Harbor during the time this zone is activated.

These safety zones will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities for the following reasons. The safety zone area around the barge SWINOMOSH will not restrict vessels from transiting through Ouzinkie Harbor and vessels could pass safely around it. Also, the safety zone closing Ouzinkie Harbor during blasting operations will be announced well in advance so as to allow vessels ample time to plan ahead, and the actual blasting operations will be short in duration. Limited vessel traffic occurs in this area during these months. Before and during the effective period, we will issue a broadcast notice to mariners to warn maritime vessel traffic of the safety zones and operations occurring within the safety zones.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we offered to assist small entities in understanding the rule so that they could better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking process.

Collection of Information

This rule calls for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this rule will not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This rule will not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and does not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that may disproportionately affect children.

Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments

This rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it does not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a “significant energy action” under that order because it is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this rule and concluded that under figure 2–1, paragraph 34(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. This rule fits paragraph 34(g) as it establishes a safety zone. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available in the docket for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

National Ambient Air Quality Standards for Ozone; Notice of Public Meeting

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of public meeting.

SUMMARY: The purpose of this document is to announce that EPA has scheduled a public meeting to solicit comments on various options to implement the 8-hour ozone national ambient air quality standard (NAAQS). The options contain EPA's preliminary views and are intended to initiate a dialogue with the public on approaches for implementing the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The EPA is interested in hearing the views from interested stakeholders on the options that we've developed and their ideas on how to best implement the 8-hour ozone NAAQS consistent with the Supreme Court's decision in Whitman v.

American Trucking Association. An overarching issue that EPA would like public input on is how EPA should address the Supreme Court's holding that subpart 2 of part D of title I of the Clean Air Act (CAA) applies for purposes of classifying areas under a revised ozone NAAQS.

DATES: The one-day meeting will be held from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (MST) on Wednesday, April 3, 2002, in Tempe, Arizona.

ADDRESSES: The meeting will be held at: Fiesta Inn Resort, 2100 S. Priest Drive, Tempe, Arizona 85282-1192.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For general information on the meeting, contact: Denise M. Gerth, U.S. EPA, Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards, C539-02, Research Triangle Park, NC 27711, phone (919) 541-5550, or e-mail: gerth.denise@epa.gov. To register for the meeting, please contact: Barbara Bauer, E. H. Pechan and Associates, Durham, NC, phone (919) 493-3144, extension 188, or e-mail: barbara.bauer@pechan.com.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On July 18, 1997, EPA revised the ozone NAAQS (62 FR 38856). At that time, EPA indicated it would implement the 8-hour ozone NAAQS under the less detailed requirements of subpart 1 of part D of title I of the CAA rather than more detailed requirements of subpart 2 requirements. Various industry groups and States challenged EPA's final rule promulgating the 8-hour ozone NAAQS in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.¹ In May 1999, the Appeals Court remanded the ozone standard to EPA on the basis that EPA's interpretation of its authority under the standard-setting provisions of the CAA resulted in an unconstitutional delegation of authority. American Trucking Assns., Inc. v. EPA, 175 F.3d 1027, aff'd, 195 F.3d 4 (D.C. Cir. 1999). In addition, the Court held that EPA improperly interpreted the statute to provide for implementation of the 8-hour standard under subpart 1, but also determined that EPA could not implement a revised ozone standard under subpart 2. The EPA sought review of these two issues by the U.S. Supreme Court. In February 2001, the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the air quality standard setting. Whitman v. American Trucking Assoc., 121 S. Ct. 903. In addition, the Supreme Court held that EPA has authority to implement a revised ozone standard but that EPA could not ignore subpart 2 when implementing the 8-hour standard. Specifically, the Court noted EPA could not ignore the provisions of subpart 2 that "eliminate[s] regulatory discretion" allowed by subpart 1. After determining that EPA could not ignore the provisions of subpart 2, the Court went on to identify several portions of the classification scheme that are "ill-fitted" to the revised standard, but left it to EPA to develop a reasonable approach for implementation. Any implementation approach that EPA develops must address the requirements of the CAA, as interpreted by the Supreme Court.

The EPA has initiated a process to obtain stakeholder feedback on options the Agency is developing for implementation of the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The EPA plans to issue a final rule on the implementation strategy prior to designating areas for the 8-hour ozone NAAQS. The implementation rule will provide specific requirements for State and local air pollution control agencies and tribes to prepare implementation plans to attain and maintain the 8-hour NAAQS. States with areas that are not attaining the 8-hour ozone NAAQS will have to develop—as part of its State implementation plan (SIP)—emission limits and other requirements to attain the NAAQS within the time frames set forth in the CAA.² Tribal lands that are not attaining the 8-hour ozone standard may be affected, and could voluntarily submit a tribal implementation plan (TIP), but would not be required to submit a TIP. However, in cases where a TIP is not submitted, EPA would have the responsibility for planning in those areas.

The EPA is holding this meeting in order to obtain stakeholder feedback regarding the options that EPA has developed as well as to listen to any new or different ideas that stakeholders may be interested in presenting. The following topics will be covered at the meeting: (1) Classifications and attainment dates; (2) designations and transport; (3) attainment demonstration issues and transportation planning; and (4) other general SIP issues. New Source Review (NSR) programs that accompany nonattainment designations will not be the subject of this meeting since the EPA is currently considering whether and how to change the NSR program regulations in other contexts. The EPA has placed a variety of materials regarding implementation options, and which will be the focus of the meeting, on the website: www.epa.gov/ttn/rto/ozonetech/o3imp8hr/o3imp8hr.htm. Additional material will be placed on the website as they are developed.

¹ On July 18, 1997, EPA also promulgated a revised particulate matter (PM) standard (62 FR 38652). Litigation on the PM standard paralleled the litigation on the ozone standard and the court issued one opinion addressing both challenges.

² The CAA requires EPA to set ambient air quality standards and requires States to submit SIPs to implement those standards.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting should check the website for new material on a regular basis prior to the meetings.

The materials that are available on the website are also available at: Air and Radiation Docket and Information Center, Docket Number A-2001-31, U.S. EPA, 401 M Street, SW., Room M-1500 (Mail Code 6102), Washington, DC 20460. The docket is available for public inspection and copying between 8:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding legal holidays. A reasonable fee may be charged for copying.

Finding of Failure To Submit a Required State Implementation Plan for Particulate Matter, California—San Joaquin Valley

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: EPA is taking final action to find that California failed to make a particulate matter (PM-10) nonattainment area state implementation plan (SIP) submittal required for the San Joaquin Valley Planning Area under the Clean Air Act (CAA or Act). The San Joaquin Planning Area is a serious PM-10 nonattainment area. Under the Act, states are required to submit SIPs providing for, among other things, reasonable further progress and attainment of the PM-10 national ambient air quality standards (NAAQS) in areas classified as serious. The State of California submitted a serious area plan for the San Joaquin Valley in 1997. On February 26, 2002, prior to action on the plan by EPA, the State withdrew the submittal from the Agency's consideration. As a result of that withdrawal, EPA is today finding that California failed to make the PM-10 nonattainment area SIP submittal required for the San Joaquin Valley Planning Area under the Act.

This action triggers the 18-month time clock for mandatory application of sanctions and 2-year time clock for a federal implementation plan (FIP) under the Act. This action is consistent with the CAA mechanism for assuring SIP submissions.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This action is effective as of February 28, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

A. CAA Planning Requirements

In 1990, Congress amended the Clean Air Act to address, among other things, continued nonattainment of the PM-10 NAAQS.¹ Public Law 101-549, 104 Stat. 2399, codified at 42 U.S.C. 7401-7671q (1991). On the date of enactment of the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments, PM-10 areas, including the San Joaquin Valley planning area, meeting the qualifications of section 107(d)(4)(B) of the amended Act, were designated nonattainment by operation of law. See 56 FR 11101 (March 15, 1991). EPA codified the boundaries of the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 nonattainment area at 40 CFR 81.305.

Once an area is designated nonattainment for PM-10, section 188 of the CAA outlines the process for classifying the area and establishing the area's attainment deadline. In accordance with section 188(a), at the time of designation, all PM-10 nonattainment areas, including the San Joaquin Valley, were initially classified as moderate.

Section 188(b)(1) of the Act provides that moderate areas can subsequently be reclassified as serious before the applicable moderate area attainment date if at any time EPA determines that the area cannot "practically" attain the PM-10 NAAQS by the moderate area attainment deadline, December 31, 1994. On January 8, 1993 (58 FR 3334, 3337), EPA made such a determination and reclassified the San Joaquin Valley nonattainment area as serious.

¹ EPA revised the NAAQS for PM-10 on July 1, 1987 (52 FR 24672), replacing standards for total suspended particulates with new standards applying only to particulate matter up to 10 microns in diameter (PM-10). At that time, EPA established two PM-10 standards. The annual PM-10 standard is attained when the expected annual arithmetic average of the 24-hour samples for a period of one year does not exceed 50 micrograms per cubic meter (ug/m³). The 24-hour PM-10 standard of 150 ug/m³ is attained if samples taken for 24-hour periods have no more than one expected exceedance per year, averaged over 3 years. See 40 CFR 50.6 and 40 CFR part 50, appendix K.

Breathing particulate matter can cause significant health effects, including an increase in respiratory illness and premature death.

In accordance with section 189(b)(2) of the Act, SIP revisions for the San Joaquin Valley addressing the requirements for serious PM-10 nonattainment areas in section 189(b) and (c) of the Act were required to be submitted by August 8, 1994 and 1994 and February 8, 1997.

The serious area PM-10 requirements, as they pertain to the San Joaquin Valley nonattainment area, include:²

(a) A comprehensive, accurate, and current inventory of actual emissions from all sources of the relevant pollutant, here, PM-10 and its precursors (CAA section 172(c)(3));

(b) A demonstration (including air quality modeling) that the plan will provide for attainment as expeditiously as practicable but no later than December 31, 2001, or an alternative demonstration that attainment by that date would be impracticable and that the plan provides for attainment by the most expeditious alternative date practicable (CAA section 189(b)(1)(A)(i) and (ii));

(c) Quantitative milestones that are to be achieved every 3 years and that demonstrate reasonable further progress toward attainment by December 31, 2001 (CAA section 189(c)); and

(d) Provisions to assure that the best available control measures (BACM), including best available control technology (BACT), shall be implemented no later than four years after the reclassification of the area to a serious nonattainment area (CAA section 189(b)(1)(B)).

B. California's Serious Area PM-10 SIP Submittals for the San Joaquin Valley

The State of California submitted on October 12, 1994 the "San Joaquin Valley PM-10 BACM SIP Submittal" to EPA as a proposed revision to the California PM-10 SIP. On July 17, 1997, CARB submitted to EPA the serious area "PM-10 Attainment Demonstration Plan" (Serious PM-10 Plan). The 1997 Plan incorporated and superseded the 1994 San Joaquin Valley PM-10 BACM SIP (1997 Plan, p. 1-1).

II. EPA Actions Relating to the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 Nonattainment Area

As discussed further in section III below, EPA intended to propose to

² EPA has concluded that certain moderate area PM-10 requirements continue to apply after an area has been reclassified to serious. For a more detailed discussion of the planning requirements applicable to the San Joaquin Valley and the relationship between the moderate area and serious area requirements after reclassification of the area to serious, see, e.g., 65 FR 37324 (June 14, 2000).

disapprove the Serious PM-10 Plan for the San Joaquin Valley by March 1, 2002. However, just as the Agency was preparing the proposed disapproval notice for signature by the Regional Administrator and publication in the Federal Register, the State notified EPA that it had withdrawn the Plan from consideration by the Agency. See letter (with enclosures) from Michael Kenny, Executive Officer, California Air Resources Board, to Wayne Nastri, Regional Administrator, EPA Region 9, faxed to EPA on February 26, 2002. As a result, EPA is unable to move forward with its proposed plan disapproval.

The CAA establishes specific consequences if EPA finds that a State has failed to meet certain requirements of the CAA. Of particular relevance here is CAA section 179(a)(1), the mandatory sanctions provision. Section 179(a) sets forth four findings that form the basis for application of a sanction. The first finding, that a State has failed to submit a plan required under the CAA, is the finding relevant to this rulemaking because withdrawal of a plan is tantamount to failing to submit it.

If California has not made the required complete submittal (in this case resubmittal) within 18 months of the effective date of today's rulemaking, pursuant to CAA section 179(a) and 40 CFR 52.31, the offset sanction identified in CAA section 179(b) will be applied in the affected area. If the State has still not made a complete submission 6 months after the offset sanction is imposed, then the highway funding sanction will apply in the affected area, in accordance with 40 CFR 52.31.³ The 18-month clock will stop and the sanctions will not take effect if, within 18 months after the date of the finding, EPA finds that the State has made a complete submittal of a plan addressing the applicable serious area PM-10 requirements for the San Joaquin Valley.

In addition, CAA section 110(c)(1) provides that EPA must promulgate a federal implementation plan (FIP) no later than 2 years after a finding under section 179(a) unless EPA takes final action to approve the submittal within 2 years of EPA's finding.

In a separate action, EPA is today also proposing to find that the San Joaquin

Valley failed to attain the PM-10 NAAQS by the statutory deadline, December 31, 2001. EPA has the responsibility, pursuant to sections 179(c) and 188(b)(2) of the Act, of determining within 6 months of the applicable attainment date (i.e., June 30, 2002), whether the area has attained the annual and 24-hour NAAQS. Section 179(c)(1) of the Act provides that these determinations are to be based upon an area's "air quality as of the attainment date," and section 188(b)(2) is consistent with this requirement. Under CAA section 189(d), serious PM-10 nonattainment areas that fail to attain are required to submit within 12 months of the applicable attainment date, "plan revisions which provide for attainment of the PM-10 air quality standards and, from the date of such submission until attainment, for an annual reduction in PM-10 or PM-10 precursor emissions within the area of not less than 5 percent of the amount of such emissions as reported in the most recent inventory prepared for such area."

III. Ongoing Planning Efforts in the San Joaquin Valley

As noted above, California now has an obligation to develop and submit a new PM-10 attainment plan for the San Joaquin Valley. In order to assist in these efforts, we outline below some of the bases on which we intended to disapprove the Serious PM-10 Plan:⁴

(a) The emissions inventory is neither accurate nor comprehensive because, among other reasons, it contains no emissions for ammonia, a PM-10 precursor that contributes to PM-10 exceedances; the inventory combines together in one category a number of sources that constitute 83% of the total primary PM-10 inventory; the inventory is not representative of a number of areas in the Valley; and there is no supporting documentation for the motor vehicle emissions;

(b) The Plan does not provide for attainment of the annual standard by

December 31, 2001 as evidenced by NAAQS exceedances cited in our proposed finding of failure to attain. For the 24-hour standard, the State in the Plan sought an extension of the attainment deadline to December 31, 2006 pursuant to CAA section 188(e), but did not provide the supporting documentation required by that section;

(c) The Plan does not meet the requirements of CAA section 189(b)(1)(B) and EPA guidance for best available control measures (BACM); the Plan does not provide for BACM for each significant source category; it does not document the State's selection of BACM; and the Plan's BACM commitments are not being met; and

(d) The Plan does not provide for quantitative milestones to be achieved every three years until the area is redesignated attainment and does not demonstrate reasonable further progress (RFP) toward attainment by December 31, 2001.

Efforts are underway by the State and local air district to develop a plan that will bring clean air to Valley residents as quickly as possible. EPA is committed to working closely with the State and local regulators, the regulated community, and the public to ensure that such plan is technically sound and protective of public health.

IV. Final Action

A. Rule

EPA is today making a finding that the State of California failed to submit a SIP revision addressing the CAA's serious area PM-10 requirements to attain the 24-hour and annual PM-10 NAAQS for the San Joaquin Valley PM-10 nonattainment area.

B. Effective Date Under the Administrative Procedures Act

Today's action will be effective on February 28, 2002. Under the Administrative Procedures Act (APA), 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3), an agency rulemaking may take effect before 30 days after the date of publication in the Federal Register if an agency has good cause to mandate an earlier effective date. Today's action concerns a SIP submission that is already overdue and the State has been aware of applicable provisions of the CAA relating to overdue SIPs. In addition, today's action simply starts a "clock" that will not result in sanctions for 18 months, and that the State may "turn off" through the submission of a complete SIP submittal. These reasons support an effective date prior to 30 days after the date of publication.

³ In a 1994 rulemaking, EPA established the Agency's selection of the sequence of these two sanctions: the offset sanction under section 179(b)(2) shall apply at 18 months, followed 6 months later by the highway sanction under section 179(b)(1) of the Act. EPA does not choose to deviate from this presumptive sequence in this instance. For more details on the timing and implementation of the sanctions, see 59 FR 39832 (August 4, 1994), promulgating 40 CFR 52.31, "Selection of sequence of mandatory sanctions for findings made pursuant to section 179 of the Clean Air Act."

⁴ EPA's review of the 1997 Plan is based on section 189 of the CAA; EPA guidance, known as the "General Preamble," which describes EPA's preliminary views on how the Agency intends to review SIPs and SIP revisions submitted under title I of the Act, and an Addendum to the General Preamble ("Addendum") describing the Agency's preliminary views on how it intends to review SIPs and SIP revisions containing serious area PM-10 plan provisions. See "State Implementation Plans; General Preamble for the Implementation of Title I of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990," 57 FR 13498 (April 16, 1992); 57 FR 18070 (April 28, 1992) and "State Implementation Plans for Serious PM-10 Nonattainment Areas, and Attainment Date Waivers for PM-10 Nonattainment Areas Generally; Addendum to the General Preamble for the Implementation of Title I of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990," 59 FR 41998 (August 16, 1994).

C. Notice-and-Comment Under the Administrative Procedures Act

This final agency action is not subject to the notice-and-comment requirements of the APA, 5 U.S.C. 553(b). EPA believes that because of the limited time provided to make findings of failure to submit regarding SIP submissions, Congress did not intend such findings to be subject to notice-and-comment rulemaking. However, to the extent such findings are subject to notice-and-comment rulemaking, EPA invokes the good cause exception pursuant to the APA, 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). Notice and comment are unnecessary because no EPA judgment is involved in making a nonsubstantive finding of failure to submit SIPs required by the CAA. Furthermore, providing notice and comment would be impracticable because of the limited time provided under the statute for making such determinations. Finally, notice and comment would be contrary to the public interest because it would divert Agency resources from the critical substantive review of submitted SIPs. See 58 FR 51270, 51272, note 17 (October 1, 1993); 59 FR 39832, 39853 (August 4, 1994).

V. Administrative Requirements

A. Executive Order 12866

The Office of Management and Budget has exempted this regulatory action from Executive Order 12866, entitled "Regulatory Planning and Review."

B. Executive Order 13211

This rule is not subject to Executive Order 13211, "Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use" (66 Fed. Reg. 28355 (May 22, 2001)) because it is not a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866.

C. Executive Order 13045

Executive Order 13045, entitled Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997), applies to any rule that: (1) Is determined to be "economically significant" as defined under Executive Order 12866, and (2) concerns an environmental health or safety risk that EPA has reason to believe may have a disproportionate effect on children. If the regulatory action meets both criteria, the Agency must evaluate the environmental health or safety effects of the planned rule on children, and explain why the planned regulation is preferable to other potentially effective and reasonably feasible alternatives considered by the Agency.

This rule is not subject to Executive Order 13045 because it does not involve decisions intended to mitigate environmental health or safety risks.

D. Executive Order 13132

Executive Order 13132, entitled Federalism (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999) revokes and replaces Executive Orders 12612, Federalism and 12875, Enhancing the Intergovernmental Partnership. Executive Order 13132 requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by State and local officials in the development of regulatory policies that have federalism implications." "Policies that have federalism implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government." Under Executive Order 13132, EPA may not issue a regulation that has federalism implications, that imposes substantial direct compliance costs, and that is not required by statute, unless the Federal government provides the funds necessary to pay the direct compliance costs incurred by State and local governments, or EPA consults with State and local officials early in the process of developing the proposed regulation. EPA also may not issue a regulation that has federalism implications and that preempts State law unless the Agency consults with State and local officials early in the process of developing the proposed regulation.

This rule will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, as specified in Executive Order 13132, because it does not alter the relationship or the distribution of power and responsibilities established in the Clean Air Act. Thus, the requirements of section 6 of the Executive Order do not apply to this rule.

E. Executive Order 13175

Executive Order 13175, entitled "Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments" (65 FR 67249, November 6, 2000), requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by tribal officials in the development of regulatory policies that have tribal implications." "Policies that have tribal implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal government and the Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes."

This final rule does not have tribal implications. It will not have substantial direct effects on tribal governments, on the relationship between the Federal government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes, as specified in Executive Order 13175. Thus, Executive Order 13175 does not apply to this rule.

F. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) generally requires an agency to conduct a regulatory flexibility analysis of any rule subject to notice and comment rulemaking requirements unless the agency certifies that the rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Small entities include small businesses, small not-for-profit enterprises, and small governmental jurisdictions.

This final rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities because findings of failure to submit required SIP revisions do not by themselves create any new requirements. Therefore, I certify that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

G. Unfunded Mandates

Under section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 ("Unfunded Mandates Act"), signed into law on March 22, 1995, EPA must prepare a budgetary impact statement to accompany any proposed or final rule that includes a Federal mandate that may result in estimated costs to State, local, or tribal governments in the aggregate; or to private sector, of $100 million or more. Under section 205, EPA must select the most cost-effective and least burdensome alternative that achieves the objectives of the rule and is consistent with statutory requirements. Section 203 requires EPA to establish a plan for informing and advising any small governments that may be significantly or uniquely impacted by the rule.

EPA has determined that today's action does not include a Federal mandate that may result in estimated costs of $100 million or more to either State, local, or tribal governments in the aggregate, or to the private sector. The CAA provision discussed in this notice requires states to submit SIPs. This notice merely provides a finding that California has not met that requirement. Accordingly, no additional costs to State, local, or tribal governments, or to the private sector, result from this action.

H. National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act

Section 12 of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act (NTTAA) of 1995 requires Federal agencies to evaluate existing technical standards when developing a new regulation. To comply with NTTAA, EPA must consider and use "voluntary consensus standards" (VCS) if available and applicable when developing programs and policies unless doing so would be inconsistent with applicable law or otherwise impractical.

EPA believes that VCS are inapplicable to today's action because it does not require the public to perform activities conducive to the use of VCS.

I. Submission to Congress and the Comptroller General

The Congressional Review Act, 5 U.S.C. 801 et seq., as added by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996, generally provides that before a rule may take effect, the agency promulgating the rule must submit a rule report, which includes a copy of the rule, to each House of the Congress and to the Comptroller General of the United States. EPA will submit a report containing this rule and other required information to the U.S. Senate, the U.S. House of Representatives, and the Comptroller General of the United States prior to publication of the rule in the Federal Register. A major rule cannot take effect until 60 days after it is published in the Federal Register. This rule is not a "major" rule as defined by 5 U.S.C. 804(2).

J. Petitions for Judicial Review

Under section 307(b)(1) of the Clean Air Act, petitions for judicial review of this action must be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the appropriate circuit by May 17, 2002. Filing a petition for reconsideration by the Administrator of this final rule does not affect the finality of this rule for the purposes of judicial review nor does it extend the time within which a petition for judicial review may be filed, and shall not postpone the effectiveness of such rule or action. This action may not be challenged later in proceedings to enforce its requirements. (See section 307(b)(2).)

SUMMARY: This final rule sets forth several revisions and technical corrections to the OIG regulations pertaining to fraud and abuse in Federal health care programs. This rule contains revisions and clarifications with respect to the definition of the term "item or service," the reinstatement procedures relating to exclusions resulting from a default on health education or scholarship obligations, the factors considered in determining civil money penalty amounts for patient dumping violations, and several other matters. In addition, this rule makes a number of minor technical corrections to the current regulations in order to clarify various issues and inadvertent errors appearing in the OIG's existing regulatory authorities.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These regulations are effective on April 17, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Office of Inspector General's (OIG's) exclusion authorities are intended to protect the Federal health care programs and their beneficiaries from untrustworthy health care providers, i.e., individuals and entities whose behavior has demonstrated that they pose a risk to program beneficiaries or to the integrity of these programs.

These authorities encompass both mandatory exclusions (section 1128(a) of the Social Security Act (the Act)) and permissive exclusions (section 1128(b) of the Act). The mandatory exclusion authorities require the OIG to exclude from program participation any individual or entity convicted of a "program-related" crime; patient abuse or neglect; or certain felonies related to health care delivery, governmental health care programs or controlled substances. Mandatory exclusions must be imposed for a minimum 5-year period. The permissive authorities do not require the imposition of an exclusion, and may either be (1) "derivative" exclusions that are based on actions previously taken by a court or other law enforcement or regulatory agencies, or (2) "non-derivative" exclusions that are based on OIG-initiated determinations of misconduct, e.g., poor quality care or submission of false claims for Medicare or Medicaid payment. With certain exceptions, there are no specified minimum periods of exclusion under these permissive authorities.

In addition, as an administrative remedy to remedy health care fraud and abuse, section 1128A of the Act allows the OIG to seek civil money penalties (CMPs), assessments and exclusions against those engaged in filing false claims (and certain other offenses) against the Department's programs and beneficiaries. Since enactment in 1981, the CMP provisions have been expanded to apply to numerous types of fraud and abuse activities related to Medicare and other Federal health care programs. Providers who may be subject to any of the OIG's administrative sanctions have full due process rights, including administrative hearings and appeals to the Federal courts.

On October 20, 2000, the OIG published a proposed rule in the Federal Register (65 FR 63035) that proposed several revisions and technical corrections to the OIG regulations codified in 42 CFR chapter V.

II. Summary of the Proposed Rule, Response to Public Comments and Provisions of the Final Rule

In response to the proposed rule, the OIG received a total of 6 timely-filed public comments from organizations, associations and other interested parties. Set forth below is a brief explanation of the intended revisions set forth in the proposed rule, a summary of the comments received and a response to those concerns, and a description of the final changes and clarifications being made to 42 CFR chapter V as a result of this final rule.

A. Limitations Period for Exclusions

Proposed change: In response to questions raised as to whether a limitations period is applicable to the imposition of OIG program exclusions, the OIG proposed to clarify § 1001.1 to clarify that there is no time limitation on the imposition of a program exclusion. In Wesley J. Hammer v. IG, DAB 1693 (1999), the Departmental Appeals Board ruled that exclusion under section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, where such exclusion is based on an act which is described in section 1128A of the Act, is subject to the 6 year statute of limitations contained in section 1128A.

Comment/Response: The proposed rule stated that there would be no time limitation on the OIG's imposition of a program exclusion since no statute of limitations is specified in the Act with respect to exclusions under section 1128, and program exclusions are remedial in nature. Two commenters questioned this interpretation. The commenters suggested that if a program exclusion is based on the Secretary's determination that there has been a violation of another statute, the program exclusion action should be subject to the same limitations period that would apply to an action taken under the other statute. If not, the commenters believed that an individual or entity could be excluded for activities that occurred years before and that do not bear on their current trustworthiness or integrity. In addition, the commenters expressed concern that after the passage of significant time, evidence becomes difficult or impossible to gather and thus there is a need for a statute of limitations with respect to the imposition of program exclusions.

The comments raise concerns about exclusions under section 1128(b)(7) of the Act, the only exclusion authority that is based upon the Secretary's determination that there was an act committed that is a violation of another statute.¹ Based on the concerns raised by the commenters, the OIG has chosen not to finalize the proposed revision, but to leave the current regulation unchanged.

B. Actual Versus Reasonably Expected Loss

proposed to revise §§ 1001.102(b)(1) and 1001.201(b)(2)(i) to increase the financial loss considered to be an aggravating factor from $1,500 to $5,000 to more properly reflect the current health care economy and establish a more reasonable threshold amount as a basis for lengthening a period of exclusion, and to reflect as an aggravating factor both the actual and intended loss to the programs associated with the conduct of the sanctioned individual or entity. The OIG received two public comments on this proposed revision.

Comment: Commenters objected to allowing "intended loss" to be considered as an aggravating factor, asserting that the concept of intent is subjective and allows for speculation and difficulty in questions of proof and defense. They indicated that while an objective approach is used to determine whether an actual loss has occurred, it is subjective to determine whether an individual or entity intended to cause a loss when no actual loss has occurred. One commenter indicated that an internal OIG decision should not carry the same weight as a decision that was adjudicated by a third party. Because the OIG would be able to consider "intended losses" based on "similar acts not adjudicated," commenters believed the OIG would have significant latitude to give weight to "unsubstantiated allegations, charges supported by inadmissible evidence, statements that have not been subject to cross-examination * * *" that would not be supported by the judicial process.

Response: We have clarified and amended the proposed change to this section to provide that the OIG will consider acts "that caused, or reasonably could have been expected to cause, a financial loss. * * *" The purpose of this provision is to consider the magnitude of the individual or entity's conduct when determining the appropriate length of exclusion. The trustworthiness of an individual or entity relates to the amount of loss their conduct reasonably could have been expected to cause, regardless of whether the conduct was discovered before or after the payment was made. For example, the fact that a Medicare contractor detected a false claim prior to payment, and therefore no loss was incurred by the program, does not reduce the culpability and untrustworthiness of those responsible for the submission of the false claim.

The OIG intends to consider "reasonably expected loss" only in those situations where there is adequate reliable evidence to discern the amounts that would have been paid as a result of the individual's or entity's false claim or other improper conduct had the conduct not been detected prior to the payment of the claims.

Comment: Regarding the proposed increase of the threshold amount for an aggravating factor to $5,000 (from $1,500), one commenter asked whether the $5,000 amount would also apply to intended loss as well as to actual loss. The commenter also questioned whether the higher threshold amount would mean that prosecution would not be pursued if the loss is less than $5,000.

Response: We will consider the total reasonably expected loss in assessing whether this $5,000 threshold has been met for the purpose of determining the length of exclusion. This threshold is only relevant to determine the length of exclusion and has no relationship with a prosecutor's decision or whether to pursue certain cases.

Final rule revision: We are revising the language in §§ 1001.102(b)(1) and 1001.201(b)(2)(i) to indicate that among the factors that may be considered to be aggravating and a basis for lengthening the period of exclusion are acts resulting in the conviction, or similar acts, "that caused, or reasonably could have been expected to cause, a financial loss" to a Government program or to one or more entities of $5,000 or more.

C. Expansion of the Scope of Exclusion to "all Federal Health Care Programs"

Proposed change: Section 4331(c) of the Balanced Budget Act (BBA) of 1997 extended the scope of all OIG exclusions beyond Medicare and State health care programs to all Federal health care programs. While several revisions to implement this expansion were made to the OIG exclusion regulations in the final rulemaking addressing BBA (July 22, 1999; 64 FR 39420), conforming revisions were not made in §§ 1001.102(c), 1001.951 and 1001.952. We proposed to amend these regulatory sections to accurately reflect this expanded authority. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising §§ 1001.102(c), 1001.951 and 1001.952 to accurately reflect the scope of an OIG exclusion beyond the Medicare and State health care programs to all other Federal health care programs.

D. Clarification on Length of Exclusion in § 1001.102(b)(9)

Proposed change: The OIG proposed a minor technical change in § 1001.102 that would have involved inserting the word "even" before the limiting clause "if the adverse action is based on the same * * *” in existing paragraph (b)(9) of this section.

Comment: One commenter believed that the effect of this change would be that the exclusion period could be lengthened based on an adverse action, whether or not the action served as the basis of the imposition of the exclusion.

Response: Upon further review, the OIG has decided not to make this change to § 1001.102(b)(9).

E. Discount Safe Harbor

Proposed change: We proposed several clarifying wording changes in the safe harbor discount provision, set forth in § 1001.952(h), to be consistent with similar context language used in the same paragraph, and clarifying the definition of the term “rebate” in paragraph (h)(4) of this section to make clear that a rebate is a price reduction after the time of sale.

Comment/Response: We received several comments regarding these proposed revisions and clarifications to § 1001.952(h) and other technical corrections to our other safe harbor regulations. The OIG is continuing to evaluate these comments and plans to address specific changes to § 1001.952 at a future date through separate rulemaking.

Final rule revision: As indicated above in section II.C., at this time we are only revising those portions of § 1001.952 to correct technical errors appearing in the regulations text to extend the scope of any OIG exclusion beyond the Medicare and State health care programs to all other Federal health care programs.

F. Reinstatement of Individuals as a Result of an Exclusion Based on Default of Health Education Loan or Scholarship Obligations

Proposed change: The current regulation at § 1001.1501 provides that an individual will be excluded until the Public Health Service (PHS) notifies the OIG that the obligations have been resolved to the PHS’s satisfaction. Because the regulatory language is unclear as to exactly when a determination may be made that a default is cured or that the financial obligations have been adequately resolved, the proposed rule provided for exclusion “until such time as PHS notifies the OIG that . . . there is no longer an outstanding debt.” Specifically, we proposed to revise paragraph (b) of this section to clarify that once an individual is excluded, he or she will be reinstated only (1) after the debt is repaid by the individual, or (2) where there is no longer an outstanding debt as determined by the PHS (e.g., the debt has been written off).

Comment: One commenter believed it was unclear what effect the changing of “right to request reinstatement” in the current rule to “right to apply for reinstatement” in the proposed rule will be. The commenter requested that any revision should minimize the administrative delay in reinstating such individuals once the PHS has concluded that there is no longer an outstanding debt.

Response: This is a minor revision concerning internal communications between PHS and the OIG that will cause no administrative delays in allowing individuals eligible to apply for reinstatement. All individuals who have been excluded under this authority must formally apply for such reinstatement in accordance with the procedures that are set forth in their exclusion letter and the applicable regulations.

Final rule revision: We are clarifying and revising § 1001.1501 to indicate that, with respect to an exclusion resulting from the default of a health education loan or scholarship obligations, an individual will be excluded until such time as PHS notifies the OIG that the default has been cured or that there is no longer an outstanding debt, and upon such notice, the OIG will inform the individual of his or her right to apply for reinstatement.

G. Waivers of Exclusions

Proposed change: We proposed to amend § 1001.1801 to permit any Federal health care program to request the waiver of an exclusion. This amendment was designed to conform the waiver provisions of section 1128 of the Act to statutory amendments that broadened the scope of an OIG program exclusion to all Federal health care programs.

Response: While the OIG received no public comments on this proposed change, we have determined that this revision would be more appropriately addressed through the legislative process. Although Congress expanded the OIG’s exclusion authority in the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (Pub. L. 104–191) to all “Federal health care programs,” it did not make a corresponding change to the statutory waiver for exclusions (sections 1128(c)(3)(B) and 1128(d)(3)(B) of the Act), i.e., only States are authorized to request such waivers. We now believe that legislative action, rather than a regulatory change, is necessary to address this issue.

H. Collateral Estoppel and Appeal of Exclusions

Proposed change: Section 1001.2007 has contained a provision that precludes the relitigation of the underlying determination in the administrative appeal of exclusions. We proposed to clarify in this section that a civil judgment rendered by a Federal, State or local court is an additional type of prior determination that may be given collateral estoppel effect in an exclusion action, and may not be relitigated in the exclusion proceeding. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising § 1001.2007(d) consistent with the language set forth in the earlier proposed rule.

I. Reversed or Vacated Decisions

Proposed change: With respect to appeals of exclusions, § 1001.3005 does not specify at what point in the appeal process reinstatement will occur where an OIG action is reversed or vacated on appeal. We proposed to amend this section to provide that when an exclusion action is reversed or vacated at any stage of an administrative appeal process, the OIG will reinstate the individual or entity at that time retroactive to the effective date of the underlying exclusion. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are amending § 1001.3005, Reversed or vacated decisions, by revising paragraph (a) and adding a new paragraph (e) to specify at what point in the appeal process retroactive reinstatement will occur.

J. Definition for “Item or Service”

Proposed change: To reflect the varying reimbursement systems and mechanisms in place, we proposed to modify the definition of the term “item or service” in § 1003.101 to clarify that, in addition to itemized claims or cost reports, the term also includes any item or service that is reimbursed through any health care payment mechanism, such as a prospective payment system. The OIG received no public comments on this revised definition.

Final rule revision: The OIG is adopting the change as proposed.

K. Calculation of Penalty Amount for Patient Dumping Violations

Proposed change: The existing language in § 1003.106(a)(4) allows the OIG to take into account a “prior history of offenses” with respect to patient dumping in determining the amount of CMP imposed for a patient dumping violation. We proposed an amendment to § 1003.106(a)(4)(iii) that would allow the OIG and the administrative law judge (ALJ) to consider other “instances”—and not just “offenses”—regardless of when they occurred, that is, not just “prior to” the matter conduct upon which the CMP action is based.

Comment: Commenters expressed the view that CMP amounts in patient dumping cases should be based only on judgments and other actions which have been adjudicated, such as convictions or administrative sanctions. The commenters believed that allowing the OIG the authority to “bypass” courts and the administrative appeals process would penalize physicians for alleged behavior that has not been ruled upon by a court or an ALJ. One commenter stated that in determining CMP amounts under this provision, the OIG should only be allowed to cite subsequent offenses to the same extent that the OIG now considers prior offenses. Without such limitation, the commenter believed that physicians’ due process rights would be violated since they would not be able to contest the underlying alleged behavior.

Response: In assessing the appropriate CMP amount in a dumping case, we continue to believe that it is appropriate to include matters which occurred after the events that resulted in the OIG’s issuance of a letter to a provider proposing a CMP. Specifically, with respect to the provider’s “prior history,” we have found instances, which may occur several years later between the time of the initial event and the initiation of litigation, where a provider has committed other acts similar in nature to the violation that is the basis for the proposed CMP. The OIG believes that those other similar acts should be considered so that an appropriate CMP can be determined and assessed. By considering not just “prior history” as a factor, an appropriate penalty may be higher, for example, for a party with multiple instances of problematic conduct, as compared to a party who has only one such instance.

With respect to amending the current reference of “offenses” to “instances,” we believe that the current term restricts consideration of incidents that are relevant to the provider’s culpability but have not resulted in convictions, or judicial or administrative decisions. Because these prior similar incidents generally become known during the administrative appeals process, we believe that the term “offenses” is too limiting, and that the revision in the regulations will allow the OIG and the ALJs a broader range of conduct and options to consider in their determinations. The primary concerns expressed by the commenter do not apply because the ALJ will be able to fully evaluate all evidence in the record in deciding the amount of a CMP and give appropriate weight to such evidence. When the OIG is able to consider subsequent instances of conduct by the provider, the ALJ, Departmental Appeals Board and the courts will still remain free to accept or reject this additional information and evidence in determining an appropriate CMP amount.

Final rule revision: We are amending § 1003.106 by adding a new paragraph (a)(4)(iii) to include as a factor in determining the amount of penalty for patient dumping violations any other instances where the respondent failed to provide appropriate emergency medical screening, stabilization and treatment of individuals coming to a hospital’s emergency department, or to effect an appropriate transfer.

L. Time Frames Governing the Discovery Process

Proposed change: To ensure that the hearing process proceeds in an orderly and timely manner, and to allow parties a reasonable period of time to produce requested documents or object to a request, we proposed to expand the specified time frames set forth in § 1005.7(e)(1) from the current 15 days to 30 days. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revision: We are revising § 1005.7(e)(1) to expand the specified time frames governing the discovery process to 30 days.

M. Written Testimony of Experts

Proposed change: We proposed to amend § 1005.16 to give the ALJs discretion to admit prior written sworn expert testimony that has been subject to cross-examination. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed revision.

Final rule revision: We are revising paragraph (b) of § 1005.16, Witnesses, to specifically state that the ALJ may, at his or her discretion, admit prior sworn testimony of experts which has been subject to adverse examination, such as a deposition or trial testimony.

N. Admissibility of Evidence in Administrative Proceedings

Proposed change: In order to protect the credibility of witnesses from being inappropriately attacked through the introduction of evidence regarding bad character, we proposed to amend § 1005.17, Evidence, to require adherence to Rule 608 of the Federal Rules of Evidence (FRE) in administrative proceedings.

Response: While the OIG received no public comments on this proposed change, there is a concern that requiring ALJs to apply specific evidentiary rules in an administrative hearing would unnecessarily restrict the evidence the ALJ may consider. The OIG will continue to evaluate the scope of this amendment, and has chosen not to finalize the proposed revision to § 1005.17 at this time.

O. Additional Technical Revisions

Proposed changes: Minor technical errors in §§ 1003.100 and 1008.37 were also proposed for correction in the proposed rule. The OIG received no public comments on this proposed change.

Final rule revisions: We are making technical revisions to § 1003.100(b) to properly reflect the basis and purpose of the OIG’s CMP and assessment authorities that were set forth in two different OIG rulemakings. Specifically, we are amending § 1003.100 by revising paragraphs (b)(1)(iv), (b)(1)(xii) and (b)(1)(xiii), and by adding paragraphs (b)(1)(xiv) and (b)(1)(xv) to accurately reflect the range of existing CMP and assessment authorities delegated to the OIG. In addition, we are correcting a typographical error appearing for a United States Code citation which appears in § 1008.37, as indicated in the proposed rule.

III. Regulatory Impact Statement

We have examined the impacts of this rule as required by Executive Order 12866 September 1993, Regulatory Planning and Review) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (September 19, 1980; Public Law 96–354), section 1102(b) of the Social Security Act, the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Public Law 104–4), and Executive Order 13132. Executive Order 12866 directs agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety effects, distributive impacts and equity). A regulatory impact analysis (RIA) must be prepared for major rules with economically significant effects ($100 million or more in any given year).

This is not a major rule as defined at 5 U.S.C. 804 (2), and it is not economically significant since it will not have a significant effect on program expenditures and there are no additional substantive costs to implement the resulting provisions. The revisions in this rule are either technical in nature or are designed to further clarify OIG statutory requirements. Specifically, these provisions are intended to clarify the scope of the OIG's existing authorities to exclude individuals and entities from Medicare, Medicaid and all other Federal health care programs, and to strengthen current legal authorities pertaining to the imposition of CMPs against individuals and entities engaged in prohibited actions and activities. We believe that any aggregate economic effect of these revised regulatory provisions will be minimal and will impact only those limited few who engage in prohibited behavior in violation of the statute. As such, we believe that the aggregate economic impact of these final regulations is minimal and would have no appreciable effect on the economy or on Federal or State expenditures.

The RFA, and the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement and Fairness Act of 1996 which amended the RFA, requires agencies to analyze options for regulatory relief of small businesses. For purposes of the RFA, small entities include small businesses, nonprofit organizations, and Government agencies. Most hospitals (and most other providers) are considered to be small entities, either by nonprofit status or by having revenues of $5 million to $25 million or less in any 1 year. Individuals and States are not included in the definition of a small entity.

In addition, section 1102(b) of the Social Security Act requires us to prepare a regulatory impact analysis if a rule may have a significant impact on the operations of a substantial number of small rural providers. This analysis must conform to the provisions of section 604 of the RFA. While these provisions may have some impact on small entities and rural providers, we believe that the aggregate economic impact of this rulemaking will be minimal since it is the nature of the conduct and not the size or type of the entity that will result in a violation of the statute and the regulations. As a result, this rule should not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, or a significant impact on the operations of a substantial number of small rural providers.

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 also requires that agencies assess anticipated costs and benefits before issuing any rule that may result in expenditure in any 1 year by State, local or tribal Governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $110 million. We believe that there are no significant costs associated with these revisions that would impose any mandates on State, local or tribal governments, or the private sector that will result in an expenditure of $110 million or more (adjusted for inflation) in any given year.

Executive Order 13132, Federalism, establishes certain requirements that an agency must meet when it promulgates a final rule that imposes substantial direct requirements costs on State and local Governments, preempts State law, or otherwise has Federalism implications. In reviewing this rule under the threshold criteria of Executive Order 13132, we have determined that this rule will not significantly effect the rights, roles and responsibilities of States or local Governments. The Office of Management and Budget has reviewed this rule in accordance with Executive Order 12866. In Paperwork Reduction Act—The provisions of these regulations impose no new reporting or recordkeeping requirements necessitating clearance by OMB.

(5) The aggregate rental charge is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

(6) * * * Note that for purposes of paragraph (b) of this section, the term fair market value means the value of the rental property for general commercial purposes, but shall not be adjusted to reflect the additional value that one party (either the prospective lessee or lessor) would attribute to the property as a result of its proximity or convenience to sources of referrals or business otherwise generated for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid and all other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(c) Equipment rental. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made by a lessee or equipment to the lessor of the equipment for the use of the equipment, as long as all of the following six standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The aggregate rental charge is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or all other Federal health care programs.

(6) * * * Note that for purposes of paragraph (c) of this section, the term fair market value means that the value of the equipment when obtained from a manufacturer or professional distributor, but shall not be adjusted to reflect the additional value one party (either the prospective lessee or lessor) would attribute to the equipment as a result of its proximity or convenience to sources of referrals or business otherwise generated for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

(d) Personal services and management contracts. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made by a principal to an agent as compensation for the services of the agent, as long as all of the following seven standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The aggregate compensation paid to the agent over the term of the agreement is set in advance, is consistent with fair market value in arms-length transactions and is not determined in a manner that takes into account the volume or value of any referrals or business otherwise generated between the parties for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(e) Sale of practice. (1) As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any payment made to a practitioner by another practitioner where the former practice is selling his or her practice to the latter practitioner, as long as the following two standards are met—

* * * * *

(ii) The practitioner who is selling his or her practice will not be in a professional position to make referrals to, or otherwise generate business for, the purchasing practitioner for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs after 1 year from the date of the first agreement pertaining to the sale.

(2) As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment made to a practitioner by a hospital or other entity where the practitioner is selling his or her practice to the hospital or other entity, so long as the following four standards are met—

* * * * *

(ii) The practitioner who is selling his or her practice will not be in a professional position after completion of the sale to make or influence referrals to, or otherwise generate business for, the purchasing hospital or entity for which payment may be made under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(f) Referral services. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment or exchange of anything of value between an individual or entity ("participant") and another entity serving as a referral service ("referral service"), as long as all of the following four standards are met—

* * * * *

(2) Any payment the participant makes to the referral service is assessed equally against and collected equally from all participants, and is only based on the cost of operating the referral service, and not on the volume or value of any referrals to or business otherwise generated by either party for the referral service for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(h) Discounts. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include a discount, as defined in paragraph (h)(5) of this section, on an item or service for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs for a buyer as long as the buyer complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(1) of this section; a seller as long as the seller complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(2) of this section; and an offeror of a discount who is not a seller under paragraph (h)(2) of this section so long as such offeror complies with the applicable standards of paragraph (h)(3) of this section.

(1) With respect to the following three categories of buyers, the buyer must comply with all of the applicable standards within one of the three following categories—

* * * * *

(iii) If the buyer is an individual or entity in whose name a claim or request for payment is submitted for the discounted item or service and payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs (not including individuals or entities defined as buyers in paragraph (h)(1)(i) or (h)(1)(ii) of this section), the buyer must comply with both of the following standards—

* * * * *

(2) The seller is an individual or entity that supplies an item or service for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs to the buyer and who permits a discount to be taken off the buyer's purchase price. The seller must comply with all of the applicable standards within one of the following three categories—

* * * * *

(3) The offeror of a discount is an individual or entity who is not a seller under paragraph (h)(2) of this section, but promotes the purchase of an item or service by a buyer under paragraph (h)(1) of this section at a reduced price for which payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs. The offeror must comply with all of the applicable standards within the following three categories—

* * * * *

(iii) If the buyer is an individual or entity in whose name a request for payment is submitted for the discounted item or service and payment may be made, in whole or in part, under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs (not including individuals or entities defined as buyers in paragraph (h)(1)(i) or (h)(1)(ii) of this section), the offeror must comply with the following two standards—

* * * * *

(5) * * *

(iii) A reduction in price applicable to one payer but not to Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs;

* * * * *

(i) Employees. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any amount paid by an employer to an employee, who has a bona fide employment relationship with the employer, for employment in the furnishing of any item or service for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs. For purposes of paragraph (i) of this section, the term employee has the same meaning as it does for purposes of 26 U.S.C. 3121(d)(2).

(j) Group purchasing organizations. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment by a vendor of goods or services to a group purchasing organization (GPO), as part of an agreement to furnish such goods or services to an individual or entity, as long as both of the following two standards are met—

* * * * *

(2) * * * Note that for purposes of paragraph (j) of this section, the term group purchasing organization (GPO) means an entity authorized to act as a purchasing agent for a group of individuals or entities who are furnishing services for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or other Federal health care programs, and who are neither wholly-owned by the GPO nor subsidiaries of a parent corporation that wholly owns the GPO (either directly or through another wholly-owned entity).

* * * * *

(n) Practitioner recruitment. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment or exchange of anything of value by an entity in order to induce a practitioner who has been practicing within his or her current specialty for less than 1 year to locate, or to induce any other practitioner to relocate, his or her primary place of practice into a HPSA for his or her specialty area, as defined in Departmental regulations, that is served by the entity, as long as all of the following nine standards are met—

* * * * *

(6) The amount or value of the benefits provided by the entity may not vary (or be adjusted or renegotiated) in any manner based on the volume or value of any expected referrals to or business otherwise generated for the entity by the practitioner for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or any other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(o) Obstetrical malpractice insurance subsidies. As used in section 1128B of the Act, "remuneration" does not include any payment made by a hospital or other entity that is providing malpractice insurance (including a self-funded entity), where such payment is used to pay for some or all of the costs of malpractice insurance premiums for a practitioner (including a certified nurse-midwife as defined in section 1861(gg) of the Act) who engages in obstetrical practice as a routine part of his or her medical practice in a primary care HPSA, as long as all of the following seven standards are met—

* * * * *

(5) The amount of payment may not vary based on the volume or value of any previous or expected referrals to or business otherwise generated for the entity by the practitioner for which payment may be made in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or any other Federal health care programs.

* * * * *

(s) Referral arrangements for specialty services. As used in section 1128B of the Act, “remuneration” does not include any exchange of value among individuals and entities where one party agrees to refer a patient to the other party for the provision of a specialty service payable in whole or in part under Medicare, Medicaid or any other Federal health care programs in return for an agreement on the part of the other party to refer that patient back at a mutually agreed upon time or circumstance as long as the following four standards are met—

(1) A conviction that is reversed or vacated on appeal;

(2) An action by another agency, such as a State agency or licensing board, that is reversed or vacated on appeal; or

(3) An OIG exclusion action that is reversed or vacated at any stage of an individual's or entity's administrative appeal process.

* * * * *

(e) If an action which results in the retroactive reinstatement of an individual or entity is subsequently overturned, the OIG may reimpose the exclusion for the initial period of time, less the period of time that was served prior to the reinstatement of the individual or entity.

BILLING CODE 4152–01–P

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

45 CFR Part 689

RIN 3145–AA39

Research Misconduct

AGENCY: National Science Foundation (NSF).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: NSF is issuing a final rule that revises its existing misconduct in science and engineering regulations. These revisions implement the Federal Policy on Research Misconduct issued by the Executive Office of the President's Office of Science and Technology on December 6, 2000. They will enable NSF to continue to address allegations of research misconduct. DATES: This rule is effective April 17, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Anita Eisenstadt, Office of the General Counsel, at 703–292–8060.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Office of Science and Technology Policy issued a final Federal research misconduct policy on December 6, 2000 in 65 FR 76260–76264 (“the Federal policy”). The Federal policy consists of a definition of research misconduct and basic guidelines to help Federal agencies and Federally funded research institutions respond to allegations of research misconduct. The policy directs Federal agencies that support or conduct research to implement it within one year.

On January 25, 2002, NSF published a proposed rule to revise its existing misconduct regulations (45 CFR part 689) to make them fully consistent with the Federal policy. (67 FR 3666–3669). NSF invited public comment on the proposed rule. NSF received four comments that were supportive of the proposed rule.

Three of these commenters, however, expressed general concern for the protection of confidentiality of inquiries and investigations of alleged research misconduct. They suggested that NSF add language to the regulation that provides that to the extent permitted by law, NSF will protect research misconduct investigative and adjudicative files as exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act. The commenters noted that this language is consistent with the Federal policy.

NSF stated in the preamble to the proposed rule that, consistent with the Federal policy, we would continue to protect research misconduct investigative and adjudicative files as exempt from mandatory disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act, to the extent permitted by law. (67 FR 3666). In response to these comments, we will include this language in § 689.2 of the final rule.

One of the commenters also expressed concern over the preponderance of evidence standard of proof for a finding of research misconduct. The commenter expressed concern that this standard will increase the risk of a false finding of research misconduct, and recommended a higher standard of proof such as “clear and convincing evidence” or “beyond a reasonable doubt.”

The Federal policy adopted the preponderance of evidence standard. In the preamble to the Federal policy, OSTP noted that this is the uniform standard of proof for most civil fraud cases and most Federal administrative proceedings, including debarment. (65 FR 76262). Awardee institutions have the discretion to apply a higher standard of proof in their internal misconduct proceedings. However, if a higher standard is used, and the awardee institution wishes for NSF to defer to its investigation, the awardee institution should also evaluate whether the allegation is proven by a preponderance of evidence.

Determinations

The Office of Management and Budget has reviewed this final rule under Executive Order 12866. The rule is not an economically significant rule or a major rule under the Congressional Review Act. The Congressional Review Act provides that agencies shall submit a report, including a copy of all final rules, to each House of Congress and the Comptroller General of the United States. The Foundation will submit this report, identifying this rule as non-major, prior to the publication of this rule in the Federal Register.

The Unfunded Mandate Reform Act of 1995, in sections 202 and 205, requires that agencies prepare several analytic statements before proposing a rule that may result in annual expenditures of $100 million by State, local and Indian tribal governments, or by the private sector. As any final rule would not result in expenditures of this magnitude, such statements are not necessary. As required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act, it is hereby certified that this rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small businesses.

The provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 104-13, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq., and its implementing regulations, 5 CFR Part 1320, do not apply to this rule because there are no new or revised recordkeeping or reporting requirements. Finally, NSF has reviewed this rule in light of Section 2 of Executive Order 12778 and certifies that this rule meets the applicable standards provided in sections 2(a) and 2(b) of that order.

List of Subjects in 45 CFR Part 689

Administrative practice and procedure, Fraud, Grant programs—science and technology, Investigations, Research, Science and technology.

Dated: March 7, 2002.

Lawrence Rudolph,
General Counsel, National Science Foundation.

For the reasons set forth in the preamble, the National Science Foundation is revising part 689 of Title 45, Chapter VI of the Code of Federal Regulations, to read as follows:

PART 689—RESEARCH MISCONDUCT

Sec.

- 689.1 Definitions.
- 689.2 General policies and responsibilities.
- 689.3 Actions.
- 689.4 Role of awardee institutions.
- 689.5 Initial NSF handling of misconduct matters.
- 689.6 Investigations.
- 689.7 Pending proposals and awards.
- 689.8 Interim administrative actions.
- 689.9 Dispositions.
- 689.10 Appeals.

Authority: 42 U.S.C. 1870(a).

§ 689.1 Definitions.

The following definitions apply to this part:

(a) Research misconduct means fabrication, falsification, or plagiarism in proposing or performing research funded by NSF, reviewing research proposals submitted to NSF, or in reporting research results funded by NSF.

(1) Fabrication means making up data or results and recording or reporting them.

(2) Falsification means manipulating research materials, equipment, or processes, or changing or omitting data or results such that the research is not accurately represented in the research record.

(3) Plagiarism means the appropriation of another person's ideas, processes, results or words without giving appropriate credit.

(4) Research, for purposes of paragraph (a) of this section, includes proposals submitted to NSF in all fields of science, engineering, mathematics, and education and results from such proposals.

(b) Research misconduct does not include honest error or differences of opinion.

§ 689.2 General policies and responsibilities.

(a) NSF will take appropriate action against individuals or institutions upon a finding that research misconduct has occurred. Possible actions are described in § 689.3. NSF may also take interim action during an investigation, as described in § 689.8.

(b) NSF will find research misconduct only after careful inquiry and investigation by an awardee institution, by another Federal agency, or by NSF. An "inquiry" consists of preliminary information-gathering and preliminary fact-finding to determine whether an allegation or apparent instance of research misconduct has substance and if an investigation is warranted. An investigation must be undertaken if the inquiry determines the allegation or apparent instance of research misconduct has substance. An "investigation" is a formal development, examination and evaluation of a factual record to determine whether research misconduct has taken place, to assess its extent and consequences, and to evaluate appropriate action.

(c) A finding of research misconduct requires that—

(1) There be a significant departure from accepted practices of the relevant research community; and

(2) The research misconduct be committed intentionally, or knowingly, or recklessly; and

(3) The allegation be proven by a preponderance of evidence.

(d) Before NSF makes any final finding of research misconduct or takes any final action on such a finding, NSF will normally afford the accused individual or institution notice, a chance to provide comments and rebuttal, and a chance to appeal. In structuring procedures in individual cases, NSF may take into account procedures already followed by other entities investigating or adjudicating the same allegation of research misconduct.

(e) Debarment or suspension for research misconduct will be imposed only after further procedures described in applicable debarment and suspension regulations, as described in §§ 689.8 and 689.9, respectively. Severe research misconduct, as established under the regulations in this part, is an independent cause for debarment or suspension under the procedures established by the debarment and suspension regulations.

(f) The Office of Inspector General (OIG) oversees investigations of research misconduct and conducts any NSF inquiries and investigations into suspected or alleged research misconduct.

(g) The Deputy Director adjudicates research misconduct proceedings and the Director decides appeals.

(h) Investigative and adjudicative research misconduct records maintained by the agency are exempt from public disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) and the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) to the extent permitted by law and regulation.

§ 689.3 Actions.

(a) Possible final actions listed in this paragraph (a) for guidance range from minimal restrictions (Group I) to the most severe and restrictive (Group III). They are not exhaustive and do not include possible criminal sanctions.

(1) Group I actions. (i) Send a letter of reprimand to the individual or institution.

(ii) Require as a condition of an award that for a specified period an individual or institution obtain special prior approval of particular activities from NSF.

(iii) Require for a specified period that an institutional official other than those guilty of misconduct certify the accuracy of reports generated under an award or provide assurance of compliance with particular policies, regulations, guidelines, or special terms and conditions.

(2) Group II actions. (i) Totally or partially suspend an active award, or restrict for a specified period designated activities or expenditures under an active award.

(ii) Require for a specified period special reviews of all requests for funding from an affected individual or institution to ensure that steps have been taken to prevent repetition of the misconduct.

(iii) Require a correction to the research record.

(3) Group III actions. (i) Terminate an active award.

(ii) Prohibit participation of an individual as an NSF reviewer, advisor, or consultant for a specified period.

(iii) Debar or suspend an individual or institution from participation in Federal programs for a specified period after further proceedings under applicable regulations.

(b) In deciding what final actions are appropriate when misconduct is found, NSF officials should consider:

(1) How serious the misconduct was;

(2) The degree to which the misconduct was knowing, intentional, or reckless;

(3) Whether it was an isolated event or part of a pattern;

(4) Whether it had a significant impact on the research record, research subjects, other researchers, institutions or the public welfare; and

(5) Other relevant circumstances.

(c) Interim actions may include, but are not limited to:

(1) Totally or partially suspending an existing award;

(2) Suspending eligibility for Federal awards in accordance with debarment-and-suspension regulations;

(3) Proscribing or restricting particular research activities, as, for example, to protect human or animal subjects;

(4) Requiring special certifications, assurances, or other, administrative arrangements to ensure compliance with applicable regulations or terms of the award;

(5) Requiring more prior approvals by NSF;

(6) Deferring funding action on continuing grant increments;

(7) Deferring a pending award;

(8) Restricting or suspending participation as an NSF reviewer, advisor, or consultant.

(d) For those cases governed by the debarment and suspension regulations, the standards of proof contained in the debarment and suspension regulations shall control. Otherwise, NSF will take no final action under this section without a finding of misconduct supported by a preponderance of the relevant evidence.

§ 689.4 Role of awardee institutions.

(a) Awardee institutions bear primary responsibility for prevention and detection of research misconduct and for the inquiry, investigation, and adjudication of alleged research misconduct. In most instances, NSF will rely on awardee institutions to promptly:

(1) Initiate an inquiry into any suspected or alleged research misconduct;

(2) Conduct a subsequent investigation, if warranted;

(3) Take action necessary to ensure the integrity of research, the rights and interests of research subjects and the public, and the observance of legal requirements or responsibilities; and

(4) Provide appropriate safeguards for subjects of allegations as well as informants.

(b) If an institution wishes NSF to defer independent inquiry or investigation, it should:

(1) Complete any inquiry and decide whether an investigation is warranted within 90 days. If completion of an inquiry is delayed, but the institution wishes NSF deferral to continue, NSF may require submission of periodic status reports.

(2) Inform OIG immediately if an initial inquiry supports a formal investigation.

(3) Keep OIG informed during such an investigation.

(4) Complete any investigation and reach a disposition within 180 days. If completion of an investigation is delayed, but the institution wishes NSF deferral to continue, NSF may require submission of periodic status reports.

(5) Provide OIG with the final report from any investigation.

(c) NSF expects institutions to promptly notify OIG should the institution become aware during an inquiry or investigation that:

(1) Public health or safety is at risk;

(2) NSF's resources, reputation, or other interests need protecting;

(3) There is reasonable indication of possible violations of civil or criminal law;

(4) Research activities should be suspended;

(5) Federal action may be needed to protect the interests of a subject of the investigation or of others potentially affected; or

(6) The scientific community or the public should be informed.

(d) Awardee institutions should maintain and effectively communicate to their staffs appropriate policies and procedures relating to research misconduct, which should indicate when NSF should be notified.

§ 689.5 Initial NSF handling of misconduct matters.

(a) NSF staff who learn of alleged misconduct will promptly and discreetly inform OIG or refer informants to OIG.

(b) The identity of informants who wish to remain anonymous will be kept confidential to the extent permitted by law or regulation.

(c) If OIG determines that alleged research misconduct involves potential civil or criminal violations, OIG may refer the matter to the Department of Justice.

(d) Otherwise OIG may:

(1) Inform the awardee institution of the alleged research misconduct and encourage it to undertake an inquiry;

(2) Defer to inquiries or investigations of the awardee institution or of another Federal agency; or

(3) At any time proceed with its own inquiry.

(e) If OIG proceeds with its own inquiry it will normally complete the inquiry no more than 90 days after initiating it.

(f) On the basis of what it learns from an inquiry and in consultation as appropriate with other NSF offices, OIG will decide whether a formal NSF investigation is warranted.

§ 689.6 Investigations.

(a) When an awardee institution or another Federal agency has promptly initiated its own investigation, OIG may defer an NSF inquiry or investigation until it receives the results of that external investigation. If it does not receive the results within 180 days, OIG may proceed with its own investigation.

(b) If OIG decides to initiate an NSF investigation, it must give prompt written notice to the individual or institutions to be investigated, unless notice would prejudice the investigation or unless a criminal investigation is underway or under active consideration. If notice is delayed, it must be given as soon as it will no longer prejudice the investigation or contravene requirements of law or Federal law-enforcement policies.

(c) If a criminal investigation by the Department of Justice, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, or another Federal agency is underway or under active consideration by these agencies or the NSF, OIG will determine what information, if any, may be disclosed to the subject of the investigation or to other NSF employees.

(d) An NSF investigation may include:

(1) Review of award files, reports, and other documents already readily available at NSF or in the public domain;

(2) Review of procedures or methods and inspection of laboratory materials, specimens, and records at awardee institutions;

(3) Interviews with subjects or witnesses;

(4) Review of any documents or other evidence provided by or properly obtainable from parties, witnesses, or other sources;

(5) Cooperation with other Federal agencies; and

(6) Opportunity for the subject of the investigation to be heard.

(e) OIG may invite outside consultants or experts to participate in an NSF investigation. They should be appointed in a manner that ensures the official nature of their involvement and provides them with legal protections available to federal employees.

(f) OIG will make every reasonable effort to complete an NSF investigation and to report its recommendations, if any, to the Deputy Director within 180 days after initiating it.

§ 689.7 Pending proposals and awards.

(a) Upon learning of alleged research misconduct OIG will identify potentially implicated awards or proposals and when appropriate, will ensure that program, grant, and contracting officers handling them are informed (subject to § 689.6(c)).

(b) Neither a suspicion or allegation of research misconduct nor a pending inquiry or investigation will normally delay review of proposals. To avoid influencing reviews, reviewers or panelists will not be informed of allegations or of ongoing inquiries or investigations. However, if allegations, inquiries, or investigations have been rumored or publicized, the responsible Program Director may consult with OIG and, after further consultation with the Office of General Counsel, either defer review, inform reviewers to disregard the matter, or inform reviewers of the status of the matter.

§ 689.8 Interim administrative actions.

(a) After an inquiry or during an external or NSF investigation the Deputy Director may order that interim actions (as described in § 689.3(c)) be taken to protect Federal resources or to guard against continuation of any suspected or alleged research misconduct. Such an order will normally be issued on recommendation from OIG and in consultation with the Division of Contracts, Policy, and Oversight or Division of Grants and Agreements, the Office of the General Counsel, the responsible Directorate, and other parts of the Foundation as appropriate.

(b) When suspension is determined to be appropriate, the case will be referred to the suspending official pursuant to 45 CFR part 620, and the suspension procedures of 45 CFR part 620 will be followed, but the suspending official will be either the Deputy Director or an official designated by the Deputy Director.

(c) Such interim actions may be taken whenever information developed during an investigation indicates a need to do so. Any interim action will be reviewed periodically during an investigation by NSF and modified as warranted. An interested party may request a review or modification by the Deputy Director of any interim action.

(d) The Deputy Director will make and OIG will retain a record of interim actions taken and the reasons for taking them.

(e) Interim administrative actions are not final agency actions subject to appeal.

§ 689.9 Dispositions.

(a) After receiving a report from an external investigation by an awardee institution or another Federal agency, OIG will assess the accuracy and completeness of the report and whether the investigating entity followed reasonable procedures. It will either recommend adoption of the findings in whole or in part or, normally within 30 days, initiate a new investigation.

(b) When any satisfactory external investigation or an NSF investigation fails to confirm alleged misconduct—

(1) OIG will notify the subject of the investigation and, if appropriate, those who reported the suspected or alleged misconduct. This notification may include the investigation report.

(2) Any interim administrative restrictions that were imposed will be lifted.

(c) When any satisfactory investigation confirms misconduct—

(1) In cases in which debarment is considered by OIG to be an appropriate disposition, the case will be referred to the debarring official pursuant to 45 CFR part 620 and the procedures of 45 CFR part 620 will be followed, but:

(i) The debarring official will be either the Deputy Director, or an official designated by the Deputy Director.

(ii) Except in unusual circumstances, the investigation report and recommended disposition will be included among the materials provided to the subject of the investigation as part of the notice of proposed debarment.

(iii) The notice of the debarring official's decision will include instructions on how to pursue an appeal to the Director.

(2) In all other cases—

(i) Except in unusual circumstances, the investigation report will be provided by OIG to the subject of the investigation, who will be invited to submit comments or rebuttal. Comments or rebuttal submitted within the period allowed, normally 30 days, will receive full consideration and may lead to revision of the report or of a recommended disposition.

(ii) Normally within 45 days after completing an NSF investigation or receiving the report from a satisfactory external investigation, OIG will submit to the Deputy Director the investigation report, any comments or rebuttal from the subject of the investigation, and a recommended disposition. The recommended disposition will propose any final actions to be taken by NSF. Section 689.3 lists possible final actions and considerations to be used in determining them.

(iii) The Deputy Director will review the investigation report and OIG's recommended disposition. Before issuing a disposition the Deputy Director may initiate further hearings or investigation. Normally within 120 days after receiving OIG's recommendations or after completion of any further proceedings, the Deputy Director will send the affected individual or institution a written disposition, specifying actions to be taken. The decision will include instructions on how to pursue an appeal to the Director.

§ 689.10 Appeals.

(a) An affected individual or institution may appeal to the Director in writing within 30 days after receiving the Deputy Director's written decision. The Deputy Director's decision becomes a final administrative action if it is not appealed within the 30 day period.

(b) The Director may appoint an uninvolved NSF officer or employee to review an appeal and make recommendations.

(c) The Director will normally inform the appellant of a final decision within 60 days after receiving the appeal. That decision will be the final administrative action of the Foundation.

[Docket No. MARAD-2001-10518]

RIN 2133-AB45

Eligibility of U.S.-Flag Vessels of 100 Feet or Greater in Registered Length To Obtain a Fishery Endorsement to the Vessel's Documentation

AGENCY: Maritime Administration, Department of Transportation.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: In an interim final rule published on August 31, 2001, the Maritime Administration ("MARAD," "we," "our," or "us") amended our regulations implementing the new U.S. citizenship requirements set forth in the American Fisheries Act of 1998 ("AFA"). MARAD's regulation, at 46 CFR part 356, contains the substantive requirements mandated by the AFA and procedural requirements established by MARAD for administration of the AFA. We promulgated an amendment that provides us with the ability to waive any procedural requirement, if there is good cause to do so and the waiver would not be inconsistent with the AFA and the intent of part 356. The waiver provision was effective, as an interim final rule, upon publication, but we are now publishing this waiver provision as a final rule.

DATES: The effective date of this final rule is March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Murray A. Bloom, Citizenship Approval Officer, Maritime Administration, MAR-222 Room 7228, 400 7th Street, SW, Washington, DC 20590. Telephone: (202) 366-5320.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The AFA imposes new citizenship requirements for the owners of vessels of 100 feet or greater in registered length which hold a fishery endorsement or for which a fishery endorsement is sought and for entities holding a preferred ship mortgage on such vessels. We are required by the AFA to "rigorously" scrutinize any transfer of ownership and control over fishing vessels, fish processing vessels and fish tender vessels. In so doing, we must pay particular attention to leases, charters, financing arrangements, mortgages, and other documents to determine if they constitute an impermissible conveyance of control to persons not eligible to own a vessel with a fishery endorsement.

MARAD's detailed regulations, 46 CFR part 356, were published in the Federal Register on July 19, 2000 (65 FR 44859), following notice and opportunity for submission of comments. The new citizenship requirements became effective on October 1, 2001. Vessel owners were directed to submit citizenship affidavits and other documents to us by June 1, 2001. We have provided information on the new requirements on MARAD's web site, <http://marad.dot.gov/afa.html>, mailed information to owners of fishing industry vessels and conducted briefings open to the public.

The new regulations applied for the first time to a population of individuals who had not communicated or worked with MARAD. Therefore, we were concerned about circumstances and issues that were not anticipated by us or the public and that could not be resolved in the short period of time before October 1, 2001. In addition, we were concerned that some confusion may have arisen for the public because the U.S. Coast Guard will administer the AFA's citizenship requirements with regard to vessels under 100 feet in registered length under its own procedures. Our concerns were based on actual contacts between MARAD staff and the public that brought to our attention the potential for certain inequitable results that could stem from the implementation of the regulations if MARAD did not have the ability to waive certain procedural requirements. At that time, we expected to review about 500 affidavits along with underlying articles of incorporation, bylaws, charters, management agreements, sales agreements and other documents.

In the course of reviewing this large number of complicated business arrangements, it became apparent that there were circumstances, often not the fault of the vessel owner, that prevented us in several instances from making a complete citizenship finding by October 1, 2001. Our regulations provide the opportunity for the applicant to work with us to resolve matters prior to issuing a determination whether the applicant qualifies as a U.S. citizen. However, the AFA rule would have caused the vessel owner's fishery endorsement to be deemed invalid on October 1, 2001 if we had not issued a citizenship determination. Thus, there were times when a waiver of our procedures would have been appropriate to avoid this result. Accordingly, MARAD promulgated this amendment to 46 CFR part 356, on August 31, 2001 at 66 FR 45945, which allows us to waive procedural provisions of the rule not mandated by the AFA. The waiver provision is not applicable to the substantive requirements set out in the AFA and the rule. In addition, any waiver must be supported by good cause shown.

The waiver provision became effective as an interim measure immediately upon publication on August 31, 2001 so that it was in place before October 1, 2001, the date when MARAD was required to determine the U.S. citizenship status of 500-700 vessel owners and operators. The need to fairly administer the new and intricate requirements of the AFA within the stringent time constraints fully supports a finding of good cause, under the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553(b) and (d), that the final rule should be effective upon publication.

Our practical experience with the waiver authority validated our original assumptions. More than a dozen waivers have been issued so far. Each waiver was well justified in that they allowed vessel owners some additional time to revise troublesome provisions of complicated vessel charters or corporate documents or provided needed time for us to resolve complex issues. Going forward, we expect the waiver provision to be used sparingly. However, there is still a need for the waiver provision, because vessel owners enter into new business arrangements constantly, and we need to ensure a thorough review of such arrangements.

We received no comments from the public either in favor or opposed to making the interim final rule a final rule.

Rulemaking Analyses and Notices

Executive Order 12866 (Regulatory Planning and Review)

After discussing compliance requirements with interested vessel owners, operators and mortgagees, we became aware of a need to have a waiver provision in the AFA regulations so that non-material discrepancies in a vessel's documentation would not arbitrarily cause a vessel owner to lose their fishery endorsement. The waiver provision will not entail any cost to vessel owners, mortgagees, charterers, or other parties regulated by 46 CFR part 356.

This final rule is not a significant regulatory action under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866. Consequently, it was not reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget. The economic impact, if any, should be minimal; therefore, no further analysis is necessary. This final rule is not significant according to the Regulatory Policies and Procedures of the Department of Transportation, 44 FR 11034 (February 26, 1979) as it merely allows waiver of administrative and procedural requirements.

Federalism

We analyzed this rulemaking in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in E.O. 13132 ("Federalism") and have determined that it does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant consultation with State and local officials. The regulations have no substantial effects on the States, or on the current Federal-State relationship, or on the current distribution of power and responsibilities among the various local officials.

Executive Order 13175

MARAD does not believe that this final rule will significantly or uniquely affect the communities of Indian tribal governments when analyzed under the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 13175 ("Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments"). Therefore, the funding and consultation requirements of this Executive Order would not apply.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) requires us to consider whether our proposals will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. "Small entities" include independently owned and operated small businesses that are not dominant in their field and that otherwise qualify as "small business concerns" under section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632). This rulemaking may reasonably be expected to affect small businesses or entities that currently own documented fishing vessels, fish processing vessels, or fish tender vessels, that have financed such vessels, or that are engaging in the fisheries of the United States with such vessels. The Small Business Administration defines businesses within the fishing industry that have annual receipts of $3 million or less as small businesses, 13 CFR 121.201. We believe that any cost to small business entities to comply with this final rule will be minimal, if any, because this final rule allows waiver of procedural (i.e., administrative) requirements that may cause a vessel owner to lose its fishery endorsement. Therefore, MARAD certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Environmental Impact Statement

We have analyzed this rule for purposes of compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) and have concluded that under the categorical exclusions provision in section 4.05 of Maritime Administrative Order 600-1, "Procedures for Considering Environmental Impacts," 50 FR 11606 (March 22, 1985), the preparation of an Environmental Assessment, and an Environmental Impact Statement, or a Finding of No Significant Impact for this rulemaking is not required. This rulemaking involves administrative and procedural regulations that clearly have no environmental impact.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This rulemaking does not establish any new requirement for the collection of information.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This final rule will not impose an unfunded mandate under the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995. It will not result in costs of $100 million or more, in the aggregate, to any of the following: State, local, or Native American tribal governments, or the private sector. This final rule is the least burdensome alternative that achieves the objective of the rule.

Regulation Identifier Number

A regulation identifier number (RIN) is assigned to each regulatory action listed in the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Regulatory Information Service Center publishes the Unified Agenda in April and October of each year. The RIN number contained in the heading of this document can be used to cross reference this action with the Unified Agenda.

Fisheries off West Coast States and in the Western Pacific; Precious Corals Fisheries; Harvest Quotas, Definitions, Size Limits, Gear Restrictions, and Bed Classification

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: NMFS has partially approved a regulatory amendment under the Fishery Management Plan for Precious Coral Fisheries of the Western Pacific Region (FMP) submitted by the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council) and is issuing a final rule that will implement gear restrictions, size limits, and definitions governing the harvest of precious coral resources managed under the FMP. Precious coral management measures that were published in the proposed rule that apply only to the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands (NWHI) are not being implemented by NMFS because they were determined to be inconsistent with certain provisions of Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, which together establish the NWHI Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve (Reserve).

DATES: Effective April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the background documents, including an environmental assessment/initial regulatory flexibility analysis/regulatory impact review (EA/IRFA/RIR) (March 2001) and an RIR/final regulatory flexibility analysis (FRFA), (March 2002) are available from Dr. Charles Karnella, Administrator, NMFS, Pacific Islands Area Office (PIAO), 1601 Kapiolani Blvd., Suite 1110, Honolulu, HI 96814.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Alvin Katekaru, PIAO, 808-973-2937.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On September 5, 2000, NMFS published a proposed rule (65 FR 53692) on regulatory adjustments governing the harvest of precious coral resources managed under the FMP. The rule contained eight measures intended to conserve and reduce the risk of overfishing the precious coral resource; promote optimal utilization of the resource and minimize waste; and protect the precious coral beds in the NWHI that provide foraging habitat for the endangered Hawaiian monk seal. In December 2000, and January 2001, President Clinton issued Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, respectively, which together established the Reserve. NMFS has determined that two of the proposed precious coral measures that apply only to precious coral beds around the NWHI are inconsistent with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196.

This final rule implements the following six measures: (1) Suspends the harvest of gold coral at Makapu'u Bed off the Island of Oahu; (2) redefines "dead precious coral" as coral that has no live coral polyps or tissue, and redefines "live precious coral" accordingly; (3) applies minimum size restrictions only to live precious corals; (4) prohibits the harvest of black coral unless it has attained a minimum stem diameter of 1 inch (2.54 cm) or a minimum height of 48 inches (122 cm), except in certain cases; (5) prohibits the use of non-selective fishing gear to harvest precious corals; and (6) applies the current minimum size restriction for pink coral to all permit areas.

Comment and Response

One letter was received commenting on the proposed rule.

Comment: The measures to define live coral as coral harboring living polyps and to apply size and quota restrictions to live coral only, mean that the harvest of dead gold coral will be unregulated. Unrestricted takes of dead gold coral may have negative impacts on live gold coral as there is some evidence from the NWHI that dead coral may be the preferred substrate for resettlement (i.e., seeding) of new gold coral colonies.

Response: NMFS shares this concern. The amount of information on the relationship between dead gold coral and the seeding of new colonies is limited at this time. NMFS however believes the concern is mitigated by restrictions imposed on commercial harvesting of precious corals, under Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196 establishing the Reserve.

NMFS is not implementing two precious coral measures that would have (a) revised the boundaries of the Brooks Banks Bed, NWHI, reduced this bed's harvest quota for pink coral, and suspended the harvest quota (i.e., reduced to zero) for gold coral; and (b) established a NWHI precious coral permit area, French Frigate Shoals (FFS) Gold Pinnacles Bed, and classified this bed as a "conditional" bed with a zero harvest quota for all species of precious corals. The final rule is changed from the proposed rule because continued management of precious coral fisheries around the NWHI is inconsistent with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196. Specifically, the measures establishing pink and gold coral harvest quotas at NWHI Brooks Banks Bed are inconsistent with section 7(b)(5) of the Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196. In this section, the Executive Order establishes zero harvest in the Reserve where the Brooks Banks Bed is located. Establishment of a quota for pink coral at Brooks Banks Bed also conflicts with the Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196 since they generally prohibit the harvest of living and nonliving resources throughout the Reserve. Although creation of a new FFS Gold Pinnacles Bed and its classification as a "conditional" bed are not literally contrary to the E.O.s, a zero harvest quota duplicates restrictions in the E.O.s, and therefore is unnecessary.

Another change between the final rule and proposed rule is that § 660.86 (b)(2) has been revised to allow for expedient issuance of exemptions from black coral harvest size requirements. This change allows NMFS to streamline the exemption process by relying on a State of Hawaii precious corals database to determine eligible harvesters.

The final rule contains a technical correction to the location of the Wespac Bed, Permit Area R-1, by redefining the current position of 28°50.2' N. lat. to 23°18' N. lat.

Classification

This final rule has been determined to be not significant for purposes of Executive Order 12866.

NMFS prepared a FRFA describing the impact of the action on small entities. The IRFA was summarized in the proposed rule published on September 5, 2000 (65 FR 53692). None of the comments received on the proposed rule directly or indirectly addressed the results of the IRFA, which also provided analysis on the proposed measures that are not included in the final rule. The following is a summary of the FRFA (March 1, 2002).

The Council considered eight adjustments to management measures in the FMP. Six of those management measures are discussed below. The remaining two management measures, that involve the Reserve, were not approved by NMFS for the reasons stated above. This partial disapproval is not expected to have any economic impact because no commercial precious coral harvest is currently occurring in the Reserve.

Under Management Objective 1, (reduce the potential for overfishing of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed), four alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the harvest quota for gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed will be suspended until further information on the impact of harvesting on subsequent recruitment of gold coral is available. A gold coral quota of zero would likely have some adverse economic impact on potential harvesters. However, the density of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed is already very low. It is likely that any harvest effort occurring at Makapu'u bed will be directed mainly toward pink coral because this coral is relatively abundant at the bed and has a higher market value than gold coral ($440/kg for pink coral (C. secundum) vs. $330/kg for gold coral according to Maui Divers of Hawaii, Ltd.). A suspension of the quota is not expected to have an adverse economic impact on processors of precious corals in Hawaii. The fishery in the EEZ around Hawaii for deep-water species of precious coral, including pink, gold and bamboo coral, has been nearly dormant for two decades. Consequently, the processors of these corals in Hawaii have relied almost exclusively on imported material.

Three alternatives were considered and rejected for the first management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the biennial gold coral quota of 600 kg (132 lb) at Makapu'u Bed. Maintaining the current biennial harvest quota of 600 kg (132 lb) for gold coral at Makapu'u Bed would continue to make available to prospective harvesters a quantity of gold coral worth $198,000 every two years ($99,000 annually) if the actual stock is of sufficient size to support such a harvest. However, a recent survey of the bed revealed that the current standing stock of gold coral is low and may not yield the current harvest quota. In addition, the adverse economic impacts over the long term would be significant if further harvesting diminishes the number of colonies to the point that no recovery is possible.

The second rejected alternative would have suspended the harvest quota for gold coral at all established and conditional beds until additional information is available on the impact of harvesting on subsequent recruitment of gold coral. The total harvest quota for gold coral at all established and conditional beds is 1,080 kg (238 lb) every two years, with an estimated dockside value of $356,400. However, the gold coral quota at the Makapu'u Bed accounts for more than half of this total. As noted above, the current standing stock of gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed may not yield the current biennial harvest quota of 600 kg (132 lb). If no gold coral is harvested from the Makapu'u Bed the amount of potential gross revenues foregone by suspending the harvest quota at all established and conditional beds is estimated to be about $158,400 every two years.

The third rejected alternative would have implemented a minimum size limit for gold coral at the Makapu'u Bed. This alternative was rejected because the calculation of an appropriate minimum size requires estimates of growth rates, mortality rates and size at reproductive maturity. These data estimates are lacking for gold coral. Without this information the size limit established may be too low, thereby insufficiently protecting the coral from overfishing and eventually leading to reduced economic returns, or may be too high, thereby resulting in an overly conservative size limit that unnecessarily reduces potential economic returns.

Under Management Objective 2 (reduce the potential for harvest of coral which has live coral polyps or tissue), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, dead precious coral will be defined as precious coral that no longer has any live coral polyps or tissue, and live precious coral will be defined as precious coral that has live polyps or tissue. Only live coral will be counted toward the quotas limiting the amount of precious coral that may be taken in any permit area during the fishing year. It is possible that some of the coral at a given bed that was regarded as dead under the current definition would be regarded as live under the alternative definition, and therefore be subject to the harvest quota for that bed. However, the amount of additional coral that would be subject to the quota is likely to be small, as coral colonies that contain holes from borers or are discolored or encrusted generally no longer have any living polyps or tissue. There is insufficient information on the amount of coral meeting this definition at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the second management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current definition of dead precious coral as any precious coral that contains holes from borers or is discolored or encrusted at the time of removal from the seabed. This alternative was rejected because allowing the harvest of coral that is currently defined as dead and is believed to provide foraging habitat to the endangered Hawaiian monk seal may lead to emergency closures of specific sites or alterations of fishing operations. The economic impact of closures or other measures would depend on the length of time that these measures are in effect.

The second rejected alternative would have defined dead precious coral as precious coral that is no longer standing upright, and define live precious coral as precious coral that is standing upright. However, the amount of additional coral that would be subject to the quota is likely to be small, as coral colonies that contain holes from borers or are discolored or encrusted are often no longer standing upright. There is insufficient information on the amount of coral meeting this definition at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

Under Management Objective 3, (allow greater utilization of dead coral resources), two alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, size limits will be applied only to live coral. This alternative will allow greater utilization of dead coral resources and thus increase potential income to harvesters. There is insufficient information on the quantity of dead coral at different beds to quantify this economic impact.

The rejected alternative would have maintained the application of minimum size limits to both live and dead coral. This alternative was rejected because it prohibits the harvest of dead coral that is below the minimum size limit despite the fact that the harvest of dead coral is not considered to be detrimental. There is insufficient information on the quantity of dead coral at different beds to quantify the economic impact.

Under Management Objective 4 (regulate the harvest of black coral), four alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the harvest of black coral will be prohibited unless it has attained either a minimum stem diameter of 1 inch (2.54 cm), measured no less than 1 inch (2.54 cm) from the top of the living holdfast, or a minimum height of 48 inches (122 cm), measured from the base to the greatest distal extremity of the colony. Persons who reported a landing of black coral to the State of Hawaii within 5 years before the effective date of the final rule may apply for an exemption which allows the hand harvest of black coral that has attained a 3/4 inch (1.905 cm) base diameter, measured on the widest portion of the

Three alternatives were considered and rejected for this management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current situation of no restrictions on the harvest of black coral. This alternative was rejected because it would allow fishing pressure to increase in an uncontrolled manner and could lead to overfishing of black coral.

The second rejected alternative would have prohibited the harvest of black coral unless it has attained a minimum base diameter of 3/4 inch (1.905 cm), which is believed to inadequately protect black coral resources from overfishing.

The third rejected alternative would have established a weight quota for black coral and was rejected because a weight quota may not be as effective as a size limit in avoiding overfishing of the resource. Information on the standing stock and sustainable yield of managed species of black coral is limited. The use of minimum size limits based on knowledge of the reproductive biology of precious corals is the preferred basis for management of the fishery when selective harvesting is expected to be economically feasible as information on the standing stock and its sustainable yield in terms of weight is limited.

Under Management Objective 5 (protect precious coral resources and essential fish habitat (EFH) from the effects of ecologically destructive and wasteful harvest gear), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. The preferred alternative will require that selective gear be used to harvest precious corals from all permit areas. The cost of purchasing an unmanned submersible (i.e., remotely operated vehicle) may be as low as $50,000, which is roughly equal to the capital investment in gear required to initiate a non-selective harvest operation using tangle nets. Although the capital and operating costs of manned submersibles may be high, they are not economically prohibitive, as is evidenced by the recent interest of two firms in using this type of selective gear to harvest precious corals in the waters around Hawaii. In addition, it is likely that some harvesters of precious coral will be able to defray the costs of using selective gear by finding other lucrative uses for the gear, such as salvage and research. The use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals is an inefficient use of fishery resources. Non-selective gear tends to damage the precious coral trees as it harvests them, thereby greatly reducing the value of the coral. In contrast, selective gear harvests coral so that it retains its highest value.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the fifth management objective to protect precious coral resources and EFH from the effects of ecologically destructive and wasteful harvest gear.

The first rejected alternative would have maintained the current regulations requiring selective gear only at the Makapu'u, Keahole Point, and Kaena Point Beds. This alternative was rejected because the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals is not an efficient use of fishery resources. The value of precious coral colonies is dependent on its size, color and condition. Large, completely intact trees of coral have the greatest value. Non-selective gear such as dredges harvest pieces of broken coral knocked down by the dredge stone and entangled in the nets as the dredge is pulled along the sea floor. Breakage may reduce a coral's value by as much as 80 percent.

Allowing the continued use of this relatively inexpensive gear in exploratory areas may encourage the discovery and exploration of new beds. However, the use of non-selective gear is unlikely to provide sufficient data to develop reliable estimates of the standing stock and maximum sustained yield (MSY) for newly discovered beds because this gear cannot discriminate or differentiate between types, size, quality or characteristics of living or dead corals. Further, the degradation of precious coral beds may reduce monk seal foraging habitat. The economic impact of such adverse modifications would be likely to include emergency closures of specific sites, including Brooks Bank, or alteration of fishing operations. The specific cost of closures or other measures would depend on the length of time that these measures are in effect.

The second rejected alternative would have required that selective gear be used to harvest precious corals from all established and conditional beds. This alternative was rejected as it would fail to protect those precious coral resources located outside of these beds.

Under Management Objective 6 (reduce the potential for overfishing of pink coral at conditional beds and exploratory areas), three alternatives were considered including the preferred alternative. Under the preferred alternative, the current 10 inch size limit for pink coral will be applied to all established beds, conditional beds, and exploratory areas. The feasibility of this alternative is contingent on a prohibition on the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals for commercial purposes in all permit areas. Applying the size limit for pink coral to all permit areas is unlikely to have a significant negative economic impact because the potential financial return from harvesting colonies of pink coral that are less than 10 inches (25.4 cm) in height is low. According to Maui Divers of Hawaii, Ltd., harvesting colonies less than 10 inches (25.4 cm) is not economically practical, because the return does not justify the time spent harvesting.

Two alternatives were considered and rejected for the sixth management objective. The first rejected alternative would have maintained the application of the 10-inch (25.4 cm) size limit for pink coral at the established Makapu'u, Keahole Point, and Kaena Point Beds only, and was rejected because long-term negative impacts on harvest levels and gross revenues could be potentially large if the resources are overfished. Given the life-history characteristics of pink coral, such as slow growth and long generation time, overfishing could degrade the productivity of affected precious coral beds for many years.

The second rejected alternative would have applied the current 10-inch (25.4 cm) size limit for pink coral only to established and conditional beds. This alternative would have had economic impacts similar to the preferred alternative. However, it was rejected because it would not provide protection for the minimum sizes to pink corals located in exploratory areas.

This final rule could affect five to seven small businesses. There are three to five small-boat fishermen who harvest black coral using scuba gear in beds overlapping State of Hawaii and Federal waters, as well as two historical or potential operations targeting other precious corals. Between 1990 and 1997, the total annual harvest of black coral in Hawaii varied from a low of 864 lbs (391 kg) to a high of 6,017 lbs (272 kg), with a yearly average of 3,084 lbs (139 kg). The 415 lbs (188 kg) of black coral sold in 1997 had a dockside value of about $10,394, assuming a price of $25/lb. NMFS cannot determine the proportions of the harvest of black coral made in State and Federal waters based on the available information. Details on the harvest of other precious corals cannot be released due to confidentiality requirements as there have been less than three operations active in the past decade.

Due to the low level of participation in the western Pacific precious coral fishery, aggregate economic impacts resulting from the final rule will be minimal. The analysis, however, shows that prohibiting the harvest of gold coral at Makapu'u Bed could result in the loss of potential revenues of approximately $100,000 annually in the short term, if the actual stock is of sufficient size to support the current harvest quota.

Establishment of a universal minimum harvest size for all pink coral management unit species could result in a positive economic impact in the form of long-term maintenance of MSYs. On the other hand, imposing a minimum harvest size for black corals could have a negative economic impact on fishery revenues, except for five harvesters expected to be exempt from the minimum harvest size requirement. A prohibition on the use of non-selective gear to harvest precious corals could result in additional costs for future participants. Hand-harvesters for black corals would be unaffected by this prohibition. The exact costs of selective gear technologies are unknown, although a remotely operated submersible coral harvester can now be obtained for $50,000, which may be approximately equal to the cost of setting up a non-selective harvest operation using tangle nets. The effective yield is higher for selective harvesting of precious corals using submersibles compared to the wasteful practice of harvesting precious corals using non-selective gear.

Due to a lack of information on the long term effects of alternative management measures on coral stocks, harvest effort or catch rates, a detailed quantitative analysis of the costs and benefits of alternative management measures is not possible at this time.

Although long-term data are unavailable, analysis of this fishery is ongoing, and may lead to simulation models capable of predicting the biological (and economic) effects of each alternative. From a conceptual point of view, the precious corals fishery represents a difficult economic analysis. Although standard bioeconomic theory suggests that the harvest rate should be no more than the growth rate of the coral population at its MSY (accounting for economic production cost relationships and the discount rate), the growth rate of coral is so slow that a mining approach might be considered preferable, i.e., that the resource might be allowed to be over-fished in the short-term, and then harvesting prohibited for the many years which would be required for it to be fully restored. However, this approach was rejected because it would be inconsistent, with National Standard 1 of the Magnuson-Stevens Act which prohibits overfishing. It is anticipated by NMFS that by allowing the coral populations to maintain their long-term sustainability, there will be a larger standing stock of corals which will optimize harvest rates and reduce the relative costs of harvesting (due to increased density). By limiting the harvest rates to those allowed by MSY, the likelihood that long-term benefits will exceed costs is increased. In addition, these restrictions may preclude new entry into the fishery, therefore improving social benefits (i.e., avoiding over-capacity). To the extent that these initial explorations are successful in identifying additional coral resources for harvesting, and as new economic information is acquired, a re-evaluation of the relative benefits and costs of these management measures would be warranted.

None of the alternatives considered is expected to have significant social impacts on fishery participants or Hawaii fishing communities in terms of employment, enjoyment of the fishery, vessel and crew safety, social or cultural activity in the fishery, or other social factors.

To minimize impact, this final rule removes size limits for dead corals. However, this revision could cause some risk to certain corals, such as gold corals, that may use dead corals for resettlement of new colonies.

This final rule does not contain any reporting or record-keeping requirements.

An informal consultation under the Endangered Species Act was conducted to determine whether this regulatory amendment was likely to affect any endangered or threatened species, including Hawaiian monk seals. This consultation was completed on December 20, 2000, and concluded that this regulatory amendment is not likely to adversely affect any endangered or threatened resources. The disapproval of the two NWHI measures does not affect that determination.

This final rule is consistent with Executive Order 13089, which is intended to preserve and protect the biodiversity, health, heritage, and social and economic value of U.S. coral reef ecosystems and the marine environment.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Executive Order 12866

The Office of Management and Budget has waived the review process required by Executive Order 12866 for this action.

Executive Order 12988

This rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform. It is not intended to have retroactive effect. This rule would not preempt any state or local laws, regulations, or policies, unless they present an irreconcilable conflict with this rule.

The Cotton Research and Promotion Act (7 U.S.C. 2101-2118) provides that administrative proceedings must be exhausted before parties may file suit in court. Under Section 12 of the Act, any person subject to an order may file with USDA a petition stating that the order, any provision of the order, or any obligation imposed in connection with the order is not in accordance with law and requesting a modification of the order or to be exempted therefrom. Such person is afforded the opportunity for a hearing on the petition. After the hearing, USDA would rule on the petition. The Act provides that the District Court of the United States in any district in which the person is an inhabitant, or has his or her principal place of business, has jurisdiction to review the USDA's ruling, provided a complaint is filed within 20 days from the date of the entry of ruling.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Pursuant to requirements set forth in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) [5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.], the Agricultural Marketing Service has considered the economic effect of this action on small entities and has determined that its implementation will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

There are currently approximately 30,000 producers, and approximately 10,000 importers that are subject to the order. The majority of these producers and importers are small businesses under the criteria established by the Small Business Administration.

Only those eligible persons who are in favor of conducting a referendum would need to participate in the sign-up period. Of the 46,220 total valid ballots received in the 1991 referendum, 27,879, or 60 percent, favored the amendments to the Order, and 18,341, or 40 percent, opposed the amendments to the Order. This proposed rule would provide to those persons who are not in favor of the continuance of the Order amendments an opportunity to request a continuance referendum.

The eligibility and participation requirements for producers and importers are substantially the same as the rules that established the eligibility and participation requirements for the 1991 referendum, and for the 1997 sign-up period. The January 15 through April 14, 1997 sign-up period did not generate the required number of signatures to hold another referendum. The amendments proposed in this action would update various dates, name changes, addresses and make other miscellaneous changes. However, proxy or power of attorney participation would be prohibited.

The proposed sign-up procedures would not impose a substantial burden or have a significant impact on persons subject to the Order, because participation is not mandatory, not all persons subject to the Order are expected to participate, and USDA will determine producer and importer eligibility. The information collection requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act are minimal.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The information collections proposed by this rule will be carried out under the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Control Number 0581-0093. This rule will not add to the overall burden currently approved by OMB and assigned OMB Control Number 0581-0093 under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35). This OMB Control Number is referenced in Section 1205.541 of the regulations.

Background

The 1991 amendments to the Cotton Research and Promotion Order (7 C.F.R. 1205 et seq.) were implemented following the July 1991 referendum. The amendments were provided for in the Cotton Research and Promotion Act (7 U.S.C. 2101–2118) amendments of 1990. These amendments provided for: (1) Importer representation on the Cotton Board by an appropriate number of persons, to be determined by USDA, who import cotton or cotton products into the U.S., and whom USDA selects from nominations submitted by importer organizations certified by USDA; (2) assessments levied on imported cotton and cotton products at a rate determined in the same manner as for U.S. cotton; (3) increasing the amount USDA can be reimbursed for the conduct of a referendum from $200,000 to $300,000; (4) reimbursing government agencies that assist in administering the collection of assessments on imported cotton and cotton products; and (5) terminating the right of producers to demand a refund of assessments.

On January 14, 2002, USDA issued a determination based on its review, (67 FR 1714), not to conduct a referendum regarding the 1991 amendments to the Order. However, the Act provides that USDA shall nevertheless conduct a referendum at the request of 10 percent or more of the total number of eligible producers and importers that voted in the most recent referendum. The Act provides for a sign-up period during which eligible cotton producers and importers may request that USDA conduct a referendum on continuation of the 1991 amendments to the Order. Accordingly, USDA will provide all eligible Upland cotton producers and importers an opportunity to request a continuance referendum regarding the 1991 amendments to the Order.

The sign-up period will be provided for all eligible producers and importers. Eligible cotton producers would be provided the opportunity to sign-up to request a continuance referendum in person at the county FSA office where their farm is located. If the producers land is in more than one county, the producer shall sign-up at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. Producers who choose not to visit the county FSA office in person may request a sign-up form in the mail from the same office.

USDA would mail sign-up information, including a written request form, to all known, eligible, cotton importers. Importers who favor the conduct of a continuance referendum would return their signed request forms to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026–3278.

Importers who do not receive a request form in the mail by June 3, 2002, and who meet the eligibility requirements to participate in the sign-up, may submit a written, signed, request for a continuance referendum. Such request must be accompanied by a copy of the U.S. Customs form 7501 showing payment of a cotton assessment for calendar year 2001. Requests and supporting documentation should be mailed to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026–3278.

The sign-up period will be from June 3, 2002 through August 30, 2002. Producer and importer forms shall only be counted if received by USDA during the stated sign-up period.

Section 8(c)(2) of the Act provides that if USDA determines, based on the results of the sign-up, that 10 percent or more of the total number of eligible producers and importers that voted in the most recent 1991 referendum (i.e., 4,622) request a continuance referendum on the 1991 amendments, a referendum will be held within 12 months after the end of the sign-up period. In counting such requests, however, not more than 20 percent may be from producers from any one state or from importers of cotton. For example, when counting the requests, the AMS Cotton Program would determine the total number of valid requests from all cotton-producing states and from importers. Not more than 20 percent of the total requests will be counted from any one state or from importers toward reaching the 10 percent for 4,622 total signatures required to call for a referendum. If USDA determines that 10 percent or more of the number of producers and importers who voted in the most recent referendum favor a continuance referendum. A referendum will be held.

This proposed rule would amend the procedures for the conduct of the current sign-up period. The current rules and regulations provide for sections on definitions, supervision of the sign-up period, eligibility, participation in the sign-up period, counting requests, reporting results and instructions and forms. The Administrator designated all divisions in AMS as programs on September 18, 1997. Hence, this proposal has name, position title, address changes as well as other miscellaneous changes.

The term "Cotton Division" would be changed to "Cotton Program." The term "Director" would be replaced by "Deputy Administrator." In section 1205.18 the term "Producer" is further defined to ensure that all producers that planted cotton during 2001 will be eligible to participate in the sign-up period. In sections 1205.12 and 1205.26 the words "de minimis assessment" have been replaced with similar meaning language. In sections 1205.20, 1205.26, and 1205.27 "calendar year 1995" would change to "calendar year 2001." In section 1205.26 the term "limited partnership" has been added. In sections 1205.27, 1205.28, and 1205.29 sign-up period conduct dates, FSA reporting dates, and mailing addresses have been updated. In section 1205.26 a new subsection (g) is added to prohibit proxy or power of attorney participation. Section 1205.27 (c) that addresses producer participation in the sign-up period, is revised to reflect current Farm Service Agency procedures.

A 10-day comment period is determined to be appropriate because these proposed eligibility and participation requirements are substantially the same as the eligibility and participation requirements that were used in previous referenda and a sign-up period; participation is voluntary; and this rule, if adopted, should be made effective as soon as possible in order to best reflect applicable time frames in the Act.

* * * * *

(g) Participation in the sign-up by proxy or power of attorney is not authorized.

6. Section 1205.27 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.27 Participation in the Sign-up Period.

The sign-up period will be from June 3, 2002, through August 30, 2002. Those persons who favor the conduct of a continuance referendum and who wish to request that USDA conduct such a referendum may do so by submitting such request in accordance with this section. All requests must be received by the appropriate USDA office by August 30, 2002.

(a) Before the sign-up period begins, FSA shall establish a list of known, eligible, Upland cotton producers in the county that it serves during the representative period, and shall also establish a list of known, eligible Upland cotton importers.

(b) Before the start of the sign-up period, USDA shall mail a request form to each known, eligible, cotton importer. Importers who wish to request a referendum and who do not receive a request form in the mail by June 3, 2002, may participate in the sign-up period by submitting a signed, written request for a continuance referendum, along with a copy of a U.S. Customs form 7501 showing payment of a cotton assessment for calendar year 2001. Importers must submit their requests and supporting documents to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026-3278. All requests and supporting documents must be received by the appropriate FSA office by August 30, 2002.

(c) Each person on the county FSA office lists may participate in the sign-up period. Eligible producers must date and sign their name on the "County FSA Office Sign-up Sheet." A person whose name does not appear on the county FSA office list may participate in the sign-up period. Such person must be identified on FSA-578 during the representative period or provide documentation that demonstrates that the person was a cotton producer during the representative period. Cotton producers not listed on the FSA-578 shall submit at least one sales receipt for cotton they planted during the representative period. Cotton producers must make requests to the county FSA office where the producer's farm is located. If the producer's land is in more than one county, the producer shall make request at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. It is the responsibility of the person to provide the information needed by the county FSA office to determine eligibility. It is not the responsibility of the county FSA office to obtain this information. If any person whose name does not appear on the county FSA office list fails to provide at least one sales receipt for the cotton they produced during the representative period, the county FSA office shall determine that such person is ineligible to participate in the sign-up period, and shall note "ineligible" in the remarks section next to the person's name on the county FSA office sign-up sheet. In lieu of personally appearing at a county FSA office, eligible producers may request a sign-up form from the county FSA office where the producer's farm is located. If the producer's land is in more than one county, the producer shall make the request for the sign-up form at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. Such request must be accompanied by a copy of at least one sales receipt for cotton they produced during the representative period. The appropriate FSA office must receive all completed forms and supporting documentation by August 30, 2002.

7. In § 1205.28, the first sentence is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.28 Counting.

County FSA offices and FSA, Deputy Administrator for Operations Review and Analysis Staff (ORAS), shall begin counting requests no later than September 3, 2002. * * *

8. Section 1205.29 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.29 Reporting Results.

(a) Each county FSA office shall prepare and transmit to the state FSA office, by September 10, 2002, a written report of the number of eligible producers who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests.

(b) ORAS shall prepare, by September 10, 2002, a written report of the number of eligible importers who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests.

(c) Each state FSA office shall, by September 10, 2002, forward all county reports to ORAS. By September 17, 2002, ORAS shall forward its report of the total number of eligible producers and importers that requested a continuance referendum, through the sign-up period, to the Deputy Administrator, Cotton Program, AMS, Stop 0224, 1400 Independence Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20250-0224.

(d) The Chief of the Research and Promotion Staff, Cotton Program, shall prepare a report of the requests received, including the number of eligible persons who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests, to the Deputy Administrator of the Cotton Program, and shall maintain one copy of the report where it will be available for public inspection for a period of 5 years following the end of the sign-up period.

(e) The Deputy Administrator of the Cotton Program shall prepare and submit to the Secretary a report of the results of the sign-up period. The Secretary will conduct a referendum if requested by 10 percent or more of the number of cotton producers and importers voting in the most recent (July 1991) referendum, but not more than 20 percent of the total requests counted toward the 10 percent figure may be from producers in any one state or from importers of cotton. The Secretary shall announce the results of the sign-up period in a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 737–100, –200, –200C, –300, –400, and –500 Series AirplanesAGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This document proposes the adoption of a new airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain Boeing Model 737–100, –200, –200C, –300, –400, and –500 series airplanes. This proposal would require replacing the existing pressure relief valve on the potable water tank with a new, improved pressure relief valve, which is made of stainless steel and is non-adjustable. For certain airplanes, this proposal would also require modification of certain piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve. This action is necessary to prevent rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads. This action is intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

DATES: Comments must be received by May 2, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Submit comments in triplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM–114, Attention: Rules Docket Number 2000–NM–422–AD, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055–4056. Availability of NPRMs

Any person may obtain a copy of this NPRM by submitting a request to the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM–114, Attention: Rules Docket Number 2000–NM–422–AD, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055–4056.

Discussion

The FAA has received reports indicating that there have been several occurrences of potable water tanks rupturing while the airplane was in flight. In one case the potable water tank relief valve was incorrectly located, so that the relief valve could not protect the tank from overpressurization. In other cases, the pressure relief valve on the water tank was correctly located, but malfunctioned, leading to rupture of the water tank with consequent structural damage to the airplane. Such malfunctioning has been found to be caused by corrosion or by inadvertent adjustment of the pressure relief valve. Malfunction of the pressure relief valve for the potable water tank or the incorrect location of that valve, if not corrected, could cause a rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads.

Explanation of Relevant Service Information

The FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Service Bulletins 737–38A1038, Revision 2, dated September 25, 1997, and 737–38A1047, Revision 1, dated September 27, 2001, which describe procedures for replacing the existing pressure relief valve in the potable water tank with a new stainless steel, non-adjustable pressure relief valve. In addition, the FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Service Bulletin 737–38–1029, Revision 1, dated August 19, 1993, which describes procedures for modification of piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve so that the relief valve can protect the potable water tank against over-pressurization. Accomplishment of the actions specified in those service bulletins is intended to adequately address the identified unsafe condition.

Explanation of Requirements of Proposed Rule

Since an unsafe condition has been identified that is likely to exist or develop on other products of this same type design, the proposed AD would require accomplishment of the actions specified in the service bulletins described previously, except as discussed below.

Differences Between Service Bulletins and Proposed AD

One difference concerns the compliance times recommended in the service bulletins and those in the proposed AD. Boeing Service Bulletins 737–38A1038 and 737–38A1047 recommend that the replacement of the pressure relief valve on the potable water tank be done as soon as manpower and materials are available. Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029 describes procedures for modification of the system to relocate the check valve and pressure relief valve but does not recommend a compliance time for that action. The proposed AD specifies a compliance time of 18 months after the effective date of the AD for replacement of the existing pressure relief valve with a new valve, so that the required actions can be done during an operator's regularly-scheduled "C" check.

Another change concerns re-installation of the existing pressure relief valve after the modification of the system which is required for certain airplanes listed in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029. The proposed AD specifies replacement of the existing pressure relief valve with a new, improved valve for these certain airplanes as well as for all other affected airplanes.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 2,221 airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this proposed AD.

The FAA estimates that of the 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry, 2 would be affected by the proposed modification of piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve, that it would take approximately 6 work hours per airplane to accomplish the proposed modification, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the proposed modification of piping on U.S. operators is estimated to be $1,320, or $660 per airplane.

The FAA estimates that all of the 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by the proposed replacement of the pressure relief valve, that it would take approximately 2 work hours per airplane to accomplish the proposed replacement, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Required parts would cost approximately $300 per airplane. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the proposed replacement of the pressure relief valve on U.S. operators is estimated to be $507,360, or $420 per airplane.

The cost impact figures discussed above are based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the proposed requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this proposed AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations proposed herein would not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this proposal would not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under the DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft regulatory evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained by contacting the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

Boeing: Docket 2000-NM-422-AD.

Applicability: Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes, line numbers 1 through 2696, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (c) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads, accomplish the following:

Modification and Replacement

(a) Within 18 months after the effective date of this AD, perform the requirements of paragraph (a)(1) or (a)(2) of this AD, as applicable.

(1) For those airplanes listed in the effectivity section of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029, Revision 1, dated August 19, 1993: Modify the potable water pressurization system in accordance with the service bulletin, but do not reinstall the existing pressure relief valve having part number (P/N) 520A-6DB-50. Prior to further flight, perform the requirements of paragraph (a)(2) of this AD.

Note 2: Modification of the potable water pressurization system, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029, dated June 6, 1991, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (a)(1) of this AD.

(2) For those airplanes having line numbers 1 through 2523: Remove the existing pressure relief valve from the potable water tank, and replace the valve with a new pressure relief valve having part number P/N RV05-362, in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1047, Revision 1, dated September 27, 2001.

Note 3: For those airplanes having line numbers 1 through 2523, installation of a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1047, dated November 9, 2000, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (a)(2) of this AD.

(b) For those airplanes having line numbers 2524 through 2696: Within 18 months after the effective date of this AD, remove the existing pressure relief valve from the potable water tank, and replace the valve with a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1038, Revision 2, dated September 25, 1997.

Note 4: For those airplanes having line numbers 2524 through 2696, installation of a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1038, dated December 1, 1994, or Revision 1, dated February 2, 1995, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (b) of this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(c) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Seattle ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

Airworthiness Directives; McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 Series Airplanes and C-9 Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This document proposes the superseding of an existing airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, that currently requires an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. That AD also requires modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin. This action would require revising the applicability of the existing AD to add certain airplanes and to remove certain other airplanes. The actions specified by the proposed AD are intended to prevent chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and consequent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin. Such arcing or arcing damage could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area. This action is intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

Availability of NPRMs

Any person may obtain a copy of this NPRM by submitting a request to the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM-114, Attention: Rules Docket No. 2002-NM-36-AD, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055-4056.

Discussion

On November 28, 2001, the FAA issued AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532 (66 FR 64133, December 12, 2001), applicable to certain McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, to require an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. That AD also requires modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin. The requirements of that AD are intended to prevent chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and consequent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin. Such arcing or arcing damage could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area.

Explanation of Relevant Service Information

Since the issuance of that AD, the FAA has reviewed and approved McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001. Revision 03 revises the effectivity of the service bulletin by adding certain airplanes and removing certain other airplanes. No additional work is required by Revision 03 for airplanes previously modified by prior issues of the service bulletin.

Explanation of Requirements of Proposed Rule

Since an unsafe condition has been identified that is likely to exist or develop on other products of this same type design, the proposed AD would supersede AD 2001-24-15 to revise the applicability of the AD and to continue to require an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. The proposed AD also would continue to require modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 176 Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 278 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this proposed AD.

The actions that are currently required by AD 2001-24-15 take approximately 1 work hour per airplane to accomplish, at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the currently required actions on U.S. operators is estimated to be $16,680, or $60 per airplane.

This proposed AD does not add any new actions or requirements, and only revises the applicability of the AD by adding certain airplanes and removing certain other airplanes. Therefore, the estimated cost impact for this proposed AD is unchanged from the existing AD.

The cost impact figure discussed above is based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations proposed herein would not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this proposal would not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under the DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft regulatory evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained by contacting the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by removing amendment 39-12532 (66 FR 64133, December 12, 2001), and by adding a new airworthiness directive (AD), to read as follows:

McDonnell Douglas: Docket 2002-NM-36-AD. Supersedes AD 2001-24-15, Amendment 39-12532.

Applicability: Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, equipped with an attendants' work light in the aft cabin; certificated in any category; as listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (c) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin due to chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin, which could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area, accomplish the following:

Note 2: Paragraph (a) of this AD merely restates the requirements of paragraph (a) AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532. As allowed by the phrase, "unless accomplished previously," if those requirements of AD 2001-24-15 have already been accomplished, this AD does not require that those actions be repeated.

Restatement of AD 2001-24-15

(a) For airplanes listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000: Within 1 year after January 16, 2002 (the effective date of AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532), do the actions specified in paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this AD, per McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000.

(1) Do a general visual inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin. If any chafing is detected, before further flight, repair chafed wiring per the service bulletin.

Note 3: For the purposes of this AD, a general visual inspection is defined as "A visual examination of an interior or exterior area, installation, or assembly to detect obvious damage, failure, or irregularity. This level of inspection is made under normally available lighting conditions such as daylight, hangar lighting, flashlight, or droplight, and may require removal or opening of access panels or doors. Stands, ladders, or platforms may be required to gain proximity to the area being checked."

(2) Modify and reidentify the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

New Requirements of This AD

(b) For airplanes as listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001: Within 1 year after the effective date of this AD, do the actions specified in paragraphs (b)(1) and (b)(2) of this AD, per McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2002.

(1) Do a general visual inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin. If any chafing is detected, before further flight, repair chafed wiring per the service bulletin.

(2) Modify and reidentify the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

Note 4: Inspections, repairs, modifications, and reidentifications done before the effective date of this AD per McDonnell Douglas Service Bulletin DC9-33-058, dated June 5, 1973; Revision 1, dated November 26, 1975; or Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000; are considered acceptable for compliance with the requirements of this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(c) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Los Angeles ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Los Angeles ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

This document proposes changes concerning user fees to parts 24 and 111 of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR Parts 24 and 111). The changes to Part 24 involve § 24.22 and have several bases: (1) Some changes derive from provisions of the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999 (Pub. L. 106-36, 113 Stat. 127), signed into law on June 25, 1999; (2) one change is based on a provision of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-476, 114 Stat. 2101), signed into law on November 9, 2000; (3) some changes are based on other statutory provisions that have not previously been reflected in the regulations; (4) some changes are proposed to bring the regulations up to date with current administrative practices; (5) and one change is a technical correction. The changes to part 111 are intended to clarify administration of the annual user fee and the permit fees for customs brokers.

Proposed Changes Based on the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999

Section 2418 of the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999 (the Act) amended section 13031 of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, codified at 19 U.S.C. 58c (section 58c), which established user fees for certain services performed by the Customs Service. These amendments to section 58c necessitate conforming amendments to the Customs Regulations.

On July 27, 1999, Customs issued a general notice in the Federal Register (64 FR 40648) that announced the statutory changes made by the Act and pointed out that these self-effectuating changes became effective on July 25, 1999. The notice also announced several other related changes affecting Customs administration of user fees. The notice indicated that appropriate amendments to the Customs Regulations would be published in due course. This document, issued as a notice of proposed rulemaking because the proposed changes include some that are not derived from self-effectuating statutory amendments, invites public comment on the proposed changes.

Prior Law

Under section 58c(a), Customs is authorized to collect specific fees charged for certain Customs inspectional services, including, in section 58c(a)(5), fees for passengers arriving in the United States aboard commercial vessels and aircraft. Under section 58c(d), the fees are collected from passengers by the companies that issue the ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States or that provide the actual transportation, and those companies remit the fees to Customs.

Immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(a)(5)(A) provided for a fee of $6.50 per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the customs territory of the United States. However, this fee provision applied only to fiscal years 1994 (effective on January 1, 1994) through 1997. Thus, after fiscal year 1997, the $6.50 fee was no longer in effect.

Immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(a)(5)(B), applicable to fiscal year 1998 and each following fiscal year, provided for a fee of $5 per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the United States other than a place referred to in section 58c(b)(1)(A)(i), that is, Canada, Mexico, a territory or a possession of the United States, or any adjacent island. (Section 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B)) currently provides that the territories and possessions of the United States include American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands and that adjacent islands include all of the islands in the Caribbean Sea, the Bahamas, Bermuda, St. Pierre, Miquelon, and the Turks and Caicos Islands. However, this document includes discussion of a proposal to amend the provision concerning this list of adjacent islands.)

The effect of these provisions was to impose a fee structure as follows: (1) A fee of $6.50 on commercial vessel and aircraft passengers arriving from locations outside the customs territory of the United States through September 30, 1997, then, (2) commencing on October 1, 1997, a fee of $5 per commercial vessel and aircraft passenger arriving from a place outside the United States except for a passenger arriving from Canada, Mexico, a U.S. territory or possession, or an adjacent island. Thus, beginning with fiscal year 1998, there was no fee applicable under section 58c(a)(5) for commercial vessel or aircraft passengers arriving from Canada, Mexico, United States territories or possessions, or adjacent islands. (For Puerto Rico, this represented no change because Puerto Rico is part of the customs territory of the United States and thus no fee applied to Puerto Rico under section 58c(a)(5)(A).)

In addition, immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(b)(1)(A) provided that no fee may be charged under section 58c(a) in the case of the arrival of a passenger whose journey either originated in Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island or originated in the United States and was limited to Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island. (This prohibition was suspended during the period from January 1, 1994, through September 30, 1997 (under section 58c(b)(1)(C)).)

New Fee Structure

Paragraph (b)(1) of section 2418 of the Act amended sections 58c(a)(5)(A) and (B) to modify the above-discussed fee structure. The amendment accomplished two things: (1) It continued, in section 58c(a)(5)(A), the $5 fee per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or aircraft from a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island; and (2) it imposed, under section 58c(a)(5)(B), a fee of $1.75 per passenger arriving aboard a commercial vessel (not commercial aircraft) from Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island. Thus, under the amended statute, no fee applies in the case of passengers arriving aboard commercial aircraft from Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island.

Customs notes that the amendment of section 58c(b)(1)(A) enables collection of the $1.75 per passenger fee of amended section 58c(a)(5)(B). The amendment excepted that fee from the fee exemption provided by section 58c(b)(1)(A) that otherwise precludes application of a fee under section 58c(a)(5) in connection with the arrival of any passenger whose journey originated in Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island or which originated in the United States and was limited to those named places.

Customs proposes in this document to amend the Customs Regulations to conform to the new fee structure.

Procedures for Payment of the New Fees

Prior to the Act, only one fee applied to covered passengers under section 58c(a)(5), that is, $5 prior to January 1, 1994, $6.50 beginning on January 1, 1994, and $5 beginning on October 1, 1997. With the Act's amendment of section 58c(a)(5), there are now two passenger fees, that is, the $5.00 fee of section 58c(a)(5)(A) where applicable and the $1.75 fee of section 58c(a)(5)(B) where applicable. Thus, since enactment of the Act, Customs must administer and account for two fees rather than one. This new fee structure requires amendment of the Customs Regulations to conform the regulatory procedures to the new fee structure.

Under the current Customs Regulations, it is the responsibility of the carriers, travel agents, tour wholesalers, or other parties issuing tickets or travel documents to collect the fee from all passengers who are subject to the fee (19 CFR 24.22(g)(3)). These parties must make payment of the collected fees to Customs no later than 31 days after the close of the calendar quarter in which the fees were required to be collected from the passengers (19 CFR 24.22(g)(4)). The regulation also provides (in § 24.22(g)(4)) that the quarterly fee payment must be accompanied by a statement that includes the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the party remitting the payment and the calendar quarter covered by the payment.

This document proposes to amend § 24.22(g)(3) (redesignated in the proposed regulation as § 24.22(g)(4)) to make clear that the party responsible for collecting the fee must collect a fee when an infant travels without a ticket or travel document. This follows Customs consistent practice of treating infants as passengers for purposes of the passenger fees. In this regard, Customs proposes to clarify this by adding to § 24.22(g)(1) a definition of the term "passenger" making it clear that it includes infants even if the carrier does not charge for their transportation and even if the infant is carried by another passenger rather than occupying a seat.

The document also proposes to amend § 24.22(g)(4) (redesignated as § 24.22(g)(5)) to require the following additional information in the statement: The total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, including the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected; the total amount of fees collected and remitted; with respect to vessel fees, the total number of tickets and non-ticketed infants for which fees were required to be collected and the total amount of fees collected; and a breakdown of vessel fees collected and remitted under section 58c(a)(5)(A) (the $5 per passenger fee) and section 58c(a)(5)(B) (the $1.75 per passenger fee). This additional information is necessary to enable Customs to properly account for the fees now provided for under section 58c(a)(5).

The Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000

A recent amendment to section 58c was made by section 1457 of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000. Under section 1457, section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iii) was amended to provide an exception to the fee limitation relative to ferries. Prior to this amendment, ferries were excepted from application of the fees under section 58c(a). With this self-effectuating amendment (effective on November 24, 2000), ferries whose operations began on or after August 1, 1999, and who operate south of 27 degrees latitude and east of 89 degrees longitude are now subject to the commercial vessel fee of section 58c(a)(1) (19 CFR 24.22(b)(1)) (provided the ferry is of 100 net tons or more) and the $1.75 commercial vessel passenger fee of section 58c(a)(5)(B) (proposed paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of 19 CFR 24.22). (Customs notes that the definition of "ferry" excludes vessels that provide transportation between places that are more than 300 miles apart. This requirement necessarily means that the $1.75 commercial vessel passenger fee would be applicable because a ferry operating within the specified coordinates will arrive in the United States from a place that qualifies as an adjacent island under paragraph (g)(1)(iii) of this section. See the definition of "ferry" in 19 U.S.C. 58c(c)(1) and 19 CFR 24.22(a)(4).) This amendment necessitates conforming amendments to §§ 24.22(b)(4)(iv) and 24.22(g)(1) of the Customs Regulations.

Proposed Changes Based on Other Statutory Provisions

This document also proposes to include provisions in § 24.22(g) to cover the fee exemption provision set forth in section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iv) and the "one-time only fee" set forth in section 58c(b)(4)(B). These two statutory provisions are not reflected in the current regulation.

The fee exemption provision under section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iv) provides that no fee under section 58c(a)(5) applies to passengers arriving aboard commercial vessels traveling only between ports that are within the customs territory of the United States. The one-time only fee provision of section 58c(b)(4)(B) applies where a fee under section 58c(a)(5) is applicable to passengers arriving aboard a commercial vessel and the voyage is a single voyage involving two or more United States ports (in other words, the vessel proceeds coastwise to one or more United States ports after its initial arrival from a place outside the United States). This provision ensures that in the described situation, the applicable fee is charged only once for each passenger.

Finally, under section 58c(b)(1)(A)(i)(I)(dd), the term "adjacent islands" is given meaning by reference to the definition of that term found at 8 U.S.C. 1101(b)(5). The adjacent islands are set forth under § 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B) of the current Customs Regulations. The document proposes to amend the regulation in order to bring it up to date with the language of 8 U.S.C. 1101(b)(5). (See proposed § 24.22(g)(1)(iii).) All islands found in the current regulation are covered in the proposed regulation (although not explicitly in every case).

Proposed Changes Regarding Administrative Practices

Section 24.22(b)(3) of the Customs Regulations concerns the procedure for prepayment of the fee for the arrival of commercial vessels (that is, vessels of 100 net tons or more as well as barges and other bulk carriers arriving from Canada or Mexico). Section 24.22(c)(3) concerns the procedure for prepayment of the fee for the arrival of commercial vehicles. Section 24.22(d) concerns the fee for the arrival of railroad cars and includes, in paragraph (d)(3), procedures for prepayment of the fee and, in paragraph (d)(4)(ii), procedures for monthly statement filing and fee remittance. In § 24.22(e), which concerns the fee for the arrival of private vessels and private aircraft, paragraph (e)(1) covers payment of the fee at the time of arrival and paragraph (e)(2) covers the procedure for prepayment of the fee. Section 22.24(g)(4) covers the procedure for payment of fees for the arrival of passengers aboard commercial vessels and commercial aircraft. Section 24.22(h) concerns the annual customs broker permit fee. Section 24.22(i) concerns procedures for remittance of, and for submitting information relative to, the fees provided for under § 24.22.

This document proposes to amend the above regulatory provisions to reflect current fee payment and other practices, including clarification of the proper addresses for the mailing of payments, requirements for the user fee decal, and use of electronic and credit card payment options.

Technical Correction

Upon routine review of the Part 24 texts, Customs discovered erroneous references to § 142.13(c) (19 CFR 142.13(c)) in paragraphs (a), (c)(2), and (d) of § 24.25, which pertains to statement processing and automated clearinghouse procedures. Section 142.13(c) is currently reserved, and the reference in the above paragraphs of § 24.25 should instead be to § 142.13(b), which pertains to special classes of merchandise.

This document proposes to correct these erroneous references.

Conforming Changes to Part 111

Part 111 of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR part 111) pertains to customs brokers and includes, in §§ 111.19 and 111.96, references to the payment of the annual customs broker permit user fee referred to in § 24.22(h). This document proposes amendments to §§ 111.19 and 111.96 to conform to the change to § 24.22(h) referred to above and to clarify the payment procedure in connection with a national permit application.

Comments

Before adopting these proposed amendments as a final rule, consideration will be given to any written comments timely submitted to Customs including comments on the clarity of the proposed rule and how it may be made easier to understand. Comments submitted will be available for public inspection in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552), § 1.4 of the Treasury Department Regulations (31 CFR 1.4), and § 103.11(b) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 103.11(b)) on regular business days between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Regulations Branch, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service, 1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, 3rd Floor, Washington, DC.

Executive Order 12866

This document does not meet the criteria for a "significant regulatory action" as specified in E.O. 12866.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Based on the supplementary information set forth above and because the proposed amendments to the Customs Regulations concern collection of fees that are mandated by statute, it is certified, pursuant to the provisions of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), that the proposed amendments, if adopted, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, the proposed amendments are not subject to the regulatory analysis or other requirements of 5 U.S.C. 603 and 604.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The collections of information contained in § 24.22 have previously been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under OMB control number 1515-0154 (User Fees). This notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) contains additional collections of information that have been submitted to OMB for review in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3507). An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information that lacks a valid control number.

The additional collections of information in these proposed regulations are at § 24.22(g)(5)(iv) and (v), pertaining to information required in the statement that must accompany a quarterly fee payment relative to passenger fees. This information is necessary to allow Customs to track and account for the two passenger fees mandated in the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999. The estimated burden to the public resulting from the additional collections is as follows:

Estimated total annual reporting and/or recordkeeping burden: 100 hrs.

Estimated average annual burden per respondent/recordkeeper: 4 hrs.

Estimated number of respondents and/or recordkeepers: 25.

Estimated annual frequency of responses: 4.

Comments on the additional collections of information should be sent to the OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for the Department of the Treasury, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Washington, DC 20503. A copy should also be sent to Customs at the address set forth in the "Address" section of this document.

Comments are invited on:

(a) Whether the additional collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information shall have practical utility;

(b) The accuracy of the agency's estimate of the additional information collection burden;

(c) Ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the additional information to be collected;

(d) Ways to minimize the additional information collection burden on respondents, including through the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology; and

(e) Estimates of capital or startup costs and costs of operations, maintenance, and purchase of services to provide the additional information.

(g) Fees for arrival of passengers aboard commercial vessels and commercial aircraft.

(1) Fees. (i) Subject to paragraphs (g)(1)(ii) and (g)(3) of this section, a fee of $5 must be collected and remitted to Customs for services provided in connection with the arrival of each passenger aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the United States, other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands, in either of the following circumstances:

(A) When the journey of the arriving passenger originates in a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories or possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands; or

(B) When the journey of the arriving passenger originates in the United States and is not limited to Canada, Mexico, territories and possessions of the United States, and adjacent islands.

(ii) Subject to paragraph (g)(3) of this section, a fee of $1.75 must be collected and remitted to Customs for services provided in connection with the arrival of each passenger aboard a commercial vessel from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands, regardless of whether the journey of the arriving passenger originates in a place outside the United States or in the United States.

(iii) For purposes of this paragraph (g), the term "territories and possessions of the United States" includes American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the term "adjacent islands" includes Saint Pierre, Miquelon, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Barbados, Jamaica, the Windward and Leeward Islands, Trinidad, Martinique, and other British, French, and Netherlands territory or possessions in or bordering on the Caribbean Sea.

(iv) For purposes of this paragraph (g), a journey, which may encompass multiple destinations and more than one mode of transportation, will be deemed to originate in the location where the person's travel begins under cover of a transaction which includes the issuance of a ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States.

(v) For purposes of this paragraph (g), the term passenger means a natural person for whom transportation is provided and includes an infant whether a separate ticket or travel document is issued for the infant or the infant occupies a seat or is held or carried by another passenger.

(vi) For purposes of paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section, the term "commercial vessel" includes any ferry that began operations on or after August 1, 1999, and operates south of 27 degrees latitude and east of 89 degrees longitude.

(vii) In the case of a commercial vessel making a single voyage involving two or more United States ports, the applicable fee prescribed under paragraph (g)(1)(i) or (g)(1)(ii) of this section is required to be charged only one time for each passenger.

(2) Fee chart. The chart set forth below outlines the application of the fees specified in paragraphs (g)(1)(i) and (ii) of this section with reference to the place where the passenger's journey originates and with reference to the place from which the passenger arrives in the United States (that is, the last stop on the journey prior to arrival in the United States). In the chart:

(i) SL stands for "Specified Location" and means Canada, Mexico, any territories and possessions of the United States, and any adjacent islands;

(ii) The single asterisk (*) means that the journey originating in the United States is limited to travel to one or more Specified Locations;

(iii) The double asterisk () means that the journey originating in the United States includes travel to at least one place other than a Specified Location; and

(iv) N/A indicates that the facts presented in the chart preclude application of the fee.

Place where journey originates (see (g)(1)(iv)):	Fee status for arrival from SL:		Fee status for arrival from other than SL:

Other than SL or U.S.	$1.75	(¹)	$5	$5.
U.S.*	$1.75	(¹)	N/A	N/A.

(3) Exceptions. The fees specified in paragraph (g)(1) of this section will not apply to the following categories of arriving passengers:

(i) Crew members and persons directly connected with the operation, navigation, ownership or business of the vessel or aircraft, provided that the crew member or other person is traveling for an official business purpose and not for pleasure;

(ii) Diplomats and other persons in possession of a visa issued by the United States Department of State in class A-1, A-2, C-2, C-3, G-1 through G-4, or NATO 1-6;

(iii) Persons arriving as passengers on any aircraft used exclusively in the governmental service of the United States or a foreign government, including any agency or political subdivision of the United States or foreign government, so long as the aircraft is not carrying persons or merchandise for commercial purposes. Passengers on commercial aircraft under contract to the U.S. Department of Defense are exempted if they have been

precleared abroad under the joint DOD/ Customs Military Inspection Program;

(iv) Persons arriving on an aircraft due to an emergency or forced landing when the original destination of the aircraft was a foreign airport;

(v) Persons who are in transit to a destination outside the United States and for whom Customs inspectional services are not provided;

(vi) Persons departing from and returning to the same United States port as passengers on board the same vessel without having touched a foreign port or place; and

(vii) Persons arriving as passengers on board a commercial vessel traveling only between ports that are within the customs territory of the United States.

(4) Fee collection procedures. (i) Each air or sea carrier, travel agent, tour wholesaler, or other party issuing a ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States is responsible for collecting from the passenger the applicable fee specified in paragraph (g)(1) of this section, including the fee applicable to any infant traveling without a separate ticket or travel document. The fee must be separately identified with a notation "Federal inspection fees" on the ticket or travel document issued to the passenger to indicate that the required fee has been collected. A fee relative to an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document may be identified instead with the notation on a receipt or other document issued for that purpose or to record the infant's travel. If the ticket or travel document, or a receipt or other document issued relative to an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document, is not so marked and was issued in a foreign country, the fee must be collected by the departing carrier upon departure of the passenger from the United States. If the fee is collected at the time of departure from the United States, the carrier making the collection must issue a receipt to the passenger. U.S.-based tour wholesalers who contract for passenger space and issue non-carrier tickets or travel documents must collect the fee in the same manner as a carrier.

(ii) Collection of the fee under paragraph (g)(1)(i) of this section will include the following circumstances:

(A) When a through ticket or travel document is issued covering (or a receipt or other document issued for an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document indicates that the infant's journey is covering) a journey into the customs territory of the United States which originates in and arrives from a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island;

(B) When a return ticket or travel document is issued (or a receipt or other document that indicates an infant traveling without a return ticket or travel document is issued) in connection with a journey which originates in the United States, includes a stop in a place other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island, and the return arrival in the United States is from a place other than one of these specified places; and

(C) When a passenger on a journey in transit through the United States to a foreign destination arrives in the customs territory of the United States from a place other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island, is processed by Customs, and the journey does not originate in one of these specified places.

(iii) Collection of the fee under paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section will include the following circumstances:

(A) When a through ticket or travel document is issued covering (or a receipt or other document issued for an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document indicates that the infant's journey is covering) a journey into the customs territory of the United States from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island;

(B) When a return ticket or travel document is issued (or a receipt or other document that indicates an infant traveling without a return ticket or travel document is issued) in connection with a journey which originates in the United States and the return arrival in the United States is from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island; and

(C) When a passenger on a journey in transit through the United States to a foreign destination arrives in the customs territory of the United States from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island and is processed by Customs.

(5) Quarterly payment and statement procedures. Payment to Customs of the fees required to be collected under paragraph (g)(1) of this section must be made no later than 31 days after the close of the calendar quarter in which the fees were required to be collected from the passenger. Payment of the fees must be made, in accordance with the procedures set forth in this paragraph and paragraph (i) of this section, by the party required to collect the fee under paragraph (g)(4)(1) of this section. Each quarterly fee payment must be sent to the following address: U.S. Customs Service, National Finance Center, Collections Section, P.O. Box 68907, Indianapolis, IN 46268 (or, if for overnight delivery, to: the same addressee at 6026 Lakeside Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46278). Overpayments and underpayments may be accounted for by an explanation with, and adjustment of, the next due quarterly payment to Customs. The quarterly payment must be accompanied by a statement that includes the following information:

(i) The name and address of the party remitting payment;

(ii) The taxpayer identification number of the party remitting payment;

(iii) The calendar quarter covered by the payment;

(iv) The total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected, and the total amount of fees collected and remitted; and

(v) For commercial vessel passengers, the total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected, the total amount of fees collected and remitted to Customs, and a separate breakdown of the foregoing information relative to the $5 vessel passenger fee collected and remitted under paragraph (g)(1)(i) of this section and the $1.75 vessel passenger fee collected and remitted under paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section.

(h) Annual customs broker permit fee. Customs brokers are subject to an annual fee for each district permit and for a national permit held by an individual, partnership, association, or corporation, as provided in § 111.96(c) of this chapter. The annual fee for each district permit must be submitted to the port through which the broker was granted the permit. The annual fee for a national permit must be submitted to the port through which the broker's license is delivered.

(i) Information submission and fee remittance procedures. In addition to any information specified elsewhere in this section, each payment made by mail must be accompanied by information identifying the person or organization remitting the fee, the type of fee being remitted (for example, railroad car, commercial truck, private vessel), and the time period to which the payment applies. All fee payments required under this section must be in the amounts prescribed and must be made in U.S. currency, or by check or money order payable to the United States Customs Service, in accordance with the provisions of § 24.1 of this part. Authorization for making payments electronically can be obtained by writing to the National Finance Center, Collections Section, 6026 Lakeside Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46278. Where payment is made at a Customs port, credit cards will be accepted only where the port is equipped to accept credit cards for the type of payment being made. If payment is made by check or money order, the check or money order must be annotated with the appropriate class code. The applicable class codes and payment locations for each fee are as follows:

(1) Fee under paragraph (b)(1) of this section (commercial vessels of 100 net tons or more other than barges and other bulk carriers from Canada or Mexico): class code 491. Payment location: port of arrival for each individual arrival (fee to be collected by Customs at the time of arrival) or prepayment at the port in accordance with paragraph (b)(3) of this section;

RIN 2115–AA97

Security Zone; Portland Rose Festival on Willamette River

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard proposes a temporary security zone surrounding the City of Portland's Waterfront Park to include all waters of the Willamette River, from surface to bottom, between the Hawthorne and Steel bridges and underneath these bridges. Recent terrorist attacks against the United States necessitate this action to properly safeguard all vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival from terrorism, sabotage, or other subversive acts. We anticipate the security zone will have limited effects on commercial traffic and significant effects on recreational boaters; ensuring timely escorts through this security zone is a high priority of the Captain of the Port.

DATES: Comments and related material must reach the Coast Guard no later than May 2, 2002.

ADDRESSES: You may mail comments and related material to U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland, 6767 N. Basin Ave, Portland, Oregon 97217. Comments and material received from the public, as well as documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, will become part of this docket and will be available for inspection or copying at U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Lieutenant Junior Grade Jeff Pile, c/o Captain of the Port, Portland Oregon at (503) 240-2585.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Request for Comments

We encourage you to participate in this rulemaking by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this rulemaking (CGD13-02-002), indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know your submission reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period. We may change this proposed rule in view of them.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid this rulemaking, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

This security zone is necessary to provide for the safety and security of vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival in the navigable waters of the United States.

Discussion of Proposed Rule

This rule, for safety and security concerns, would control vessel movements in a regulated area surrounding vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival. U.S. Naval Vessels are covered under 33 CFR 165 subpart G—Protection of Naval Vessels; however, the Portland Rose Festival is a major maritime event that draws many different vessels including Navy, Coast Guard, Army Corps of Engineers, and Canadian. It is crucial that the same level of security be provided to all participating vessels. Entry into this zone would be prohibited unless authorized by the Captain of the Port, Portland or his designated representatives. Commercial vessels that typically transit this section of the Willamette River will be pre-designated and will suffer only minor inconveniences.

Recreational vessels may suffer from extended delays and can anticipate a vessel inspection. Recreational vessels are encouraged to avoid this area. Recreational vessels will be allowed into the zone on a case-by-case basis following extensive security measures, and as operations permit. Coast Guard personnel will enforce this security zone and the Captain of the Port may be assisted by other federal, state, or local agencies.

Good cause exists to shorten the notice and comment period of this notice of proposed rulemaking. The normal 90 day comment period has been shortened to 45 days to allow the Coast Guard to evaluate all comments received, make appropriate modifications to the proposed rule, and publish the final rule at least 30 days prior to the implementation of the security zone. Although this annual event was known to the Coast Guard well in advance, this notice was not published earlier due to extensive additional considerations that needed to be addressed following the increased security measures necessary to properly safeguard military assets following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States.

Regulatory Evaluation

This proposed rule is not a “significant regulatory action” under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not “significant” under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this proposed rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10e of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary.

This expectation is based on adequate resources allowing vessel approvals from the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives to transit through the regulated area. For the above reasons, the Coast Guard only anticipates minor economic impact.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we have considered whether this proposed rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term “small entities” comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this proposed rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This proposed rule would affect the following entities, some of which might be small entities: the owners or operators of vessels intending to transit or anchor in this portion of the Willamette River. The likely impacts to small entities would include minor time delays, potential inspections, and possibly non-entrance if the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives sense the vessels participating in the Rose Festival are threatened. The security zone will not have a significant economic impact because adequate resources will allow vessels timely approval from the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives to transit through the regulated area.

If you think that your business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction qualifies as a small entity and that this rule would have a significant economic impact on it, please submit a comment (see ADDRESSES) explaining why you think it qualifies and how and to what degree this rule would economically affect it.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we want to assist small entities in understanding this proposed rule so that they can better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking. If the proposed rule would affect your small business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction and you have questions concerning its provisions or options for compliance, please contact the person listed in the FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT section.

Collection of Information

This proposed rule would call for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this proposed rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this proposed rule would not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This proposed rule would not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This proposed rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and would not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that might disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This proposed rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it would not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes. We invite your comments on how this proposed rule might impact tribal governments, even if that impact may not constitute a “tribal implication” under the Order.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a “significant energy action” under that order because it is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this proposed rule and concluded that, under figure 2–1, paragraph (34)(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation because the temporary security zone would not last longer than one week in duration. The temporary security zone would be established on Wednesday, June 5, 2002, with the arrival of the first vessel to the City of Portland’s Waterfront Park and extend until the last vessel departs the Waterfront Park on Monday, June 10, 2002. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available in the docket where indicated under ADDRESSES.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Request for Comments

We encourage you to participate in this rulemaking by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this rulemaking [COTP Pittsburgh 02-005], indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know that your submission reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period. We may change this proposed rule in view of them.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid this rulemaking, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

On September 11, 2001, both towers of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon were attacked by terrorists. In response to these terrorist acts, heightened awareness and security of our ports and harbors is necessary. To immediately enhance that security the Captain of the Port, Pittsburgh established a temporary security zone on the Ohio River in the vicinity of the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant, in Shippingport, PA. The temporary final rule was published March 4, 2002 in the Federal Register Volume 67, Number 42, page 9589 (67 FR 9589) and remains in effect until 8 a.m. on June 15, 2002.

Because the generalized high-level threat environment has persisted longer than expected, the Captain of the Port, Pittsburgh has determined that there is a need for this security zone to remain in effect indefinitely. This security zone will reduce the risk of a terrorist incident in this generalized high-level threat environment. It reduces the potential of a waterborne attack on the facility enhancing public health and safety, and common defense and security, at this location and surrounding areas.

The location of this security zone will limit access to only the waters immediately adjacent to the facility and will permit vessels to safely navigate around the facility. Navigation around the facility will not be hindered by the establishment of this security zone.

Discussion of Proposed Rule

A security zone is proposed for all water extending 200 feet from the shoreline of the left descending bank on the Ohio River from mile marker 34.6 to 35.1. This zone is designed to increase protection for the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant in Shippingport, PA. This security zone will reduce the risk of a terrorist incident in this generalized high-level threat environment. It reduces the potential of a waterborne attack on the facility enhancing public health and safety, and common defense and security, at this location and surrounding areas. All vessels are prohibited from entering the zone without the permission of the Captain of the Port Pittsburgh.

Regulatory Evaluation

This proposed rule is not a "significant regulatory action" under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not "significant" under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT)(44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this proposed rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10e of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary. This rule will not obstruct the regular flow of vessel traffic and will allow vessel traffic to pass safely around the security zone and vessels may be permitted to enter the security zone on a case-by-case basis.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601-612), we have considered

whether this proposed rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term "small entities" comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this proposed rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This security zone will not have an impact on a substantial number of small entities because this proposed rule will not obstruct the regular flow of vessel traffic and will allow vessel traffic to pass safely around the security zone.

If you think that your business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction qualifies as a small entity and that this rule would have a significant economic impact on it, please submit a comment (see ADDRESSES) explaining why you think it qualifies and how and to what degree this rule would economically affect it.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-121), we want to assist small entities in understanding this proposed rule so that they can better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking. If the proposed rule would affect your small business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction and you have questions concerning its provisions or options for compliance, please contact Chief Petty Officer Brian Smith, Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh at (412) 644-5808.

Collection of Information

This proposed rule would call for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501-3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this proposed rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531-1538) requires

Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this proposed rule would not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this proposed rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This proposed rule would not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This proposed rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and would not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that might disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This proposed rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it would not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes. We invite your comments on how this proposed rule might impact tribal governments, even if that impact may not constitute a "tribal implication" under the Order.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a "significant energy action" under that order because it is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this proposed rule and concluded that, under figure 2-1, paragraph (34)(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.ID, this proposed rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation because this rule is not expected to result in any significant adverse environmental impact as described in the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). A "Categorical Exclusion Determination" is available in the docket where indicated under ADDRESSES.

Allethrin; Proposed Revocation of Tolerances

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This document proposes to revoke specific tolerances for residues of the insecticide allethrin because this pesticide is no longer registered on their associated food uses in the United States. EPA expects to determine whether any individuals or groups want to support these tolerances. The regulatory actions proposed in this document contribute toward the Agency's tolerance reassessment requirements of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA) section 408(q), as amended by the Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA) of 1996. By law, EPA is required by August 2002 to reassess 66% of the tolerances in existence on August 2, 1996, or about 6,400 tolerances. The regulatory actions proposed in this document pertain to the proposed revocation of 60 tolerances and exemptions which would be counted among tolerance/exemption reassessments made toward the August 2002 review deadline.

DATES: Comments, identified by docket control number OPP-301220, must be received on or before May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments may be submitted by mail, electronically, or in person. Please follow the detailed instructions for each method as provided in Unit I. of the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION. To ensure proper receipt by EPA, it is imperative that you identify docket control number OPP-301220 in the subject line on the first page of your response.

E. What Should I Consider as I Prepare My Comments for EPA?

You may find the following suggestions helpful for preparing your comments:

1. Explain your views as clearly as possible.
2. Describe any assumptions that you used.
3. Provide copies of any technical information and/or data you used that support your views.

5. Provide specific examples to illustrate your concerns.
6. Offer alternative ways to improve the proposed rule or collection activity.
7. Make sure to submit your comments by the deadline in this document.
8. To ensure proper receipt by EPA, be sure to identify the docket control number assigned to this action in the subject line on the first page of your response. You may also provide the name, date, and Federal Register citation.

F. What Can I do if I Wish the Agency to Maintain a Tolerance that the Agency Proposes to Revoke?

This proposed rule provides a comment period of 60 days for any person to state an interest in retaining a tolerance proposed for revocation. If EPA receives a comment within the 60-day period to that effect, EPA will not proceed to revoke the tolerance immediately. However, EPA will take steps to ensure the submission of any needed supporting data and will issue an order in the Federal Register under FFDCA section 408(f) if needed. The order would specify data needed and the time frames for its submission, and would require that within 90 days some person or persons notify EPA that they will submit the data. If the data are not submitted as required in the order, EPA will take appropriate action under FFDCA.

EPA issues a final rule after considering comments that are submitted in response to this proposed rule. In addition to submitting comments in response to this proposal, you may also submit an objection at the time of the final rule. If you fail to file an objection to the final rule within the time period specified, you will have waived the right to raise any issues resolved in the final rule. After the specified time, issues resolved in the final rule cannot be raised again in any subsequent proceedings.

II. Background

A. What Action is the Agency Taking?

EPA is proposing to revoke specific tolerances and exemptions for residues of allethrin in or on commodities listed in the regulatory text because allethrin is no longer registered under FIFRA for use on those commodities. Many food use registrations for allethrin were canceled in 1989 and 1991 due to non-payment of maintenance fees. (Only the following food uses remain: Barley, grain; corn; mushrooms; oats, grain; rye, grain; sorghum, grain; and wheat, grain). It is EPA's general practice to propose revocation of those tolerances for residues of pesticide active ingredients on crops for which there are no active registered uses under FIFRA, unless any person in comments on the proposal indicates a need for the tolerance to cover residues in or on imported commodities or domestic commodities legally treated. Therefore, EPA is proposing to revoke the tolerances in 40 CFR 180.113 for residues of allethrin in or on apples, blackberries, blueberries (huckleberries), boysenberries, cherries, crabapples, currants, dewberries, figs, gooseberries, grapes, guavas, loganberries, mangoes, muskmelons, oranges, peaches, pears, pineapples, plums (fresh prunes), raspberries, and tomatoes.

Also, EPA is proposing to revoke the exemption from the requirement of a tolerance in 40 CFR 180.1002 for residues of allethrin in or on apples, artichokes (Jerusalem), beans, beets, beets, sugar; broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, chickory, Chinese cabbage, citrus, collards, endive, escarole, garlic, horseradish, kale, kohlrabi, leeks, lettuce, mustard greens, onions, parsley, parsnips, peaches, pears, peppers, potatoes, radishes, rutabagas, salsify, shallots, spinach, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, and turnips. In addition, the Agency is proposing to remove the exemption in 40 CFR 180.1002 for "sorghum (milo)" because that exemption is no longer needed since use of allethrin before harvest in the production of that commodity is covered by the existing exemption for "sorghum, grain."

For FQPA reassessment purposes, EPA counts "endive" and "escarole" in 180.1002 as one exemption "endive (escarole)" and expects in a final rule to count a total of 60 tolerances and exemptions as reassessed. EPA does not expect to count removal of the "sorghum (milo)" exemption as a reassessment in a final rule because the use will remain covered by the existing "sorghum, grain" exemption.

Moreover, in order to conform to current Agency practice, EPA is proposing to revise tolerance commodity terminology names in 40 CFR 180.113 as follows: for the grains "corn" to "corn, field, grain" and "corn, pop, grain;" "oats" to "oat, grain;" and "grain, sorghum, milo" to "sorghum, grain, grain." In addition, EPA is proposing to revise tolerance commodity terminology names in 40 CFR 180.1002 as follows: for "corn" to "corn, field" and "corn, pop;" and "mushrooms" to "mushroom."

B. What is the Agency's Authority for Taking this Action?

A "tolerance" represents the maximum level for residues of pesticide chemicals legally allowed in or on raw agricultural commodities and processed foods. Section 408 of FFDCA, 21 U.S.C. 301 et seq., as amended by the FQPA of 1996, Public Law 104-170, authorizes the establishment of tolerances, exemptions from tolerance requirements, modifications in tolerances, and revocation of tolerances for residues of pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities and processed foods (21 U.S.C. 346(a)). Without a tolerance or exemption, food containing pesticide residues is considered to be unsafe and therefore "adulterated" under section 402(a) of the FFDCA. If food containing pesticide residues is considered to be "adulterated," you may not distribute the product in interstate commerce (21 U.S.C. 331(a) and 342(a)). For a food-use pesticide to be sold and distributed, the pesticide must not only have appropriate tolerances under the FFDCA, but also must be registered under FIFRA (7 U.S.C. et seq.). Food-use pesticides not registered in the United States have tolerances for residues of pesticides in or on commodities imported into the United States.

EPA's general practice is to propose revocation of tolerances for residues of pesticide active ingredients on crops for which FIFRA registrations no longer exist and on which the pesticide may therefore no longer be used in the United States. EPA has historically been concerned that retention of tolerances that are not necessary to cover residues in or on legally treated foods may encourage misuse of pesticides within the United States. Nonetheless, EPA will establish and maintain tolerances even when corresponding domestic uses are canceled if the tolerances, which EPA refers to as "import tolerances," are necessary to allow importation into the United States of food containing such pesticide residues. However, where there are no imported commodities that require these import tolerances, the Agency believes it is appropriate to revoke tolerances for unregistered pesticides in order to prevent potential misuse.

Furthermore, as a general matter, the Agency believes that retention of import tolerances not needed to cover any imported food may result in unnecessary restriction on trade of pesticides and foods. Under section 408 of the FFDCA, a tolerance may only be established or maintained if EPA determines that the tolerance is safe based on a number of factors, including an assessment of the aggregate exposure to the pesticide and an assessment of the cumulative effects of such pesticide and other substances that have a common mechanism of toxicity. In doing so, EPA must consider potential contributions to such exposure from all tolerances. If the cumulative risk is such that the tolerances in aggregate are not safe, then every one of these tolerances is potentially vulnerable to revocation. Furthermore, if unneeded tolerances are included in the aggregate and cumulative risk assessments, the estimated exposure to the pesticide would be inflated. Consequently, it may be more difficult for others to obtain needed tolerances or to register needed new uses. To avoid potential trade restrictions, the Agency is proposing to revoke tolerances for residues on crops uses for which FIFRA registrations no longer exist, unless someone expresses a need for such tolerances. Through this proposed rule, the Agency is inviting individuals who need these import tolerances to identify themselves and the tolerances that are needed to cover imported commodities.

Parties interested in retention of the tolerances should be aware that additional data may be needed to support retention. These parties should be aware that, under FFDCA section 408(f), if the Agency determines that additional information is reasonably required to support the continuation of a tolerance, EPA may require that parties interested in maintaining the tolerances provide the necessary information. If the requisite information is not submitted, EPA may issue an order revoking the tolerance at issue.

C. When do These Actions Become Effective?

EPA is proposing that revocation of the tolerances and exemptions for allethrin become effective 90 days following publication of a final rule in the Federal Register. EPA is proposing to delay the effectiveness of these revocations for 90 days following publication of a final rule to ensure that all affected parties receive notice of EPA's actions. If you have comments regarding these tolerance revocations or the effective date of the revocations, please submit comments as described under SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION.

Any commodities listed in this proposal treated with the pesticides subject to this proposal, and in the channels of trade following the tolerance revocations, shall be subject to FFDCA section 408(1)(5), as established by FQPA. Under this section, any residues of these pesticides in or on such food shall not render the food adulterated so long as it is shown to the satisfaction of the Food and Drug Administration that, (1) the residue is present as the result of an application or use of the pesticide at a time and in a manner that was lawful under FIFRA, and (2) the residue does not exceed the level that was authorized at the time of the application or use to be present on the food under a tolerance or exemption from tolerance. Evidence to show that food was lawfully treated may include records that verify the dates that the pesticide was applied to such food.

D. What is the Contribution to Tolerance Reassessment?

By law, EPA is required to reassess 66% or about 6,400 of the tolerances in existence on August 2, 1996, by August 2002. EPA is also required to assess the remaining tolerances by August 2006. As of March 7, 2002, EPA has reassessed over 3,910 tolerances. This document proposes to revoke 60 tolerances and exemptions which would be counted as reassessments in a final rule toward the

August 2002 review deadline of FFDCA section 408(q), as amended by FQPA in 1996.

III. Are the Proposed Actions Consistent with International Obligations?

The tolerance revocations in this proposal are not discriminatory and are designed to ensure that both domestically produced and imported foods meet the food safety standards established by the FFDCA. The same food safety standards apply to domestically produced and imported foods.

EPA is working to ensure that the U.S. tolerance reassessment program under FQPA does not disrupt international trade. EPA considers Codex Maximum Residue Limits (MRLs) in setting U.S. tolerances and in reassessing them. MRLs are established by the Codex Committee on Pesticide Residues, a committee within the Codex Alimentarius Commission, an international organization formed to promote the coordination of international food standards. It is EPA's policy to harmonize U.S. tolerances with Codex MRLs to the extent possible, provided that the MRLs achieve the level of protection required under FFDCA. EPA's effort to harmonize with Codex MRLs is summarized in the tolerance reassessment section of individual Reregistration Eligibility Decision documents. EPA has developed guidance concerning submissions for import tolerance support (65 FR 35069, June 1, 2000) (FRL-6559-3). This guidance will be made available to interested persons. Electronic copies are available on the internet at <http://www.epa.gov/>. On the Home Page select "Laws and Regulations," then select "Regulations and Proposed Rules" and then look up the entry for this document under "Federal Register—Environmental Documents." You can also go directly to the "Federal Register" listings at <http://www.epa.gov/fedrgstr/>.

IV. Regulatory Assessment Requirements

In this proposed rule, EPA is proposing to revoke specific tolerances and exemptions established under FFDCA section 408. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has exempted this type of action (i.e., a tolerance revocation for which extraordinary circumstances do not exist) from review under Executive Order 12866, entitled Regulatory Planning and Review (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993). Because this proposed rule has been exempted from review under Executive Order 12866 due to its lack of significance, this proposed rule is not subject to Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use (66 FR 28355, May 22, 2001). This proposed rule does not contain any information collections subject to OMB approval under the Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA), 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq., or impose any enforceable duty or contain any unfunded mandate as described under Title II of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (UMRA) (Public Law 104-4). Nor does it require any special considerations as required by Executive Order 12898, entitled Federal Actions to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Populations and Low-Income Populations (59 FR 7629, February 16, 1994); or OMB review or any other Agency action under Executive Order 13045, entitled Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997). This action does not involve any technical standards that would require Agency consideration of voluntary consensus standards pursuant to section 12(d) of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act of 1995 (NTTAA), Public Law 104-113, section 12(d) (15 U.S.C. 272 note). Pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Agency previously assessed whether revocations of tolerances might significantly impact a substantial number of small entities and concluded that, as a general matter, these actions do not impose a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This analysis was published on December 17, 1997 (62 FR 66020), and was provided to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration. Taking into account this analysis, and available information concerning the pesticides listed in this proposed rule, I certify that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Specifically, as per the 1997 notice, EPA has reviewed its available data on imports and foreign pesticide usage and concludes that there is a reasonable international supply of food not treated with canceled pesticides. Furthermore, for the pesticide named in this proposed rule, the Agency knows of no extraordinary circumstances that exist as to the present proposed revocations that would change EPA's previous analysis. Any comments about the Agency's determination should be submitted to EPA along with comments on the proposal, and will be addressed prior to EPA issuing a final rule.

In addition, the Agency has determined that this action will not have a substantial direct effect on States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, as specified in Executive Order 13132, entitled Federalism (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999). Executive Order 13132 requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by State and local officials in the development of regulatory policies that have federalism implications." "Policies that have federalism implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government." This proposed rule directly regulates growers, food processors, food handlers and food retailers, not States. This action does not alter the relationships or distribution of power and responsibilities established by Congress in the preemption provisions of FFDCA section 408(n)(4). For these same reasons, the Agency has determined that this proposed rule does not have any "tribal implications" as described in Executive Order 13175, entitled Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments (65 FR 67249, November 6, 2000). Executive Order 13175, requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by tribal officials in the development of regulatory policies that have tribal implications." "Policies that have tribal implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal government and the Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes." This proposed rule will not have substantial direct effects on tribal governments, on the relationship between the Federal government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes, as specified in Executive Order 13175. Thus, Executive Order 13175 does not apply to this proposed rule.

Medicare Program; Town Hall Meeting on Payment for Certain Drugs, Biologicals, and Devices under the Hospital Outpatient Prospective Payment System for Calendar Year 2003

AGENCY: Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), HHS.

ACTION: Notice of meeting.

SUMMARY: This notice announces a town hall meeting to discuss the payment for drugs, biologicals, and devices that are eligible for transitional pass-through payments under the hospital outpatient prospective payment system (OPPS) for calendar year 2003. Specifically, the meeting will focus on how the cost of drugs, (including radiopharmaceuticals), biologicals, and devices should be recognized under the hospital OPPS. Providers, physicians, hospitals, coding specialists, and other interested parties are invited to this meeting to present their views on these issues. We will consider the opinions and advice provided during this meeting as we prepare our annual proposed rule that would update the OPPS. The meeting is open to the public, but attendance is limited to space available.

DATE: Meeting Date: The town hall meeting announced in this notice will be held on Friday, April 5, 2002, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. (eastern standard time).

ADDRESSES: The town hall meeting will be held in the multipurpose room at the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, 7500 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, MD 21244.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Roechel Kujawa, (410) 786-9111. You may also send inquiries about this meeting via e-mail to outpatientpps@cms.hhs.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 (Pub. L. 105-33), enacted on August 5, 1997, amended the Social Security Act (the Act) by adding section 1833(t) to the Act. This section authorized the implementation of a hospital outpatient prospective payment system (OPPS) for hospital outpatient services.

The OPPS is comprised of ambulatory payment classification groups, relative weights, and payment rates. The Balanced Budget Refinement Act of 1999 (Pub. L. 106–113), enacted on November 29, 1999, amended section 1833(t)(6) of the Act. This section authorized transitional pass-through payments for certain drugs, biologicals, and devices. These drugs, biologicals, and devices include those that were not being paid for as a hospital outpatient service as of December 31, 1996 and for which the cost is not insignificant in relation to the OPPS payment for the procedures associated with the drug, biological, or device. The Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP Benefits Improvement and Protection Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106–554), enacted on December 21, 2000, amended this provision to permit transitional pass-through payment for some older devices as well. By statute, transitional pass-through payment status extends at least 2 years, but no more than 3 years. Beginning January 1, 2003, almost all of the items that are eligible for transitional pass-through payments will reach the end of their eligibility for pass-through payments. Therefore, their costs must be recognized through other means under the OPPS. Participants at the town hall meeting are invited to share their opinions about how these items should be treated under the OPPS for calendar year (CY) 2003.

II. Meeting Format

The meeting will begin with an introduction of the OPPS, focusing on the treatment of transitional passthrough payments for drugs, biologicals, and devices under the OPPS for CY 2003. The remainder of the meeting will be reserved for statements from interested parties on this issue.

We will limit the time for participants to make a statement according to the number of registered participants. Individuals who wish to make a statement must contact Roechel Kujawa as soon as possible. Those individuals must subsequently mail their written submission no later than 5 p.m., Monday, April 1, 2002. Send written submissions to: Roechel Kujawa, Division of Outpatient Care, Center for Medicare Management, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, 7500 Security Boulevard, Mail Stop C4–05–25, Baltimore, Maryland 21244. All written submissions must be received no later than 5 p.m., Monday, April 1, 2002, at the above address. Comments from individuals not registered to speak will be heard after scheduled statements, if time permits.

III. Registration Instructions

The Division of Outpatient Care is coordinating meeting registration. While there is no registration fee, all individuals must register to attend. Because this meeting will be located on Federal property, for security reasons, any persons wishing to attend this meeting must call Roechel Kujawa to register at least 72 hours in advance. Attendees must show photographic identification to the Federal Protective Service or Guard Service personnel before they will be permitted to enter the building. Individuals who have not registered in advance will not be allowed to enter the building to attend the meeting. Seating capacity is limited to the first 250 registrants.

Individuals requiring sign language interpretation for the hearing impaired or other special accommodations should contact Roechel Kujawa at least 10 days before the meeting.

Fisheries of West Coast States and in the Western Pacific; Fishery Management Plan

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of availability of a fishery management plan; request for comments.

SUMMARY: NMFS announces that the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council) has submitted a Coral Reef Ecosystems Fishery Management Plan for the Western Pacific Region (CREFMP) for Secretarial review under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (Magnuson-Stevens Act). The CREFMP, an ecosystem-based plan, is intended to conserve and manage the coral reef ecosystems and associated habitats in the U.S. exclusive economic zones (EEZ) around American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI), and the remote U.S. Pacific island areas (PRIAs) in the Pacific Ocean. Its goal is to maintain sustainable coral reef fisheries while protecting stocks, habitat, protected species, and coral reef ecosystems from adverse impacts.

DATES: Comments on the CREFMP must be received no later than 5 p.m., Hawaii Standard Time May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments should be sent to Dr. Charles Karnella, Administrator, Pacific Islands Area Office, NMFS, 1161 Kapiolani Blvd, Suite 110, Honolulu, HI 96815. Comments will not be accepted if submitted via e-mail or the Internet.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Kitty Simonds, Executive Director, Western Pacific Fishery Management Council, at (808) 522-8220. The CREFMP is available at the Council's website, www.wpcouncil.org.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: As authorized under the Magnuson-Stevens Act, the Council has developed and submitted for Secretarial review a CREFMP and associated amendments to the fishery management plans for western Pacific bottomfish and seamount groundfish fisheries

(Amendment 7), crustacean fisheries (Amendment 11), precious coral fisheries (Amendment 5,) and pelagic fisheries (Amendment 10). The CREFMP is an ecosystem-based fishery management plan that covers the coral reef ecosystems and adjacent marine habitats in the EEZ around American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii (main and Northwestern Hawaiian Islands or NWHI), CNMI, and the mostly uninhabited PRIAs. The PRIAs consist of Johnston and Palmyra Atolls, Kingman Reef, Jarvis, Howland, Baker and Wake Islands, and Midway Atoll. The vast majority of the total area covered by coral reefs under U.S. jurisdiction is located in the western Pacific region and would be covered by this FMP.

Development of the CREFMP began in 1996. The Council held scoping hearings in June 1999 to obtain public input on a new fishery management plan. On January 10, 2001, NMFS published a Notice of Availability (66 FR 1945) of a draft CREFMP. Public meetings and hearings were held on the draft CREFMP between January 16 and February 5, 2001. At its 110th meeting (June 21, 2001), the Council took final action on the FMP and approved its submission to NMFS for Secretarial review.

The conservation and management measures would: (1) Establish no-take marine protected areas (MPAs) (where the harvest of any management unit species listed under any FMP is prohibited) within Federal waters from 0-50 fathoms (fm) (0-50 91.5 m) (around French Frigate Shoals and Laysan Island (NWHI), Rose Atoll (American Samoa), the north half of Midway Atoll, Jarvis, Howland, and Baker Islands, and Kingman Reef (PRIAs), and from 0-10 fm throughout the remaining NWHI, except around Midway Atoll; (2) establish low-use MPAs (where the harvest of CREFMP management unit species is allowed on a case-by-case basis only after a review and determination that proposed activities would not harm the ecosystem) within Federal waters from 10-50 fm (18.3 m-91.5 m) around all other NWHI, and from 0-50 fm (0-91.5 m) around Palmyra, Johnston, and Wake, and the south half of Midway Atoll; (3) require special permits for the harvesting of any CREFMP management unit species in low-use MPAs, and for the harvesting of Potentially Harvested Coral Reef Taxa throughout the EEZ, except for (a) Incidental harvests by other western Pacific fisheries management plan permit holders and, (b) any harvest within three nautical miles (nm) of the CNMI; (4) restrict the use of fishing gear types to allow only the following gears for the directed harvest of any CREFMP management unit species throughout the EEZ: Hand harvest, spear, slurp gun, hand/dip net, hoop net for Kona crab, throw net, barrier net for aquarium fish, surround/purse net for targeted schools (e.g., akule, baitfish, weke) with a minimum of bycatch, hook-and-line (including powered and unpowered handlines, rod and reel, and trolling), traps (with conditions), and remote operating vehicles/submersibles; (5) prohibit nighttime spearfishing for CREFMP management unit species with SCUBA/hookah in the EEZ around the NWHI and PRIAs; (6) require that nets be attended at all times, except hoop nets for Kona crabs; (7) require that all traps on board a vessel must be permanently and legibly marked to identify the owner; (8) prohibit the take of live rock or live coral throughout the western Pacific EEZ, except for (a) incidental take by other fishery management plan permit holders, (b) take by indigenous people for traditional or ceremonial use, (c) use by aquaculture operations as seed stock, (d) science and management, and (e) bio-prospecting (note: takes of live coral or live coral under exceptions (b)-(e) require special permits); (9) require that all fishing vessels (including those permitted under fishery management plans for bottomfish/seamount ground fish, crustaceans, precious corals, pelagic) carry insurance as a condition for transiting or operating in all MPAs; (10) establish a no-anchoring zone on Guam's offshore Southern banks by fishing vessels greater than 50 ft (15.24 m) in length; (11) establish Federal reporting requirements (daily reports on catch, effort, discards, etc.) for special permit holders and transshipment permit holders, as well as notification requirements for vessel operators prior to entering any low-use MPA, or landing CREFMP management unit species harvested from these low-use MPAs; and (12) establish CREFMP framework procedures to facilitate implementation of future regulatory amendments.

The Council initially identified some measures for possible framework action: (a) Designating zones in the U.S. EEZ where mooring buoys will be installed to protect essential fish habitat (EFH) from anchor damage; (b) requiring fishing vessels to carry remote electronic vessel monitoring systems as part of an effective monitoring and enforcement system for State and Federal agencies; (c) requiring permits to fish for Currently Harvested Coral Reef Taxa throughout the EEZ, in the event that regional management is determined to be inadequate to protect the species and/or ecosystem; (d) transferring CREFMP management unit species from the Potentially Harvested Coral Reef Taxa list to the Currently Harvested Coral Reef Taxa list when sufficient information has been gathered; and (e) designating a percentage of low-use MPA waters for sole use by indigenous people.

The CREFMP also contains non-regulatory measures consistent with CREFMP objectives that would be undertaken by the Council outside of the regulatory regime. These include a process and criteria for EFH consultations; formal plan team coordination to identify and to address coral reef ecosystem impacts from existing fishery management plan fisheries; a system to facilitate consistent state and territorial level management; and research and education efforts.

[Note: Executive Order 13178 (December 4, 2000) and Executive Order 13196 (January 18, 2001) designated the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve (Reserve) in those ocean waters that lie within 50 nm of the NWHI, excluding state waters and waters within the boundaries of the Hawaiian Islands National Wildlife Refuge and the Midway Atoll National Wildlife Refuge. In compliance with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, within the Reserve, NOAA is implementing a comprehensive management regime to govern fishing and protect coral reef resources. Because the CREFMP contains management measures governing activity in, among other areas, the same geographic area as the Reserve and several of those measures conflict with the management regime already existing pursuant to the NWHI Reserve established by Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, the Secretary of Commerce is likely to partially disapprove those parts of the CREFMP that govern fishing in the NWHI.]

Public comments on CREFMP must be received by May 17, 2002, to be considered by NMFS in the decision whether to approve the CREFMP. A proposed rule to implement CREFMP has been submitted for Secretarial review and approval. NMFS expects to publish and request comments on the proposed regulations to implement CREFMP in the near future.

[Doc. # CN-01-007]

Cotton Research and Promotion Program: Procedures for Conduct of Sign-up Period

AGENCY: Agricultural Marketing Service.
ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This proposed rule would amend the rules and regulations regarding the procedures for the conduct of a sign-up period for eligible cotton producers and importers to request a continuance referendum on the 1991 amendments to the Cotton Research and Promotion Order (Order) provided for in the Cotton Research and Promotion Act (Act) amendments of 1990. The amendments would update various dates, name changes, addresses, and make other administrative changes.
DATES: Comments must be received on or before March 28, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to submit written comments concerning this proposed rule to Whitney Rick, Chief, Research and Promotion Staff, Cotton Program, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026-3278. Comments should be submitted in triplicate. Comments may also be submitted electronically to: cottoncomments@usda.gov. All comments should reference the docket number and the date and page number of this issue of the Federal Register. All comments received will be made available for public inspection at Cotton Program, AMS, USDA, Room 2641-S, 1400 Independence Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20250-0224 during regular business hours. A copy of this notice may be found at: www.ams.usda.gov/cotton/rulemaking.htm.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Executive Order 12866

The Office of Management and Budget has waived the review process required by Executive Order 12866 for this action.

Executive Order 12988

This rule has been reviewed under Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform. It is not intended to have retroactive effect. This rule would not preempt any state or local laws, regulations, or policies, unless they present an irreconcilable conflict with this rule.

The Cotton Research and Promotion Act (7 U.S.C. 2101-2118) provides that administrative proceedings must be exhausted before parties may file suit in court. Under Section 12 of the Act, any person subject to an order may file with USDA a petition stating that the order, any provision of the order, or any obligation imposed in connection with the order is not in accordance with law and requesting a modification of the order or to be exempted therefrom. Such person is afforded the opportunity for a hearing on the petition. After the hearing, USDA would rule on the petition. The Act provides that the District Court of the United States in any district in which the person is an inhabitant, or has his or her principal place of business, has jurisdiction to review the USDA's ruling, provided a complaint is filed within 20 days from the date of the entry of ruling.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Pursuant to requirements set forth in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) [5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.], the Agricultural Marketing Service has considered the economic effect of this action on small entities and has determined that its implementation will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

There are currently approximately 30,000 producers, and approximately 10,000 importers that are subject to the order. The majority of these producers and importers are small businesses under the criteria established by the Small Business Administration.

Only those eligible persons who are in favor of conducting a referendum would need to participate in the sign-up period. Of the 46,220 total valid ballots received in the 1991 referendum, 27,879, or 60 percent, favored the amendments to the Order, and 18,341, or 40 percent, opposed the amendments to the Order. This proposed rule would provide to those persons who are not in favor of the continuance of the Order amendments an opportunity to request a continuance referendum.

The eligibility and participation requirements for producers and importers are substantially the same as the rules that established the eligibility and participation requirements for the 1991 referendum, and for the 1997 sign-up period. The January 15 through April 14, 1997 sign-up period did not generate the required number of signatures to hold another referendum. The amendments proposed in this action would update various dates, name changes, addresses and make other miscellaneous changes. However, proxy or power of attorney participation would be prohibited.

The proposed sign-up procedures would not impose a substantial burden or have a significant impact on persons subject to the Order, because participation is not mandatory, not all persons subject to the Order are expected to participate, and USDA will determine producer and importer eligibility. The information collection requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act are minimal.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The information collections proposed by this rule will be carried out under the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Control Number 0581-0093. This rule will not add to the overall burden currently approved by OMB and assigned OMB Control Number 0581-0093 under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35). This OMB Control Number is referenced in Section 1205.541 of the regulations.

Background

The 1991 amendments to the Cotton Research and Promotion Order (7 C.F.R. 1205 et seq.) were implemented following the July 1991 referendum. The amendments were provided for in the Cotton Research and Promotion Act (7 U.S.C. 2101–2118) amendments of 1990. These amendments provided for: (1) Importer representation on the Cotton Board by an appropriate number of persons, to be determined by USDA, who import cotton or cotton products into the U.S., and whom USDA selects from nominations submitted by importer organizations certified by USDA; (2) assessments levied on imported cotton and cotton products at a rate determined in the same manner as for U.S. cotton; (3) increasing the amount USDA can be reimbursed for the conduct of a referendum from $200,000 to $300,000; (4) reimbursing government agencies that assist in administering the collection of assessments on imported cotton and cotton products; and (5) terminating the right of producers to demand a refund of assessments.

On January 14, 2002, USDA issued a determination based on its review, (67 FR 1714), not to conduct a referendum regarding the 1991 amendments to the Order. However, the Act provides that USDA shall nevertheless conduct a referendum at the request of 10 percent or more of the total number of eligible producers and importers that voted in the most recent referendum. The Act provides for a sign-up period during which eligible cotton producers and importers may request that USDA conduct a referendum on continuation of the 1991 amendments to the Order. Accordingly, USDA will provide all eligible Upland cotton producers and importers an opportunity to request a continuance referendum regarding the 1991 amendments to the Order.

The sign-up period will be provided for all eligible producers and importers. Eligible cotton producers would be provided the opportunity to sign-up to request a continuance referendum in person at the county FSA office where their farm is located. If the producers land is in more than one county, the producer shall sign-up at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. Producers who choose not to visit the county FSA office in person may request a sign-up form in the mail from the same office.

USDA would mail sign-up information, including a written request form, to all known, eligible, cotton importers. Importers who favor the conduct of a continuance referendum would return their signed request forms to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026–3278.

Importers who do not receive a request form in the mail by June 3, 2002, and who meet the eligibility requirements to participate in the sign-up, may submit a written, signed, request for a continuance referendum. Such request must be accompanied by a copy of the U.S. Customs form 7501 showing payment of a cotton assessment for calendar year 2001. Requests and supporting documentation should be mailed to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026–3278.

The sign-up period will be from June 3, 2002 through August 30, 2002. Producer and importer forms shall only be counted if received by USDA during the stated sign-up period.

Section 8(c)(2) of the Act provides that if USDA determines, based on the results of the sign-up, that 10 percent or more of the total number of eligible producers and importers that voted in the most recent 1991 referendum (i.e., 4,622) request a continuance referendum on the 1991 amendments, a referendum will be held within 12 months after the end of the sign-up period. In counting such requests, however, not more than 20 percent may be from producers from any one state or from importers of cotton. For example, when counting the requests, the AMS Cotton Program would determine the total number of valid requests from all cotton-producing states and from importers. Not more than 20 percent of the total requests will be counted from any one state or from importers toward reaching the 10 percent for 4,622 total signatures required to call for a referendum. If USDA determines that 10 percent or more of the number of producers and importers who voted in the most recent referendum favor a continuance referendum. A referendum will be held.

This proposed rule would amend the procedures for the conduct of the current sign-up period. The current rules and regulations provide for sections on definitions, supervision of the sign-up period, eligibility, participation in the sign-up period, counting requests, reporting results and instructions and forms. The Administrator designated all divisions in AMS as programs on September 18, 1997. Hence, this proposal has name, position title, address changes as well as other miscellaneous changes.

The term "Cotton Division" would be changed to "Cotton Program." The term "Director" would be replaced by "Deputy Administrator." In section 1205.18 the term "Producer" is further defined to ensure that all producers that planted cotton during 2001 will be eligible to participate in the sign-up period. In sections 1205.12 and 1205.26 the words "de minimis assessment" have been replaced with similar meaning language. In sections 1205.20, 1205.26, and 1205.27 "calendar year 1995" would change to "calendar year 2001." In section 1205.26 the term "limited partnership" has been added. In sections 1205.27, 1205.28, and 1205.29 sign-up period conduct dates, FSA reporting dates, and mailing addresses have been updated. In section 1205.26 a new subsection (g) is added to prohibit proxy or power of attorney participation. Section 1205.27 (c) that addresses producer participation in the sign-up period, is revised to reflect current Farm Service Agency procedures.

A 10-day comment period is determined to be appropriate because these proposed eligibility and participation requirements are substantially the same as the eligibility and participation requirements that were used in previous referenda and a sign-up period; participation is voluntary; and this rule, if adopted, should be made effective as soon as possible in order to best reflect applicable time frames in the Act.

List of Subjects in 7 CFR Part 1205

(g) Participation in the sign-up by proxy or power of attorney is not authorized.

6. Section 1205.27 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.27 Participation in the Sign-up Period.

The sign-up period will be from June 3, 2002, through August 30, 2002. Those persons who favor the conduct of a continuance referendum and who wish to request that USDA conduct such a referendum may do so by submitting such request in accordance with this section. All requests must be received by the appropriate USDA office by August 30, 2002.

(a) Before the sign-up period begins, FSA shall establish a list of known, eligible, Upland cotton producers in the county that it serves during the representative period, and shall also establish a list of known, eligible Upland cotton importers.

(b) Before the start of the sign-up period, USDA shall mail a request form to each known, eligible, cotton importer. Importers who wish to request a referendum and who do not receive a request form in the mail by June 3, 2002, may participate in the sign-up period by submitting a signed, written request for a continuance referendum, along with a copy of a U.S. Customs form 7501 showing payment of a cotton assessment for calendar year 2001. Importers must submit their requests and supporting documents to USDA, FSA, ORAS, Attention: William A. Brown, PO Box 23278, Washington, DC 20026-3278. All requests and supporting documents must be received by the appropriate FSA office by August 30, 2002.

(c) Each person on the county FSA office lists may participate in the sign-up period. Eligible producers must date and sign their name on the "County FSA Office Sign-up Sheet." A person whose name does not appear on the county FSA office list may participate in the sign-up period. Such person must be identified on FSA-578 during the representative period or provide documentation that demonstrates that the person was a cotton producer during the representative period. Cotton producers not listed on the FSA-578 shall submit at least one sales receipt for cotton they planted during the representative period. Cotton producers must make requests to the county FSA office where the producer's farm is located. If the producer's land is in more than one county, the producer shall make request at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. It is the responsibility of the person to provide the information needed by the county FSA office to determine eligibility. It is not the responsibility of the county FSA office to obtain this information. If any person whose name does not appear on the county FSA office list fails to provide at least one sales receipt for the cotton they produced during the representative period, the county FSA office shall determine that such person is ineligible to participate in the sign-up period, and shall note "ineligible" in the remarks section next to the person's name on the county FSA office sign-up sheet. In lieu of personally appearing at a county FSA office, eligible producers may request a sign-up form from the county FSA office where the producer's farm is located. If the producer's land is in more than one county, the producer shall make the request for the sign-up form at the county office where FSA administratively maintains and processes the producer's farm records. Such request must be accompanied by a copy of at least one sales receipt for cotton they produced during the representative period. The appropriate FSA office must receive all completed forms and supporting documentation by August 30, 2002.

7. In § 1205.28, the first sentence is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.28 Counting.

County FSA offices and FSA, Deputy Administrator for Operations Review and Analysis Staff (ORAS), shall begin counting requests no later than September 3, 2002. * * *

8. Section 1205.29 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1205.29 Reporting Results.

(a) Each county FSA office shall prepare and transmit to the state FSA office, by September 10, 2002, a written report of the number of eligible producers who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests.

(b) ORAS shall prepare, by September 10, 2002, a written report of the number of eligible importers who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests.

(c) Each state FSA office shall, by September 10, 2002, forward all county reports to ORAS. By September 17, 2002, ORAS shall forward its report of the total number of eligible producers and importers that requested a continuance referendum, through the sign-up period, to the Deputy Administrator, Cotton Program, AMS, Stop 0224, 1400 Independence Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20250-0224.

(d) The Chief of the Research and Promotion Staff, Cotton Program, shall prepare a report of the requests received, including the number of eligible persons who requested the conduct of a referendum, and the number of ineligible persons who made requests, to the Deputy Administrator of the Cotton Program, and shall maintain one copy of the report where it will be available for public inspection for a period of 5 years following the end of the sign-up period.

(e) The Deputy Administrator of the Cotton Program shall prepare and submit to the Secretary a report of the results of the sign-up period. The Secretary will conduct a referendum if requested by 10 percent or more of the number of cotton producers and importers voting in the most recent (July 1991) referendum, but not more than 20 percent of the total requests counted toward the 10 percent figure may be from producers in any one state or from importers of cotton. The Secretary shall announce the results of the sign-up period in a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 737–100, –200, –200C, –300, –400, and –500 Series AirplanesAGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This document proposes the adoption of a new airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain Boeing Model 737–100, –200, –200C, –300, –400, and –500 series airplanes. This proposal would require replacing the existing pressure relief valve on the potable water tank with a new, improved pressure relief valve, which is made of stainless steel and is non-adjustable. For certain airplanes, this proposal would also require modification of certain piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve. This action is necessary to prevent rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads. This action is intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

DATES: Comments must be received by May 2, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Submit comments in triplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM–114, Attention: Rules Docket Number 2000–NM–422–AD, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055–4056. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Comments Invited

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications shall identify the Rules Docket number and be submitted in triplicate to the address specified above. All communications received on or before the closing date for comments, specified above, will be considered before taking action on the proposed rule. Submit comments using the following format:

- Organize comments issue-by-issue. For example, discuss a request to change the compliance time and a request to change the service bulletin reference as two separate issues.
- For each issue, state what specific change to the proposed AD is being requested.
- Include justification (e.g., reasons or data) for each request.

Comments are specifically invited on the overall regulatory, economic, environmental, and energy aspects of the proposed rule. All comments submitted will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons. A report summarizing each FAA-public contact concerned with the substance of this proposal will be filed in the Rules Docket.

Commenters wishing the FAA to acknowledge receipt of their comments submitted in response to this notice must submit a self-addressed, stamped postcard on which the following statement is made: “Comments to Docket Number 2000–NM–422–AD.” The postcard will be date stamped and returned to the commenter.

Availability of NPRMs

Any person may obtain a copy of this NPRM by submitting a request to the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, ANM–114, Attention: Rules Docket Number 2000–NM–422–AD, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055–4056.

Discussion

The FAA has received reports indicating that there have been several occurrences of potable water tanks rupturing while the airplane was in flight. In one case the potable water tank relief valve was incorrectly located, so that the relief valve could not protect the tank from overpressurization. In other cases, the pressure relief valve on the water tank was correctly located, but malfunctioned, leading to rupture of the water tank with consequent structural damage to the airplane. Such malfunctioning has been found to be caused by corrosion or by inadvertent adjustment of the pressure relief valve. Malfunction of the pressure relief valve for the potable water tank or the incorrect location of that valve, if not corrected, could cause a rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads.

Explanation of Relevant Service Information

The FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Service Bulletins 737–38A1038, Revision 2, dated September 25, 1997, and 737–38A1047, Revision 1, dated September 27, 2001, which describe procedures for replacing the existing pressure relief valve in the potable water tank with a new stainless steel, non-adjustable pressure relief valve. In addition, the FAA has reviewed and approved Boeing Service Bulletin 737–38–1029, Revision 1, dated August 19, 1993, which describes procedures for modification of piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve so that the relief valve can protect the potable water tank against over-pressurization. Accomplishment of the actions specified in those service bulletins is intended to adequately address the identified unsafe condition.

Explanation of Requirements of Proposed Rule

Since an unsafe condition has been identified that is likely to exist or develop on other products of this same type design, the proposed AD would require accomplishment of the actions specified in the service bulletins described previously, except as discussed below.

Differences Between Service Bulletins and Proposed AD

One difference concerns the compliance times recommended in the service bulletins and those in the proposed AD. Boeing Service Bulletins 737–38A1038 and 737–38A1047 recommend that the replacement of the pressure relief valve on the potable water tank be done as soon as manpower and materials are available. Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029 describes procedures for modification of the system to relocate the check valve and pressure relief valve but does not recommend a compliance time for that action. The proposed AD specifies a compliance time of 18 months after the effective date of the AD for replacement of the existing pressure relief valve with a new valve, so that the required actions can be done during an operator's regularly-scheduled "C" check.

Another change concerns re-installation of the existing pressure relief valve after the modification of the system which is required for certain airplanes listed in Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029. The proposed AD specifies replacement of the existing pressure relief valve with a new, improved valve for these certain airplanes as well as for all other affected airplanes.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 2,221 airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this proposed AD.

The FAA estimates that of the 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry, 2 would be affected by the proposed modification of piping to re-locate the pressure relief valve, that it would take approximately 6 work hours per airplane to accomplish the proposed modification, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the proposed modification of piping on U.S. operators is estimated to be $1,320, or $660 per airplane.

The FAA estimates that all of the 1,208 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by the proposed replacement of the pressure relief valve, that it would take approximately 2 work hours per airplane to accomplish the proposed replacement, and that the average labor rate is $60 per work hour. Required parts would cost approximately $300 per airplane. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the proposed replacement of the pressure relief valve on U.S. operators is estimated to be $507,360, or $420 per airplane.

The cost impact figures discussed above are based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the proposed requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this proposed AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations proposed herein would not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this proposal would not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under the DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft regulatory evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained by contacting the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

Boeing: Docket 2000-NM-422-AD.

Applicability: Model 737-100, -200, -200C, -300, -400, and -500 series airplanes, line numbers 1 through 2696, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (c) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent rupture of the potable water tank during flight of the airplane, which could result in structural damage to the airplane and inability to sustain flight loads, accomplish the following:

Modification and Replacement

(a) Within 18 months after the effective date of this AD, perform the requirements of paragraph (a)(1) or (a)(2) of this AD, as applicable.

(1) For those airplanes listed in the effectivity section of Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029, Revision 1, dated August 19, 1993: Modify the potable water pressurization system in accordance with the service bulletin, but do not reinstall the existing pressure relief valve having part number (P/N) 520A-6DB-50. Prior to further flight, perform the requirements of paragraph (a)(2) of this AD.

Note 2: Modification of the potable water pressurization system, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38-1029, dated June 6, 1991, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (a)(1) of this AD.

(2) For those airplanes having line numbers 1 through 2523: Remove the existing pressure relief valve from the potable water tank, and replace the valve with a new pressure relief valve having part number P/N RV05-362, in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1047, Revision 1, dated September 27, 2001.

Note 3: For those airplanes having line numbers 1 through 2523, installation of a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1047, dated November 9, 2000, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (a)(2) of this AD.

(b) For those airplanes having line numbers 2524 through 2696: Within 18 months after the effective date of this AD, remove the existing pressure relief valve from the potable water tank, and replace the valve with a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1038, Revision 2, dated September 25, 1997.

Note 4: For those airplanes having line numbers 2524 through 2696, installation of a new pressure relief valve having P/N RV05-362, done in accordance with Boeing Service Bulletin 737-38A1038, dated December 1, 1994, or Revision 1, dated February 2, 1995, is acceptable for compliance with paragraph (b) of this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(c) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Seattle ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

Airworthiness Directives; McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 Series Airplanes and C-9 Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: This document proposes the superseding of an existing airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, that currently requires an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. That AD also requires modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin. This action would require revising the applicability of the existing AD to add certain airplanes and to remove certain other airplanes. The actions specified by the proposed AD are intended to prevent chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and consequent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin. Such arcing or arcing damage could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area. This action is intended to address the identified unsafe condition.

Discussion

On November 28, 2001, the FAA issued AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532 (66 FR 64133, December 12, 2001), applicable to certain McDonnell Douglas Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, to require an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. That AD also requires modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin. The requirements of that AD are intended to prevent chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and consequent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin. Such arcing or arcing damage could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area.

Explanation of Relevant Service Information

Since the issuance of that AD, the FAA has reviewed and approved McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001. Revision 03 revises the effectivity of the service bulletin by adding certain airplanes and removing certain other airplanes. No additional work is required by Revision 03 for airplanes previously modified by prior issues of the service bulletin.

Explanation of Requirements of Proposed Rule

Since an unsafe condition has been identified that is likely to exist or develop on other products of this same type design, the proposed AD would supersede AD 2001-24-15 to revise the applicability of the AD and to continue to require an inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin, and repair of chafed wiring. The proposed AD also would continue to require modification and reidentification of the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

Cost Impact

There are approximately 176 Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 278 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this proposed AD.

The actions that are currently required by AD 2001-24-15 take approximately 1 work hour per airplane to accomplish, at an average labor rate of $60 per work hour. Based on these figures, the cost impact of the currently required actions on U.S. operators is estimated to be $16,680, or $60 per airplane.

This proposed AD does not add any new actions or requirements, and only revises the applicability of the AD by adding certain airplanes and removing certain other airplanes. Therefore, the estimated cost impact for this proposed AD is unchanged from the existing AD.

The cost impact figure discussed above is based on assumptions that no operator has yet accomplished any of the requirements of this AD action, and that no operator would accomplish those actions in the future if this AD were not adopted. The cost impact figures discussed in AD rulemaking actions represent only the time necessary to perform the specific actions actually required by the AD. These figures typically do not include incidental costs, such as the time required to gain access and close up, planning time, or time necessitated by other administrative actions.

Regulatory Impact

The regulations proposed herein would not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the national Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this proposal would not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866; (2) is not a "significant rule" under the DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft regulatory evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained by contacting the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

The Proposed Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR part 39) as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. 106(g), 40113, 44701.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by removing amendment 39-12532 (66 FR 64133, December 12, 2001), and by adding a new airworthiness directive (AD), to read as follows:

McDonnell Douglas: Docket 2002-NM-36-AD. Supersedes AD 2001-24-15, Amendment 39-12532.

Applicability: Model DC-9-10, -30, and -40 series airplanes and C-9 airplanes, equipped with an attendants' work light in the aft cabin; certificated in any category; as listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001, certificated in any category.

Note 1: This AD applies to each airplane identified in the preceding applicability provision, regardless of whether it has been modified, altered, or repaired in the area subject to the requirements of this AD. For airplanes that have been modified, altered, or repaired so that the performance of the requirements of this AD is affected, the owner/operator must request approval for an alternative method of compliance in accordance with paragraph (c) of this AD. The request should include an assessment of the effect of the modification, alteration, or repair on the unsafe condition addressed by this AD; and, if the unsafe condition has not been eliminated, the request should include specific proposed actions to address it.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent arcing or arcing damage to the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin due to chafing of the ground wire against the positive contact of the lamp of the attendants' work light and transformer of the aft cabin, which could result in short circuits and consequent smoke and fire in the aft cabin area, accomplish the following:

Note 2: Paragraph (a) of this AD merely restates the requirements of paragraph (a) AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532. As allowed by the phrase, "unless accomplished previously," if those requirements of AD 2001-24-15 have already been accomplished, this AD does not require that those actions be repeated.

Restatement of AD 2001-24-15

(a) For airplanes listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000: Within 1 year after January 16, 2002 (the effective date of AD 2001-24-15, amendment 39-12532), do the actions specified in paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this AD, per McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000.

(1) Do a general visual inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin. If any chafing is detected, before further flight, repair chafed wiring per the service bulletin.

Note 3: For the purposes of this AD, a general visual inspection is defined as "A visual examination of an interior or exterior area, installation, or assembly to detect obvious damage, failure, or irregularity. This level of inspection is made under normally available lighting conditions such as daylight, hangar lighting, flashlight, or droplight, and may require removal or opening of access panels or doors. Stands, ladders, or platforms may be required to gain proximity to the area being checked."

(2) Modify and reidentify the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

New Requirements of This AD

(b) For airplanes as listed in McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2001: Within 1 year after the effective date of this AD, do the actions specified in paragraphs (b)(1) and (b)(2) of this AD, per McDonnell Douglas Alert Service Bulletin DC9-33A058, Revision 03, dated November 21, 2002.

(1) Do a general visual inspection to detect chafing of the wiring of the attendants' work light of the aft cabin. If any chafing is detected, before further flight, repair chafed wiring per the service bulletin.

(2) Modify and reidentify the attendants' work light assemblies of the aft cabin.

Note 4: Inspections, repairs, modifications, and reidentifications done before the effective date of this AD per McDonnell Douglas Service Bulletin DC9-33-058, dated June 5, 1973; Revision 1, dated November 26, 1975; or Revision 02, dated January 27, 2000; are considered acceptable for compliance with the requirements of this AD.

Alternative Methods of Compliance

(c) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Los Angeles ACO.

Note 5: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Los Angeles ACO.

Special Flight Permits

(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with sections 21.197 and 21.199 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR 21.197 and 21.199) to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

Issued in Renton, Washington, on March 11, 2002.

Acting Manager, Transport Airplane Directorate, Aircraft Certification Service.

User Fees

AGENCY: Customs Service, Department of the Treasury

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This document proposes to amend the Customs Regulations to reflect various legislative amendments to 19 U.S.C. 58c, the Customs user fee statute, including those made by the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999 and the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000. The proposed regulations set forth the new fee structure for passengers arriving in the United States aboard commercial vessels and aircraft, provide for application of a fee to ferries in limited circumstances, and clarify how Customs administers certain user fees. Also, minor conforming changes are proposed to the regulations pertaining to customs brokers.

DATES: Written comments must be received on or before May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments may be submitted to and inspected at the Regulations Branch, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service, 1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., 3rd Floor, Washington, DC 20229.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Concerning user fees applicable to commercial vessel and aircraft passengers under § 24.22(g): Edward Matthews at (202) 927-0552. Concerning the various fee payment and information submission procedures under § 24.22: Robert T. Reiley at (202) 927-1504.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

This document proposes changes concerning user fees to parts 24 and 111 of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR Parts 24 and 111). The changes to Part 24 involve § 24.22 and have several bases: (1) Some changes derive from provisions of the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999 (Pub. L. 106-36, 113 Stat. 127), signed into law on June 25, 1999; (2) one change is based on a provision of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-476, 114 Stat. 2101), signed into law on November 9, 2000; (3) some changes are based on other statutory provisions that have not previously been reflected in the regulations; (4) some changes are proposed to bring the regulations up to date with current administrative practices; (5) and one change is a technical correction. The changes to part 111 are intended to clarify administration of the annual user fee and the permit fees for customs brokers.

Proposed Changes Based on the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999

Section 2418 of the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999 (the Act) amended section 13031 of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, codified at 19 U.S.C. 58c (section 58c), which established user fees for certain services performed by the Customs Service. These amendments to section 58c necessitate conforming amendments to the Customs Regulations.

On July 27, 1999, Customs issued a general notice in the Federal Register (64 FR 40648) that announced the statutory changes made by the Act and pointed out that these self-effectuating changes became effective on July 25, 1999. The notice also announced several other related changes affecting Customs administration of user fees. The notice indicated that appropriate amendments to the Customs Regulations would be published in due course. This document, issued as a notice of proposed rulemaking because the proposed changes include some that are not derived from self-effectuating statutory amendments, invites public comment on the proposed changes.

Prior Law

Under section 58c(a), Customs is authorized to collect specific fees charged for certain Customs inspectional services, including, in section 58c(a)(5), fees for passengers arriving in the United States aboard commercial vessels and aircraft. Under section 58c(d), the fees are collected from passengers by the companies that issue the ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States or that provide the actual transportation, and those companies remit the fees to Customs.

Immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(a)(5)(A) provided for a fee of $6.50 per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the customs territory of the United States. However, this fee provision applied only to fiscal years 1994 (effective on January 1, 1994) through 1997. Thus, after fiscal year 1997, the $6.50 fee was no longer in effect.

Immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(a)(5)(B), applicable to fiscal year 1998 and each following fiscal year, provided for a fee of $5 per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the United States other than a place referred to in section 58c(b)(1)(A)(i), that is, Canada, Mexico, a territory or a possession of the United States, or any adjacent island. (Section 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B)) currently provides that the territories and possessions of the United States include American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands and that adjacent islands include all of the islands in the Caribbean Sea, the Bahamas, Bermuda, St. Pierre, Miquelon, and the Turks and Caicos Islands. However, this document includes discussion of a proposal to amend the provision concerning this list of adjacent islands.)

The effect of these provisions was to impose a fee structure as follows: (1) A fee of $6.50 on commercial vessel and aircraft passengers arriving from locations outside the customs territory of the United States through September 30, 1997, then, (2) commencing on October 1, 1997, a fee of $5 per commercial vessel and aircraft passenger arriving from a place outside the United States except for a passenger arriving from Canada, Mexico, a U.S. territory or possession, or an adjacent island. Thus, beginning with fiscal year 1998, there was no fee applicable under section 58c(a)(5) for commercial vessel or aircraft passengers arriving from Canada, Mexico, United States territories or possessions, or adjacent islands. (For Puerto Rico, this represented no change because Puerto Rico is part of the customs territory of the United States and thus no fee applied to Puerto Rico under section 58c(a)(5)(A).)

In addition, immediately prior to enactment of the Act, section 58c(b)(1)(A) provided that no fee may be charged under section 58c(a) in the case of the arrival of a passenger whose journey either originated in Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island or originated in the United States and was limited to Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island. (This prohibition was suspended during the period from January 1, 1994, through September 30, 1997 (under section 58c(b)(1)(C)).)

New Fee Structure

Paragraph (b)(1) of section 2418 of the Act amended sections 58c(a)(5)(A) and (B) to modify the above-discussed fee structure. The amendment accomplished two things: (1) It continued, in section 58c(a)(5)(A), the $5 fee per passenger arriving in the United States aboard a commercial vessel or aircraft from a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island; and (2) it imposed, under section 58c(a)(5)(B), a fee of $1.75 per passenger arriving aboard a commercial vessel (not commercial aircraft) from Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island. Thus, under the amended statute, no fee applies in the case of passengers arriving aboard commercial aircraft from Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island.

Customs notes that the amendment of section 58c(b)(1)(A) enables collection of the $1.75 per passenger fee of amended section 58c(a)(5)(B). The amendment excepted that fee from the fee exemption provided by section 58c(b)(1)(A) that otherwise precludes application of a fee under section 58c(a)(5) in connection with the arrival of any passenger whose journey originated in Canada, Mexico, a United States territory or possession, or an adjacent island or which originated in the United States and was limited to those named places.

Customs proposes in this document to amend the Customs Regulations to conform to the new fee structure.

Procedures for Payment of the New Fees

Prior to the Act, only one fee applied to covered passengers under section 58c(a)(5), that is, $5 prior to January 1, 1994, $6.50 beginning on January 1, 1994, and $5 beginning on October 1, 1997. With the Act's amendment of section 58c(a)(5), there are now two passenger fees, that is, the $5.00 fee of section 58c(a)(5)(A) where applicable and the $1.75 fee of section 58c(a)(5)(B) where applicable. Thus, since enactment of the Act, Customs must administer and account for two fees rather than one. This new fee structure requires amendment of the Customs Regulations to conform the regulatory procedures to the new fee structure.

Under the current Customs Regulations, it is the responsibility of the carriers, travel agents, tour wholesalers, or other parties issuing tickets or travel documents to collect the fee from all passengers who are subject to the fee (19 CFR 24.22(g)(3)). These parties must make payment of the collected fees to Customs no later than 31 days after the close of the calendar quarter in which the fees were required to be collected from the passengers (19 CFR 24.22(g)(4)). The regulation also provides (in § 24.22(g)(4)) that the quarterly fee payment must be accompanied by a statement that includes the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the party remitting the payment and the calendar quarter covered by the payment.

This document proposes to amend § 24.22(g)(3) (redesignated in the proposed regulation as § 24.22(g)(4)) to make clear that the party responsible for collecting the fee must collect a fee when an infant travels without a ticket or travel document. This follows Customs consistent practice of treating infants as passengers for purposes of the passenger fees. In this regard, Customs proposes to clarify this by adding to § 24.22(g)(1) a definition of the term "passenger" making it clear that it includes infants even if the carrier does not charge for their transportation and even if the infant is carried by another passenger rather than occupying a seat.

The document also proposes to amend § 24.22(g)(4) (redesignated as § 24.22(g)(5)) to require the following additional information in the statement: The total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, including the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected; the total amount of fees collected and remitted; with respect to vessel fees, the total number of tickets and non-ticketed infants for which fees were required to be collected and the total amount of fees collected; and a breakdown of vessel fees collected and remitted under section 58c(a)(5)(A) (the $5 per passenger fee) and section 58c(a)(5)(B) (the $1.75 per passenger fee). This additional information is necessary to enable Customs to properly account for the fees now provided for under section 58c(a)(5).

The Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000

A recent amendment to section 58c was made by section 1457 of the Tariff Suspension and Trade Act of 2000. Under section 1457, section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iii) was amended to provide an exception to the fee limitation relative to ferries. Prior to this amendment, ferries were excepted from application of the fees under section 58c(a). With this self-effectuating amendment (effective on November 24, 2000), ferries whose operations began on or after August 1, 1999, and who operate south of 27 degrees latitude and east of 89 degrees longitude are now subject to the commercial vessel fee of section 58c(a)(1) (19 CFR 24.22(b)(1)) (provided the ferry is of 100 net tons or more) and the $1.75 commercial vessel passenger fee of section 58c(a)(5)(B) (proposed paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of 19 CFR 24.22). (Customs notes that the definition of "ferry" excludes vessels that provide transportation between places that are more than 300 miles apart. This requirement necessarily means that the $1.75 commercial vessel passenger fee would be applicable because a ferry operating within the specified coordinates will arrive in the United States from a place that qualifies as an adjacent island under paragraph (g)(1)(iii) of this section. See the definition of "ferry" in 19 U.S.C. 58c(c)(1) and 19 CFR 24.22(a)(4).) This amendment necessitates conforming amendments to §§ 24.22(b)(4)(iv) and 24.22(g)(1) of the Customs Regulations.

Proposed Changes Based on Other Statutory Provisions

This document also proposes to include provisions in § 24.22(g) to cover the fee exemption provision set forth in section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iv) and the "one-time only fee" set forth in section 58c(b)(4)(B). These two statutory provisions are not reflected in the current regulation.

The fee exemption provision under section 58c(b)(1)(A)(iv) provides that no fee under section 58c(a)(5) applies to passengers arriving aboard commercial vessels traveling only between ports that are within the customs territory of the United States. The one-time only fee provision of section 58c(b)(4)(B) applies where a fee under section 58c(a)(5) is applicable to passengers arriving aboard a commercial vessel and the voyage is a single voyage involving two or more United States ports (in other words, the vessel proceeds coastwise to one or more United States ports after its initial arrival from a place outside the United States). This provision ensures that in the described situation, the applicable fee is charged only once for each passenger.

Finally, under section 58c(b)(1)(A)(i)(I)(dd), the term "adjacent islands" is given meaning by reference to the definition of that term found at 8 U.S.C. 1101(b)(5). The adjacent islands are set forth under § 24.22(g)(2)(i)(B) of the current Customs Regulations. The document proposes to amend the regulation in order to bring it up to date with the language of 8 U.S.C. 1101(b)(5). (See proposed § 24.22(g)(1)(iii).) All islands found in the current regulation are covered in the proposed regulation (although not explicitly in every case).

Proposed Changes Regarding Administrative Practices

Section 24.22(b)(3) of the Customs Regulations concerns the procedure for prepayment of the fee for the arrival of commercial vessels (that is, vessels of 100 net tons or more as well as barges and other bulk carriers arriving from Canada or Mexico). Section 24.22(c)(3) concerns the procedure for prepayment of the fee for the arrival of commercial vehicles. Section 24.22(d) concerns the fee for the arrival of railroad cars and includes, in paragraph (d)(3), procedures for prepayment of the fee and, in paragraph (d)(4)(ii), procedures for monthly statement filing and fee remittance. In § 24.22(e), which concerns the fee for the arrival of private vessels and private aircraft, paragraph (e)(1) covers payment of the fee at the time of arrival and paragraph (e)(2) covers the procedure for prepayment of the fee. Section 22.24(g)(4) covers the procedure for payment of fees for the arrival of passengers aboard commercial vessels and commercial aircraft. Section 24.22(h) concerns the annual customs broker permit fee. Section 24.22(i) concerns procedures for remittance of, and for submitting information relative to, the fees provided for under § 24.22.

This document proposes to amend the above regulatory provisions to reflect current fee payment and other practices, including clarification of the proper addresses for the mailing of payments, requirements for the user fee decal, and use of electronic and credit card payment options.

Technical Correction

Upon routine review of the Part 24 texts, Customs discovered erroneous references to § 142.13(c) (19 CFR 142.13(c)) in paragraphs (a), (c)(2), and (d) of § 24.25, which pertains to statement processing and automated clearinghouse procedures. Section 142.13(c) is currently reserved, and the reference in the above paragraphs of § 24.25 should instead be to § 142.13(b), which pertains to special classes of merchandise.

This document proposes to correct these erroneous references.

Conforming Changes to Part 111

Part 111 of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR part 111) pertains to customs brokers and includes, in §§ 111.19 and 111.96, references to the payment of the annual customs broker permit user fee referred to in § 24.22(h). This document proposes amendments to §§ 111.19 and 111.96 to conform to the change to § 24.22(h) referred to above and to clarify the payment procedure in connection with a national permit application.

Comments

Before adopting these proposed amendments as a final rule, consideration will be given to any written comments timely submitted to Customs including comments on the clarity of the proposed rule and how it may be made easier to understand. Comments submitted will be available for public inspection in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552), § 1.4 of the Treasury Department Regulations (31 CFR 1.4), and § 103.11(b) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 103.11(b)) on regular business days between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Regulations Branch, Office of Regulations and Rulings, U.S. Customs Service, 1300 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, 3rd Floor, Washington, DC.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Based on the supplementary information set forth above and because the proposed amendments to the Customs Regulations concern collection of fees that are mandated by statute, it is certified, pursuant to the provisions of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), that the proposed amendments, if adopted, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, the proposed amendments are not subject to the regulatory analysis or other requirements of 5 U.S.C. 603 and 604.

Paperwork Reduction Act

The collections of information contained in § 24.22 have previously been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under OMB control number 1515-0154 (User Fees). This notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) contains additional collections of information that have been submitted to OMB for review in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3507). An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information that lacks a valid control number.

The additional collections of information in these proposed regulations are at § 24.22(g)(5)(iv) and (v), pertaining to information required in the statement that must accompany a quarterly fee payment relative to passenger fees. This information is necessary to allow Customs to track and account for the two passenger fees mandated in the Miscellaneous Trade and Technical Corrections Act of 1999. The estimated burden to the public resulting from the additional collections is as follows:

Estimated total annual reporting and/or recordkeeping burden: 100 hrs.

Estimated average annual burden per respondent/recordkeeper: 4 hrs.

Estimated number of respondents and/or recordkeepers: 25.

Estimated annual frequency of responses: 4.

Comments on the additional collections of information should be sent to the OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for the Department of the Treasury, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Washington, DC 20503. A copy should also be sent to Customs at the address set forth in the "Address" section of this document.

Comments are invited on:

(a) Whether the additional collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information shall have practical utility;

(b) The accuracy of the agency's estimate of the additional information collection burden;

(c) Ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the additional information to be collected;

(d) Ways to minimize the additional information collection burden on respondents, including through the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology; and

(e) Estimates of capital or startup costs and costs of operations, maintenance, and purchase of services to provide the additional information.

(g) Fees for arrival of passengers aboard commercial vessels and commercial aircraft.

(1) Fees. (i) Subject to paragraphs (g)(1)(ii) and (g)(3) of this section, a fee of $5 must be collected and remitted to Customs for services provided in connection with the arrival of each passenger aboard a commercial vessel or commercial aircraft from a place outside the United States, other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands, in either of the following circumstances:

(A) When the journey of the arriving passenger originates in a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories or possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands; or

(B) When the journey of the arriving passenger originates in the United States and is not limited to Canada, Mexico, territories and possessions of the United States, and adjacent islands.

(ii) Subject to paragraph (g)(3) of this section, a fee of $1.75 must be collected and remitted to Customs for services provided in connection with the arrival of each passenger aboard a commercial vessel from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or one of the adjacent islands, regardless of whether the journey of the arriving passenger originates in a place outside the United States or in the United States.

(iii) For purposes of this paragraph (g), the term "territories and possessions of the United States" includes American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the term "adjacent islands" includes Saint Pierre, Miquelon, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Barbados, Jamaica, the Windward and Leeward Islands, Trinidad, Martinique, and other British, French, and Netherlands territory or possessions in or bordering on the Caribbean Sea.

(iv) For purposes of this paragraph (g), a journey, which may encompass multiple destinations and more than one mode of transportation, will be deemed to originate in the location where the person's travel begins under cover of a transaction which includes the issuance of a ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States.

(v) For purposes of this paragraph (g), the term passenger means a natural person for whom transportation is provided and includes an infant whether a separate ticket or travel document is issued for the infant or the infant occupies a seat or is held or carried by another passenger.

(vi) For purposes of paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section, the term "commercial vessel" includes any ferry that began operations on or after August 1, 1999, and operates south of 27 degrees latitude and east of 89 degrees longitude.

(vii) In the case of a commercial vessel making a single voyage involving two or more United States ports, the applicable fee prescribed under paragraph (g)(1)(i) or (g)(1)(ii) of this section is required to be charged only one time for each passenger.

(2) Fee chart. The chart set forth below outlines the application of the fees specified in paragraphs (g)(1)(i) and (ii) of this section with reference to the place where the passenger's journey originates and with reference to the place from which the passenger arrives in the United States (that is, the last stop on the journey prior to arrival in the United States). In the chart:

(i) SL stands for "Specified Location" and means Canada, Mexico, any territories and possessions of the United States, and any adjacent islands;

(ii) The single asterisk (*) means that the journey originating in the United States is limited to travel to one or more Specified Locations;

(iii) The double asterisk () means that the journey originating in the United States includes travel to at least one place other than a Specified Location; and

(iv) N/A indicates that the facts presented in the chart preclude application of the fee.

Place where journey originates (see (g)(1)(iv)):	Fee status for arrival from SL:		Fee status for arrival from other than SL:

(iii) Persons arriving as passengers on any aircraft used exclusively in the governmental service of the United States or a foreign government, including any agency or political subdivision of the United States or foreign government, so long as the aircraft is not carrying persons or merchandise for commercial purposes. Passengers on commercial aircraft under contract to the U.S. Department of Defense are exempted if they have been

precleared abroad under the joint DOD/ Customs Military Inspection Program;

(iv) Persons arriving on an aircraft due to an emergency or forced landing when the original destination of the aircraft was a foreign airport;

(v) Persons who are in transit to a destination outside the United States and for whom Customs inspectional services are not provided;

(vi) Persons departing from and returning to the same United States port as passengers on board the same vessel without having touched a foreign port or place; and

(4) Fee collection procedures. (i) Each air or sea carrier, travel agent, tour wholesaler, or other party issuing a ticket or travel document for transportation into the customs territory of the United States is responsible for collecting from the passenger the applicable fee specified in paragraph (g)(1) of this section, including the fee applicable to any infant traveling without a separate ticket or travel document. The fee must be separately identified with a notation "Federal inspection fees" on the ticket or travel document issued to the passenger to indicate that the required fee has been collected. A fee relative to an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document may be identified instead with the notation on a receipt or other document issued for that purpose or to record the infant's travel. If the ticket or travel document, or a receipt or other document issued relative to an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document, is not so marked and was issued in a foreign country, the fee must be collected by the departing carrier upon departure of the passenger from the United States. If the fee is collected at the time of departure from the United States, the carrier making the collection must issue a receipt to the passenger. U.S.-based tour wholesalers who contract for passenger space and issue non-carrier tickets or travel documents must collect the fee in the same manner as a carrier.

(ii) Collection of the fee under paragraph (g)(1)(i) of this section will include the following circumstances:

(A) When a through ticket or travel document is issued covering (or a receipt or other document issued for an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document indicates that the infant's journey is covering) a journey into the customs territory of the United States which originates in and arrives from a place outside the United States other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island;

(B) When a return ticket or travel document is issued (or a receipt or other document that indicates an infant traveling without a return ticket or travel document is issued) in connection with a journey which originates in the United States, includes a stop in a place other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island, and the return arrival in the United States is from a place other than one of these specified places; and

(C) When a passenger on a journey in transit through the United States to a foreign destination arrives in the customs territory of the United States from a place other than Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island, is processed by Customs, and the journey does not originate in one of these specified places.

(iii) Collection of the fee under paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section will include the following circumstances:

(A) When a through ticket or travel document is issued covering (or a receipt or other document issued for an infant traveling without a ticket or travel document indicates that the infant's journey is covering) a journey into the customs territory of the United States from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island;

(B) When a return ticket or travel document is issued (or a receipt or other document that indicates an infant traveling without a return ticket or travel document is issued) in connection with a journey which originates in the United States and the return arrival in the United States is from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island; and

(C) When a passenger on a journey in transit through the United States to a foreign destination arrives in the customs territory of the United States from Canada, Mexico, one of the territories and possessions of the United States, or an adjacent island and is processed by Customs.

(5) Quarterly payment and statement procedures. Payment to Customs of the fees required to be collected under paragraph (g)(1) of this section must be made no later than 31 days after the close of the calendar quarter in which the fees were required to be collected from the passenger. Payment of the fees must be made, in accordance with the procedures set forth in this paragraph and paragraph (i) of this section, by the party required to collect the fee under paragraph (g)(4)(1) of this section. Each quarterly fee payment must be sent to the following address: U.S. Customs Service, National Finance Center, Collections Section, P.O. Box 68907, Indianapolis, IN 46268 (or, if for overnight delivery, to: the same addressee at 6026 Lakeside Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46278). Overpayments and underpayments may be accounted for by an explanation with, and adjustment of, the next due quarterly payment to Customs. The quarterly payment must be accompanied by a statement that includes the following information:

(i) The name and address of the party remitting payment;

(ii) The taxpayer identification number of the party remitting payment;

(iii) The calendar quarter covered by the payment;

(iv) The total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected, and the total amount of fees collected and remitted; and

(v) For commercial vessel passengers, the total number of tickets for which fees were required to be collected, the total number of infants traveling without a ticket or travel document for which fees were required to be collected, the total amount of fees collected and remitted to Customs, and a separate breakdown of the foregoing information relative to the $5 vessel passenger fee collected and remitted under paragraph (g)(1)(i) of this section and the $1.75 vessel passenger fee collected and remitted under paragraph (g)(1)(ii) of this section.

(i) Information submission and fee remittance procedures. In addition to any information specified elsewhere in this section, each payment made by mail must be accompanied by information identifying the person or organization remitting the fee, the type of fee being remitted (for example, railroad car, commercial truck, private vessel), and the time period to which the payment applies. All fee payments required under this section must be in the amounts prescribed and must be made in U.S. currency, or by check or money order payable to the United States Customs Service, in accordance with the provisions of § 24.1 of this part. Authorization for making payments electronically can be obtained by writing to the National Finance Center, Collections Section, 6026 Lakeside Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46278. Where payment is made at a Customs port, credit cards will be accepted only where the port is equipped to accept credit cards for the type of payment being made. If payment is made by check or money order, the check or money order must be annotated with the appropriate class code. The applicable class codes and payment locations for each fee are as follows:

RIN 2115–AA97

Security Zone; Portland Rose Festival on Willamette River

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard proposes a temporary security zone surrounding the City of Portland's Waterfront Park to include all waters of the Willamette River, from surface to bottom, between the Hawthorne and Steel bridges and underneath these bridges. Recent terrorist attacks against the United States necessitate this action to properly safeguard all vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival from terrorism, sabotage, or other subversive acts. We anticipate the security zone will have limited effects on commercial traffic and significant effects on recreational boaters; ensuring timely escorts through this security zone is a high priority of the Captain of the Port.

DATES: Comments and related material must reach the Coast Guard no later than May 2, 2002.

ADDRESSES: You may mail comments and related material to U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland, 6767 N. Basin Ave, Portland, Oregon 97217. Comments and material received from the public, as well as documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, will become part of this docket and will be available for inspection or copying at U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Lieutenant Junior Grade Jeff Pile, c/o Captain of the Port, Portland Oregon at (503) 240-2585.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Request for Comments

We encourage you to participate in this rulemaking by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this rulemaking (CGD13-02-002), indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know your submission reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period. We may change this proposed rule in view of them.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to U.S. Coast Guard Marine Safety Office/Group Portland at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid this rulemaking, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

This security zone is necessary to provide for the safety and security of vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival in the navigable waters of the United States.

Discussion of Proposed Rule

This rule, for safety and security concerns, would control vessel movements in a regulated area surrounding vessels participating in the 2002 Portland Rose Festival. U.S. Naval Vessels are covered under 33 CFR 165 subpart G—Protection of Naval Vessels; however, the Portland Rose Festival is a major maritime event that draws many different vessels including Navy, Coast Guard, Army Corps of Engineers, and Canadian. It is crucial that the same level of security be provided to all participating vessels. Entry into this zone would be prohibited unless authorized by the Captain of the Port, Portland or his designated representatives. Commercial vessels that typically transit this section of the Willamette River will be pre-designated and will suffer only minor inconveniences.

Recreational vessels may suffer from extended delays and can anticipate a vessel inspection. Recreational vessels are encouraged to avoid this area. Recreational vessels will be allowed into the zone on a case-by-case basis following extensive security measures, and as operations permit. Coast Guard personnel will enforce this security zone and the Captain of the Port may be assisted by other federal, state, or local agencies.

Good cause exists to shorten the notice and comment period of this notice of proposed rulemaking. The normal 90 day comment period has been shortened to 45 days to allow the Coast Guard to evaluate all comments received, make appropriate modifications to the proposed rule, and publish the final rule at least 30 days prior to the implementation of the security zone. Although this annual event was known to the Coast Guard well in advance, this notice was not published earlier due to extensive additional considerations that needed to be addressed following the increased security measures necessary to properly safeguard military assets following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States.

Regulatory Evaluation

This proposed rule is not a “significant regulatory action” under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not “significant” under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT) (44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this proposed rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10e of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary.

This expectation is based on adequate resources allowing vessel approvals from the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives to transit through the regulated area. For the above reasons, the Coast Guard only anticipates minor economic impact.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612), we have considered whether this proposed rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term “small entities” comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this proposed rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This proposed rule would affect the following entities, some of which might be small entities: the owners or operators of vessels intending to transit or anchor in this portion of the Willamette River. The likely impacts to small entities would include minor time delays, potential inspections, and possibly non-entrance if the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives sense the vessels participating in the Rose Festival are threatened. The security zone will not have a significant economic impact because adequate resources will allow vessels timely approval from the Captain of the Port or his designated representatives to transit through the regulated area.

If you think that your business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction qualifies as a small entity and that this rule would have a significant economic impact on it, please submit a comment (see ADDRESSES) explaining why you think it qualifies and how and to what degree this rule would economically affect it.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104–121), we want to assist small entities in understanding this proposed rule so that they can better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking. If the proposed rule would affect your small business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction and you have questions concerning its provisions or options for compliance, please contact the person listed in the FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT section.

Collection of Information

This proposed rule would call for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this proposed rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531–1538) requires Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this proposed rule would not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This proposed rule would not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This proposed rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and would not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that might disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This proposed rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it would not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes. We invite your comments on how this proposed rule might impact tribal governments, even if that impact may not constitute a “tribal implication” under the Order.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a “significant energy action” under that order because it is not a “significant regulatory action” under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this proposed rule and concluded that, under figure 2–1, paragraph (34)(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.1D, this rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation because the temporary security zone would not last longer than one week in duration. The temporary security zone would be established on Wednesday, June 5, 2002, with the arrival of the first vessel to the City of Portland’s Waterfront Park and extend until the last vessel departs the Waterfront Park on Monday, June 10, 2002. A “Categorical Exclusion Determination” is available in the docket where indicated under ADDRESSES.

RIN 2115–AA97

Security Zone; Ohio River Mile 34.6 to 35.1, Shippingport, Pennsylvania

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Coast Guard proposes to establish a security zone encompassing all waters extending 200 feet from the shoreline of the left descending bank on the Ohio River, beginning from mile marker 34.6 and ending at mile marker 35.1. This security zone is necessary to protect the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant in Shippingport, Pennsylvania, from any and all subversive actions from any groups or individuals whose objective it is to cause disruption to the daily operations of the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant. Entry of vessels into this security zone is prohibited unless authorized by the Coast Guard Captain of the Port St. Louis or his designated representative.

DATES: Comments and related material must reach the Coast Guard on or before April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: You may mail comments and related material to Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh, Suite 1150 Kossman Bldg., 100 Forbes Ave. Pittsburgh, PA 15222–1371. Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh maintains the public docket for this rulemaking. Comments and material received from the public, as well as documents indicated in this preamble as being available in the docket, will become part of this docket and will be available for inspection or copying at Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh, Suite 1150 Kossman Bldg., 100 Forbes Ave. Pittsburgh, PA between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, except Federal holidays.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Chief Petty Officer Brian Smith, Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh at (412) 644-5808.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Request for Comments

We encourage you to participate in this rulemaking by submitting comments and related material. If you do so, please include your name and address, identify the docket number for this rulemaking [COTP Pittsburgh 02-005], indicate the specific section of this document to which each comment applies, and give the reason for each comment. Please submit all comments and related material in an unbound format, no larger than 8½ by 11 inches, suitable for copying. If you would like to know that your submission reached us, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed postcard or envelope. We will consider all comments and material received during the comment period. We may change this proposed rule in view of them.

Public Meeting

We do not now plan to hold a public meeting. But you may submit a request for a meeting by writing to Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh at the address under ADDRESSES explaining why one would be beneficial. If we determine that one would aid this rulemaking, we will hold one at a time and place announced by a separate notice in the Federal Register.

Background and Purpose

On September 11, 2001, both towers of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon were attacked by terrorists. In response to these terrorist acts, heightened awareness and security of our ports and harbors is necessary. To immediately enhance that security the Captain of the Port, Pittsburgh established a temporary security zone on the Ohio River in the vicinity of the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant, in Shippingport, PA. The temporary final rule was published March 4, 2002 in the Federal Register Volume 67, Number 42, page 9589 (67 FR 9589) and remains in effect until 8 a.m. on June 15, 2002.

Because the generalized high-level threat environment has persisted longer than expected, the Captain of the Port, Pittsburgh has determined that there is a need for this security zone to remain in effect indefinitely. This security zone will reduce the risk of a terrorist incident in this generalized high-level threat environment. It reduces the potential of a waterborne attack on the facility enhancing public health and safety, and common defense and security, at this location and surrounding areas.

The location of this security zone will limit access to only the waters immediately adjacent to the facility and will permit vessels to safely navigate around the facility. Navigation around the facility will not be hindered by the establishment of this security zone.

Discussion of Proposed Rule

A security zone is proposed for all water extending 200 feet from the shoreline of the left descending bank on the Ohio River from mile marker 34.6 to 35.1. This zone is designed to increase protection for the First Energy Nuclear Power Plant in Shippingport, PA. This security zone will reduce the risk of a terrorist incident in this generalized high-level threat environment. It reduces the potential of a waterborne attack on the facility enhancing public health and safety, and common defense and security, at this location and surrounding areas. All vessels are prohibited from entering the zone without the permission of the Captain of the Port Pittsburgh.

Regulatory Evaluation

This proposed rule is not a "significant regulatory action" under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, and does not require an assessment of potential costs and benefits under section 6(a)(3) of that Order. The Office of Management and Budget has not reviewed it under that Order. It is not "significant" under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation (DOT)(44 FR 11040, February 26, 1979).

We expect the economic impact of this proposed rule to be so minimal that a full Regulatory Evaluation under paragraph 10e of the regulatory policies and procedures of DOT is unnecessary. This rule will not obstruct the regular flow of vessel traffic and will allow vessel traffic to pass safely around the security zone and vessels may be permitted to enter the security zone on a case-by-case basis.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601-612), we have considered

whether this proposed rule would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The term "small entities" comprises small businesses, not-for-profit organizations that are independently owned and operated and are not dominant in their fields, and governmental jurisdictions with populations of less than 50,000.

The Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this proposed rule would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

This security zone will not have an impact on a substantial number of small entities because this proposed rule will not obstruct the regular flow of vessel traffic and will allow vessel traffic to pass safely around the security zone.

If you think that your business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction qualifies as a small entity and that this rule would have a significant economic impact on it, please submit a comment (see ADDRESSES) explaining why you think it qualifies and how and to what degree this rule would economically affect it.

Assistance for Small Entities

Under section 213(a) of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-121), we want to assist small entities in understanding this proposed rule so that they can better evaluate its effects on them and participate in the rulemaking. If the proposed rule would affect your small business, organization, or governmental jurisdiction and you have questions concerning its provisions or options for compliance, please contact Chief Petty Officer Brian Smith, Marine Safety Office Pittsburgh at (412) 644-5808.

Collection of Information

This proposed rule would call for no new collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501-3520).

Federalism

A rule has implications for federalism under Executive Order 13132, Federalism, if it has a substantial direct effect on State or local governments and would either preempt State law or impose a substantial direct cost of compliance on them. We have analyzed this proposed rule under that Order and have determined that it does not have implications for federalism.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act

The Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1531-1538) requires

Federal agencies to assess the effects of their discretionary regulatory actions. In particular, the Act addresses actions that may result in the expenditure by a State, local, or tribal government, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100,000,000 or more in any one year. Though this proposed rule would not result in such an expenditure, we do discuss the effects of this proposed rule elsewhere in this preamble.

Taking of Private Property

This proposed rule would not effect a taking of private property or otherwise have taking implications under Executive Order 12630, Governmental Actions and Interference with Constitutionally Protected Property Rights.

Civil Justice Reform

This proposed rule meets applicable standards in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform, to minimize litigation, eliminate ambiguity, and reduce burden.

Protection of Children

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13045, Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks. This rule is not an economically significant rule and would not create an environmental risk to health or risk to safety that might disproportionately affect children.

Indian Tribal Governments

This proposed rule does not have tribal implications under Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, because it would not have a substantial direct effect on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal Government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal Government and Indian tribes. We invite your comments on how this proposed rule might impact tribal governments, even if that impact may not constitute a "tribal implication" under the Order.

Energy Effects

We have analyzed this proposed rule under Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use. We have determined that it is not a "significant energy action" under that order because it is not a "significant regulatory action" under Executive Order 12866 and is not likely to have a significant adverse effect on the supply, distribution, or use of energy. It has not been designated by the Administrator of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs as a significant energy action. Therefore, it does not require a Statement of Energy Effects under Executive Order 13211.

Environment

We have considered the environmental impact of this proposed rule and concluded that, under figure 2-1, paragraph (34)(g), of Commandant Instruction M16475.ID, this proposed rule is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation because this rule is not expected to result in any significant adverse environmental impact as described in the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA). A "Categorical Exclusion Determination" is available in the docket where indicated under ADDRESSES.

Allethrin; Proposed Revocation of Tolerances

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This document proposes to revoke specific tolerances for residues of the insecticide allethrin because this pesticide is no longer registered on their associated food uses in the United States. EPA expects to determine whether any individuals or groups want to support these tolerances. The regulatory actions proposed in this document contribute toward the Agency's tolerance reassessment requirements of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA) section 408(q), as amended by the Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA) of 1996. By law, EPA is required by August 2002 to reassess 66% of the tolerances in existence on August 2, 1996, or about 6,400 tolerances. The regulatory actions proposed in this document pertain to the proposed revocation of 60 tolerances and exemptions which would be counted among tolerance/exemption reassessments made toward the August 2002 review deadline.

DATES: Comments, identified by docket control number OPP-301220, must be received on or before May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments may be submitted by mail, electronically, or in person. Please follow the detailed instructions for each method as provided in Unit I. of the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION. To ensure proper receipt by EPA, it is imperative that you identify docket control number OPP-301220 in the subject line on the first page of your response.

If you have any questions about CBI or the procedures for claiming CBI, please consult the person listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.

E. What Should I Consider as I Prepare My Comments for EPA?

You may find the following suggestions helpful for preparing your comments:

1. Explain your views as clearly as possible.
2. Describe any assumptions that you used.
3. Provide copies of any technical information and/or data you used that support your views.

5. Provide specific examples to illustrate your concerns.
6. Offer alternative ways to improve the proposed rule or collection activity.
7. Make sure to submit your comments by the deadline in this document.
8. To ensure proper receipt by EPA, be sure to identify the docket control number assigned to this action in the subject line on the first page of your response. You may also provide the name, date, and Federal Register citation.

F. What Can I do if I Wish the Agency to Maintain a Tolerance that the Agency Proposes to Revoke?

This proposed rule provides a comment period of 60 days for any person to state an interest in retaining a tolerance proposed for revocation. If EPA receives a comment within the 60-day period to that effect, EPA will not proceed to revoke the tolerance immediately. However, EPA will take steps to ensure the submission of any needed supporting data and will issue an order in the Federal Register under FFDCA section 408(f) if needed. The order would specify data needed and the time frames for its submission, and would require that within 90 days some person or persons notify EPA that they will submit the data. If the data are not submitted as required in the order, EPA will take appropriate action under FFDCA.

EPA issues a final rule after considering comments that are submitted in response to this proposed rule. In addition to submitting comments in response to this proposal, you may also submit an objection at the time of the final rule. If you fail to file an objection to the final rule within the time period specified, you will have waived the right to raise any issues resolved in the final rule. After the specified time, issues resolved in the final rule cannot be raised again in any subsequent proceedings.

II. Background

A. What Action is the Agency Taking?

EPA is proposing to revoke specific tolerances and exemptions for residues of allethrin in or on commodities listed in the regulatory text because allethrin is no longer registered under FIFRA for use on those commodities. Many food use registrations for allethrin were canceled in 1989 and 1991 due to non-payment of maintenance fees. (Only the following food uses remain: Barley, grain; corn; mushrooms; oats, grain; rye, grain; sorghum, grain; and wheat, grain). It is EPA's general practice to propose revocation of those tolerances for residues of pesticide active ingredients on crops for which there are no active registered uses under FIFRA, unless any person in comments on the proposal indicates a need for the tolerance to cover residues in or on imported commodities or domestic commodities legally treated. Therefore, EPA is proposing to revoke the tolerances in 40 CFR 180.113 for residues of allethrin in or on apples, blackberries, blueberries (huckleberries), boysenberries, cherries, crabapples, currants, dewberries, figs, gooseberries, grapes, guavas, loganberries, mangoes, muskmelons, oranges, peaches, pears, pineapples, plums (fresh prunes), raspberries, and tomatoes.

Also, EPA is proposing to revoke the exemption from the requirement of a tolerance in 40 CFR 180.1002 for residues of allethrin in or on apples, artichokes (Jerusalem), beans, beets, beets, sugar; broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, chickory, Chinese cabbage, citrus, collards, endive, escarole, garlic, horseradish, kale, kohlrabi, leeks, lettuce, mustard greens, onions, parsley, parsnips, peaches, pears, peppers, potatoes, radishes, rutabagas, salsify, shallots, spinach, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, and turnips. In addition, the Agency is proposing to remove the exemption in 40 CFR 180.1002 for "sorghum (milo)" because that exemption is no longer needed since use of allethrin before harvest in the production of that commodity is covered by the existing exemption for "sorghum, grain."

For FQPA reassessment purposes, EPA counts "endive" and "escarole" in 180.1002 as one exemption "endive (escarole)" and expects in a final rule to count a total of 60 tolerances and exemptions as reassessed. EPA does not expect to count removal of the "sorghum (milo)" exemption as a reassessment in a final rule because the use will remain covered by the existing "sorghum, grain" exemption.

Moreover, in order to conform to current Agency practice, EPA is proposing to revise tolerance commodity terminology names in 40 CFR 180.113 as follows: for the grains "corn" to "corn, field, grain" and "corn, pop, grain;" "oats" to "oat, grain;" and "grain, sorghum, milo" to "sorghum, grain, grain." In addition, EPA is proposing to revise tolerance commodity terminology names in 40 CFR 180.1002 as follows: for "corn" to "corn, field" and "corn, pop;" and "mushrooms" to "mushroom."

B. What is the Agency's Authority for Taking this Action?

A "tolerance" represents the maximum level for residues of pesticide chemicals legally allowed in or on raw agricultural commodities and processed foods. Section 408 of FFDCA, 21 U.S.C. 301 et seq., as amended by the FQPA of 1996, Public Law 104-170, authorizes the establishment of tolerances, exemptions from tolerance requirements, modifications in tolerances, and revocation of tolerances for residues of pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities and processed foods (21 U.S.C. 346(a)). Without a tolerance or exemption, food containing pesticide residues is considered to be unsafe and therefore "adulterated" under section 402(a) of the FFDCA. If food containing pesticide residues is considered to be "adulterated," you may not distribute the product in interstate commerce (21 U.S.C. 331(a) and 342(a)). For a food-use pesticide to be sold and distributed, the pesticide must not only have appropriate tolerances under the FFDCA, but also must be registered under FIFRA (7 U.S.C. et seq.). Food-use pesticides not registered in the United States have tolerances for residues of pesticides in or on commodities imported into the United States.

EPA's general practice is to propose revocation of tolerances for residues of pesticide active ingredients on crops for which FIFRA registrations no longer exist and on which the pesticide may therefore no longer be used in the United States. EPA has historically been concerned that retention of tolerances that are not necessary to cover residues in or on legally treated foods may encourage misuse of pesticides within the United States. Nonetheless, EPA will establish and maintain tolerances even when corresponding domestic uses are canceled if the tolerances, which EPA refers to as "import tolerances," are necessary to allow importation into the United States of food containing such pesticide residues. However, where there are no imported commodities that require these import tolerances, the Agency believes it is appropriate to revoke tolerances for unregistered pesticides in order to prevent potential misuse.

Furthermore, as a general matter, the Agency believes that retention of import tolerances not needed to cover any imported food may result in unnecessary restriction on trade of pesticides and foods. Under section 408 of the FFDCA, a tolerance may only be established or maintained if EPA determines that the tolerance is safe based on a number of factors, including an assessment of the aggregate exposure to the pesticide and an assessment of the cumulative effects of such pesticide and other substances that have a common mechanism of toxicity. In doing so, EPA must consider potential contributions to such exposure from all tolerances. If the cumulative risk is such that the tolerances in aggregate are not safe, then every one of these tolerances is potentially vulnerable to revocation. Furthermore, if unneeded tolerances are included in the aggregate and cumulative risk assessments, the estimated exposure to the pesticide would be inflated. Consequently, it may be more difficult for others to obtain needed tolerances or to register needed new uses. To avoid potential trade restrictions, the Agency is proposing to revoke tolerances for residues on crops uses for which FIFRA registrations no longer exist, unless someone expresses a need for such tolerances. Through this proposed rule, the Agency is inviting individuals who need these import tolerances to identify themselves and the tolerances that are needed to cover imported commodities.

Parties interested in retention of the tolerances should be aware that additional data may be needed to support retention. These parties should be aware that, under FFDCA section 408(f), if the Agency determines that additional information is reasonably required to support the continuation of a tolerance, EPA may require that parties interested in maintaining the tolerances provide the necessary information. If the requisite information is not submitted, EPA may issue an order revoking the tolerance at issue.

C. When do These Actions Become Effective?

EPA is proposing that revocation of the tolerances and exemptions for allethrin become effective 90 days following publication of a final rule in the Federal Register. EPA is proposing to delay the effectiveness of these revocations for 90 days following publication of a final rule to ensure that all affected parties receive notice of EPA's actions. If you have comments regarding these tolerance revocations or the effective date of the revocations, please submit comments as described under SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION.

Any commodities listed in this proposal treated with the pesticides subject to this proposal, and in the channels of trade following the tolerance revocations, shall be subject to FFDCA section 408(1)(5), as established by FQPA. Under this section, any residues of these pesticides in or on such food shall not render the food adulterated so long as it is shown to the satisfaction of the Food and Drug Administration that, (1) the residue is present as the result of an application or use of the pesticide at a time and in a manner that was lawful under FIFRA, and (2) the residue does not exceed the level that was authorized at the time of the application or use to be present on the food under a tolerance or exemption from tolerance. Evidence to show that food was lawfully treated may include records that verify the dates that the pesticide was applied to such food.

D. What is the Contribution to Tolerance Reassessment?

By law, EPA is required to reassess 66% or about 6,400 of the tolerances in existence on August 2, 1996, by August 2002. EPA is also required to assess the remaining tolerances by August 2006. As of March 7, 2002, EPA has reassessed over 3,910 tolerances. This document proposes to revoke 60 tolerances and exemptions which would be counted as reassessments in a final rule toward the

August 2002 review deadline of FFDCA section 408(q), as amended by FQPA in 1996.

III. Are the Proposed Actions Consistent with International Obligations?

The tolerance revocations in this proposal are not discriminatory and are designed to ensure that both domestically produced and imported foods meet the food safety standards established by the FFDCA. The same food safety standards apply to domestically produced and imported foods.

EPA is working to ensure that the U.S. tolerance reassessment program under FQPA does not disrupt international trade. EPA considers Codex Maximum Residue Limits (MRLs) in setting U.S. tolerances and in reassessing them. MRLs are established by the Codex Committee on Pesticide Residues, a committee within the Codex Alimentarius Commission, an international organization formed to promote the coordination of international food standards. It is EPA's policy to harmonize U.S. tolerances with Codex MRLs to the extent possible, provided that the MRLs achieve the level of protection required under FFDCA. EPA's effort to harmonize with Codex MRLs is summarized in the tolerance reassessment section of individual Reregistration Eligibility Decision documents. EPA has developed guidance concerning submissions for import tolerance support (65 FR 35069, June 1, 2000) (FRL-6559-3). This guidance will be made available to interested persons. Electronic copies are available on the internet at <http://www.epa.gov/>. On the Home Page select "Laws and Regulations," then select "Regulations and Proposed Rules" and then look up the entry for this document under "Federal Register—Environmental Documents." You can also go directly to the "Federal Register" listings at <http://www.epa.gov/fedrgstr/>.

IV. Regulatory Assessment Requirements

In this proposed rule, EPA is proposing to revoke specific tolerances and exemptions established under FFDCA section 408. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has exempted this type of action (i.e., a tolerance revocation for which extraordinary circumstances do not exist) from review under Executive Order 12866, entitled Regulatory Planning and Review (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993). Because this proposed rule has been exempted from review under Executive Order 12866 due to its lack of significance, this proposed rule is not subject to Executive Order 13211, Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use (66 FR 28355, May 22, 2001). This proposed rule does not contain any information collections subject to OMB approval under the Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA), 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq., or impose any enforceable duty or contain any unfunded mandate as described under Title II of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (UMRA) (Public Law 104-4). Nor does it require any special considerations as required by Executive Order 12898, entitled Federal Actions to Address Environmental Justice in Minority Populations and Low-Income Populations (59 FR 7629, February 16, 1994); or OMB review or any other Agency action under Executive Order 13045, entitled Protection of Children from Environmental Health Risks and Safety Risks (62 FR 19885, April 23, 1997). This action does not involve any technical standards that would require Agency consideration of voluntary consensus standards pursuant to section 12(d) of the National Technology Transfer and Advancement Act of 1995 (NTTAA), Public Law 104-113, section 12(d) (15 U.S.C. 272 note). Pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Agency previously assessed whether revocations of tolerances might significantly impact a substantial number of small entities and concluded that, as a general matter, these actions do not impose a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This analysis was published on December 17, 1997 (62 FR 66020), and was provided to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration. Taking into account this analysis, and available information concerning the pesticides listed in this proposed rule, I certify that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Specifically, as per the 1997 notice, EPA has reviewed its available data on imports and foreign pesticide usage and concludes that there is a reasonable international supply of food not treated with canceled pesticides. Furthermore, for the pesticide named in this proposed rule, the Agency knows of no extraordinary circumstances that exist as to the present proposed revocations that would change EPA's previous analysis. Any comments about the Agency's determination should be submitted to EPA along with comments on the proposal, and will be addressed prior to EPA issuing a final rule.

In addition, the Agency has determined that this action will not have a substantial direct effect on States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government, as specified in Executive Order 13132, entitled Federalism (64 FR 43255, August 10, 1999). Executive Order 13132 requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by State and local officials in the development of regulatory policies that have federalism implications." "Policies that have federalism implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government." This proposed rule directly regulates growers, food processors, food handlers and food retailers, not States. This action does not alter the relationships or distribution of power and responsibilities established by Congress in the preemption provisions of FFDCA section 408(n)(4). For these same reasons, the Agency has determined that this proposed rule does not have any "tribal implications" as described in Executive Order 13175, entitled Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments (65 FR 67249, November 6, 2000). Executive Order 13175, requires EPA to develop an accountable process to ensure "meaningful and timely input by tribal officials in the development of regulatory policies that have tribal implications." "Policies that have tribal implications" is defined in the Executive Order to include regulations that have "substantial direct effects on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal government and the Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes." This proposed rule will not have substantial direct effects on tribal governments, on the relationship between the Federal government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes, as specified in Executive Order 13175. Thus, Executive Order 13175 does not apply to this proposed rule.

Medicare Program; Town Hall Meeting on Payment for Certain Drugs, Biologicals, and Devices under the Hospital Outpatient Prospective Payment System for Calendar Year 2003

AGENCY: Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), HHS.

ACTION: Notice of meeting.

SUMMARY: This notice announces a town hall meeting to discuss the payment for drugs, biologicals, and devices that are eligible for transitional pass-through payments under the hospital outpatient prospective payment system (OPPS) for calendar year 2003. Specifically, the meeting will focus on how the cost of drugs, (including radiopharmaceuticals), biologicals, and devices should be recognized under the hospital OPPS. Providers, physicians, hospitals, coding specialists, and other interested parties are invited to this meeting to present their views on these issues. We will consider the opinions and advice provided during this meeting as we prepare our annual proposed rule that would update the OPPS. The meeting is open to the public, but attendance is limited to space available.

DATE: Meeting Date: The town hall meeting announced in this notice will be held on Friday, April 5, 2002, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. (eastern standard time).

ADDRESSES: The town hall meeting will be held in the multipurpose room at the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, 7500 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, MD 21244.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 (Pub. L. 105-33), enacted on August 5, 1997, amended the Social Security Act (the Act) by adding section 1833(t) to the Act. This section authorized the implementation of a hospital outpatient prospective payment system (OPPS) for hospital outpatient services.

The OPPS is comprised of ambulatory payment classification groups, relative weights, and payment rates. The Balanced Budget Refinement Act of 1999 (Pub. L. 106-113), enacted on November 29, 1999, amended section 1833(t)(6) of the Act. This section authorized transitional pass-through payments for certain drugs, biologicals, and devices. These drugs, biologicals, and devices include those that were not being paid for as a hospital outpatient service as of December 31, 1996 and for which the cost is not insignificant in relation to the OPPS payment for the procedures associated with the drug, biological, or device. The Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP Benefits Improvement and Protection Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-554), enacted on December 21, 2000, amended this provision to permit transitional pass-through payment for some older devices as well. By statute, transitional pass-through payment status extends at least 2 years, but no more than 3 years. Beginning January 1, 2003, almost all of the items that are eligible for transitional pass-through payments will reach the end of their eligibility for pass-through payments. Therefore, their costs must be recognized through other means under the OPPS. Participants at the town hall meeting are invited to share their opinions about how these items should be treated under the OPPS for calendar year (CY) 2003.

II. Meeting Format

The meeting will begin with an introduction of the OPPS, focusing on the treatment of transitional passthrough payments for drugs, biologicals, and devices under the OPPS for CY 2003. The remainder of the meeting will be reserved for statements from interested parties on this issue.

We will limit the time for participants to make a statement according to the number of registered participants. Individuals who wish to make a statement must contact Roechel Kujawa as soon as possible. Those individuals must subsequently mail their written submission no later than 5 p.m., Monday, April 1, 2002. Send written submissions to: Roechel Kujawa, Division of Outpatient Care, Center for Medicare Management, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, 7500 Security Boulevard, Mail Stop C4-05-25, Baltimore, Maryland 21244. All written submissions must be received no later than 5 p.m., Monday, April 1, 2002, at the above address. Comments from individuals not registered to speak will be heard after scheduled statements, if time permits.

III. Registration Instructions

The Division of Outpatient Care is coordinating meeting registration. While there is no registration fee, all individuals must register to attend. Because this meeting will be located on Federal property, for security reasons, any persons wishing to attend this meeting must call Roechel Kujawa to register at least 72 hours in advance. Attendees must show photographic identification to the Federal Protective Service or Guard Service personnel before they will be permitted to enter the building. Individuals who have not registered in advance will not be allowed to enter the building to attend the meeting. Seating capacity is limited to the first 250 registrants.

Individuals requiring sign language interpretation for the hearing impaired or other special accommodations should contact Roechel Kujawa at least 10 days before the meeting.

Fisheries of West Coast States and in the Western Pacific; Fishery Management Plan

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of availability of a fishery management plan; request for comments.

SUMMARY: NMFS announces that the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council (Council) has submitted a Coral Reef Ecosystems Fishery Management Plan for the Western Pacific Region (CREFMP) for Secretarial review under the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (Magnuson-Stevens Act). The CREFMP, an ecosystem-based plan, is intended to conserve and manage the coral reef ecosystems and associated habitats in the U.S. exclusive economic zones (EEZ) around American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI), and the remote U.S. Pacific island areas (PRIAs) in the Pacific Ocean. Its goal is to maintain sustainable coral reef fisheries while protecting stocks, habitat, protected species, and coral reef ecosystems from adverse impacts.

DATES: Comments on the CREFMP must be received no later than 5 p.m., Hawaii Standard Time May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments should be sent to Dr. Charles Karnella, Administrator, Pacific Islands Area Office, NMFS, 1161 Kapiolani Blvd, Suite 110, Honolulu, HI 96815. Comments will not be accepted if submitted via e-mail or the Internet.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Kitty Simonds, Executive Director, Western Pacific Fishery Management Council, at (808) 522-8220. The CREFMP is available at the Council's website, www.wpcouncil.org.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: As authorized under the Magnuson-Stevens Act, the Council has developed and submitted for Secretarial review a CREFMP and associated amendments to the fishery management plans for western Pacific bottomfish and seamount groundfish fisheries

(Amendment 7), crustacean fisheries (Amendment 11), precious coral fisheries (Amendment 5,) and pelagic fisheries (Amendment 10). The CREFMP is an ecosystem-based fishery management plan that covers the coral reef ecosystems and adjacent marine habitats in the EEZ around American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii (main and Northwestern Hawaiian Islands or NWHI), CNMI, and the mostly uninhabited PRIAs. The PRIAs consist of Johnston and Palmyra Atolls, Kingman Reef, Jarvis, Howland, Baker and Wake Islands, and Midway Atoll. The vast majority of the total area covered by coral reefs under U.S. jurisdiction is located in the western Pacific region and would be covered by this FMP.

Development of the CREFMP began in 1996. The Council held scoping hearings in June 1999 to obtain public input on a new fishery management plan. On January 10, 2001, NMFS published a Notice of Availability (66 FR 1945) of a draft CREFMP. Public meetings and hearings were held on the draft CREFMP between January 16 and February 5, 2001. At its 110th meeting (June 21, 2001), the Council took final action on the FMP and approved its submission to NMFS for Secretarial review.

The conservation and management measures would: (1) Establish no-take marine protected areas (MPAs) (where the harvest of any management unit species listed under any FMP is prohibited) within Federal waters from 0-50 fathoms (fm) (0-50 91.5 m) (around French Frigate Shoals and Laysan Island (NWHI), Rose Atoll (American Samoa), the north half of Midway Atoll, Jarvis, Howland, and Baker Islands, and Kingman Reef (PRIAs), and from 0-10 fm throughout the remaining NWHI, except around Midway Atoll; (2) establish low-use MPAs (where the harvest of CREFMP management unit species is allowed on a case-by-case basis only after a review and determination that proposed activities would not harm the ecosystem) within Federal waters from 10-50 fm (18.3 m-91.5 m) around all other NWHI, and from 0-50 fm (0-91.5 m) around Palmyra, Johnston, and Wake, and the south half of Midway Atoll; (3) require special permits for the harvesting of any CREFMP management unit species in low-use MPAs, and for the harvesting of Potentially Harvested Coral Reef Taxa throughout the EEZ, except for (a) Incidental harvests by other western Pacific fisheries management plan permit holders and, (b) any harvest within three nautical miles (nm) of the CNMI; (4) restrict the use of fishing gear

types to allow only the following gears for the directed harvest of any CREFMP management unit species throughout the EEZ: Hand harvest, spear, slurp gun, hand/dip net, hoop net for Kona crab, throw net, barrier net for aquarium fish, surround/purse net for targeted schools (e.g., akule, baitfish, weke) with a minimum of bycatch, hook-and-line (including powered and unpowered handlines, rod and reel, and trolling), traps (with conditions), and remote operating vehicles/submersibles; (5) prohibit nighttime spearfishing for CREFMP management unit species with SCUBA/hookah in the EEZ around the NWHI and PRIAs; (6) require that nets be attended at all times, except hoop nets for Kona crabs; (7) require that all traps on board a vessel must be permanently and legibly marked to identify the owner; (8) prohibit the take of live rock or live coral throughout the western Pacific EEZ, except for (a) incidental take by other fishery management plan permit holders, (b) take by indigenous people for traditional or ceremonial use, (c) use by aquaculture operations as seed stock, (d) science and management, and (e) bio-prospecting (note: takes of live coral or live coral under exceptions (b)-(e) require special permits); (9) require that all fishing vessels (including those permitted under fishery management plans for bottomfish/seamount ground fish, crustaceans, precious corals, pelagic) carry insurance as a condition for transiting or operating in all MPAs; (10) establish a no-anchoring zone on Guam's offshore Southern banks by fishing vessels greater than 50 ft (15.24 m) in length; (11) establish Federal reporting requirements (daily reports on catch, effort, discards, etc.) for special permit holders and transshipment permit holders, as well as notification requirements for vessel operators prior to entering any low-use MPA, or landing CREFMP management unit species harvested from these low-use MPAs; and (12) establish CREFMP framework procedures to facilitate implementation of future regulatory amendments.

The Council initially identified some measures for possible framework action: (a) Designating zones in the U.S. EEZ where mooring buoys will be installed to protect essential fish habitat (EFH) from anchor damage; (b) requiring fishing vessels to carry remote electronic vessel monitoring systems as part of an effective monitoring and enforcement system for State and Federal agencies; (c) requiring permits to fish for Currently Harvested Coral Reef Taxa throughout the EEZ, in the event that regional management is determined to be inadequate to protect the species and/or ecosystem; (d) transferring CREFMP management unit species from the Potentially Harvested Coral Reef Taxa list to the Currently Harvested Coral Reef Taxa list when sufficient information has been gathered; and (e) designating a percentage of low-use MPA waters for sole use by indigenous people.

The CREFMP also contains non-regulatory measures consistent with CREFMP objectives that would be undertaken by the Council outside of the regulatory regime. These include a process and criteria for EFH consultations; formal plan team coordination to identify and to address coral reef ecosystem impacts from existing fishery management plan fisheries; a system to facilitate consistent state and territorial level management; and research and education efforts.

[Note: Executive Order 13178 (December 4, 2000) and Executive Order 13196 (January 18, 2001) designated the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve (Reserve) in those ocean waters that lie within 50 nm of the NWHI, excluding state waters and waters within the boundaries of the Hawaiian Islands National Wildlife Refuge and the Midway Atoll National Wildlife Refuge. In compliance with Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, within the Reserve, NOAA is implementing a comprehensive management regime to govern fishing and protect coral reef resources. Because the CREFMP contains management measures governing activity in, among other areas, the same geographic area as the Reserve and several of those measures conflict with the management regime already existing pursuant to the NWHI Reserve established by Executive Order 13178 and Executive Order 13196, the Secretary of Commerce is likely to partially disapprove those parts of the CREFMP that govern fishing in the NWHI.]

Public comments on CREFMP must be received by May 17, 2002, to be considered by NMFS in the decision whether to approve the CREFMP. A proposed rule to implement CREFMP has been submitted for Secretarial review and approval. NMFS expects to publish and request comments on the proposed regulations to implement CREFMP in the near future.

APHIS documents published in the Federal Register, and related information, including the names of organizations and individuals who have commented on APHIS dockets, are available on the Internet at <http://www.aphis.gov/ppd/rad/webrepor.html>.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Dr. David Heron, Plant Protection and Quarantine, APHIS, Suite 5B05, 4700 River Road Unit 147, Riverdale, MD 20737-1236; (301) 734-5141. To obtain a copy of the petition or the environmental assessment, contact Ms. Kay Peterson at (301) 734-4885; e-mail: Kay.Peterson@aphis.usda.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The regulations in 7 CFR part 340, "Introduction of Organisms and Products Altered or Produced Through Genetic Engineering Which Are Plant Pests or Which There Is Reason to Believe Are Plant Pests," regulate, among other things, the introduction (importation, interstate movement, or release into the environment) of organisms and products altered or produced through genetic engineering that are plant pests or that there is reason to believe are plant pests. Such genetically engineered organisms and products are considered "regulated articles."

The regulations in § 340.6(a) provide that any person may submit a petition to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) seeking a determination that an article should not be regulated under 7 CFR part 340. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 340.6 describe the form that a petition for a determination of nonregulated status must take and the information that must be included in the petition.

On December 7, 2000, APHIS received a petition (APHIS Petition No. 00-342-01p) from Monsanto Company (Monsanto) of St. Louis, MO, requesting a determination of nonregulated status under 7 CFR part 340 for cotton (Gossypium hirsutum L.) designated as Bollgard II CottonEvent 15985 (event 15985), which has been genetically engineered for resistance to certain lepidopteran insect pests. The Monsanto petition states that the subject cotton event should not be regulated by APHIS because it does not present a plant pest risk.

As described in the petition, cotton event 15985 has been genetically engineered to express a Cry2Ab insecticidal protein derived from the common soil bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis subsp. kurstaki (Btk). The petitioner states that the Cry2Ab protein is effective in providing protection from the feeding of lepidopteran insect pests such as tobacco budworm, pink bollworm, and cotton bollworm. The subject cotton event also expresses the β -D-glucuronidase (GUS) protein used as a selectable marker. Expression of the added genes is controlled in part by gene sequences from the plant pathogens cauliflower mosaic virus and Agrobacterium tumefaciens. Particle acceleration technology was used to transfer the added genes into the recipient Delta and Pine Land Company variety 50B (DP50B). Cotton cultivar DP50B expresses a Btk Cry1Ac insecticidal protein and a NTPII selectable marker protein, and was developed from cotton event 531, which was deregulated by APHIS in 1995 (APHIS No. 94-308-01p).

Cotton event 15985 has been considered a regulated article under the regulations in 7 CFR part 340 because it contains gene sequences from plant pathogens. This cotton event has been field tested since 1998 in the United States under APHIS notifications. In the process of reviewing the notifications for field trials of the subject cotton, APHIS determined that the vectors and other elements were disarmed and that the trials, which were conducted under conditions of reproductive and physical containment or isolation, would not present a risk of plant pest introduction or dissemination.

In section 403 of the Plant Protection Act (7 U.S.C. 7701–7772), plant pest is defined as any living stage of any of the following that can directly or indirectly injure, cause damage to, or cause disease in any plant or plant product: A protozoan, a nonhuman animal, a parasitic plant, a bacterium, a fungus, a virus or viroid, an infectious agent or other pathogen, or any article similar to or allied with any of the foregoing. APHIS views this definition very broadly. The definition covers direct or indirect injury, disease, or damage not just to agricultural crops, but also to plants in general, for example, native species, as well as to organisms that may be beneficial to plants, for example, honeybees, rhizobia, etc.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is responsible for the regulation of pesticides under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), as amended (7 U.S.C. 136 et seq.). FIFRA requires that all pesticides, including herbicides, be registered prior to distribution or sale, unless exempt by EPA regulation. In cases in which genetically modified plants allow for a new use of a pesticide or involve a different use pattern for the pesticide, EPA must approve the new or different use. Accordingly, Monsanto has submitted a request to EPA for registration of Cry2Ab as a plant-incorporated protectant.

When the use of the pesticide on the genetically modified plant would result in an increase in the residues in a food or feed crop for which the pesticide is currently registered, or in new residues in a crop for which the pesticide is not currently registered, establishment of a new tolerance or a revision of the existing tolerance would be required. Residue tolerances for pesticides are established by EPA under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA), as amended (21 U.S.C. 301 et seq.), and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) enforces tolerances set by EPA under the FFDCA. In response to the filing of Monsanto's pesticide petition, EPA has established a regulation for an exemption from the requirement of a tolerance for residues of Btk Cry2Ab and the genetic material necessary for its production in or on all raw agricultural commodities.

FDA published a statement of policy on foods derived from new plant varieties in the Federal Register on May 29, 1992 (57 FR 22984–23005). The FDA statement of policy includes a discussion of FDA's authority for ensuring food safety under the FFDCA, and provides guidance to industry on the scientific considerations associated with the development of foods derived from new plant varieties, including those plants developed through the techniques of genetic engineering. The petitioner has begun consultation with FDA on the subject cotton event.

To provide the public with documentation of APHIS' review and analysis of the environmental impacts and plant pest risk associated with a proposed determination of nonregulated status for Monsanto's cotton event 15985, an environmental assessment has been prepared. The EA was prepared in accordance with (1) The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), as amended (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), (2) regulations of the Council on Environmental Quality for implementing the procedural provisions of NEPA (40 CFR parts 1500–1508), (3) USDA regulations implementing NEPA (7 CFR part 1b), and (4) APHIS' NEPA Implementing Procedures (7 CFR part 372).

In accordance with § 340.6(d) of the regulations, we are publishing this notice to inform the public that APHIS will accept written comments regarding the petition for determination of nonregulated status from interested persons for a period of 60 days from the date of this notice.

We are also soliciting written comments from interested persons on the environmental assessment prepared to examine any environmental impacts of the proposed determination for the subject cotton event 15985. The petition and the environmental assessment and any comments received are available for public review, and copies of the petition and the environmental assessment may be ordered (see the FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT section of this notice).

After the comment period closes, APHIS will review the data submitted by the petitioner, all written comments received during the comment period, and any other relevant information. After reviewing and evaluating the comments on the petition and the environmental assessment and other data and information, APHIS will furnish a response to the petitioner, either approving the petition in whole or in part, or denying the petition. APHIS will then publish a notice in the Federal Register announcing the regulatory status of Monsanto's insect-resistant cotton event 15985 and the availability of APHIS' written decision.

Forest Service

Brown Darby Fuel Reduction Project EIS—Stanislaus National Forest

AGENCY: Forest Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare an environmental impact statement.

SUMMARY: The Forest Service will prepare an environmental impact statement (EIS) for a proposal to manage forest resources within and adjacent to the Darby Fire affected area, which burned 14,000 acres in September of 2001 (approximately 10,000 acres burned on lands administrated by the Forest Service). The project area is on the Calaveras Ranger District, Stanislaus National Forest, within Calaveras and Tuolumne Counties, California. The project area is located in the lower watersheds of the North and Middle Forks of the Stanislaus River, east of State Highway 4. It is bounded by private property on the east, west and north, the Middle Fork of the Stanislaus River on the south and the Calaveras Big Trees State park on the northeast.

DATES: Comments concerning the scope of the analysis should be received in writing on or before 10 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register. While public participation in this analysis is welcome at any time, comments received within 10 days of the publication of this notice will be especially useful in the preparation of the Draft EIS. The scoping process will include identifying: potential issues, significant issues to be analyzed in depth, alternatives to the proposed action, and potential environmental effects of the proposal and alternatives. The draft EIS is expected to be filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and made available for public review in April 2002.

The comment period on the draft environmental impact statement will be 45 days from the date the Environmental Protection Agency publishes the notice of availability in the Federal Register. No date has yet been determined for filing the final EIS.

ADDRESSES: Send written comments to Rob Griffith, district Ranger, P.O. Box

500, Hathaway Pines, CA 95233 or call (209) 795-1381.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Kathy Aldrich, Planning Team Leader, (209) 795-1381; e-mail: kaldrich@fs.fed.us.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Forest Service proposes to treat vegetative fuels on 3,620 acres within or adjacent to the Darby fire area. Treatments proposed include the removal of fire-damaged trees while they are merchantable and before they fall to the ground and accumulate to the point where the fuel loading is at an unacceptable level; thinning stands of live trees immediately adjacent to private property to remove undesirable fuels conditions such as fuel ladders; removal of brush that poses a fire hazard in areas adjacent to private property; removal of fire-killed trees and thinning of the remaining trees in 20 year old pine plantations; and prescribed burning to reduce fuel loading in areas with unacceptable fuel levels on the ground.

The purpose and need for the actions are to: (1) Reduce unacceptable vegetative fuel loading in the project area that current exists and remove sufficient vegetative material killed by the Darby Fire to prevent an unacceptable fuel buildup from fallen material; (2) provide for the rapid restoration of forest communities in areas that experienced a stand-replacing event by removing the fire-killed standing dead vegetation before it falls to the ground. Removal of this material while merchantable would allow for restoration activities to proceed quickly, meeting the goal of the Forest Plan to accelerate development of old forest characteristics; (3) contribute to a sustainable flow of products from these National Forest Lands; and (4) provide resource management in an economically efficient manner, i.e., minimize restoration costs in areas that experienced a stand-replacing event by minimizing the amount of fire-killed material that has deteriorated to the point that a service contract is necessary to have it removed to meet fuels objectives.

Preliminary issues and concerns include effects of treatments on water quality, wildlife habitat, soil quality, riparian areas, threatened/endangered species such as the red-legged frog, valley elderberry long-horn beetle and bald eagle, and Forest Service Sensitive species such as the California spotted owl and goshawk.

The EIS will tier to the Stanislaus National Forest Land and Resource Management Plan and EIS of 1991, as amended by the Sierra Nevada Forest Plan Amendment of 2001, which provide overall guidance for land management activities on the Stanislaus National Forest.

The Reviewers Obligation To Comment

The Forest Service believes it is important to give reviewers notice at this early stage of several court rulings related to public participation in the environmental review process. First, reviewers of draft environmental impact statements must structure their participation in the environmental review of the proposal so that it is meaningful and alerts an agency to the reviewer's position and contentions (Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. v. NRDC, 435 U.S. 519, 553 (1978)). Also environmental objections that could be raised at the draft environmental impact statement stage but that are not raised until after completion of the final environmental impact statement may be waived or dismissed by the courts (Wisconsin Heritages, Inc. v. Harris, 490 F. Supp. 1334, 1338 (E.D. Wis. 1980)). Because of these court rulings, it is very important that those interested in this proposed action participate by the close of the 45-day comment period so that substantive comments and objections are made available to the Forest Service at a time when it can meaningfully consider them and respond to them in the final environmental impact statement.

To assist the Forest Service in identifying and considering issues and concerns on the proposed action, comments on the draft environmental impact statement should be as specific as possible. It is also helpful if comments refer to specific pages or chapters of the draft statement. Comments may also address the adequacy of the draft environmental impact statement or the merits of the alternatives formulated and discussed in the statement (Reviewers may wish to refer to the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for implementing the procedural provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act at 40 CFR 1503.3 in addressing these points).

Responsible Official

The Responsible Official is the Forest Supervisor of the Stanislaus National Forest, 19777 Greenley Road, Sonora, CA 95370. The Forest Supervisor will make a decision regarding this proposal considering the comments and response, environmental consequences discussed in the final EIS, and applicable laws, regulations, and policies. The decision and rationale for the decision will be documented in a Record of Decision. That decision will be subject to appeal under applicable Forest Service regulations.

Dated: March 12, 2002.

Background

The Department published antidumping duty orders on certain cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea on August 19, 1993. See Antidumping Duty Orders on Certain Cold-Rolled Carbon Steel Flat Products and Certain Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products from Korea, 58 FR 44159 (August 19, 1993). On August 16, 2000, the Department published a notice of "Opportunity to Request an Administrative Review" of the antidumping duty orders for the 1999-2000 review period. See Notice of Opportunity to Request Administrative Review of Antidumping or Countervailing Duty Order, Finding, or Suspended Investigation, 65 FR 49962 (August 16, 2000). On August 31, 2000, respondents Pohang Coated Steel Co., Ltd. ("POCOS"), and Pohang Steel Industries Co., Ltd. ("PSI")—(collectively, "the POSCO Group"), Dongbu Steel Co., Ltd. ("Dongbu"), and Union Steel Manufacturing Co., Ltd. ("Union") requested that the Department conduct an administrative review of the antidumping duty orders on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea. In a separate letter on August 31, 2000, POSCO also requested partial revocation of the antidumping duty order of cold-rolled carbon steel flat products. On August 31, 2000, respondents Dongbu, Union, POSCO and SeAH Steel Corporation ("SeAH") requested that the Department conduct an administrative review of the antidumping duty orders on corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products. On August 31, 2000, petitioners in the original less-than-fair-value ("LTFV") investigations (AK Steel Corporation; Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Inland Steel Industries, Inc.; LTV Steel Company; National Steel Corporation; and U.S. Steel Group, a Unit of USX Corporation) requested that the Department conduct administrative reviews of the antidumping duty orders on cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea: the cold-rolled respondents; Dongbu, POSCO, and Union; and the corrosion-resistant respondents; Dongbu, POSCO, SeAH, and Union. We initiated these reviews on September 26, 2000. See Initiation of Antidumping and Countervailing Duty Administrative Reviews and Requests for Revocation in Part, 65 FR 58733 (October 2, 2000).

The Department revoked the antidumping order on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea pursuant to section 751(d)(2) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.222(i) of the Department's regulations, effective January 1, 2000. See Revocation of Antidumping and Countervailing Duty Orders on Certain Carbon Steel Products From Canada, Germany, Korea, the Netherlands, and Sweden, 65 FR 78467 (December 15, 2000). The resulting POR for cold-rolled products is August 1, 1999 through December 31, 1999. The Department's revocation of the antidumping order for cold-rolled products renders POSCO's request for revocation moot.

On August 31, 2001, the Department issued the preliminary results of these administrative reviews. See Certain Cold-Rolled and Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products From the Republic of Korea; Preliminary Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review 66 FR 47163, (September 11, 2001). The Department has completed these administrative reviews in accordance with section 751 of the Act.

On December 7, 2001 petitioners submitted case briefs for Union and Dongbu. Union, Dongbu, and SeAH also submitted case briefs on the same day. On December 14, 2001, petitioners submitted rebuttal briefs for Union and Dongbu, and Union and Dongbu submitted their own rebuttal briefs. On February 8, 2002, petitioners submitted comments for POSCO. POSCO submitted case briefs on the same day. On February 13, 2002, petitioners submitted rebuttal briefs for POSCO, and POSCO submitted its own rebuttal briefs.

Scope of the Reviews

The review of "certain cold-rolled carbon steel flat products" covers cold-rolled (cold-reduced) carbon steel flat-rolled products, of rectangular shape, neither clad, plated nor coated with metal, whether or not painted, varnished or coated with plastics or other nonmetallic substances, in coils (whether or not in successively superimposed layers) and of a width of 0.5 inch or greater, or in straight lengths which, if of a thickness less than 4.75 millimeters, are of a width of 0.5 inch or greater and which measures at least 10 times the thickness, or if of a thickness of 4.75 millimeters or more are of a width which exceeds 150 millimeters and measures at least twice the thickness, as currently classifiable in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule ("HTS") under item numbers 7209.15.0000, 7209.16.0030, 7209.16.0060, 7209.16.0090, 7209.17.0030, 7209.17.0060, 7209.17.0090, 7209.18.1530, 7209.18.1560, 7209.18.2550, 7209.18.6000, 7209.25.0000, 7209.26.0000, 7209.27.0000, 7209.28.0000, 7209.90.0000, 7210.70.3000, 7210.90.9000, 7211.23.1500, 7211.23.2000, 7211.23.3000, 7211.23.4500, 7211.23.6030, 7211.23.6060, 7211.23.6085, 7211.29.2030, 7211.29.2090, 7211.29.4500, 7211.29.6030, 7211.29.6080, 7211.90.0000, 7212.40.1000, 7212.40.5000, 7212.50.0000, 7215.50.0015, 7215.50.0060, 7215.50.0090, 7215.90.5000, 7217.10.1000, 7217.10.2000, 7217.10.3000, 7217.10.7000, 7217.90.1000, 7217.90.5030, 7217.90.5060, 7217.90.5090. Included in this review are flat-rolled products of nonrectangular cross-section where such cross-section is achieved subsequent to the rolling process (i.e., products which have been "worked after rolling")—for example, products which have been beveled or rounded at the edges. Excluded from this review is certain shadow mask steel, i.e., aluminum-killed, cold-rolled steel coil that is open-coil annealed, has a carbon content of less than 0.002 percent, is of 0.003 to 0.012 inch in thickness, 15 to 30 inches in width, and has an ultra flat, isotropic surface.

The review of "certain corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products" covers flat-rolled carbon steel products, of rectangular shape, either clad, plated, or coated with corrosion-resistant metals such as zinc, aluminum, or zinc-, aluminum-, nickel- or iron-based alloys, whether or not corrugated or painted, varnished or coated with plastics or other nonmetallic substances in addition to the metallic coating, in coils (whether or not in successively superimposed layers) and of a width of 0.5 inch or greater, or in straight lengths which, if of a thickness less than 4.75 millimeters, are of a width of 0.5 inch or greater and which measures at least 10 times the thickness or if of a thickness of 4.75 millimeters or more are of a width which exceeds 150 millimeters and measures at least twice the thickness, as currently classifiable in the HTS under item numbers 7210.30.0030, 7210.30.0060, 7210.41.0000, 7210.49.0030, 7210.49.0090, 7210.61.0000, 7210.69.0000, 7210.70.6030, 7210.70.6060, 7210.70.6090, 7210.90.1000, 7210.90.6000, 7210.90.9000, 7212.20.0000, 7212.30.1030, 7212.30.1090, 7212.30.3000, 7212.30.5000, 7212.40.1000, 7212.40.5000, 7212.50.0000, 7212.60.0000, 7215.90.1000, 7215.90.3000, 7215.90.5000, 7217.20.1500, 7217.30.1530, 7217.30.1560, 7217.90.1000, 7217.90.5030, 7217.90.5060, 7217.90.5090. Included in this review are flat-rolled products of non-rectangular cross-section where such cross-section is achieved subsequent to the rolling process (i.e., products which have been "worked after rolling")—for example, products which have been beveled or rounded at the edges. Excluded from this review are flat-rolled steel products either plated or coated with tin, lead, chromium, chromium oxides, both tin and lead ("terne plate"), or both chromium and chromium oxides ("tin-free steel"), whether or not painted, varnished or coated with plastics or other nonmetallic substances in addition to the metallic coating. Also excluded from this review are clad products in straight lengths of 0.1875 inch or more in composite thickness and of a width which exceeds 150 millimeters and measures at least twice the thickness. Also excluded from this review are certain clad stainless flat-rolled products, which are three-layered corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat-rolled products less than 4.75 millimeters in composite thickness that consist of a carbon steel flat-rolled product clad on both sides with stainless steel in a 20%–60%–20% ratio.

These HTS item numbers are provided for convenience and U.S.

Customs purposes. The written descriptions remain dispositive.

Verification

From January 23 through January 25, 2002, the Department conducted a verification at the offices of POSCO in Pohang, Korea. For a description of the Department's findings, see Memorandum from Catherine Bertrand to James Doyle, dated February 5, 2002.

Analysis of Comments Received

All issues raised in the case and rebuttal briefs by parties to these administrative reviews are addressed in the "Issues and Decision Memorandum" ("Decision Memo") from Joseph A. Spetrini, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Import Administration to Faryar Shirzad, Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, dated March 11, 2002, which is hereby adopted by this notice. A list of the issues which parties have raised and to which we have responded, all of which are in the Decision Memo, is attached to this notice as an Appendix. Parties can find a complete discussion of all issues raised in these reviews and the corresponding recommendations in this public memorandum which is on file at the U.S. Department of Commerce, in the Central Records Unit, in room B-099. In addition, a complete version of the Decision Memo, accessible in B-099 and on the Web at <http://ia.ita.doc.gov>. The paper copy and electronic version of the Decision Memorandum are identical in content.

Sales Below Cost in the Home Market

As discussed in more detail in the Preliminary Results, the Department disregarded home market below-cost sales that failed the cost test for POSCO, Dongbu, and Union in these final results of review.

Changes Since the Preliminary Results

Based on our analysis of comments received, we have made certain changes in the margin calculations. We have also corrected certain programming and clerical errors in our preliminary results, where applicable. Any alleged programming or clerical errors with which we do not agree are discussed in the relevant sections of the Decision Memo, accessible in B-099 and on the Web at <http://ia.ita.doc.gov>. A summary of these adjustments is discussed below:

1. We adjusted respondents' indirect selling expense factors with respect to the deduction of imputed credit expense. See Comment 1 of the Decision Memo.
2. We additionally adjusted POSCO's indirect selling expense factor by disallowing its claimed long-term interest income offset. See Comment 2 of the Decision Memorandum.

3. We are excluding overruns from the calculation of Union's normal value. See Comment 7 of the Decision Memorandum.

Final Results of the Reviews

We determine that the following percentage weighted-average margins exist for the reviewed companies during the period August 1, 1999, through December 31, 1999 (for cold-rolled products) or August 1, 1999, through July 31, 2000 (for corrosion resistant products):

CERTAIN COLD-ROLLED CARBON STEEL FLAT PRODUCTS

Producer/Manufacturer/Exporter	Weighted-average margin
Dongbu	4.09
The POSCO Group	3.06
Union	1.05

CERTAIN CORROSION-RESISTANT CARBON STEEL FLAT PRODUCTS

Producer/Manufacturer/Exporter	Weighted-average margin
Dongbu	0.26
SeAH	0
The POSCO Group	0.64
Union	1.31

The Department shall determine, and the U.S. Customs Service ("Customs") shall assess, antidumping duties on all appropriate entries. In accordance with 19 CFR 351.212(b), we have calculated exporter/importer-specific assessment rates. With respect to both export price and constructed export price sales, we divided the total dumping margins for the reviewed sales by the total entered value of those reviewed sales for each importer. We will direct Customs to assess the resulting percentage margins against the entered Customs values for the subject merchandise on each of that importer's entries under the relevant order during the review period.

Cash Deposit Requirements

The following deposit requirements will be effective upon publication of this notice of final results of administrative reviews for all shipments of cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after the date of publication, as provided by section 751(a)(1) of the Act: (1) The cash deposit rates for the reviewed companies will be the rates shown above except that, for firms whose weighted-average margins are less than 0.5 percent and therefore de minimis, the Department shall require no deposit of estimated antidumping duties; (2) for previously reviewed or investigated companies not listed above, the cash deposit rate will continue to be the company-specific rate published for the most recent period; (3) if the exporter is not a firm covered in this review, a prior review, or the original less than fair value ("LTFV") investigation, but the manufacturer is, the cash deposit rate will be the rate established for the most recent period for the manufacturer of the merchandise; and (4) the cash deposit rate for all other manufacturers or exporters will continue to be 17.70 percent (for certain corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products). This rate is the "all others" rates from the LTFV investigation. See Antidumping Duty Orders on Certain Cold-Rolled Carbon Steel Flat Products and Certain Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products from Korea, 58 FR 44159 (August 19, 1993). As the Department revoked the anti-dumping order on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea pursuant to section 751(d)(2) of the Act, effective January 1, 2000, there is no longer suspension of liquidation or cash deposit requirements for entries of that merchandise.

These deposit requirements shall remain in effect until publication of the final results of the next administrative review.

This notice also serves as a final reminder to importers of their responsibility under 19 CFR 351.402(f) to file a certificate regarding the reimbursement of antidumping duties prior to liquidation of the relevant entries during this review period. Failure to comply with this requirement could result in the Secretary's presumption that reimbursement of antidumping duties occurred and the subsequent assessment of doubled antidumping duties.

This notice also serves as the only reminder to parties subject to administrative protective orders ("APO") of their responsibility concerning the return or destruction of proprietary information disclosed under APO in accordance with 19 CFR 351.305. Timely written notification of the return/destruction of APO materials or conversion to judicial protective order is hereby requested. Failure to comply with the regulations and terms of an APO is a violation which is subject to sanction.

We are issuing and publishing this determination and notice in accordance with sections 751(a)(1) and 777(i) of the Act.

Dated: March 11, 2002.

Faryar Shirzad,
Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

Silicon Metal from Brazil: Amended Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review

AGENCY: Import Administration,
International Trade Administration,
Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of Amended Final
Results of Antidumping Duty
Administrative Review.

SUMMARY: We are amending our final results of the 1999-2000 administrative review of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil, published on February 12, 2002 (67 FR 6488), to reflect the correction of ministerial errors made in the final results. The period covered by these amended final results of review is July 1, 1999 through June 30, 2000.

EFFECTIVE DATE: March 18, 2002.

The Applicable Statute

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (the Act), are references to the provisions effective January 1, 1995, the effective date of the amendments made to the Act by the Uruguay Round Agreements Act (URAA). In addition, unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Department's regulations are to 19 CFR part 351 (2000).

Background:

On August 6, 2001, the Department of Commerce (the Department) published the preliminary results of the 1999-2000 administrative review of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil. The Department published the final results of review on February 12, 2002. See Silicon Metal from Brazil: Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review, 67 FR 6488 (February 12, 2002) (Final Results).

On February 25, 2002, we received timely allegations from Companhia Brasileira Carburato de Calcio (CBCC) (a respondent) that the Department made ministerial errors in the final results of review regarding CBCC. On February 25, 2002, we received timely allegations from American Silicon Technologies and Elکم Metals Company (collectively petitioners) that the Department made ministerial errors in the final results of review regarding the "all others" rate. On March 4, 2002, we received a timely reply from petitioners regarding CBCC's ministerial error comments.

Scope of Review

The merchandise covered by this administrative review is silicon metal from Brazil containing at least 96.00 percent but less than 99.99 percent silicon by weight. Also covered by this administrative review is silicon metal from Brazil containing between 89.00 and 96.00 percent silicon by weight but which contains more aluminum than the silicon metal containing at least 96.00 percent but less than 99.99 percent silicon by weight. Silicon metal is currently provided for under subheadings 2804.69.10 and 2804.69.50 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) as a chemical product, but is commonly referred to as a metal. Semiconductor grade silicon (silicon metal containing by weight not less than 99.99 percent silicon and provided for in subheading 2804.61.00 of the HTS) is not subject to the order. Although the HTS item numbers are provided for convenience and for U.S. Customs purposes, the written description remains dispositive.

Amendment of Final Results

Comment 1: CBCC states that the Department erroneously applied adverse facts available (AFA) to the shipment date of one of its U.S. sales. CBCC contends that although the Department intended to use the date of the invoice to calculate the imputed U.S. credit expense for this sale, the Department erroneously applied AFA to the shipment date. CBCC urges the Department to correct this ministerial error.

Department's Position: After a review of CBCC's allegation, we agree with CBCC and have corrected this matter in the margin calculation program. See Memorandum to The File through Thomas F. Futtner from Maisha Cryor: Companhia Brasileira Carburato De Calcio: Calculations for the Amended Final Results of the 1999-2000 Antidumping Duty Administrative Review of Silicon Metal From Brazil, March 11, 2002. We note that correcting this error has no effect on the outcome of CBCC's margin.

Comment 2: CBCC contends that the Department mistakenly used a simple interest formula to calculate CBCC's imputed credit expense in the home market. CBCC notes that although it is making this allegation, the comment is also applicable to the margin calculations of Rima Industrial SA (Rima), Companhia Ferroligas Minas Gerais - Minasligas (Minasligas) and Ligas de Alumina S.A. (LIASA), the other respondents in this review. CBCC contends that where interest is calculated on a daily basis, a compound, not simple, interest formula should be used. CBCC argues that where the interest rate is high, such as in Brazil, only the compound interest formula yields the true cost of money and is the only method used in day-to-day commercial transactions. CBCC urges the Department to correct this matter in CBCC's, as well as the other respondents, home market credit calculations.

Petitioners disagree with CBCC. Petitioners argue that because the Department had no intention of applying a compound interest formula, the Department's use of a simple interest formula was a deliberate choice of methodology and not a ministerial error.

Department's Position: After a careful review of CBCC's allegation, we have concluded that it does not merit treatment as a ministerial error under sections 19 CFR 351.224(f) and (g) of the Department's regulations. Section 351.224(f) of the Department's regulations defines ministerial error as " * * * an error in addition, subtraction, or other arithmetic function, clerical error resulting from inaccurate copying, duplication, or the like, and any other similar type of unintentional error which the Secretary considers ministerial." Because the formula used in the Department's calculation of home market credit expense in the Final Results was intentional, CBCC's allegation does not fall under sections 19 CFR 351.224(f) and (g) of the Department's regulations. See Memorandum to The File through Thomas F. Futtner from Maisha Cryor: Companhia Brasileira Carburto De Calcio: Calculations for the Final Results of the 1999–2000 Antidumping Duty Administrative Review of Silicon Metal From Brazil, February 4, 2002. Therefore, we have not amended the interest formula that was used to calculate home market credit expense in the Final Results.

Comment 3:

Petitioners contend that the Department published the wrong "all others" rate in the Final Results. Petitioners state that in the Final Results, the "all others" rate is 8.10%, while the "all others" rate in the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil is 91.06%. Petitioners assert that, pursuant to Policy Bulletin 93.1, the Department's policy holds that the "all others rate shall be the all others rate contained in the order."

Department's Position: We agree with petitioners that we mistakenly referred to the "all others" rate as 8.10 percent in the Final Results. Therefore, we have corrected the "all others" rate to reflect 91.06 percent, which is the "all others" rate from the less than fair value investigation.

Amended Final Results

We are amending the final results of the antidumping duty administrative review of silicon metal from Brazil to reflect the corrections of the above-cited ministerial errors. These corrections are in accordance with section 751(h) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.224 of the Department's regulations. These corrections did not change any of the company-specific margins published in the Final Results. We are also correcting the stated "all others" rate which is 91.06 percent.

We are issuing and publishing this determination and notice in accordance with sections 751(a)(1) and 777(i) of the Act.

Assistant Secretary for Import Administration.

Structural Steel Beams From the Republic of Korea: Notice of Final Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of Final Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review.

SUMMARY: On November 14, 2001, the Department of Commerce ("Department") published the notice of preliminary results of its changed circumstances review examining whether INI Steel Company ("INI") is the successor-in-interest to Inchon Iron & Steel Co., Ltd. ("Inchon") by virtue of its name change. See Notice of Preliminary Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review: Structural Steel Beams from the Republic of Korea, 66 FR 57035 (November 14, 2001) ("Preliminary Results"). We have now completed this changed circumstances review in accordance with 19 CFR 351.216 and 351.221(c)(3).

As a result of this review, the Department finds that INI is the successor-in-interest to Inchon, and INI should retain the deposit rate assigned to Inchon by the Department for all entries of the subject merchandise produced or exported by INI.

EFFECTIVE DATE: March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Cheryl Werner or Laurel LaCivita, Import Administration, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20230; telephone (202) 482–2667 and (202) 482–4243, respectively.

Applicable Statute and Regulations

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the statute are references to the provisions effective January 1, 1995, the effective date of the amendments made to the Tariff Act of 1930 ("the Act") by the Uruguay Round Agreements Act. In addition, unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Department's regulations are to the regulations at 19 CFR part 351 (2001).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On October 1, 2001, the Department initiated this changed circumstances review. See Structural Steel Beams from the Republic of Korea: Notice of Initiation of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review, 66 FR 49929 (October 1, 2001) ("Notice of Initiation"). On November 14, 2001, the Department published the preliminary results of its changed circumstances review in the above-named case. See Preliminary Results (66 FR 57035). We gave interested parties 21 days to comment on our preliminary results. However, no interested parties have provided comments and no request for a hearing was received by the Department.

Scope of the Review

The products covered by this review include structural steel beams that are doubly-symmetric shapes, whether hot- or cold-rolled, drawn, extruded, formed or finished, having at least one dimension of at least 80 mm (3.2 inches or more), whether of carbon or alloy (other than stainless) steel, and whether or not drilled, punched, notched, painted, coated or clad. These products include, but are not limited to, wide-flange beams ("W" shapes), bearing piles ("HP" shapes), standard beams ("S" or "I" shapes), and M-shapes.

All products that meet the physical and metallurgical descriptions provided above are within the scope of this investigation unless otherwise excluded. The following products are outside and/or specifically excluded from the scope of this investigation: structural steel beams greater than 400 pounds per linear foot or with a web or section height (also known as depth) over 40 inches.

The merchandise subject to this investigation is classified in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States ("HTSUS") at subheadings: 7216.32.0000, 7216.33.0030, 7216.33.0060, 7216.33.0090, 7216.50.0000, 7216.61.0000, 7216.69.0000, 7216.91.0000, 7216.99.0000, 7228.70.3040, 7228.70.6000. Although the HTSUS subheadings are provided for convenience and Customs purposes, the written description of the merchandise under investigation is dispositive.

Successorship and Final Results of Review

On the basis of the record developed in this proceeding of the changed circumstances review, we determine INI to be the successor-in-interest to Inchoon for purposes of determining antidumping duty liability. For a complete discussion of the basis for this decision see the Preliminary Results (66 FR 57035). Therefore, INI shall retain the antidumping duty deposit rate assigned to Inchoon by the Department in the most recent administrative review of the subject merchandise.

This notice also serves as a final reminder to parties subject to administrative protective orders (APOs) of their responsibility concerning the disposition of proprietary information disclosed under APO in accordance with 19 CFR 351.305(a)(3). Failure to timely notify the Department in writing of the return/destruction of APO material is a sanctionable violation.

We are issuing and publishing this finding and notice in accordance with sections 751(b)(1) and 777(i)(1) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.221(c)(3) and 19 CFR 351.216.

Endangered and Threatened Species; Take of Anadromous Fish

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Receipt of an application to modify an existing scientific research/enhancement permit (1048) and request for comment.

SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given that NMFS has received an application for permit modifications from the Sonoma County Water Agency (SCWA) in Santa Rosa, CA. The modified permit would affect three Evolutionarily Significant Units (ESUs) of threatened salmonids identified in the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION section. This document serves to notify the public of the availability of the permit modification application for review and comment before a final approval or disapproval is made by NMFS.

DATES: Written comments on the permit application must be received at the appropriate address or fax number (see ADDRESSES) no later than 5 p.m. Pacific Standard Time on April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments on the modification request should be sent to the appropriate office as indicated below. Comments may also be sent via fax to the number indicated for the request. Comments will not be accepted if submitted via e-mail or the internet. The applications and related documents are available for review in the indicated office, by appointment: For permit 1048: Daniel Logan, Protected Species Division, NMFS, 777 Sonoma Avenue, Room 325, Santa Rosa, CA 95404-6528 (telephone, 707-575-6053, fax: 707-578-3435). Documents may also be reviewed by appointment in the Office of Protected Resources, F/PR3, NMFS, 1315 East-West Highway, Silver Spring, MD 20910-3226 (telephone, 301-713-1401).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Daniel Logan at 707-575-6053, or e-mail: dan.logan@noaa.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Authority

Issuance of permits and permit modifications, as required by the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531-1543) (ESA), is based on a finding that such permits or modifications are: (1) applied for in good faith; (2) would not operate to the disadvantage of the listed species which are the subject of the permits; and (3) are consistent with the purposes and policies set forth in section 2 of the ESA. Authority to take listed species is subject to conditions set forth in the permits. Permits and modifications are issued in accordance with and are subject to the ESA and NMFS regulations governing listed fish and wildlife permits (50 CFR parts 222-226).

Those individuals requesting a hearing on an application listed in this document should set out the specific reasons why a hearing on that application would be appropriate (see ADDRESSES). The holding of such a hearing is at the discretion of the Assistant Administrator for Fisheries, NOAA. All statements and opinions contained in the permit action summaries are those of the applicant and do not necessarily reflect the views of NMFS.

Species Covered in This Notice

This notice is relevant to the following three threatened salmonid ESUs: threatened California Coastal chinook salmon (Oncorhynchus tshawytscha), threatened Central California Coast coho salmon (Oncorhynchus kisutch), and threatened Central California Coast steelhead (Oncorhynchus mykiss).

Modification Request Received

SCWA requests a modification to permit 1048 for takes of adult and juvenile California Coastal chinook associated with population studies, carcass counts, redd surveys, genetic analyses, and habitat quality evaluation. SCWA proposed to develop and implement a monitoring program to identify long-term population trends and stock size estimates that can be used to assist in the restoration of salmonid populations in the Russian River basin. Presently, permit 1048 authorizes intentional takes of adult and juvenile Central California Coast coho salmon and Central California Coast steelhead for projects within the Russian River basin. This requested modification would add intentional takes of adult and juvenile California Coastal chinook salmon to the SCWA permit.

Dated: March 11, 2002.

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

Announcement of the Initiation of Public Scoping for the Proposed Designation of the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands National Marine Sanctuary AGENCY: National Marine Sanctuary Program (NMSP), National Ocean Service (NOS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Department of Commerce (DOC).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: On December 4, 2000, Executive Order 13178 established the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve, pursuant to the National Marine Sanctuaries Amendments Act of 2000. The Reserve extends approximately 1200 nautical miles long and 100 nautical miles wide. Pursuant to this Act and the Executive Order, NOAA initiated the process to designate the Reserve as a national marine sanctuary by issuing a notice of intent on January 19, 2001 (66 FR 5509). This notice announces the beginning of public scoping pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act.

The public scoping process, including public scoping meetings, is intended to solicit information and comments on the range and significance of issues related to the designation and management of a Northwestern Hawaiian Islands National Marine Sanctuary. The results of this scoping process will assist NOAA in formulating alternatives for a draft management plan and draft environmental impact statement for the proposed designation. A separate notice containing times, dates, and locations for scoping meetings will be published in the Federal Register (and in various local media throughout Hawaii) at a later date, at least fifteen days before the first scoping meeting.

DATES AND ADDRESSES: The public scoping process will start on March 18, 2002, and end on Friday, May 3, 2002. Written comments may be sent to NWHI Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve, 6700 Kalaniana'ole Highway, #215, Honolulu, Hawaii 96825; faxed to (808) 397-2662; or emailed to nwhi@noaa.gov. Comments will be available for public review at the office address above. Summaries of public comments from initial scoping meetings will be available at hawaiireef.noaa.gov. Scoping meetings are expected to be held in April.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

'Aulani Wilhelm, (808) 397-2657, nwhi@noaa.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The National Marine Sanctuaries Act (NMSA), 16 U.S.C. 1431 et seq., authorizes the Secretary of Commerce (Secretary) to designate discrete areas of the marine environment as national marine sanctuaries to protect their special conservation, recreational, ecological, historical, cultural, archaeological, scientific, educational, or esthetic qualities. The NMSA is administered by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) through the National Marine Sanctuary Program (NMSP).

On May 26, 2000, the Secretaries of Commerce and the Interior were directed to develop recommendations, working cooperatively with the State of Hawaii and consulting with the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council, for a new, coordinated management regime to increase protection of the coral reef ecosystem of the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands and provide for sustainable use of the area.

Public visioning sessions were held in Hawaii and in Washington, DC in July and August 2000. Over 430 individuals attended the visioning sessions; over 1,000 written comments were received. The results of the visioning sessions revealed a universally high regard for the NWHI, for a variety of reasons including values of biology, wilderness, culture, commerce/economy, scientific, education, and recreation. Threats that were identified included at-risk species, human intrusions and abuses, future intrusion and abuse, atmospheric and oceanic changes, invasive species, and extractive or invasive research.

In November 2000, the National Marine Sanctuaries Amendments Act of 2000 (Act), Public Law 106-513 was signed into law. Section 6(g) of the Act authorized the President, after consultation with the Governor of the State of Hawaii, to designate any Northwestern Hawaiian Islands coral reef or coral reef ecosystem as a coral reef reserve to be managed by the Secretary of Commerce. On December 4, 2000, Executive Order 13178 was issued establishing the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands Coral Reef Ecosystem Reserve (Reserve), pursuant to the Act. The purpose of the Reserve is to ensure the comprehensive, strong, and lasting protection of the coral reef ecosystem and related marine resource and species of the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands. The Reserve extends approximately 1200 nautical miles long and 100 nautical miles wide. The Reserve is adjacent to and seaward of the seaward boundaries of the State of Hawaii and the Midway Atoll National Wildlife Refuge, and overlays the Hawaiian Islands National Wildlife Refuge to the extent that the Refuge extends beyond the seaward boundaries of the State of Hawaii. The Executive Order contains a number of conservation measures that restrict certain activities throughout the Reserve. As part of the establishment of the Reserve, the Executive Order also created fifteen Reserve Preservation Areas (RPAs) in which all consumptive or extractive uses are prohibited, with limited exceptions.

Subsequent to issuance of Executive Order 13178, a thirty-day public comment period was held. During the comment period, seven public hearings were held throughout the main Hawaiian Islands and in Washington, DC to accept written and oral comments. Approximately 8,400 comments were received and included both original (about 500 letters) and form letter comments from around the country with a wide range of opinions.

After close of the comment period, Executive Order 13196 was issued on January 18, 2001, which revised certain conservation measures and RPAs, and finalized establishment of the Reserve. (Executive Orders 13178 and 13196 will hereafter be referred to as the Executive Order).

The Reserve provides immediate added protection and coordinated management for the NWHI coral reef ecosystem and marine environment pending designation of the Reserve as a national marine sanctuary. The Act directs the Secretary, until the reserve is designated as a National Marine Sanctuary, to manage the Reserve consistent with the purposes and policies of the National Marine Sanctuaries Act (NMSA). The Executive Order directs the Secretary to develop a Reserve Operations Plan (ROP) to govern the management of the Reserve to address priority issues (e.g., marine debris, research and monitoring, education, enforcement). The ROP will govern NOAA's management of the Reserve pending designation of a marine sanctuary and will be incorporated into a long-term sanctuary management plan upon successful completion of the designation process.

The Act and Executive Order require the Secretary to initiate the process to designate the Reserve as a National Marine Sanctuary under the applicable provisions of section 303 and 304 of the NMSA (16 U.S.C. 1433 and 1434). Sections 303 and 304 provide specific procedures and requirements for designating a sanctuary, including requiring the preparation of an environmental impact statement pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). Designation is an open, public process with numerous opportunities for public input. In designating and managing the sanctuary, the Secretary shall also consider the advice and recommendations of the Reserve/Sanctuary Advisory Council established in March, 2001, pursuant to the Act and Executive Order. As part of the process, NOAA shall, in consultation with the Governor of the State of Hawaii, determine whether State waters should be included as part of the sanctuary.

By this notice, NOAA, on behalf of the Secretary, announces the initiation of scoping for the proposed NWHI sanctuary designation. Scoping is the initial process intended to solicit information and comments on the range and significance of issues related to the designation and management of a Northwestern Hawaiian Islands National Marine Sanctuary. The results of this scoping process will assist NOAA in formulating alternatives for a draft management plan and draft environmental impact statement for the proposed designation.

NOAA encourages the public and interested parties to submit (via mail, e-mail, or fax) comments and to attend public scoping meetings, which will be held in April. Specific dates and locations for scoping meetings will be provided in separate notices at least 15 days before the first scoping meeting.

availability of the draft Reserve Operations Plan for public review.

The Executive Order directs that the draft Reserve Operations Plan "shall be directed at priority issues and actions." The Executive Order also directs that the Reserve Operations Plan should address such issues as coordinated management among the agencies with relevant jurisdiction in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands, clean up and prevention of marine debris, restoration of degraded or injured resources, research and education, enforcement and surveillance, identification and coordination with Native Hawaiian interests on cultural uses and locations, and designation of the Reserve as a National Marine Sanctuary.

In response to the Executive Order, NOS has prepared the draft Reserve Operations Plan, following templates used for the management plans of the National Marine Sanctuary Program. The document is composed of a set of function- and issue-oriented (as identified in the Executive Order) action plans, with supporting documentation. Each action plan focuses on strategies, and outlines what, who, why, when, and how different activities will be conducted. Following is a list of the action plans contained in the draft Reserve Operations Plan:

- Operations: includes interagency coordination, activity and area identification, Reserve/Sanctuary Advisory Council operations, development of fishing caps and permitting procedures, and infrastructure development;
- Education: encompasses all education, outreach, and interpretive projects;
- Cultural Resources: consists of all projects related to Native Hawaiian culture, uses, and locations;
- Research and Monitoring: contains all projects related to research and monitoring;
- Mapping: covers all projects related to developing charts and maps of the NWHI;
- Restoration: contains projects related to restoration;
- Emergency Response and Damage Assessment: covers projects related to contingency planning and response;
- Marine Debris: consists of projects related to the removal of marine debris from the NWHI;
- Enforcement: includes air and sea support for existing enforcement operations and expansion of a vessel monitoring system; and
- Designation: comprised of all projects related to the Sanctuary designation process.

The Reserve Operations Plan will provide a guide for management of the Reserve during a process that will consider the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands for designation as a National Marine Sanctuary. The designation process has been initiated (66 FR 5509). Information about the scoping process and its opportunities for public comment will be provided in a separate notice to the Federal Register.

Notice of Proposed Information Collection Requests

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Notice of proposed information collection requests.

SUMMARY: The Leader, Regulatory Information Management, Office of the Chief Information Officer, invites comments on the proposed information collection requests as required by the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995.

DATES: An emergency review has been requested in accordance with the Act (44 U.S.C. Chapter 3507 (j)), since public harm is reasonably likely to result if normal clearance procedures are followed. Approval by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has been requested by April 8, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments regarding the emergency review should be addressed to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Attention: Lauren Wittenberg, Desk Officer: Department of Education, Office of Management and Budget, 725 17th Street, NW, Room 10235, New Executive Office Building, Washington, DC 20503 or electronically mailed to Internet address

Lauren.Wittenberg@omb.eop.gov or faxed to (202) 395-6974.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 3506 of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35) requires that the Director of OMB provide interested Federal agencies and the public an early opportunity to comment on information collection requests. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) may amend or waive the requirement for public consultation to the extent that public participation in the approval process would defeat the purpose of the information collection, violate State or Federal law, or substantially interfere with any agency's ability to perform its statutory obligations. The Leader, Regulatory Information Management, Office of the Chief Information Officer, publishes this notice containing proposed information collection requests at the beginning of the Departmental review of the information collection. Each proposed information collection, grouped by office, contains the following: (1) Type of review requested, e.g., new, revision, extension, existing or reinstatement; (2) title; (3) summary of the collection; (4) description of the need for, and proposed use of, the information; (5) respondents and frequency of collection; and (6) reporting and/or recordkeeping burden. ED invites public comment.

The Department of Education is especially interested in public comment addressing the following issues: (1) Is this collection necessary to the proper functions of the Department; (2) will this information be processed and used in a timely manner; (3) is the estimate of burden accurate; (4) how might the Department enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and (5) how might the Department minimize the burden of this collection on respondents, including through the use of information technology.

Dated: March 13, 2002.

John Tressler,

Leader, Regulatory Information Management, Office of the Chief Information Officer.

Office of Elementary and Secondary Education

Type of Review: New.

Title: State Plan Application for the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act.

Abstract: State Education Agencies will submit information for a single State application to the Department to be able to receive formula grant funds under Title X Part C of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB). The purpose of the Education for Homeless Children and Youth Program is to improve the educational outcomes for children and youth in homeless situations. The statutes for this program are designed to ensure all homeless children and youth have equal access to public school education and for States and local educational agencies (LEAs) to review and revise policies and regulations to remove barriers to enrolling, attendance and academic achievement.

Additional Information: The Department of Education requests emergency clearance due to an unanticipated event in the signing of the law. This delay required the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education (OESE) to take time to review the statutes and determine what programs, as required by law, should be reviewed under a consolidated State application and what programs should be under a single State plan application. The McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act was not required to be included in the consolidated plan application packet and OESE determined that it would be best to require States to submit a separate application plan. On March 6, 2002, the Department published in the Federal Register (Vol. 67, No. 44) a notice for the OESE consolidated applications with an anticipated date of May 28, 2002 for States to submit applications. This would necessitate mailing applications to States no later than mid-April, 2002. Without emergency processing, States will not have sufficient time to submit the requested single State application by the end of May and would face a hardship if they must wait to implement the required provisions of the NCLB legislation identified in this single State plan document.

Abstract: The data collection proposed under this request is included in proposed regulations that would implement section 673(h) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) which requires that individuals who receive a scholarship through personnel preparation projects funded under the Act to subsequently provide special education and related services to children with disabilities (or, for leadership personnel, work in areas related to their preparation) for a period of two years for every year for which assistance was received. Scholarship recipients who do not satisfy their service obligation must repay all or part of the cost of their assistance in accordance with regulations issued by the Secretary. These proposed regulations would implement requirements governing, among other things, the service obligation for scholars, oversight by grantees, repayment (or "payback") of scholarship, and procedures for obtaining deferrals or exemptions from service or repayment obligations. In order for the Federal government to justify the expenditure of public funds under this program, certain data collections, recordkeeping, and documentation are necessary to ensure that goals of the program are achieved.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

Background and Description of the Act

The Act (29 U.S.C. 701 et seq.) was reauthorized on August 7, 1998, as title IV of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998, Pub. L. 105-220. Section 2 of the Act specifies that the purposes of the Act are to—

- Empower individuals with disabilities to maximize employment, economic self-sufficiency, independence, and inclusion and integration into society, through—statewide workforce investment systems (under title I of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998) that include, as integral components, comprehensive and coordinated state-of-the-art programs of vocational rehabilitation; independent living centers and services; research; training; demonstration projects; and the guarantee of equal opportunity; and

- Ensure that the Federal Government plays a leadership role in promoting the employment of individuals with disabilities, especially individuals with significant disabilities, and in assisting States and providers of services in fulfilling the aspirations of those individuals with disabilities for meaningful and gainful employment and independent living.

The Act includes the following seven titles:

Title I of the Act establishes the State Vocational Rehabilitation Services Program, which supports the Federal-State partnership for providing vocational rehabilitation services to individuals with disabilities seeking to achieve employment in the integrated labor market. The Act requires that, in the event services cannot be provided to all eligible individuals with disabilities who apply, States must give priority to individuals with the most significant disabilities. Each State is required to determine which individuals are "individuals with the most significant disabilities" and, therefore, given a priority for services in that State.

Additionally, each State vocational rehabilitation agency that is not a consumer-controlled independent commission primarily concerned with rehabilitation is also required to establish a State Rehabilitation Council (SRC) to review, analyze, and advise the vocational rehabilitation agency regarding the performance of its responsibilities under the Act and to work in partnership with the vocational rehabilitation agency in, among other things, developing the vocational rehabilitation agency's goals and priorities and evaluating the effectiveness of the vocational rehabilitation program. Given the composition requirements of the SRC, the SRC ensures that individuals with disabilities and other stakeholders have input in the vocational rehabilitation agency's policies and practices.

Title I of the Act also includes the authorization for the Client Assistance Program and the American Indian Vocational Rehabilitation Services Program. The American Indian Vocational Rehabilitation Services Program provides discretionary grants to governing bodies of Indian Tribes to establish projects that serve American Indians with disabilities on or near reservations. The Client Assistance Program provides formula grants to States for information, referral, advice, and advocacy services to individuals with disabilities who are applying for or receiving services funded under the Act.

Title II of the Act establishes NIDRR and authorizes research and related activities. NIDRR administers a program of rehabilitation research, including rehabilitation research and training centers, rehabilitation engineering research centers, research and demonstration projects, field-initiated projects, utilization and dissemination projects, fellowships, and research training grants.

Title III authorizes personnel training programs and service projects. Training grants are authorized to assist in increasing the number and skills of qualified personnel who provide services to individuals with disabilities. The training program supports pre-service training at degree-granting institutions, experimental and innovative training, continuing education programs, in-service training for personnel of State vocational rehabilitation agencies, and training of interpreters for individuals who are deaf or hard-of-hearing and individuals who are deaf-blind.

Title III also authorizes projects for migrants and seasonal farmworkers, recreational programs for individuals with disabilities, parent training, client choice demonstrations, and special demonstration programs.

Title IV of the Act establishes the National Council on Disability. The National Council on Disability is an independent Federal agency whose duties include providing advice to Congress and the President on the development of programs under the Act and reviewing and evaluating, on a continuing basis, all policies and programs for individuals with disabilities conducted or assisted by the Federal Government.

Section 509 authorizes the Protection and Advocacy of Individual Rights Program, which supports a system in each State to protect the human and legal rights of individuals with disabilities who need services that are beyond the scope of the Client Assistance Program and who are not eligible for services from other protection and advocacy programs.

Title VI of the Act authorizes the Projects With Industry and Supported Employment State Grants programs. The primary goal of the discretionary Projects With Industry grant program is to expand job opportunities for individuals with disabilities in the competitive labor market. In order to develop a partnership between business, industry, labor, and the rehabilitation community, each project is required to have a Business Advisory Council to provide advice on available jobs and training requirements.

Supported Employment State Grants is a formula grant program to assist States in developing collaborative programs with public agencies and nonprofit organizations to provide training and other services leading to supported employment for individuals with the most significant disabilities.

Title VII of the Act authorizes funding in Chapter 1 for comprehensive services for independent living and independent living centers, and in Chapter 2 for independent living services for older persons who are blind or have a significant visual impairment. Each State must establish a State Independent Living Council that jointly prepares and submits the required State plan for Chapter 1 independent living services and the State's network of centers for independent living.

BILLING CODE 4000-01-U

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

[Docket No. EA-186-A]

Application To Export Electric Energy; New England Power Pool

AGENCY: Office of Fossil Energy, DOE.

ACTION: Notice of application.

SUMMARY: The New England Power Pool (NEPOOL) has applied for authority to transmit electric energy, on an emergency basis, from the United States to the Province of New Brunswick, Canada, pursuant to section 202(e) of the Federal Power Act.

DATES: Comments, protests or requests to intervene must be submitted on or before April 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments, protests or requests to intervene should be addressed as follows: Office of Coal & Power Import/Export (FE-27), Office of Fossil Energy, U.S. Department of Energy, 1000 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20585-0350 (FAX 202-287-5736).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ellen Russell (Program Office) 202-586-9624 or Michael Skinker (Program Attorney) 202-586-2793.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Exports of electricity from the United States to a foreign country are regulated and require authorization under section 202(e) of the Federal Power Act (FPA) (16 U.S.C. 824a(e)).

On August 26, 1998, the Office of Fossil Energy (FE) of the Department of Energy (DOE) authorized NEPOOL, a collection of 215 electric utilities, power marketers, and other entities that are engaged in, or propose to engage in, the electric power business in New England, to export electric energy to Hydro Quebec, the provincial electric utility of the Province of Quebec. In Order EA-186, FE authorized NEPOOL to export electric energy to Hydro Quebec in response to emergency requests for electric supply by Hydro Quebec and only over the 345-kV (operated at 120-kV) facilities owned and operated by the Joint Owners of the Highgate Project located at Highgate, Vermont, and authorized by Presidential Permit PP-82.

On January 25, 2002, FE received an application from NEPOOL to transmit electric energy to the New Brunswick electric system using the existing 345,000-volt transmission line owned by Maine Electric Power Company (MEPCO) at Houlton, Maine. The construction, operation, maintenance, and connection of the MEPCO international transmission facilities was authorized on July 25, 1970, in Presidential Permit PP-43.

The request of NEPOOL for an authorization to make emergency deliveries of up to 700 MW to the New Brunswick system is not in response to a declared emergency situation. Rather, the NEPOOL request is intended to give NEPOOL the ability to respond without delay to any future requests for emergency assistance by New Brunswick. Should such a request for emergency assistance be made, NEPOOL proposes to transmit electric energy to Canada that is surplus to the New England region as determined by the New England Independent System Operator (ISO-NE) which is the Control Area Operator for New England and the entity responsible for scheduling transmission service over virtually all of the bulk power transmission facilities in New England.

In this proceeding, DOE specifically seeks comment on NEPOOL's request to export electric energy at a rate of transmission of up to 700 MW. Studies currently on file with DOE limit exports on the MEPCO transmission line to a transmission rate of 500 MW.

Procedural Matters: Any person desiring to become a party to this proceeding or to be heard by filing comments or protests to this application should file a petition to intervene, comment or protest at the address provided above in accordance with §§ 385.211 or 385.214 of the FERC's Rules of Practice and Procedures (18 CFR 385.211, 385.214). Fifteen copies of each petition and protest should be filed with the DOE on or before the date listed above.

Comments on the NEPOOL request to export to Canada should be clearly marked with Docket EA-186-A.

Additional copies are to be filed directly with Paul B. Shortley, Chair, NEPOOL Reliability Committee, c/o ISO New England Inc., One Sullivan Road, Holyoke, MA 01040-2841 and David T. Doot, Esq., NEPOOL Secretary, c/o Day, Berry & Howard, LLP, CityPlace I, Hartford, CT 0603-3499.

A final decision will be made on this application after the environmental impacts have been evaluated pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, and a determination is made by the DOE that the proposed action will not adversely impact on the reliability of the U.S. electric power supply system.

Copies of this application will be made available, upon request, for public inspection and copying at the address provided above or by accessing the Fossil Energy Home Page at <http://www.fe.doe.gov>. Upon reaching the Fossil Energy Home page, select "Electricity Regulation" and then "Pending Procedures" from the options menus.

Issued in Washington, DC, on March 11, 2002.

Deputy Director, Electric Power Regulation, Office of Coal & Power Import/Export, Office of Coal & Power Systems, Office of Fossil Energy.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

[FRL-7159-7]

Privacy Act of 1974; System of Records

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Notice of a new system of records.

SUMMARY: In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) publishes this notice of a new system of records entitled "Central Data Exchange-Customer Registration Subsystem (CDX-CRS)." The system will contain information on individuals who have registered and established accounts to access CDX, EPA's electronic compliance filing and environmental data exchange system. Individuals with CDX accounts may engage in electronic filing of environmental documents as permitted under the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA), and as required under appropriate environmental statutes. The information maintained by the CDX-CRS includes the individual's name and related identifiers, work contact information, supervisor's name and contact information, and information about the EPA program under which the individual plans to report electronically. The information will be used to protect and manage access to the individual's account on CDX.

DATES: Comments must be received no later than April 17, 2002. This new system of records will commence April 26, 2002 unless the Agency receives comments which would result in a contrary determination.

ADDRESSES: Persons wishing to submit comments should direct them to: Environmental Protection Agency, Office of Environmental Information, Collection Services Division, MS 2823, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, DC 20460.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Valerie Brecher Kovacevic at brecher-kovacevic.valerie@epa.gov, or 202-260-9488. If you use a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD), you may call the Federal Information Relay Service (FIRS) at 1-800-877-8339.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

EPA/CDX-CRS

SYSTEM NAME:

EPA Central Data Exchange—Customer Registration Subsystem (CDX-CRS)

SECURITY CLASSIFICATION:

None.

SYSTEM LOCATION:

The system will be operated and maintained by EPA or organizations under contract with the EPA (henceforth referred to as "EPA") at their place of business. The system is currently maintained at Logistics Management Institute, 2000 Corporate Ridge Drive, McLean, VA 22102-7805.

CATEGORIES OF INDIVIDUALS COVERED BY THE SYSTEM:

This system contains records on all individuals that have either attempted to register or have registered to obtain an account to use CDX for electronically exchanging data with EPA. Registered users of EPA's CDX-CRS may include representatives of industry, government or laboratories exchanging information with EPA through CDX.

CATEGORIES OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

This system contains records including individual's name, self-assigned user name and security question, work title, work address and related work contact information (e.g., phone and fax numbers, E-mail address), supervisor's name and related contact information, and information related to the EPA reporting program the individual is planning to electronically file or report under (e.g., EPA program ID # and EPA program role) and the method of reporting (web browser, file exchange). The individual registering for CDX will also generate a self-assigned password that will be stored on the CDX-CRS, but it will only be accessible to the registering individual. The system will also store other system-generated data such as the registration date and time, digital certificate identifier, and other identifiers for internal tracking. Upon assignment of the password and ID code, the user may subsequently access the CDX system by entering these data and CDX will use this information to authenticate the individual's access to CDX.

AUTHORITY FOR MAINTENANCE OF SYSTEM:

In accordance with the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (44 U.S.C. 3504), EPA's electronic compliance filing and environmental data exchange system will enable the "acquisition and use of information technology, including alternative information technologies that provide for electronic submission, maintenance, or disclosure of information as a substitute for paper and for the use and acceptance of electronic signatures." Section 3504(a)(1)(B)(vi) of Title 44, United States Code.

PURPOSE(S):

Central Data Exchange is EPA's portal for electronically exchanging environmental data with our external customers. Individual external users with CDX accounts may engage in secure, electronic filing of environmental documents as permitted under the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA), and as required under appropriate environmental statutes. CDX-CRS was developed to protect the EPA and CDX system users from individuals seeking to gain unauthorized access to user accounts on CDX.

The information contained in records maintained in the CDX-CRS system is used for the purposes of verifying the identity of the individual, informing users of the conditions and terms of using CDX, allowing individual users to establish an account on CDX, providing individual users access to their CDX account for electronically filing compliance data or exchanging other forms of environmental data, allowing individual users to customize, update or terminate their account with CDX, renewing or revoking an individual user's account on CDX, supporting the CDX help desk functions, investigating possible fraud and verifying compliance with program regulations, and initiating legal action against an individual involved in program fraud, abuse, or noncompliance.

ROUTINE USES OF RECORDS MAINTAINED IN THE SYSTEM, INCLUDING CATEGORIES OF USERS AND THE PURPOSES OF SUCH USES:

CDX-CRS records will be used to facilitate registering CDX system users, issuing a username and password, and subsequently, verifying an individual's identity as he/she seeks to gain routine access to his/her account. In some cases the user verification process will require EPA to contact the employer, based on the registration information provided by the user. The system has secondary uses that include: using the established username to facilitate tracking service calls or e-mails from the user in the event that there is a change in registration status or a problem the user has with CDX, offering the user new CDX service options, and facilitating the retrieval of user actions (e.g., historical submissions and help tickets) and events while on the CDX system. The records may also be subsequently used for auditing or other internal purposes of the EPA, including but not limited to: instances where enforcement of the conditions of using CDX are necessary; investigation of possible fraud involving a registered user; litigation purposes related to information reported to the agency; contacting the individual in the event of a system modification; a change to CDX; or modification, revocation or termination of user's access privileges to CDX.

EPA may disclose information contained in a record in this system of records under the routine uses listed in this notice without the consent of the individual if the disclosure is compatible with the purposes for which the record was collected. These disclosures may be made on a case-by-case basis or under a computer matching agreement if the Agency has complied with the computer matching requirements of the Act.

The general routine uses for EPA's CDX are listed as follows:

Disclosure for Law Enforcement Purposes, Disclosure Incident to Requesting Information, Disclosure to a Requesting Agency, Disclosure to Congressional Offices, Disclosure to Department of Justice, Disclosure to the National Archives, Disclosure to Contractors, Grantees, and Others, Disclosure for Administrative Claims, Complaints, and Appeals, and Disclosure in Connection With Litigation.

A detailed description of these routine uses can be found in the Federal Register, Privacy Act of 1974: System of Records, Creation of Eleven New Privacy Act System of Records Notice (at 66 FR 49947 (2001)) and also on the National Archives and Records Administration website, Privacy Act Issuances—1999 Compilation at: <http://www.access.gpo.gov/su—docs/aces/PrivacyAct.shtml?desc015.html>.

In addition, the following routine uses may also apply:

PROGRAM DISCLOSURES:

(b) Disclosure to the DOJ. If the Agency determines that disclosure of certain records to the DOJ is relevant and necessary to litigation or ADR, the Agency may disclose those records as a routine use to the DOJ.

(c) Administrative Disclosures. Agencies that may obtain information under this routine use include, but are not limited to, the Office of Personnel Management, Office of Special Counsel, Merit Systems Protection Board, Federal Labor Relations Authority, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and Office of Government Ethics.

(d) Parties, counsels, representatives and witnesses. If the Agency determines that disclosure of certain records to a party, counsel, representative or witness in an administrative proceeding is relevant and necessary to the litigation, the Agency may disclose those records as a routine use to the party, counsel, representative or witness.

Research Disclosure: The Agency may disclose records to a researcher if an appropriate official of the Agency determines that the individual or organization to which the disclosure would be made is qualified to carry out specific research related to functions or purposes of this system of records. The official may disclose records from this system of records to that researcher solely for the purpose of carrying out that research related to the functions or purposes of this system of records. The researcher shall be required to maintain Privacy Act safeguards with respect to the disclosed records.

POLICIES AND PRACTICES FOR STORING, RETRIEVING, ACCESSING, RETAINING, AND DISPOSING OF RECORDS IN THE SYSTEM:

STORAGE:

The CDX is a new system for which the Agency is in the process of establishing a records schedule. The CDX will be taking e-transactions and preserving them in accordance with applicable EPA and other Federal policy and regulations. The CDX currently stores records on magnetic and/or digital formats. All record storage procedures are in accordance with current applicable regulations.

RETRIEVABILITY:

Records are retrievable by the CDX user name, program ID number, or all or part of the individual's name.

SAFEGUARDS:

EPA has minimized the risk of unauthorized access to the system by establishing a secure environment for exchanging electronic information. Physical access to the data system housed within the facility is controlled by a computerized badge reading system, and the entire complex is patrolled by security during non-business hours. The computer system offers a high degree of resistance to tampering and circumvention. Multiple levels of security are maintained with the computer system control program. This system limits data access to EPA and contract staff on a need to know basis, and controls individuals ability to access and alter records with the system. All users of the system of records are given a unique user identification (ID) with personal identifiers. All interactions between the system and the authorized individual users are recorded.

RETENTION AND DISPOSAL:

The EPA will retain and dispose of these records in accordance with National Archives and Records Administration General Records Schedule 20, Item 1.c. This schedule provides disposal authorization for electronic files and hard copy printouts created to monitor system usage, including but not limited to log-in files, audit trail files, system usage files, and cost-back files used to access charges for system use. Records will be deleted or destroyed when the Agency determines they are no longer needed for administrative, legal, audit, or other program purposes.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

OMB Control No.: 3060-0463.

Title: Telecommunications Services for Individuals with Hearing and Speech Disabilities and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, 47 CFR Part 64 (Sections 64.601-64.605).

Form No.: N/A.

Type of Review: Extension of a currently approved collection.

Respondents: Business or other for-profit, state, local or tribal government.

Number of Respondents: 5,052.

Estimated Time Per Response: 5.31 hours (average hour per response).

Frequency of Response: On occasion, annual and every five year reporting requirements; third party disclosure requirement, and recordkeeping requirement.

Total Annual Burden: 26,831 hours.

Total Annual Cost: N/A.

Needs and Uses: The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), Public Law 101-336, 104 Stat. 327, 366-69, was enacted on July 26, 1990. The purpose of the ADA is to provide a clear and comprehensive national mandate to end discrimination against individuals with disabilities and to bring persons with disabilities into the economic and social mainstream of American life; to provide enforceable standards addressing discrimination against individuals with disabilities; and to ensure that the Federal government play a central role in enforcing these standards on behalf of individuals with disabilities. Title IV of the ADA adds section 225 to the Communications Act of 1934. Section 225 requires the Commission to promulgate regulations that require all domestic telephone common carriers to provide telecommunications relay services (TRS). 47 CFR part 64, subpart F implements certain provisions of the ADA. It contains the operational technical, and functional standards required of all TRS providers and the procedures for state certification. In a Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O) issued in CC Docket No. 98-67, released December 21, 2001, the Commission adopted cost-recovery guidelines to telecommunications relay services (TRS), speech-to-speech relay services (STS), and video relay services (VRS). These guidelines are based, in part, on the recommendation of the Interstate TRS Advisory Council and the TRS Fund Administrator. Among other things, the Commission expanded TRS Data Request to capture separately STS costs and minutes include specific sections to capture separately VRS costs and minutes for this service. Other requirements approved under this control number and unaffected by the MO&O follow. Section 64.605 describes the state certification procedures by which states may apply to assert jurisdiction over the provisions of intrastate TRS. Section 64.604(c)(1) requires states to maintain a log of consumer complaints including all complaints about TRS in the state, whether filed with the TRS provider or the State, and must retain the log until the next application for certification is granted. Pursuant to section 64.604(c)(2) states must submit to the Commission a contact person or office for TRS consumer information and complaints about intrastate TRS. Pursuant to 47 CFR 64.604(b)(2), TRS providers must answer 85% of all relay calls within 10 seconds by a CA prepared to place the TRS call at the time. The calculation of whether a provider is in compliance with the "85-10 rule" must be performed on at least a daily basis.

Pursuant to 47 CFR 64.604(a)(2), STS CAs may retain information from a particular call in order to facilitate the completion of consecutive calls, at the request of the user. Pursuant to section 64.604(b)(6), relay providers shall electronically capture recorded messages and retain them for the length of the call. See 47 CFR 64.604(b)(6). Section 64.604(c)(3) requires carriers, through publications in their directories, periodic billing inserts, placement of TRS instructions in telephone directories, through directory assistance services, and incorporation of TTY numbers in telephone directories, shall assure that callers in their service areas are aware of the availability and use of all forms of TRS. Pursuant to section 64.604(c)(5)(B) carriers must complete and submit a Telecommunications Reporting Worksheet. Section 64.604(c)(iii)(5)(C) requires TRS providers to provide the administrator with true and adequate data necessary to determine TRS fund revenue requirements and payments. Pursuant to section 64.604(c)(iii)(5)(E), in addition to the data required under paragraph (c)(5)(ii)(C) all TRS providers, including providers who are not interexchange carriers, local exchange carriers, or certified state relay providers, must submit reports of interstate TRS minutes of use to the administrator in order to receive payments. Section 64.604(c)(iii)(5)(F) lists TRS providers who are eligible for receiving payments from the TRS fund. These providers must notify the administrator of their intent to participate in the TRS Fund thirty days prior to submitting reports of TRS interstate minutes of use in order to receive payment settlements for interstate TRS. Section 64.604(c)(6)(v)(3) requires TRS providers to file with the Commission a statement designating an agent or agents whose principal responsibility will be to receive all complaints, inquiries, orders, decisions, and notices and other pronouncements forwarded by the Commission. Section 64.604(c)(7) requires that all future contracts between the TRS administrator and the TRS vendor shall provide for the transfer of TRS customer profile data from the outgoing TRS vendor to the incoming TRS vendor. Such data must be disclosed in usable form at least 60 days prior to the provider's last day of service provision. Section 64.604(c)(6) establishes complaint procedures for TRS. All the collections of information are promulgated pursuant to section 225 of the ADA which requires that the Commission ensures that telecommunications relay services are available to persons with hearing and speech disabilities in the United States.

OMB Control No.: 3060-0972.

Title: Multi-Association Group (MAG) Plan for Regulation of Interstate Services of Non-Price Cap Incumbent Local Exchange Carriers and Interexchange Carriers.

Form No.: N/A.

Type of Review: Extension of a currently approved collection.

Respondents: Business or other for-profit, state, local or tribal government.

Number of Respondents: 8,059.

Estimated Time Per Response: 4.81 hours (average hours per response), burden hour range per response is .13 hours to 93 hours.

Frequency of Response: On occasion, quarterly, annual and one-time reporting requirements; and third party disclosure requirement.

Total Annual Burden: 38,760 hours.

Total Annual Cost: $228,000.

Needs and Uses: In the Second Report and Order and Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in CC Docket No. 00-256, Fifteenth Report and Order in CC Docket No. 96-45, and Report and Order in CC Docket Nos. 98-77 and 98-166, the Commission modified its rules to reform the interstate access charge and universal service support system for incumbent local exchange carriers subject to rate-of-return regulation (non-price cap or rate of return carriers). Following are brief summaries of the collections imposed on telecommunications carriers based on rules adopted in the Report and Order. Certain carriers are required to file projected common line revenue requirements for each study area they operate; rate of return carriers will be required to submit interstate common line cost data annually and updated cost data on a quarterly basis; rate of return carriers will be required to file line counts by disaggregation zone and customer class; competitive eligible telecommunication carriers will file their line counts by disaggregation zone and customer class on a quarterly basis; rate of return carriers that elect to disaggregate and target support will be required to submit maps; carriers electing Path One must submit a copy of certifications to a state commission or appropriate regulatory authority that they will not disaggregate and target support; carriers selecting Path Two must submit a copy of the order by the state commission or appropriate regulatory authority approving the disaggregation plan submitted, along with a copy of the disaggregation plan itself; carriers receiving Interstate Common Line Support and LTS must file a certification annually indicating that they will use that support in a manner consistent with section 254(e); all rate of return carriers are required to modify their access tariffs to comply with the new Subscriber Line Charge caps; rate of return carriers must also file tariffs to recover through a separate end-user charge the costs of ISDN line ports and line ports associated with other services that exceed the costs of a line port used for basic analog service; rate of return carriers may use 30 percent of local switching costs as a proxy in shifting line port costs to the common line category, or may conduct a cost study; each carrier that was not in the NECA pool during the tariff year ending on June 30, 2001 must determine its TIC limit and report it to NECA; rate-of-return carriers may, at their option, establish the following local switching and transport rate elements: A flat charge for dedicated trunk port costs, a flat charge for the costs of DS1/voice grade multiplexers associated with terminating dedicated trunks at analog switches, a per-minute charge for shared trunk ports and any associated DS1/voice grade multiplexer costs, a flat charge for the costs of trunk ports used to terminate dedicated trunks on the serving wire center side of the tandem switch; individual charges for multiplexer costs associated with tandem switches, and a per-message call setup charge; and, rate-of-return carriers that use general purpose computers to provide non-regulated billing and collection services are required to allocate a portion of their general purpose computer costs to the billing and collection category, which will require them to determine general purpose computer investment. The Commission will use the information collected to determine whether and to what extent non-price cap or rate-of-return carriers providing the data are eligible to receive universal service support. The Commission will use the tariff data to make sure that rates are just and reasonable, as required by section 201(b) of the Act.

Paperwork Reduction Act

1. This MO&O and HDO contains no proposed information collection.

Synopsis of the Memorandum Opinion and Order and Hearing Designation Order

I. Introduction

2. On March 16, 2000, Alee Cellular Communications (Alee) filed a petition for reconsideration of the dismissal of an application for the block A cellular authorization in the Texas 21 RSA, Market 672.¹ As discussed herein, there are substantial and material questions of fact as to whether Alee is qualified to hold the subject cellular authorization. The Commission previously held that Alee made false statements to the Commission, lacked the candor required of licensees, and accordingly was not qualified to hold a cellular license for the New Mexico 3 RSA (NM 3), block A, call sign KNKN271.² For the reasons discussed, the Commission is granting the petition for reconsideration in part, reinstating the above-referenced application, and designating the application for hearing, for the limited purpose of determining whether the applicant is currently qualified to hold the Texas 21 authorization in light of its disqualification for the NM 3 cellular authorization.

II. Background

3. The issue in this proceeding arises from the Commission's previous holding in the so-called Algreg proceeding. Specifically, Alee's NM 3 authorization was designated for hearing and possible revocation, along with additional RSA applications and licenses, in connection with participation in a risk-sharing arrangement at the time of filing of the applications.³ In addition, the NM 3 license was designated due to alien ownership concerns and for lack of candor.⁴ The Commission concluded that Alee's lack of candor in connection with the NM 3 authorization warranted revocation of the license.⁵

4. The Commission observed that Alee's NM 3 application was filed on August 12, 1988, and included a listing for Shafi M. Sharifan, a four percent general partner who was an alien. Under the policies then in effect, having a non-U.S. citizen or entity holding any general partnership interest was absolutely disqualifying.⁶ Less than two months later, on September 23, 1988, Sharifan's interest was transferred to Amir R. Riahi-Shiraz (a U.S. citizen). Alee won the NM 3 lottery a few months later, and filed a section 1.65 amendment on January 9, 1989. That amendment, signed by Robert Bernstein (Alee's signing partner and largest equity holder at the time) and prepared by Alee's attorney, William Franklin, listed Sharifan (not Riahi-Shiraz) as a partner and inaccurately stated that all partners were U.S. citizens. More than a year later, on April 30, 1990, Alee filed a letter disclosing the errors in the application and a section 1.65 amendment—stating that Sharifan was not a U.S. citizen and that his partnership interest had been sold to a U.S. citizen several months before the section 1.65 amendment was signed and filed. All of Alee's applications and the NM 3 amendment were signed by Bernstein. The Commission further concluded, based on its independent review of the record,⁷ that "[a] preponderance of the evidence establishes that Alee, understanding that this was a matter that could adversely affect the grant of the construction permit, intentionally concealed the presence of the alien partner."⁸ The Commission further explained that "[t]he record in this case * * * reflects that Alee, aware that it had an alien partner, filed an amendment representing that all of its partners were United States citizens. Whether it did so on the advice of counsel, or its own initiative, and whether it understood the precise legal consequences of reporting false information (i.e., that lack of candor is absolutely disqualifying), Alee did not need to consult an attorney, let alone communications counsel, in order to appreciate that information filed with a federal agency should be truthful."⁹ The Commission found that "the record establishes a sufficient likelihood of intentional concealment of relevant information * * *."¹⁰

5. Finally, the Commission was "unimpressed" by "Alee's 'voluntary' reporting of this matter to the Commission in its April 30, 1990 letter to the FCC Secretary."¹¹ While the Commission acknowledged that Alee's letter was the basis for the specification of lack of candor and alien ownership issues against it, the Commission concluded that Alee both delayed reporting the matter and failed to make a full disclosure of the facts related to Mr. Sharifan and his replacement in the partnership.¹² The Commission found that "[t]he failure to fully disclose the facts involving Sharifan's participation in a timely manner, together with Bernstein's dubious testimony on this matter, significantly undercuts the claim that the 'voluntary' reporting of these matters belies any intent to deceive the Commission."¹³

6. The Commission rejected Alee's request for reconsideration regarding the finding of lack of candor and the revocation of Alee's NM 3 cellular license.¹⁴ In addressing the request for reconsideration, the Commission found that Alee had presented no new evidence that would warrant any reconsideration.¹⁵ The Commission also distinguished Alee's situation from those of NextWave and PCS 2000, where the Commission did not revoke any licenses but allowed the applicant to undertake remedial action.¹⁶

7. Alee appealed the Commission's action to the DC Circuit Court of Appeals. After briefing and oral argument, the Court affirmed the Commission's action, "essentially for the reasons stated by the Commission."¹⁷ The Court stated:

Substantial evidence supported the Commission's determination that Alee Cellular Communications lacked candor in failing to reveal that it had an alien general partner and that there had been a change in its partnership structure. The Commission independently reviewed the record of the evidentiary hearing, examining both the testimony of the Alee witnesses and the significant documentary evidence. This evidence was sufficient to support the Commission's conclusion that Alee's partners knowingly and intentionally withheld relevant information from the Commission. Algreg Cellular Eng'g, 12 F.C.C.R. 8148, 8172-80 (1997). The Commission thus had ample basis to sanction Alee for its misconduct. The Commission's decision to revoke Alee's license for its lack of candor lies well within the agency's broad discretion to apply an appropriate sanction to licensee misconduct. West Coast Media, Inc. v. FCC, 695 F.2d 617, 622 (D.C. Cir. 1982), cert. denied, 464 U.S. 816 (1983).¹⁸

The DC Circuit denied Alee's petition for rehearing on April 5, 2001, and the Supreme Court denied Alee's petition for writ of certiorari on October 9, 2001.¹⁹

III. Discussion

8. Alee filed the application for the Texas 21 RSA on October 8, 1988, and was chosen as the tentative selectee on April 8, 1992, during a re-lottery of the market applications.²⁰ In the Texas 21

Dismissal Order, the Policy and Rules Branch of the Commercial Wireless Division of the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau denied Alee's application, finding that, "[b]ecause the Commission determined in ALGREG that Alee lacks the character qualifications required of licensees, we deny Alee's instant application for the same reasons."²¹ The Branch also dismissed the petition to deny filed by Applicants Against Lottery Abuse as moot.²²

9. Alee then filed the pending petition for reconsideration of the February 15, 2000 Memorandum Opinion and Order. Alee argued that: (1) Denial of the Texas 21 application was premature, since the Algreg finding is still subject to the appellate review process;²³ (2) the Algreg determination is limited to the NM3 license and should not be applied to the Texas 21 application;²⁴ and (3) "Alee is entitled to an opportunity to present any mitigating factors in support of the grant of the Texas 21 application before the Commission makes a final determination."²⁵

10. Alee's first argument is moot, since the Algreg finding is no longer subject to appellate review and thus is a final order.²⁶ Regarding its second claim, Alee is incorrect that the Algreg findings are not applicable to the Commission's consideration of the Texas 21 application. The Commission has made clear that applicant and licensee candor is a fundamental character quality that goes to the overall qualifications of an entity to hold a license; it is not limited to the merits of a single application.²⁷ In Algreg I and II, the Commission conclusively determined that Alee lacked candor with respect to its application and related filings for the NM 3 authorization,²⁸ and the Commission is entitled to take that finding into account when assessing Alee's qualifications to hold another Commission license. Regarding Alee's third claim, however, the Commission grant Alee's TX21 Petition for Reconsideration in part and the subject application was filed. The amendment also advised the Commission of the pending show cause proceeding (ALGREG) concerning Alee's NM 3 authorization and made other corrections.

reinstates its application for the Texas 21 authorization, File No. 11025-CL-P-672-A-89, to pending status. Given that the Commission is unable to make the public interest determination required by Section 309(e) of the Act based on Alee's prior disqualification in a proceeding that did not involve Texas 21, the Commission designates Alee's application for an evidentiary hearing. This hearing will be limited to determining whether the finding of disqualifying lack of candor on the part of Alee in the Algreg proceeding also disqualifies Alee from being granted the Texas 21 authorization, or whether there has been subsequent and sufficient rehabilitation on the part of Alee in the interim to support grant of its Texas 21 application. The Commission underscores that this hearing shall not be used by Alee to relitigate the Commission's findings in Algreg concerning Alee's lack of candor, since those findings are fully binding on Alee at this time.

IV. Ordering Clauses

11. Pursuant to § 1.106 of the Commission's rules, 47 CFR 1.106, Alee's petition for reconsideration is GRANTED IN PART and OTHERWISE DENIED, to the extent explained above.

12. Alee's application for the Texas 21 RSA cellular authorization, File No. 11025-CL-P-672-A-89, is RETURNED to pending status.

13. Pursuant to Section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 309(e), Alee's application for the Texas 21 RSA cellular authorization, File No. 11025-CL-P-672-A-89 is designated for hearing in a proceeding before an FCC Administrative Law Judge, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

a. To determine, based on previously adjudicated lack of candor on the part of Alee in Algreg I,²⁹ whether Alee is qualified to be a Commission licensee in Texas RSA 21—Market 672A.

b. To determine, in light of the foregoing, whether Alee's pending application for an authorization to construct a nonwireline cellular system in Texas RSA 21—Market 672A should be granted.

14. To avail itself of the opportunity to be heard and to avail itself of the right to present evidence at a hearing in these proceedings, pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, 47 CFR 1.221(c), Alee shall, in person or by its attorneys, file, within 20 days of the mailing of this Hearing Designation Order, a written appearance stating that

The application, which was signed on August 6, 1988, identified Shafi M. Sharifan, who was not in 1988 a U.S. citizen, as a general partner in Alee. Alee's section 1.65 amendment, submitted following its selection as the tentative selectee in the 1992 re-lottery, indicated that Sharifan's interest in Alee had been assigned to a U.S. citizen as of September 23, 1988, and thus he was not a partner in Alee when

OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT ETHICS

Proposed Collection; Comment Request: Proposed Slightly Revised OGE Form 450 Executive Branch Confidential Financial Disclosure Report

AGENCY: Office of Government Ethics (OGE).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: After this first round notice and public comment period, OGE plans to submit a slightly revised version of its OGE Form 450 for confidential financial disclosure reporting under its existing executive branch regulations for review and three-year extension of approval by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act.

DATES: Comments by the agencies and the public on this proposal are invited and should be received by June 3, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be sent to: Mary T. Donovan, Office of Administration and Information Management, Office of Government Ethics, Suite 500, 1201 New York Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20005-3917. Comments may also be sent electronically to OGE's Internet E-mail address atusoge@oge.gov (for E-mail messages, the subject line should include the following reference—"OGE Form 450 Executive Branch Confidential Financial Disclosure Report Paperwork Comment").

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Donovan at the Office of Government Ethics; telephone: 202-208-8000, ext. 1185; TDD: 202-208-8025; FAX: 202-208-8038. A copy of the proposed slightly revised Confidential Financial Disclosure Report form may be obtained, without charge, by contacting Ms. Donovan.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Office of Government Ethics is planning to submit, after this notice and comment period a slightly revised (pending the minor change noted below) version of the OGE Form 450 Executive Branch Confidential Financial Disclosure Report for three-year extension of approval by OMB under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, 44 U.S.C. chapter 35. The OGE Form 450 (OMB control # 3209-0006) collects information from covered department and agency officials as required under OGE's executive branchwide regulatory provisions in subpart I of 5 CFR part 2634. The OGE Form 450 serves as the uniform report form for collection, on a confidential basis, of financial information required by the OGE regulation from certain new entrant and incumbent employees of the Federal Government executive branch departments and agencies in order to allow ethics officials to conduct conflict of interest reviews and to resolve any actual or potential conflicts found.

The basis for the OGE regulation and the report form is two-fold. First, section 201(d) of Executive Order 12674 of April 12, 1989 (as modified by Executive Order 12731 of October 17, 1990) makes OGE responsible for the establishment of a system of nonpublic (confidential) financial disclosure by executive branch employees to complement the system of public financial disclosure under the Ethics in Government Act of 1978 (the "Ethics Act"), as amended, 5 U.S.C. appendix. Second, section 107(a) of the Ethics Act, 5 U.S.C. app. sec. 107(a), further provides authority for OGE as the supervising ethics office for the executive branch of the Federal Government to require that appropriate executive agency employees file confidential financial disclosure reports, "in such form as the supervising ethics office may prescribe." The current OGE Form 450, adopted in 1999, together with the underlying OGE 5 CFR part 2634 executive branchwide financial disclosure regulation, issued in 1992 and modified at various times since, constitute the basic form OGE has prescribed for such confidential financial disclosure in the executive branch.

The only changes to the OGE Form 450 that OGE is proposing at this time (as also referenced on the mark-up copy of the form) are updating the contact information to reflect recent OGE organizational changes, adding a continuation page to Part I, and the forthcoming adjustment to the thresholds for reporting of gifts and travel reimbursements for regular employee annual filers in Part V of the OGE Form 450. Currently these thresholds require the reporting of gifts and reimbursements totaling more than $260 from any one source during the annual reporting period, subject to a de minimis exclusion for any item valued at $104 or less (which is not counted toward the overall threshold). The thresholds will have to be adjusted sometime this year when the General Services Administration redefines "minimal value" under the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act, 5 U.S.C. 7342(a)(5), for the three-year period 2002-2004. Currently, foreign gifts minimal value is set at $260 or less pursuant to 41 CFR 102-42.10 of GSA's regulations. Under section 102(a)(2)(A) and (B) of the Ethics Act, 5 U.S.C. app. section 102(a)(2)(A) and (B), the public financial disclosure reporting thresholds are pegged to any adjustment of minimal value over $250 (at the same time and by the same amount percentage). The Office of Government Ethics has extended the statutory thresholds to confidential financial disclosure reporting for the executive branch. See 5 CFR 2634.907(a)(3), so incorporating the reporting of gifts and reimbursements specified in § 2634.304 for public reports but without amounts or values. Once GSA adjusts minimal value for foreign gifts, OGE will revise the gifts and reimbursements reporting thresholds of the OGE Form 450 and amend the underlying part 2634 regulation (public financial disclosure reporting would also be affected). The Office of Government Ethics will advise the departments and agencies of any such change and coordinate with OMB on the paperwork and rulemaking aspects of the revision.

The Office of Government Ethics will continue to make the OGE Form 450 available to departments and agencies and their reporting employees in paper and through the Forms, Publications & Other Ethics Documents section of OGE's Internet Web site (address: <http://www.usoge.gov>). The latter method allows employees two different options for preparing their report on a computer, although a printout and manual signature of the form are still required unless specifically approved otherwise by OGE. Moreover, OGE also permits departments and agencies to develop or utilize their own electronic versions of the OGE Form 450 provided they precisely duplicate the paper original to the extent technically possible. While OGE sees no legal bar to electronic filing and electronic signatures for the OGE Form 450, agencies must meet the requirements of the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA) and other applicable laws and issues such as security, verification, non-repudiation, etc. Those agencies seeking to develop or utilize an electronic version of the OGE Form 450, and who have not so informed OGE, are asked to advise OGE's Deputy Director for Administration and Information Management of their intentions to do so and to provide assurance of their adherence to the previously mentioned requirements.

Since 1992 various departments and agencies have developed, with OGE review/approval, alternative reporting formats, such as certificates of no conflict, for certain classes of employees. Other agencies provide for additional disclosures pursuant to independent organic statutes and in certain other circumstances when authorized by OGE. In 1997, OGE itself developed the new OGE Optional Form 450-A (Confidential Certificate of No New Interests (Executive Branch)) for possible agency and employee use in certain years, if applicable. That optional form continues in use at various agencies. However, the OGE Form 450 remains the uniform executive branch report form for most of those executive branch employees who are required by their agencies to report confidentially on their financial interests. The OGE Form 450 is to be filed by each reporting individual with the designated agency ethics official at the executive department or agency where he or she is or will be employed.

Reporting individuals are regular employees whose positions have been designated by their agency under 5 CFR 2634.904 as requiring confidential financial disclosure in order to help avoid conflicts with their assigned responsibilities; under that section, all special Government employees (SGE) are also generally required to file. Agencies may, if appropriate under the OGE regulation, exclude certain regular employees or SGEs as provided in 5 CFR 2634.905. Reports are normally required to be filed within 30 days of entering a covered position (or earlier if required by the agency concerned), and again annually in the fall if the employee serves for more than 60 days in the position. As indicated in § 2634.907 of the OGE regulation, the information required to be collected includes assets and sources of income, liabilities, outside positions, employment agreements and arrangements, and gifts and travel reimbursements, subject to certain thresholds and exclusions.

Most of the persons who file this report form are current executive branch Government employees at the time they complete their report. However, some filers are private citizens who are asked by their prospective agency to file a new entrant report prior to entering Government service in order to permit advance checking for any potential conflicts of interest and resolution thereof by agreement to recuse or divest, obtaining of a waiver, etc. Based on OGE's annual agency ethics program questionnaire responses for 1999 and 2000 (the 2001 responses have not yet been fully tabulated), OGE estimates that an average of approximately 268,450 OGE Form 450 report forms will be filed each year for the next three years throughout the executive branch. This estimate is based on average number of report forms filed branchwide for 1999 and 2000 as indicated in the Questionnaire responses, some 271,834 in 1999 and 265,053 in 2000, for a total of 536,887, with that number then divided in half and rounded to give the projected annual average of 268,450 reports. Of these reports, OGE estimates that no more than between 5% and 10%, or some 13,422 to 26,845 per year at most, will be filed by private citizens, those potential (incoming) regular employees whose positions are designated for confidential disclosure filing as well as potential special Government employees whose agencies require that they file their new entrant reports prior to assuming Government responsibilities. No termination reports are required for the OGE Form 450.

Each filing is estimated to take an average of one and one-half hours. The number of private citizens whose reports are filed each year with OGE itself is less than 10, but pursuant to 5 CFR 1320.3(c)(4)(i), the lower limit for this general regulatory-based requirement is set at 10 private persons (OGE-processed reports). This yields an annual reporting burden of 15 hours, the same as in OGE's current OMB inventory for this information collection. The remainder of the private citizen reports are filed with other departments and agencies throughout the executive branch.

Public comment is invited on the unrevised OGE Form 450 as set forth in this notice, including specifically views on the need for and practical utility of this proposed unmodified collection of information, the accuracy of OGE's burden estimate, the enhancement of quality, utility and clarity of the information collected, and the minimization of burden (including the use of information technology).

Comments received in response to this notice will be summarized for, and may be included with, OGE's future request for OMB paperwork approval for the proposed slightly revised OGE Form 450. Any comments received will also become a matter of public record. After reviewing any comments and deciding on the proposed revisions to the form, OGE will publish a second paperwork notice in the Federal Register to inform the agencies and the public at the time it submitted the request for OMB paperwork approval.

Approved: March 12, 2002.

Director, Office of Government Ethics.

Notice of Hearing: Reconsideration of Disapproval of West Virginia State Plan Amendment (SPA) 01-05

AGENCY: Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), HHS.

ACTION: Notice of hearing.

SUMMARY: This notice announces an administrative hearing to reconsider our decision to disapprove West Virginia SPA (01-05), on April 25, 2002 at 10 a.m.; Room 339; the Public Ledger Building; 150 South Independence Mall West; Philadelphia, PA 19106-3499.

Closing Date: Requests to participate in the hearing as a party must be received by the presiding officer by April 2, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Kathleen Scully-Hayes/Office of Hearings, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, Suite L 2520 Lord Baltimore Drive, Baltimore, Maryland 21244-2670, Telephone: (410) 786-2055.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This notice announces an administrative hearing to reconsider our decision to disapprove West Virginia SPA (01-05).

Section 1116 of the Social Security Act (the Act) and 42 CFR part 430 establish HHS procedures that provide an administrative hearing for reconsideration of a disapproval of a State plan or plan amendment. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) is required to publish a copy of the notice to a State Medicaid agency that informs the agency of the time and place of the hearing and the issues to be considered. If we subsequently notify the agency of additional issues that will be considered at the hearing, we will also publish that notice. Any individual or group that wants to participate in the hearing as a party must petition the presiding officer within 15 days after publication of this notice, in accordance with the requirements contained at 42 CFR 430.76(b)(2). Any interested person or organization that wants to participate as amicus curiae must petition the presiding officer before the hearing begins in accordance with the requirements contained at 42 CFR 430.76(c). If the hearing is later rescheduled, the presiding officer will notify all participants.

The primary issue in the hearing is whether West Virginia's SPA 01-05 complies with the requirement of section 1917(b)(3) of the Act governing criteria for establishing an undue hardship under which the provisions governing mandatory estate recovery will be waived. That provision requires the State to use criteria established by the Secretary for determining whether estate recovery constitutes an undue hardship: 1. In resolving this issue, the hearing will consider whether publication in the State Medicaid Manual meets the requirements for adopting standards governing a homestead of modest value for purposes of qualifying for the undue hardship exception section 1917(b)(3); 2. The hearing will also consider if properly adopted, whether the Secretary appropriately applied these standards in disapproving the amendment.

West Virginia initially submitted SPA 01-05 on March 13, 2001. Section 1917 (b)(3) of the Act requires the state agency to establish procedures and standards to waive estate recoveries when such recoveries would cause an undue hardship as determined on the basis of criteria established by the Secretary. The State Medicaid Manual (SMM) defines one basis for an undue hardship as "a homestead of modest value."

The SPA proposes to exempt homestead property based on a statewide arithmetic mean appraised value of a home that is to be updated yearly by the West Virginia Department of Tax and Revenue.

The CMS has informed West Virginia that it has provided standards for determining the maximum amount which can be excluded from estate recovery as a "homestead of modest value." Section 3810.C1 provides that states may not set the threshold for the market value of a homestead of modest value so high as to negate the intent of the estate recovery program. It specifically notes that "a homestead of 'modest value' can be defined as 50 percent or less of the average price of homes in the county where the homestead is located, as of the date of the beneficiary's death." Under West Virginia's amendment, in many counties, the $50,735 homestead of modest value exemption is greater than 100 percent of the average appraised value of homes in the county. In others it is twice that amount. Accordingly, CMS found the amendment did not comport with the standards for defining a homestead of modest value, which a state may exempt as part of its undue hardship exemption.

The CMS has noted that West Virginia's statewide homestead exemption was not included in the amendment as part of its "undue hardship" waiver of the mandatory estate recovery. The State included this exemption in the State plan as a separate item. Any homestead exempted must be excluded either on the basis of "undue hardship" or that it is not cost-effective for the State to recover.

The notice to West Virginia announcing an administrative hearing to reconsider the disapproval of its SPA reads as follows:

Nancy V. Atkins, MSN, RNC, NP,
Commissioner, State of West Virginia,
Department of Health and Human Services,
Bureau for Medical Services, 350 Capitol
Street, Room 251, Charleston, West
Virginia 25301-3706

Dear Ms. Atkins:

I am responding to your request for reconsideration of the decision to disapprove West Virginia State Plan Amendment (SPA) 01-05.

The primary issue in the hearing is whether West Virginia's SPA 01-05 complies with the requirement of section 1917 (b)(3) of the Social Security Act (the Act) governing criteria for establishing an undue hardship under which the provisions governing mandatory estate recovery will be waived. That provision requires the State to use criteria established by the Secretary for determining whether estate recovery constitutes an undue hardship: 1. In resolving this issue, the hearing will consider whether publication in the State Medicaid Manual meets the requirements for adopting standards governing a homestead of modest value for purposes of qualifying for the undue hardship exception Section 1917(b)(3); 2. The hearing will also consider if properly adopted, whether the Secretary appropriately applied these standards in disapproving the amendment.

West Virginia initially submitted SPA 01-05 on March 13, 2001. Section 1917 (b)(3) of the Act requires the State agency to establish procedures and standards to waive estate recoveries when such recoveries would cause an undue hardship as determined on the basis of criteria established by the Secretary. The State Medicaid Manual (SMM) defines one basis for an undue hardship as "a homestead of modest value."

The SPA proposes to exempt homestead property based on a statewide arithmetic mean appraised value of a home that is to be updated yearly by the West Virginia Department of Tax and Revenue.

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) has informed West Virginia that it has provided standards for determining the maximum amount which can be excluded from estate recovery as a "homestead of modest value." Section 3810.C1 provides that states may not set the threshold for the market value of a homestead of modest value so high as to negate the intent of the estate recovery program. It specifically notes that "a homestead of 'modest value' can be defined as 50 percent or less of the average price of homes in the county where the homestead is located, as of the date of the beneficiary's death." Under West Virginia's amendment, in many counties, the $50,735 homestead of modest value exemption is greater than 100 percent of the average appraised value of homes in the county. In others it is twice that amount. Accordingly, CMS found the amendment did not comport with the standards for defining a homestead of modest value, which a state may exempt as part of its undue hardship exemption.

The CMS has noted that West Virginia's statewide homestead exemption was not included in the amendment as part of its "undue hardship" waiver of the mandatory estate recovery. The State included this exemption in the State plan as a separate item. Any homestead exempted must be excluded either on the basis of "undue hardship" or that it is not cost-effective for the State to recover.

I am scheduling a hearing on your request for reconsideration to be held on April 25, 2002, at 10 a.m.; Room 339; The Public Ledger Building; 150 South Independence Mall West; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19106-3499.

If this date is not acceptable, we would be glad to set another date that is mutually agreeable to the parties. The hearing will be governed by the procedures prescribed at 42 CFR, part 430.

I am designating Ms. Kathleen Scully-Hayes as the presiding officer. If these arrangements present any problems, please contact the presiding officer. In order to facilitate any communication which may be necessary between the parties to the hearing, please notify the presiding officer to indicate acceptability of the hearing date that has been scheduled and provide names of the individuals who will represent the State at the hearing. The presiding officer may be reached at (410) 786-2055.

Sincerely,
Thomas A. Scully.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for industry entitled "Inhalational Anthrax (Post-Exposure)—Developing Antimicrobial Drugs." This guidance focuses on the development of antimicrobial drugs for administration to persons who have inhaled aerosolized B. anthracis, but who do not yet have the established disease. The treatment goal would be to prevent development of the infection in such persons.

In the fall of 2001, B. anthracis, the bacterium that causes anthrax, was used as a bioterrorism agent and sent through the U.S. mail, resulting in cases of cutaneous and inhalational anthrax in New York, New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Florida, and Connecticut. Ciprofloxacin hydrochloride tablets, ciprofloxacin intravenous (IV) solution, ciprofloxacin IV in 5 percent dextrose, ciprofloxacin IV in 0.9 percent saline, and ciprofloxacin oral suspension, which the agency had approved in August 2000 for use in the management of patients who have been exposed to aerosolized spores of B. anthracis, were used to treat the potentially infected persons.

Because of the bioterrorism incident, the agency is encouraging the development of additional antimicrobial agents to be used in the event of inhalational exposure to B. anthracis. This guidance provides recommendations on how to develop such agents. The guidance is intended to assist applicants who wish to plan, design, conduct, and appropriately monitor the studies, including clinical studies, for drugs to treat persons exposed to B. anthracis. Applications submitted to the agency based on studies conducted as recommended in this guidance should yield the information necessary for the agency to determine whether the antimicrobial under study is safe and effective for use in persons exposed to aerosolized B. anthracis who do not yet have established disease.

This level 1 draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance represents the agency's current thinking on this topic. It does not create or confer any rights for or on any person and does not operate to bind FDA or the public. An alternative approach may be used if such approach satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Comments

Interested persons may submit to the Dockets Management Branch (address above) written or electronic comments on the draft guidance by May 17, 2002. Two copies of any comments are to be submitted, except that individuals may submit one copy. Comments are to be identified with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a guidance for industry entitled "Information Program on Clinical Trials for Serious or Life-Threatening Diseases and Conditions." The agency has finalized the guidance after considering comments received on two draft guidance documents. In the Federal Register of March 29, 2000 (65 FR 16620), FDA published the notice of availability of a draft guidance entitled "Information Program on Clinical Trials for Serious or Life-Threatening Diseases: Establishment of a Data Bank." The March 29, 2000, draft guidance provided recommendations for industry on the submission of protocol information to the clinical trials data bank. It included information on the types of clinical trials for which submissions are required under section 113 of the Modernization Act (42 U.S.C. 282) and on the content of those submissions.

Notice of the availability of the second draft guidance entitled "Information Program on Clinical Trials for Serious or Life-Threatening Diseases: Implementation Plan," was published on July 9, 2001 (66 FR 35798). It addressed procedural issues, including how to submit required and voluntary protocol information to the Clinical Trials Data Bank through a Web-based Protocol Registration System (PRS) available at <http://prsinfo.clinicaltrials.gov/>.

This guidance, which is a combination of the informational and procedural draft guidances, was finalized after consideration of comments received on both draft guidances. The comments received addressed the following topics: (1) Scope of data requirements, (2) international trial sites, (3) voluntary information, (4) compliance, (5) timeframes, (6) procedural issues (e.g. contact names and intermediaries), and (7) burden estimate. Revisions made in the guidance are intended to clarify issues raised in the comments and to make the document clearer.

We note that Senate 1789, "Best Pharmaceuticals for Children Act" (Public Law 107-109), which was signed by the President on January 4, 2002, provides for a description of whether, and through what procedure, the manufacturer or sponsor of an IND will respond to requests for protocol exception, with appropriate safeguards, for single-patient and expanded protocol use of the investigational drug, particularly in children. The agency intends to issue a revised guidance in the future to address this provision.

Along with the first draft guidance, FDA published a notice in the Federal Register of March 29, 2000, announcing a proposed collection of information. On November 9, 2000 (65 FR 67385), FDA published a notice stating that the proposed collection of information was submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review. The report considered comments received on the proposed collection of information. On March 23, 2001 (66 FR 16251), FDA announced OMB's approval of the agency's information collection activities for the program (OMB Control No. 0910-0459). This approval expires March 31, 2004. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

This level 1 final guidance is being issued in accordance with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the agency's current thinking on compliance with section 113 of Modernization Act, i.e., submitting information on clinical trials for serious or life-threatening diseases and conditions to a Clinical Trials Data Bank developed by the National Library of Medicine, National Institutes of Health. It does not create or confer any rights for or on any person and does not operate to bind FDA or the public. An alternative approach may be used if such approach satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Comments

Interested persons may, at any time, submit to the Dockets Management Branch (address above) written or electronic comments on the guidance. Two copies of any comments are to be submitted, except that individuals may submit one copy. Comments are to be identified with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. The guidance and received comments are available for public examination in the Dockets Management Branch between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

III. Electronic Access

Persons with access to the Internet may obtain the document at either <http://www.fda.gov/cder/guidance/index.htm>, <http://www.fda.gov/cber/guidelines.htm>, or <http://www.fda.gov/ohrms/dockets/default.htm>.

Agency Information Collection Activities: Proposed Collection: Comment Request

In compliance with the requirement for opportunity for public comment on proposed data collection projects (section 3506(c)(2)(A) of Title 44, United States Code, as amended by the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 104-13), the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) publishes periodic summaries of proposed projects being developed for submission to OMB under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. To request more information on the proposed project or to obtain a copy of the data collection plans and draft instruments, call the HRSA Reports Clearance Officer on (301) 443-1129.

Comments are invited on: (a) Whether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information shall have practical utility; (b) the accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the proposed collection of information; (c) ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and (d) ways to minimize the burden of the collection of information on respondents, including through the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology.

Proposed Project: Uniform Data System (OMB No. 0915-0193)—Revision

This is a request for a revision of approval of the Uniform Data System (UDS), which contains the annual reporting requirements for the cluster of primary care grantees funded by the Bureau of Primary Health Care (BPHC), Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA). The UDS includes reporting requirements for grantees of the following primary care programs: Community Health Centers, Migrant Health Centers, Health Care for the Homeless, Outreach and Primary Health Services for Homeless Children and Public Housing Primary Care, and Healthy Schools Healthy Communities. Authorizing Legislation is found in Public Law 104-299, Health Center Consolidation Act of 1996, enacting Section 330 of the Public Health Service Act.

The Bureau of Primary Health Care collects data on its programs to ensure compliance with legislative mandates and to report to Congress and policymakers on program accomplishments. To meet these objectives, BPHC requires a core set of information collected annually that is appropriate for monitoring and evaluating performance and reporting on annual trends. The UDS includes two components: the Universal Report, completed by all grantees, provides data on services, staffing, and financing; and the Grant Report, completed by grantees funded under the Homeless, Public Housing Program or Health Schools Healthy Communities as well as one of the other programs, provides data on characteristics of users whose services fall within the scope of the Homeless, Public Housing Program, Healthy Schools Healthy Communities grant. Grantees are also asked to provide information on the charges, collections, bad debt write off and contractual disallowances by payor sources (Medicaid, Medicare, self pay and private insurance). In addition, grantees need to include categories to some of the lists (e.g., services, ICD codes, CPT codes) and annotating the forms to indicate which lines are subtotals and the lines to which they sum.

Estimates of annualized reporting burden are as follows:

Type of report	Number of respondents	Hours per response	Total burden hours
Universal Report	757	24	18,168
Grant Report	114	16	1,824
Total	757		19,992

Send comments to Susan G. Queen, Ph.D., HRSA Reports Clearance Officer, Room 11-05, Parklawn Building, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Written comments should be received within 60 days of this notice.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

National Institutes of Health

Prospective Grant of Co-Exclusive License: "Cloning and Expression of cDNA for Human Dihydropyrimidine Dehydrogenase"

AGENCY: National Institutes of Health, Public Health Service, DHHS.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This is notice, in accordance with 35 U.S.C. 209(c)(1) and 37 CFR 404.7(a)(1)(i), that the National Institutes of Health, Department of Health and Human Services, is contemplating the grant of a co-exclusive license to practice the inventions embodied in the international patent application WO96/08568 (PCT/US95/12016) related to DHHS reference No. E–157–94/3, entitled "Cloning and expression of cDNA for human dihydropyrimidine dehydrogenase," to Oncoscreen GmbH of Jena, Germany.

The prospective co-exclusive license territory may be limited to Europe and the field of use may be limited to in-vitro diagnostics.

DATES: Only written comments and/or license applications which are received by the National Institutes of Health on or before May 17, 2002, will be considered.

ADDRESSES: Requests for copies of the patent, inquiries, comments and other materials relating to the contemplated co-exclusive license should be directed to: Matthew B. Kiser, Technology Licensing Specialist, Office of Technology Transfer, National Institutes of Health, 6011 Executive Boulevard, Suite 325, Rockville, MD 20852–3821; Telephone: (301) 496–7056, x224; Facsimile: (301) 402–0220; e-mail: kiserm@od.nih.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The technology relates to the DPD gene. Cancer patients having a DPD deficiency are at risk of a severe toxic reaction to the commonly used anticancer agent 5-fluorouracil (5-FU). Claimed are DPD genes from human and pig, methods for detecting the level of nucleic acids that encode DPD in patients, and nucleic acids that are useful as probes for this purpose. Also claimed are methods for expressing DPD in heterologous organisms. Expression vectors that employ a DPD nucleic acid as a selectable marker are also claimed.

Notice of Planned Closing of Oakland, CA Post-of-Duty Station

AGENCY: Office of Inspector General, HUD.

ACTION: Notice of Planned Closing of Oakland, California Post-of-Duty Station.

SUMMARY: This notice advises the public that the HUD Office of Inspector General is closing its Oakland, California post-of-duty station, and also provides a cost-benefit analysis of the impact of the closure.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Bryan Saddler, Counsel to the Inspector

General, Room 8260, Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20410, (202) 708-1613. (This is not a toll free number.) A telecommunications device for hearing- and speech-impaired persons (TTY) is available at 1-800-877-8339 (Federal Information Relay Services). (This is a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

In 1996, HUD's Office of Inspector General (HUD/OIG) established a two person post-of-duty station in Oakland, California, to give direct support to the Oakland, California office's Operation Safe Home (OSH) initiative to combat violent and drug-related crime in public and assisted housing in the city and nearby communities. Although the Oakland post-of-duty station is only about 10 miles from HUD/OIG's San Francisco Regional Office, nationwide experience since the initiation of OSH in 1994 had proven that the best results/impact could be obtained when HUD/OIG Special Agents were physically located in the target city. However, in accordance with the requirements of the Fiscal Year 2002 HUD Appropriations Act (Pub.L. 107-73, approved November 26, 2001), HUD/OIG is terminating OSH and re-deploying staff to focus on investigations involving single-family fraud and property flipping. This change eliminates the need to maintain a separate post-of-duty station in Oakland, California, and gives HUD/OIG the opportunity to generate cost savings associated with discontinuing an additional office.

Section 7(p) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3535(p)) provides that a plan for field reorganization, which may involve the closing of any field or regional office, of the Department of Housing and Urban Development may not take effect until 90 days after a cost-benefit analysis of the effect of the plan on the office in question is published in the Federal Register. The required cost-benefit analysis should include: (1) An estimate of cost savings anticipated; (2) an estimate of the additional cost which will result from the reorganization; (3) a discussion of the impact on the local economy; and (4) an estimate of the effect of the reorganization on the availability, accessibility, and quality of services provided for recipients of those services.

Legislative history pertaining to section 7(p) indicates that not all reorganizations are subject to the requirements of section 7(p). Congress stated that “(t)his amendment is not intended to [apply] to or restrict the internal operations or organization of the Department (such as the establishment of new or combination of existing organization units within a field office, the duty stationing of employees in various locations to provide on-site service, or the establishment or closing, based on workload, of small, informal offices such as valuation stations).” (See House Conference Report No. 95-1792, October 14, 1978 at 105-106.)

The two-person duty-station in Oakland, California, is a single purpose duty station, and the duty station is being closed based on workload rather than a reorganization of OIG field offices. Although notice of the closing of a duty station is not subject to the requirement of section 7(p), as supported by legislative history, OIG nevertheless prepared a cost-benefit analysis for its own use in determining whether to proceed with the closing. Through this notice, OIG advises the public of the closing of the Oakland, California duty station and provides the cost-benefit analysis of the impact of the closure.

Impact of the Closure of the Oakland, California Post-of-Duty Station

HUD/OIG considered the costs and benefits of closing the Oakland, California post-of-duty, and is publishing its cost-benefit analysis with this notice. In summary, HUD/OIG has determined that the closure will result in a cost savings, and, as a result of the size and limited function of the office, will cause no appreciable impact on the provision of authorized investigative services/activities in the area (i.e., OSH activities, of course, will be impacted, but HUD/OIG has been directed to terminate these activities).

Cost-Benefit Analysis

A. Cost Savings

The Oakland, California post-of-duty currently costs $35,617 per year in lease expenses. Thus, closing the post-of-duty will result in an annual savings of at least $35,617. In addition, by closing the office HUD/OIG will not be required to incur additional costs associated with current plans to install high-speed computer access lines to and on the premises, nor will HUD/OIG incur costs associated with the lease or purchase of duplicative office equipment.

B. Additional Costs

There are no offsetting expenses anticipated. The Special Agents assigned to the Oakland, California postof-duty will be reassigned to the San Francisco Regional Office, without need for relocation reimbursement. Further, there is adequate existing office space to accommodate the Special Agents within the San Francisco Regional Office.

C. Impact on Local Economy

The Oakland, California post-of-duty office space is located in government office space: The Federal Court House. Further, the post-of-duty comprises a mere 1290 square feet of space, which can easily be re-leased to other tenants. Moreover, the closure coincides with the normal expiration of HUD/OIG's lease. Thus, no appreciable impact on the local economy is anticipated.

D. Effect on Availability, Accessibility and Quality of Services Provided to Recipients of Those Services

The establishment of the Oakland, California post-of-duty was based entirely on the needs of the HUD/OIG to have Special Agents in closer proximity to OSH activities conducted in the Oakland area. These activities are being terminated. Further, as was the case prior to 1996, fraud investigations in the Oakland area can be cost-effectively addressed by agents assigned to the San Francisco Regional Office which is about 10 miles away.

For the reasons stated in this notice, HUD/OIG intends to proceed to close its Oakland, California post-of-duty station at the expiration of the 90-day period from the date of publication of this notice.

Dated: March 8, 2002.

David C. Williams,

Acting Inspector General.

Notice of Planned Closing of Tacoma, Post-of-Duty Station

AGENCY: Office of Inspector General, HUD.

ACTION: Notice of planned closing of Tacoma, post-of-duty station.

SUMMARY: This notice advises the public that the HUD Office of Inspector General is closing its Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty station, and also provides a cost-benefit analysis of the impact of the closure.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Bryan Saddler, Counsel to the Inspector General, Room 8260, Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20410, (202) 708-1613. (This is not a toll free number.) A telecommunications device for hearing- and speech-impaired persons (TTY) is available at 1-800-877-8339 (Federal Information Relay Services). (This is a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

In 1998, HUD's Office of the Inspector General (HUD/OIG) established a single person post-of-duty in Tacoma, Washington, to give direct support to the Tacoma, Washington office's Operation Safe Home (OSH) initiative to combat violent and drug-related crime in public and assisted housing in the city and nearby communities. Although Tacoma, Washington, is only about 30 miles from Seattle, Washington, where the HUD/OIG regional office is located, nationwide experience since the initiation of OSH in 1994 had proven that the best results/impact could be obtained when a HUD/OIG Special Agent was physically located in the target city. However, in accordance with the requirements of the Fiscal Year 2002 HUD Appropriations Act (Pub.L. 107-73, approved November 26, 2001), HUD/OIG is terminating OSH and re-deploying staff to focus on investigations involving single-family fraud and property flipping. This change eliminates the need to maintain a separate post-of-duty station in Tacoma, Washington, and gives HUD/OIG the opportunity to generate cost savings associated with discontinuing an additional office.

Section 7(p) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act (42 U.S.C. 3535(p)) provides that a plan for field reorganization, which may involve the closing of any field or regional office, of the Department of Housing and Urban Development may not take effect until 90 days after a cost-benefit analysis of the effect of the plan on the office in question is published in the Federal Register. The required cost-benefit analysis should include: (1) An estimate of cost savings anticipated; (2) an estimate of the additional cost which will result from the reorganization; (3) a discussion of the impact on the local economy; and (4) an estimate of the effect of the reorganization on the availability, accessibility, and quality of services provided for recipients of those services.

Legislative history pertaining to section 7(p) indicates that not all reorganizations are subject to the requirements of section 7(p). Congress stated that “[t]his amendment is not intended to [apply] to or restrict the internal operations or organization of the Department (such as the establishment of new or combination of existing organization units within a field office, the duty stationing of employees in various locations to provide on-site service, or the establishment or closing, based on workload, of small, informal offices such as valuation stations).” (See House Conference Report No. 95–1792, October 14, 1978 at 105–106.)

The one-person duty-station in Tacoma, Washington, is a single purpose duty station, and the duty station is being closed based on workload rather than a reorganization of OIG field offices. Although notice of the closing of a duty station is not subject to the requirement of section 7(p), as supported by legislative history, OIG nevertheless prepared a cost-benefit analysis for its own use in determining whether to proceed with the closing. Through this notice, OIG advises the public of the closing of the Tacoma, Washington duty station and provides the cost-benefit analysis of the impact of the closure.

Impact of the Closure of the Tacoma, Washington Post-of-Duty Station

HUD/OIG considered the costs and benefits of closing the Tacoma, Washington office, and is publishing its cost-benefit analysis with this notice. In summary, HUD/OIG has determined that the closure will result in a cost savings, and, as a result of the size and limited function of the office, will cause no appreciable impact on the provision of authorized investigative services/activities in the area (i.e., OSH activities, of course, will be impacted, but HUD/OIG has been directed to terminate these activities).

Cost-Benefit Analysis

A. Cost Savings

The Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty currently costs $1,194 per month for the space rental and $45.39 per month for the telephone service. Thus, closing the post-of-duty will result in an annual savings of $14,783. In addition, by closing the office HUD/OIG will not be required to incur additional costs associated with current plans to install high-speed computer access lines to and on the premises.

B. Additional Costs

There are no offsetting expenses anticipated. The Special Agent assigned to the Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty will be reassigned to the Seattle Regional Office, without need for relocation reimbursement because the Special Agent actually resides closer to the Seattle Regional Office than to the Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty. Further, there is adequate existing office space to accommodate the Special Agent within the Seattle Regional Office.

C. Impact on Local Economy

The Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty office space is located in government office space: the Federal Court House. Further, the post-of-duty comprises a mere 354 square feet of space, which can easily be re-leased to other tenants or used by security staff (GSA Law Enforcement) who occupy the adjacent space. Thus, no appreciable impact on the local economy is anticipated.

D. Effect on Availability, Accessibility and Quality of Services Provided to Recipients of Those Services

The establishment of the Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty was based entirely on the needs of the HUD/OIG to have a Special Agent in closer proximity to OSH activities conducted in the Tacoma area. These activities are being terminated. Further, as was the case prior to 1998, fraud investigations in the Tacoma area can be more effectively addressed by agents assigned to the Seattle Regional Office which is about 30 miles away.

For the reasons stated in this notice, HUD/OIG intends to proceed to close its Tacoma, Washington post-of-duty station at the expiration of the 90-day period from the date of publication of this notice.

Statutory Waiver Granted to New York State for Recovery From the September 11, 2001 Terrorist Attacks

AGENCY: Office of Community Planning and Development, HUD.

ACTION: Notice of waiver granted.

SUMMARY: This notice advises the public of a waiver of statutory provisions granted to the State of New York for the purpose of assisting in the recovery from the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on New York City. As described in the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION section of this notice, HUD is authorized by statute to waive statutory and regulatory requirements for this purpose. This notice lists the provisions being waived.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jan C. Opper, Senior Program Officer, Office of Block Grant Assistance, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Room 7286, 451 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20410, telephone number (202) 708–3587. Persons with hearing or speech impairments may access this number via TTY by calling the Federal Information Relay Service at (800) 877–8339. FAX inquiries may be sent to Mr. Opper at (202) 401–2044. (Except for the “800” number, these telephone numbers are not toll-free.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Authority To Grant Waivers

Section 434 of the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 2002 (Pub. L. 107–73, approved November 26, 2001) provides for the use of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds made available from the Emergency Response Fund by the 2001 Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Recovery from and Response to Terrorist Attacks on the United States (Pub. L. 107–38, approved September 18, 2001) to New York State for properties and businesses damaged by, and economic revitalization related to, the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on New York City. Section 434 authorizes the Secretary of HUD to waive, or specify alternative requirements for, any provision of any statute or regulation that the Secretary administers in connection with the obligation by the Secretary or use by the recipient of these funds, except for requirements related to fair housing, nondiscrimination, labor standards, and the environment.

The Defense Appropriations Act, 2002 (Pub. L. 107–117) made available an additional $2.0 billion in CDBG funds subject to section 434. It also stipulated that at least $500 million of the total be made available for individuals, nonprofits, or small businesses for economic losses from the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks.

The Department finds that the following waiver is necessary to facilitate the use of at least $500 million of the $2.7 billion for economic loss, and that such use is not inconsistent with the overall purpose of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, or the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act, as amended. Readers are referred to the Notices published by the Department in the Federal Register of January 28, 2002 (67 FR 4164) and February 7, 2002 (67 FR 5845) that enumerated a list of waivers and alternative requirements that were necessary to facilitate the use of the initial disbursement of $700 million in CDBG funds made available from the Emergency Response Fund.

Description and Justification of Requirements Waived

1. Waiver of eligibility limitation at Section 105 (a). The limitation at section 105 (a) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended (42 U.S.C. 5305 (a)) on eligible activities in the CDBG program is waived, in recognition of the requirements of Public Law 107-117, solely to treat "payment of compensation to an individual, nonprofit or small business for economic losses resulting from the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on New York City" as a distinct eligible activity. Accordingly, unless the grantee establishes limitations on the use of such payments by individuals, nonprofits or small businesses, CDBG and other crosscutting requirements generally would not apply to such use of payments.

The Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 2002 (Pub. L. 107-73) requires HUD to publish this waiver in the Federal Register no later than five days before its effective date. The effective date of this waiver is March 25, 2002.

Dated: March 8, 2002.

Assistant Secretary for Community Planning and Development.

Where Can Information on the Regulatory and Legal Citations in This Notice Be Obtained?

You can contact the Colorado River Irrigation Project office at the location stated in FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT section or you can use the Internet site for the Government Printing Office at <http://www.gpo.gov>.

What Is the Purpose of This Notice?

This notice is to notify you that we adjusted the irrigation assessment rates for one of our irrigation projects. We are publishing this notice in accordance with the BIA's regulations governing its operation and maintenance of irrigation projects, specifically §§ 171.1(e) and 171.1(f) of part 171, subchapter H, chapter I, of title 25 of the Code of Federal Regulations. These sections provide for the fixing and announcing of the rates for annual operation and maintenance assessments and related information for BIA irrigation projects.

What Authorizes Us to Issue This Notice?

Our authority to issue this notice is vested in the Secretary of the Interior by 5 U.S.C. 301; the Act of August 14, 1914 (38 Stat. 583; 25 U.S.C. 385). The Secretary has in turn delegated this authority to the Assistant Secretary—Indian Affairs in accordance with part 209 of the Department of the Interior's Departmental Manual, Chapter 8.1A, and by memorandum dated January 25, 1994, from the Chief of Staff, Department of the Interior, to Assistant Secretaries and Heads of Bureaus and Offices.

When Does This Schedule Apply To Me?

The schedule applies to you if you irrigated lands within the Colorado River Irrigation Project for the 2001 irrigation season.

What Was the Irrigation Rate for the 2001 Irrigation Season?

The following table shows how we billed you:

Water delivered per acre	Rate for 2001 irrigation season
Up to 5.0 acre-feet	$37.00
5.0 to 5.5 acre-feet	7.40
Above 5.5 acre-feet	17.00

Consultation and Coordination With Tribal Governments (Executive Order 13175)

The rate adjustment was developed in consultation between the irrigators, the BIA and the Tribal Irrigation Committee (Committee). The Committee was established by the Colorado River Indian Tribes (Tribes) and maintains a membership appointed by the Tribal Council. During the March 2001 Committee meeting, a budget subcommittee was appointed and tasked to specifically review the excess water rate and make recommendations to the Committee for proposed adjustments. The subcommittee developed a method and rate which would maintain an excess water rate consistent with the previously developed budget. The proposed rate was reviewed and approved by the Committee during their May 2001 meeting. On June 19, 2001, a meeting was held between the Tribes and the BIA. During the meeting the Tribes were informed of the proposed rate adjustment and the impacts associated with this adjustment. The Tribes agreed to the proposed adjustment to the excess water rate and a verifying letter was sent to the Tribes on July 3, 2001.

Throughout the process of reviewing the excess water rate the BIA has relied upon input and consultation with the Tribes through their Irrigation Committee and Water Resource Program activity, to develop an equitable rate for farmers, maximize water conservation and maintain sufficient funds for operation and maintenance of the project.

Actions Concerning Regulations That Significantly Affect Energy Supply, Distribution, or Use (Executive Order 13211)

This is a notice for a rate adjustment at a BIA owned and operated irrigation project. This rate adjustment had no significant adverse effects on energy supply, distribution, or use (including a shortfall in supply, price increases, and increase use of foreign supplies) when the proposed rate adjustment was implemented.

Regulatory Planning and Review (Executive Order 12866)

This rate adjustment was not a significant regulatory action and did not need to be reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget under Executive Order 12866.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

This rate making was not a rule for the purposes of the Regulatory Flexibility Act because it was "a rule of particular applicability relating to rates." 5 U.S.C. 601(2).

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This rate adjustment imposed no unfunded mandates on any governmental or private entity and was in compliance with the provisions of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995.

Takings (Executive Order 12630)

The Department determined that this rate adjustment did not have significant "takings" implications. The rate adjustment did not deprive the public, state, or local governments of rights or property.

Federalism (Executive Order 13132)

The Department determined that this rate adjustment did not have significant Federalism effects because it pertained solely to Federal-tribal relations and did not interfere with the roles, rights, and responsibilities of states.

Civil Justice Reform (Executive Order 12988)

In accordance with Executive Order 12988, the Office of the Solicitor determined that this rule did not unduly burden the judicial system and met the requirements of sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of the Order.

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

This rate adjustment did not affect the collection of information which had been approved by the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. The OMB Control Number is 1076-0141 and expires November 30, 2002.

National Environmental Policy Act

The Department determined that this rate adjustment did not constitute a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and that no detailed statement was required under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Dated: March 5, 2002.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Bureau of Reclamation

Cachuma Lake Resource Management Plan, Santa Barbara County, CA

AGENCY: Bureau of Reclamation, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare a draft environmental impact statement (EIS).

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 102(2) (c) of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), the Bureau of Reclamation (Reclamation) proposes to prepare a draft environmental impact statement (DEIS) for the Cachuma Lake Resource Management Plan (RMP). The RMP will be issued concurrent with the DEIS. Reclamation will be conducting a public scoping meeting to elicit comments on the scope and issues to be addressed in both the RMP and the DEIS. The date and time of the meeting is listed below. Reclamation is also seeking written comments, as noted below. The Draft RMP and DEIS are expected to be issued in late 2002.

DATES: The scoping meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 1, 2002 at 7 p.m. in Goleta, California.

Written comments on the scope of alternatives and impacts to be considered should be sent to Reclamation at the address below by May 15, 2002.

ADDRESSES: The meeting location is at the Goleta Community Center, 5679 Hollister Avenue, Goleta, California.

Written comments should be sent to Mr. Dan Holsapple, Bureau of Reclamation, South-Central California Area Office, 1243 N Street, Fresno, CA 93721-1813; or by telephone at (559) 487-5409; or faxed to (559) 487-5130 (TDD 559-487-5933).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Dan Holsapple, Bureau of Reclamation, at the above address, telephone: (559) 487-5409.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Cachuma Project is located along the Santa Ynez River in northern Santa Barbara County, California. It was constructed in the early 1950's by Reclamation under contract with Santa Barbara County Water Agency on behalf of local water purveyors, called the Cachuma Member Units. The project consists of Bradbury Dam, Cachuma Lake, and associated conveyance facilities. The lake is about 3,000 acres in size, surrounded by about 6,500 acres of Federal land. The project is the primary water supply for the communities of Santa Ynez, Santa Barbara, Goleta, Carpinteria, and Montecito. Reclamation executed a contract with Santa Barbara County (County) in 1953 to manage recreation at the lake. The County has developed a 375-acre recreation area on the south shore of the lake with picnicking, boating, hiking, and camping.

Reclamation is preparing an RMP for the Cachuma Project. The RMP will specifically address the County recreation area, including the entire lake and all Government land surrounding the lake. The objective of an RMP is to establish management objectives, guidelines, and actions to be implemented by Reclamation directly, or through its recreation contract, that will protect the water supply and water quality functions of Cachuma Lake; protect and enhance natural and cultural resources in the Recreation Area, consistent with Federal law and Reclamation policies; and provide recreational opportunities and facilities consistent with the Cachuma Project purposes and Reclamation policies.

The development of the RMP will be performed within the authorities provided by the Congress through the Reclamation Act, Federal Water Project Recreation Act, Reclamation Recreation Management Act, and applicable agency and Department of the Interior policies.

The RMP will be developed based on a comprehensive inventory of environmental resources and Project facilities. It will include an analysis of all resources in the area, identification of land use suitability and capability, and development of management policies, objectives, responsibilities, guidelines, and plans. The overall purpose of an RMP is to foster stewardship of Reclamation lands. The RMP will enable managers to make land use and resource decisions that are consistent with the overall management objectives of Reclamation land and water areas, while meeting the needs of the public. The RMP will assist Reclamation in its efforts to minimize conflicts among the competing interests and types of use at Cachuma Lake.

The plan will be developed with input from other Federal agencies such as the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Forest Service, local involved agencies such as Santa Barbara County Parks and Recreation Department and the Cachuma Operations and Maintenance Board (representing the Project Member Units); and the general public. The plan will also be used to guide future recreational uses and administrative arrangements to be considered by Reclamation in its renewal of the recreation contract with Santa Barbara County, in a separate but related process.

The primary emphasis of the RMP will be protecting Cachuma Project water supplies, water quality, and natural resources, while enhancing recreational uses at and surrounding the lake. Specific issue areas to be addressed include (among others): recreational access to the north shore, body-contact recreation, protection of sensitive natural and cultural resources, and grazing practices.

The environmental impacts of the RMP and associated alternatives will be assessed in an EIS that will be prepared concurrent with the RMP. The environmental review will focus on the potential for management actions to cause adverse environmental impacts to natural and cultural resources such as water quality, endangered species, public safety, and historic resources. It will include an analysis of alternative land, recreation, and natural resource management approaches.

Our practice is to make comments, including names and home addresses of respondents, available for public review. Individual respondents may request that we withhold their home address from public disclosure, which we will honor to the extent allowable by law. There may also be circumstances in which we would withhold a respondent's identity from public disclosure, as allowable by law. If you wish us to withhold your name and/or address, you must state this prominently at the beginning of your comment. We will make all submissions from organizations or businesses, and from individuals identifying themselves as representatives or officials of organizations or businesses, available for public disclosure in their entirety.

Dated: February 28, 2002.

Regional Environmental Officer.

BILLING CODE 7020-02-P

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

[AG Order No. 2565-2002]

Office of the Attorney General; Homeland Security Advisory System

AGENCY: Department of Justice.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The President has directed the Attorney General, in consultation and coordination with the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security, to seek the views of government officials at all levels, public interest groups, and the private sector, on a proposed Homeland Security Advisory System ("HSAS"). The HSAS would provide a comprehensive and effective means to disseminate information to Federal, State, and local authorities and to the American people regarding the risk of terrorist acts. Such a system would provide warnings in the form of a set of graduated "Threat Conditions" that change as the risk of the threat increases. The proposed system would establish five Threat Condition levels, each with a corresponding color, which is provided for clarity. They are, from lowest Threat Condition to highest: Low (Green); Guarded (Blue); Elevated (Yellow); High (Orange); and Severe (Red).

At each Threat Condition level, Federal agencies will implement a corresponding set of protective measures to reduce vulnerability or to increase response capability should a terrorist attack occur. State, local, and private sector parties are encouraged to take appropriate action.

DATES: Comments may be submitted through April 25, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Written comments may be sent to: Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Homeland Security Advisory System, Room 7222, 935 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20535. Comments may also be submitted electronically to: HSAScomments@fbi.gov

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Collingwood, Federal Bureau of

Investigation, Office of Public and Congressional Affairs at (202) 324-3691.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On March 11, 2002, as part of a series of initiatives to improve coordination and communication among all levels of government and the American public in the fight against terrorism, President Bush signed Homeland Security Presidential Directive 3 (HSPD-3), concerning the Homeland Security Advisory System.

The Attorney General is responsible for developing, implementing, and managing the system. In conjunction with the development of this new system, the Attorney General, at the direction of the President, is opening a 45-day comment period in order to seek the views of officials at all levels of government, law enforcement and the American public.

Ninety days after the conclusion of the comment period, the Attorney General, in coordination with the Director of the Office of Homeland Security, will present a final Homeland Security Advisory System to the President for approval.

The Attorney General specifically seeks comments on the following system.

The Homeland Security Advisory System

The purpose of the Homeland Security Advisory System is to provide a comprehensive and effective means to disseminate information regarding the risk of terrorist acts to Federal, State, and local authorities, and to the American people. The HSAS is intended to create a common vocabulary, context, and structure for an ongoing national discussion with Federal, State and local authorities, private sector industries, and the people of the United States about the nature of the threats that confront the homeland and the appropriate measures that should be taken in response. It seeks to inform and facilitate decisions appropriate to different levels of government and to private citizens at home and at work.

The HSAS is binding on the executive branch. It is suggested, although voluntary, to other levels of government and the private sector.

There are five Threat Conditions, each identified by a description and corresponding color. From lowest to highest, the levels and associated colors are: Low (Green); Guarded (Blue); Elevated (Yellow); High (Orange); and Severe (Red). At each Threat Condition level, Federal departments and agencies will be expected to implement a corresponding set of "Protective Measures" to further reduce vulnerability or increase response capability during a period of heightened alert. The Threat Condition levels and accompanying Protective Measures are further described below.

The higher the Threat Condition, the greater the risk of a terrorist attack. Risk includes both the probability of an attack occurring and its potential gravity. Threat Conditions are to be assigned by the Attorney General, in consultation with the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security. Except in exigent circumstances, the Attorney General shall seek the views of the appropriate Homeland Security Principals or their subordinates, and other parties as appropriate, on the Threat Condition to be assigned. Threat Conditions may be assigned for the entire Nation, or they may be set for a particular geographic area or industrial sector. Assigned Threat Conditions shall be reviewed at regular intervals to determine whether adjustments are warranted.

For facilities, personnel, and operations inside the territorial United States, all Federal departments, agencies, and offices other than military facilities shall conform their existing threat advisory systems to this system and henceforth administer their systems consistent with the determination of the Attorney General with regard to the Threat Condition in effect.

The assignment of a Threat Condition shall prompt the implementation of an appropriate set of Protective Measures. Protective Measures are the specific steps an organization shall take to reduce its vulnerability or increase its ability to respond during a period of heightened alert. The authority to craft and implement Protective Measures rests with the Federal departments and agencies. It is recognized that departments and agencies may have several preplanned sets of responses to a particular Threat Condition to facilitate a rapid, appropriate, and tailored response. Department and agency heads are responsible for developing their own Protective Measures and other antiterrorism or self-protection and continuity plans, and resourcing, rehearsing, documenting, and maintaining these plans. Likewise, they retain the authority to respond, as necessary, to risks, threats, incidents, or events at facilities within the specific jurisdiction of their department or agency, and, as authorized by law, to direct agencies and industries to implement their own Protective Measures. They shall continue to be responsible for taking all appropriate proactive steps to reduce the vulnerability of their personnel and facilities to terrorist attack. Federal department and agency heads shall submit an annual written report to the President, through the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security, describing the steps they have taken to develop and implement appropriate Protective Measures for each Threat Condition. Governors, mayors, and the leaders of other organizations are encouraged to conduct a similar review of their organization's Protective Measures.

The decision whether to publicly announce Threat Conditions shall be made on a case-by-case basis by the Attorney General in consultation with the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security. Every effort shall be made to share as much information regarding the threat as possible, consistent with the safety of the Nation. The Attorney General shall ensure, consistent with the safety of the Nation, that State and local government officials and law enforcement authorities are provided the most relevant and timely information. The Attorney General shall be responsible for identifying any other information developed in the threat assessment process that would be useful to State and local officials and others and conveying it to them as permitted consistent with the constraints of classification. The Attorney General shall establish a process and a system for conveying relevant information to Federal, State, and local government officials and law enforcement authorities, and the private sector expeditiously.

The Director of Central Intelligence and the Attorney General shall ensure that a continuous and timely flow of integrated threat assessments and reports is provided to the President, the Vice President, Assistant to the President and Chief of Staff, the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security, and the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs. Whenever possible and practicable, these integrated threat assessments and reports shall be reviewed and commented upon by the wider interagency community.

A decision on which Threat Condition to assign shall integrate a variety of considerations. This integration will rely on qualitative assessment, not quantitative calculation. Higher Threat Conditions indicate greater risk of a terrorist act, with risk including both probability and gravity. Despite best efforts, there can be no guarantee that, at any given Threat Condition, a terrorist attack will not occur. An initial and important factor is the quality of the threat information itself. The evaluation of this threat information shall include, but not be limited to, the following factors:

1. To what degree is the threat information credible?
2. To what degree is the threat information corroborated?
3. To what degree is the threat specific and/or imminent?
4. How grave are the potential consequences of the threat?

Threat Conditions and Associated Protective Measures

The world has changed since September 11, 2001. We remain a Nation at risk to terrorist attacks and will remain at risk for the foreseeable future. At all Threat Conditions, we must remain vigilant, prepared, and ready to deter terrorist attacks. The following Threat Conditions each represent an increasing risk of terrorist attacks. Beneath each Threat Condition are some suggested Protective Measures, recognizing that the heads of Federal departments and agencies are responsible for developing and implementing appropriate agency-specific Protective Measures:

1. Low Condition (Green). This condition is declared when there is a low risk of terrorist attacks. Federal departments and agencies should consider the following general measures in addition to the agency-specific Protective Measures they develop and implement:

- (a) Refining and exercising as appropriate preplanned Protective Measures;
- (b) Ensuring personnel receive proper training on the Homeland Security Advisory System and specific preplanned department or agency Protective Measures; and
- (c) Institutionalizing a process to assure that all facilities and regulated sectors are regularly assessed for vulnerabilities to terrorist attacks, and all reasonable measures are taken to mitigate these vulnerabilities.

2. Guarded Condition (Blue). This condition is declared when there is a general risk of terrorist attacks. In addition to the Protective Measures taken in the previous Threat Condition, Federal departments and agencies should consider the following general measures in addition to the agency-specific Protective Measures that they will develop and implement:

- (a) Checking communications with designated emergency response or command locations;
- (b) Reviewing and updating emergency response procedures; and

(c) Providing the public with any information that would strengthen its ability to act appropriately.

3. Elevated Condition (Yellow). An Elevated Condition is declared when there is a significant risk of terrorist attacks. In addition to the Protective Measures taken in the previous Threat Conditions, Federal departments and agencies should consider the following general measures in addition to the Protective Measures that they will develop and implement:

- (a) Increasing surveillance of critical locations;
- (b) Coordinating emergency plans as appropriate with nearby jurisdictions;
- (c) Assessing whether the precise characteristics of the threat require the further refinement of preplanned Protective Measures; and
- (d) Implementing, as appropriate, contingency and emergency response plans.

4. High Condition (Orange). A High Condition is declared when there is a high risk of terrorist attacks. In addition to the Protective Measures taken in the previous Threat Conditions, Federal departments and agencies should consider the following general measures in addition to the agency-specific Protective Measures that they will develop and implement:

- (a) Coordinating necessary security efforts with Federal, State, and local law enforcement agencies or any National Guard or other appropriate armed forces organizations;
- (b) Taking additional precautions at public events and possibly considering alternative venues or even cancellation;
- (c) Preparing to execute contingency procedures, such as moving to an alternate site or dispersing their workforce; and
- (d) Restricting threatened facility access to essential personnel only.

5. Severe Condition (Red). A Severe Condition reflects a severe risk of terrorist attacks. Under most circumstances, the Protective Measures for a Severe Condition are not intended to be sustained for substantial periods of time. In addition to the Protective Measures in the previous Threat Conditions, Federal departments and agencies also should consider the following general measures in addition to the agency-specific Protective Measures that they will develop and implement:

- (a) Increasing or redirecting personnel to address critical emergency needs;
- (b) Assigning emergency response personnel and pre-positioning and
- (c) Mobilizing specially trained teams or resources;

¹ Based on its assessment of the paperwork requirements contained in this standard, the Agency estimates that the total burden hours decreased compared to its previous burden-hour estimate. Under this notice, OSHA is not proposing to revise these paperwork requirements in any

The HCS requires employers to establish written hazard communication programs to transmit information on the hazards of chemicals to their employees by means of labels on containers, material safety data sheets, and training programs.

DATES: Submit written comments on or before May 17, 2002.

ADDRESSES: Submit written comments to the Docket Office, Docket No. ICR-1218-0072(2002), OSHA, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N-2625, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20210; telephone (202) 693-2350. A copy of the Agency's Information-Collection Request (ICR) supporting the need for the information collections specified in the Hazard Communication Standard is available for inspection and copying in the Docket Office, or by requesting a copy from Todd Owen at (202) 693-2444. For electronic copies of the ICR contact OSHA on the Internet at <http://www.osha.gov/comp-links.html>, and select "Information Collection Requests."

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Department of Labor, as part of its continuing effort to reduce paperwork and respondent (i.e. employer) burden, conducts a preclearance consultation program to provide the public with an opportunity to comment on proposed and continuing information-collection requirements in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA-95) (44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A)). This program ensures that information is in the desired format, reporting burden (time and costs) is minimal, collection instruments are clearly understood, and OSHA's estimate of the information collection burden is correct. The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (the Act) authorizes information collection by employers as necessary or appropriate for enforcement of the Act or for developing information regarding the causes and prevention of occupational injuries, illnesses, and accidents. (29 U.S.C. 657.)

The information-collection requirements in the Hazard manner, only to decrease the burden-hour estimate imposed by the existing paperwork requirements.

Communication Standard ensures that the hazards of all chemicals produced or imported are evaluated and that information concerning their hazards is transmitted to employees and downstream employers. The Standard requires chemical manufacturers and importers to evaluate chemicals they produce or import to determine if they are hazardous; for those chemicals determined to be hazardous, material safety data sheets and warning labels must be developed. Employers are required to establish hazard communication programs, to transmit information on the hazards of chemicals to their employees by means of labels on containers, material safety data sheets and training programs.

Implementation of these collection of information requirements will ensure all employees have the "right-to-know" the hazards and identities of the chemicals they work with and will reduce the incidence of chemically-related occupational illnesses and injuries.

II. Special Issues for Comment

OSHA has particular interest in comments on the following issues:

- Whether the information collection requirements are necessary for the proper performance of the Agency's functions, including whether the information is useful;
- The accuracy of OSHA's estimate of the burden (time and costs) of the information collection requirements, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
- The quality, utility, and clarity of the information collected; and
- Ways to minimize the burden on employers who must comply, for example, by using automated, or other technological information-collection and -transmission techniques.

III. Proposed Actions

OSHA is requesting to decrease the existing burden-hour estimate for, and to extend OMB approval of, the collection-of-information requirements specified by the Standard. In this regard, the Agency is requesting to decrease the current burden hour estimate from 7,560,232 hours to 7,498,766 hours, a total decrease of 61,466 hours. Based on more recent data, the Agency reduced the number of establishments, shipped containers, and in-plant containers used to calculate the burden hour and cost estimates. OSHA will summarize the comments submitted in response to this notice, and will include this summary in its request to OMB to extend its approval of these information-collection requirements.

Type of Review: Extension of currently approved information-collection requirements.

Title: Hazard Communication Standard.

OMB Number: 1218-0072.

Affected Public: Business or other for-profit; not-for-profit institutions; Federal government; State, local or tribal governments.

Number of Respondents: 6,035,925.

Frequency: On occasion.

Average Time per response: Varies from approximately 10 minutes for establishments to obtain and maintain material safety data sheets to 8 hours for manufacturers or importers to conduct a hazard determination.

Estimated Total Burden Hours: 7,498,766 hours.

Estimated Cost (Operation and Maintenance): $247,187.

IV. Authority and Signature

John L. Henshaw, Assistant Secretary of Labor for Occupational Safety and Health, directed the preparation of this notice. The authority for this notice is the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3506), and Secretary of Labor's Order No. 3-2000 (65 FR 50017).

Signed at Washington, DC on March 8, 2002.

BILLING CODE 4510-26-M

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Occupational Safety and Health Administration

[Docket No. NRTL3-92]

TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc., Renewal of Recognition

AGENCY: Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Labor.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This notice announces the Agency's final decision on the application of the TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc. (TUV), for renewal of its recognition as a Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory under 29 CFR 1910.7.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The renewal becomes effective on March 18, 2002 and will be valid until March 19, 2007, unless terminated or modified prior to that date, in accordance with 29 CFR 1910.7.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Bernard Pasquet or Sherrey Nicolas, Office of Technical Programs and Coordination Activities, NRTL Program, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Room N3653, Washington, DC 20210, or phone (202) 693-2110.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Notice of Final Application

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) hereby gives notice of the renewal of recognition of TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc. (TUV), as a Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory (NRTL). The NRTL's scope of recognition may be found in OSHA's informational web page for the NRTL (<http://www.osha-slc.gov/dts/otpc/nrtl/tuv.html>).

OSHA recognition of an NRTL signifies that the organization has met the legal requirements in Section 1910.7 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations (29 CFR 1910.7). Recognition is an acknowledgment that the organization can perform independent safety testing and certification of the specific products covered within its scope of recognition and is not a delegation or grant of government authority. As a result of recognition, employers may use products "properly certified" by the NRTL to meet OSHA standards that require testing and certification.

The Agency processes applications by an NRTL for initial recognition or for expansion or renewal of this recognition following requirements in Appendix A to 29 CFR 1910.7. This appendix requires that the Agency publish two notices in the Federal Register in processing an application. In the first notice, OSHA announces the application and provides its preliminary finding and, in the second notice, the Agency provides its final decision on the application. These notices set forth the NRTL's scope of recognition or modifications of that scope.

TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc., is a privately held Product Safety and Quality Assurance Testing firm with offices throughout the United States and Canada. TUV is wholly owned by TUV Rheinland e. V. of Cologne, Germany. TUV is a U.S. corporation incorporated in the state of Delaware in 1983.

TUV received its recognition as an NRTL on August 16, 1995 (60 FR 42594), for a period of five years ending August 16, 2000. Appendix A to 29 CFR 1910.7 stipulates that the period of recognition of an NRTL is five years and that an NRTL may renew its recognition by applying not less than nine months, nor more than one year, before the expiration date of its current recognition. TUV submitted its renewal request on November 16, 1999 (see Exhibit 23), within the time allotted, and TUV retains its recognition pending OSHA's final decision in this renewal process.

In processing TUV's request, OSHA performed an on-site review of TUV's facility listed below. Following the on-site evaluation, NRTL Program staff recommended the renewal of TUV's recognition (see Exhibit 24).

OSHA published the required notice in the Federal Register on January 28, 2002 (67 FR 3913), to announce TUV's renewal request. This notice included a preliminary finding that TUV could meet the requirements in 29 CFR 1910.7 for renewal of its recognition and invited public comment by February 15. OSHA received no comments concerning this notice.

The previous notice published by OSHA for TUV's recognition covered a modification to its scope of recognition, which became effective on September 12, 2001 (66 FR 47505). The following Federal Register notices related to TUV's recognition have also been published by OSHA to address an expansion of its recognition for additional standards or programs: a request announced on March 2, 2000 (65 FR 11197), and granted on June 8, 2000 (65 FR 39946); and requests announced on December 12, 1997 (62 FR 65446), and January 8, 1998 (63 FR 1127), and granted on April 2, 1998 (63 FR 16280). The renewal incorporates all recognitions granted to TUV through the date of publication of the preliminary finding.

You may obtain or review copies of all public documents pertaining to the TUV application by contacting the Docket Office, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Room N2625, Washington, DC 20210. You should refer to Docket No. NRTL3-92, the permanent record of public information on the TUV recognition.

The current address of the TUV testing facility already recognized by OSHA is: TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc., 12 Commerce Road, Newtown, Connecticut 06470.

Programs and Procedures

The renewal of recognition includes TUV's continued use of the following supplemental programs and procedures, based upon the criteria detailed in the March 9, 1995 Federal Register notice (60 FR 12980, 3/9/95). This notice lists nine (9) programs and procedures (collectively, programs), eight of which an NRTL may use to control and audit, but not actually to generate, the data relied upon for product certification. An NRTL's initial recognition will always include the first or basic program, which requires that all product testing and evaluation be performed in-house by the NRTL that will certify the product. OSHA has already recognized TUV for these programs, which are listed, as shown below, in OSHA's informational web page on the TUV recognition (<http://www.osha-slc.gov/dts/otpca/nrtl/tuv.html>).

Program 2: Acceptance of testing data from independent organizations, other than NRTLs.

Program 3: Acceptance of product evaluations from independent organizations, other than NRTLs.

Program 4: Acceptance of witnessed testing data.

Program 8: Acceptance of product evaluations from organizations that function as part of the International Electrotechnical Commission Certification Body (IEC-CB) Scheme.

Program 9: Acceptance of services other than testing or evaluation performed by subcontractors or agents.

OSHA developed these programs to limit how an NRTL may perform certain aspects of its work and to permit the activities covered under a program only when the NRTL meets certain criteria. In this sense, they are special conditions that the Agency places on an NRTL's recognition. OSHA does not consider these programs in determining whether an NRTL meets the requirements for recognition under 29 CFR 1910.7. However, these programs help to define the scope of that recognition.

Existing Condition

Currently, OSHA imposes the following condition on its recognition of TUV as an NRTL, and continues to impose the condition as part of the renewal. This condition applies solely to TUV's operations as an NRTL and is in addition to any other condition that OSHA normally imposes in its recognition of an organization as an NRTL. This condition is listed first under the "Conditions" section below and provides as follows:

TUV must have specific written testing procedures in place before testing products covered by any test standard for which it is recognized and must use these procedures in testing and certifying those products.

Final Decision and Order

The NRTL Program staff has examined the application, the assessor's report, and other pertinent information. Based upon this examination and the assessor's recommendation, OSHA finds that the TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc., has met the requirements of 29 CFR 1910.7 for renewal of its NRTL recognition. The renewal applies to the site listed above. In addition, it covers the test standards listed below, and it is subject to the limitations and conditions, also listed below. Pursuant to the authority in 29 CFR 1910.7, OSHA hereby renews the recognition of TUV, subject to these limitations and conditions.

Limitations

OSHA limits the renewal of recognition of TUV to the site listed above. OSHA further limits the renewal of recognition of TUV to testing and certification of products for demonstration of conformance to the test standards listed below. OSHA has determined that each test standard meets the requirements for an appropriate test standard, within the meaning of 29 CFR 1910.7(c).

At the time of preparation of the preliminary notice, some of the test standards for which OSHA currently recognizes TUV, and which are listed above, have been withdrawn or replaced by the standards developing organization. Under OSHA policy regarding such withdrawn or replaced test standards, OSHA can no longer recognize the NRTL for the test standards but the NRTL may request recognition for comparable test standards, i.e., other appropriate test standards covering similar types of product testing. However, a number of other NRTLs also are recognized for these withdrawn or replaced standards. As a result, OSHA will publish a separate notice to make the appropriate substitutions for TUV and the other NRTLs that were recognized for these standards.

OSHA's recognition of TUV, or any NRTL, for a particular test standard is limited to equipment or materials (i.e., products) for which OSHA standards require third party testing and certification before use in the workplace. Consequently, an NRTL's scope of recognition excludes any product(s) falling within the scope of a test standard for which OSHA has no NRTL testing and certification requirements.

Many of the test standards listed above are approved as American National Standards by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI). However, for convenience in compiling the list, we use the designation of the standards developing organization (e.g., UL 1004) for the standard, as opposed to the ANSI designation (e.g., ANSI/UL 1004). Under our procedures, an NRTL recognized for an ANSI-approved test standard may use either the latest proprietary version of the test standard or the latest ANSI version of that standard, regardless of which version appears in the list of test standards found in OSHA's informational web page for the NRTL. Contact ANSI or the ANSI web site (<http://www.ansi.org>) and click "NSSN" to find out whether or not a test standard currently is ANSI-approved.

Conditions

TUV Rheinland of North America, Inc., must also abide by the following conditions of the recognition, in addition to those already required by 29 CFR 1910.7:

TUV must have specific written testing procedures in place before testing products covered by any test standard for which it is recognized and must use these procedures in testing and certifying those products;

OSHA must be allowed access to the TUV facilities and records for purposes of ascertaining continuing compliance with the terms of its recognition and to investigate as OSHA deems necessary;

If TUV has reason to doubt the efficacy of any test standard it is using under this program, it must promptly inform the organization that developed the test standard of this fact and provide that organization with appropriate relevant information upon which its concerns are based;

TUV must not engage in or permit others to engage in any misrepresentation of the scope or conditions of its recognition. As part of this condition, TUV agrees that it will allow no representation that it is either a recognized or an accredited Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory (NRTL) without clearly indicating the specific equipment or material to which this recognition is tied, or that its recognition is limited to certain products;

TUV must inform OSHA as soon as possible, in writing, of any change of ownership, facilities, or key personnel, and of any major changes in its operations as an NRTL, including details;

TUV will continue to meet all the terms of its recognition and will always comply with all OSHA policies pertaining to this recognition; and TUV will continue to meet the requirements for recognition in all areas where it has been recognized.

Signed at Washington, DC this 8th day of March, 2002.

John L. Henshaw,

Assistant Secretary.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Notice of Application

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) hereby gives notice that Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) has applied for renewal and for expansion of its recognition as a Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory (NRTL). UL's expansion requests cover the use of two additional sites and additional test standards. OSHA's current scope of recognition for UL may be found in the following informational web page: <http://www.osha-slc.gov/dts/otpca/nrtl/ul.html>.

OSHA recognition of an NRTL signifies that the organization has met the legal requirements in § 1910.7 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations (29 CFR 1910.7). Recognition is an acknowledgment that the organization can perform independent safety testing and certification of the specific products covered within its scope of recognition and is not a delegation or grant of government authority. As a result of recognition, employers may use products "properly certified" by the NRTL to meet OSHA standards that require testing and certification.

The Agency processes applications by an NRTL for initial recognition or for expansion or renewal of this recognition following requirements in Appendix A to 29 CFR 1910.7. This appendix requires that the Agency publish two notices in the Federal Register in processing an application. In the first notice, OSHA announces the application and provides its preliminary finding and, in the second notice, the Agency provides its final decision on the application. These notices set forth the NRTL's scope of recognition or modifications of that scope. We maintain an informational web page for each NRTL, which details its scope of recognition. These pages can be accessed from our web site at <http://www.osha-slc.gov/dts/otpca/nrtl/index.html>.

The most recent notice published by OSHA for UL's recognition covered an expansion of recognition to include additional sites, which became effective on December 7, 1999 (64 FR 68389). The other Federal Register notices related to UL's recognition that OSHA has published, since UL's previous renewal, addressed an expansion for additional standards, which was announced on November 21, 1997 (62 FR 62359), and granted on June 24, 1999 (64 FR 33913). The renewal would incorporate all of these recognitions granted to UL.

General Background on the Applicant and Applications

When OSHA published its regulations for the NRTL Program at 29 CFR 1910.7, it temporarily recognized UL as a nationally recognized testing laboratory for a five year period from June 13, 1988, through June 13, 1993 (see Appendix A to § 1910.7). In Appendix A, OSHA also required that UL apply for renewal of its OSHA recognition at the end of this temporary period. UL did apply for the renewal, which OSHA announced in March 29, 1995 (60 FR 16171). In its renewal application, UL stated that it was founded in 1894. It also stated that its "principal activity is investigating the safety of many kinds of products, including electrical and electronic equipment and products," and a number of other products and systems. The Agency granted UL's renewal for a period of five years ending on June 29, 2000.

Appendix A to 29 CFR 1910.7 stipulates that the period of recognition of an NRTL is five years and that an NRTL may renew its recognition by applying not less than nine months, nor more than one year, before the expiration date of its current recognition. UL has submitted a request, dated September 17, 1999 (see Exhibit 23), to renew its recognition, within the time allotted, and retains its recognition pending OSHA's final decision in this renewal process. UL's existing scope of recognition consists of the facilities listed above, and the test standards and supplemental programs, listed below under Renewal of Recognition.

UL also has submitted requests, dated June 6, and October 5, 2000 (see Exhibits 23-1 and 23-2), to expand its recognition to include the two additional sites listed above. Moreover, UL has submitted a request, dated March 29, 2001 (see Exhibit 23-3), to expand its recognition to include 142 additional test standards. The OSHA NRTL Program staff has determined that it can grant recognition for 64 test standards listed below under Expansion of Recognition. We could not approve the remaining test standards for various reasons, primarily because we determined that they did not meet our approval criteria or our requirements for "appropriate test standards," within the meaning of 29 CFR 1910.7(c). The staff makes such determinations in processing applications from any NRTL.

Renewal of Recognition

UL seeks renewal of its recognition for the ten sites that OSHA has previously recognized. The renewal of each of these sites is and would continue to be limited to performing testing only to the test standards for which the site has the proper capability and control programs and for which OSHA has recognized UL. This treatment is consistent with the recognition that OSHA has granted to other NRTLs that operate multiple sites.

In processing UL's renewal request, OSHA NRTL Program staff performed an on-site review of UL's Northbrook facility on July 16-20, 2001. In the on-site review report (see Exhibit 24), the program staff recommended a "positive finding," which means a positive recommendation to the Assistant Secretary regarding the renewal of recognition.

UL also seeks renewal of its recognition for testing and certification of products for demonstration of conformance to the following 638 test standards, which OSHA has previously recognized for UL. Except as explained below (see paragraph immediately following listing of standards), all these standards are "appropriate," within the meaning of 29 CFR 1910.7(c).

Restrictions/Limitations on Recognition:
(1) These standards are approved for equipment or materials intended for use in commercial and industrial power system applications. These standards are not approved for equipment or materials intended for use in installations that are excluded from the provisions of subpart S in 29 CFR part 1910 by § 1910.302(a)(2).

Note:—Testing and certification of gas operated equipment is limited to equipment for use with “liquefied petroleum gas” (“LPG” or “LP-Gas”)

At the time of preparation of this preliminary notice, some of the test standards for which OSHA currently recognizes UL, and which are listed above, have been withdrawn or replaced by the standards developing organization. Under OSHA policy regarding such withdrawn or replaced test standards, OSHA can no longer recognize the NRTL for the test standards but the NRTL may request recognition for comparable test standards, i.e., other appropriate test standards covering similar types of product testing. However, a number of other NRTLs also are recognized for these withdrawn or replaced standards. As a result, OSHA will publish a separate notice to make the appropriate substitutions for UL and the other NRTLs that were recognized for these standards. However, see footnote (3) at the end of list of standards under the Expansion of Recognition section below.

OSHA’s recognition of UL, or any NRTL, for a particular test standard is limited to equipment or materials (i.e., products) for which OSHA standards require third party testing and certification before use in the workplace. Consequently, an NRTL’s scope of recognition excludes any product(s) falling within the scope of a test standard for which OSHA has no NRTL testing and certification requirements.

Many of the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) test standards listed above also are approved as American National Standards by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI). However, for convenience in compiling the list, we use the designation of the standards developing organization (e.g., UL 1004) for the standard, as opposed to the ANSI designation (e.g., ANSI/UL 1004). Under our procedures, an NRTL recognized for an ANSI-approved test standard may use either the latest proprietary version of the test standard or the latest ANSI version of that standard, regardless of whether it is currently recognized for the proprietary or ANSI version. Contact ANSI or the ANSI web site (<http://www.ansi.org>) and click “NSSN” to find out whether or not a test standard is currently ANSI-approved.

Programs and Procedures

The renewal would include UL's continued use of the following supplemental programs and procedures, based upon the criteria detailed in the March 9, 1995 Federal Register notice (60 FR 12980, 3/9/95). This notice lists nine (9) programs and procedures (collectively, programs), eight of which an NRTL may use to control and audit, but not actually to generate, the data relied upon for product certification. An NRTL's initial recognition will always include the first or basic program, which requires that all product testing and evaluation be performed in-house by the NRTL that will certify the product. OSHA has already recognized UL for these programs. See <http://www.osha-slc.gov/dts/otpc/nrtl/ul.html>.

Program 2: Acceptance of testing data from independent organizations, other than NRTLs.

Program 3: Acceptance of product evaluations from independent organizations, other than NRTLs.

Program 4: Acceptance of witnessed testing data.

Program 5: Acceptance of testing data from non-independent organizations.

Program 6: Acceptance of evaluation data from non-independent organizations (requiring NRTL review prior to marketing).

Program 7: Acceptance of continued certification following minor modifications by the client.

Program 8: Acceptance of product evaluations from organizations that function as part of the International Electrotechnical Commission Certification Body (IEC-CB) Scheme.

Program 9: Acceptance of services other than testing or evaluation performed by subcontractors or agents.

OSHA developed these programs to limit how an NRTL may perform certain aspects of its work and to permit the activities covered under a program only when the NRTL meets certain criteria. In this sense, they are special conditions that the Agency places on an NRTL's recognition. OSHA does not consider these programs in determining whether an NRTL meets the requirements for recognition under 29 CFR 1910.7. However, these programs help to define the scope of that recognition.

Expansion of Recognition

Additional Sites

UL seeks recognition of the additional sites located in Tokyo, Japan, and in Ontario, Canada, as listed earlier in this notice. In processing UL's requests, OSHA NRTL Program staff performed an on-site review of the facility in Ontario on January 22–25, 2001, and a similar review of the facility in Tokyo on March 12–15, 2001. In the on-site review reports (see Exhibits 24–1 and 24–2), the program staff recommended a “positive finding,” which means a positive recommendation on the expansion to the Assistant Secretary.

The application information that UL has submitted for these additional sites and the reports demonstrate the testing and certification capabilities at these sites. The sites are wholly owned or controlled by UL. Similar to the recognition of UL's other sites, OSHA's recognition of the additional sites would be limited to performing product testing only to the test standards for which the site has the proper capability and programs, and for which OSHA has recognized UL. As previously mentioned, this treatment is consistent with the recognition that OSHA has granted to other NRTLs that operate multiple sites. In addition, OSHA would permit the sites to use all eight of the “supplemental” programs, listed earlier in this notice, and use of which OSHA already includes under UL's scope of recognition.

Additional Test Standards

UL also seeks recognition for testing and certification of products for demonstration of conformance to the following 64 test standards, and OSHA has determined the standards are “appropriate,” within the meaning of 29 CFR 1910.7(c).

(1) Limited to electrical portions only.

(2) This standard is approved for testing and certification of products for use within recreational vehicles and mobile homes.

(3) This standard replaces UL 1950. Upon publication of the final notice for UL's renewal/expansion, the web page of all other NRTLs currently recognized for UL 1950 also will be updated to include UL 60950, due to earlier requests received from some of these other NRTLs for recognition of UL 60950.

(4) The Canadian Standards Association (CSA), another NRTL, had requested recognition for this standard in an expansion application, which OSHA granted on July 3, 2001 (66 FR 35271). However, the standard was mistakenly excluded from the notice but has been added to CSA's scope of recognition.

Preliminary Finding

UL has submitted acceptable requests for renewal and expansion of its recognition as an NRTL. As noted above, in processing these requests, OSHA has performed on-site reviews of certain UL facilities. UL has addressed the discrepancies noted by the assessor following the reviews, and the assessor has included the resolution in the on-site review reports (see Exhibits 24, 24-1, 24-2).

Following a review of the application files, the on-site review reports, and other pertinent information, the NRTL Program staff has concluded that OSHA can grant to UL: (1) the renewal for the 10 sites and the test standards and programs listed above, and (2) the expansion for the additional 2 sites and test standards, also listed above. The staff therefore recommended to the Assistant Secretary that the applications be preliminarily approved.

Based upon the recommendation of the staff, the Assistant Secretary has made a preliminary finding that Underwriters Laboratories Inc. can meet the requirements as prescribed by 29 CFR 1910.7 for the renewal and expansion of its recognition. This preliminary finding does not constitute an interim or temporary approval of the applications for UL.

OSHA welcomes public comments, in sufficient detail, as to whether UL has met the requirements of 29 CFR 1910.7 for the renewal and expansion of its recognition as a Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratory. Your comment should consist of pertinent written documents and exhibits. To consider it, OSHA must receive the comment at the address provided above (see ADDRESSES, no later than the last date for comments (see DATES above). Should you need more time to comment, OSHA must receive your written request for extension at the address provided above (also see ADDRESSES) no later than the last date for comments (also see DATES above). You must include your reason(s) for any request for extension. OSHA will limit an extension to 30 days, unless the requester justifies a longer period. We may deny a request for extension if it is frivolous or otherwise unwarranted. You may obtain or review copies of UL's requests, the on-site review reports, and all submitted comments, as received, by contacting the Docket Office, Room N2625, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, at the above address. You should refer to Docket No. NRTL4-93, the permanent record of public information on UL's recognition.

The NRTL Program staff will review all timely comments and, after resolution of issues raised by these comments, will recommend whether to grant UL's renewal and expansion requests. The Assistant Secretary will make the final decision on granting the renewal and expansion and, in making this decision, may undertake other proceedings that are prescribed in Appendix A to 29 CFR Section 1910.7. OSHA will publish a public notice of this final decision in the Federal Register.

Notice of Voluntary Termination

With respect to Docket No. NRTL2-93, Entela, Inc., has requested that OSHA withdraw its recognition of the Entela site in Taipei, Taiwan (see Exhibit 22 in Docket NRTL2-93). This withdrawal is effective immediately, and OSHA will take no further action on it. OSHA recognized this site on May 22, 1997 (62 FR 28066). Under section II.D of Appendix A to 29 CFR 1910.7, OSHA must "inform the public of any voluntary termination by Federal Register notice." This action is unrelated to our preliminary finding on the UL renewal and expansion requests. We include it herein only for convenience in processing.

Signed at Washington, DC, March 7, 2002.

John L. Henshaw,

Assistant Secretary.

Wyndham International, Inc.; Employee Savings & Retirement Plan (the Plan) Located in Dallas, Texas

[Application No. D-10912]

Proposed Exemption

The Department is considering granting an exemption under the authority of section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code, and in accordance with the procedures set forth in 29 CFR part 2570, subpart B (55 FR 32836, 32847, August 10, 1990). If the exemption is granted, the restrictions of sections 406(a), 406(b)(2), and 407(a) of the Act and the sanctions resulting from the application of section 4975 of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1)(A) through (D) of the Code, shall not apply to the past acquisition, holding, exercise by the Plan of certain stock purchase rights (the Rights),¹ which were issued by Wyndham International, Inc. (Wyndham) to all shareholders of record, as of September 30, 1999, of certain Wyndham common stock (the Common Stock) pursuant to a rights offering (the Rights Offering), provided that the following conditions were satisfied.

(a) The Plan's acquisition and holding of the Rights in connection with the Rights Offering occurred as a result of an independent act of Wyndham as a corporate entity;

(b) All holders of the Common Stock, including the Plan, were treated in a like manner with respect to all aspects of the Rights Offering; and

(c) All decisions regarding the disposition or exercise of the Rights were made by the individual Plan participants whose accounts in the Plan received the Rights, in accordance with Plan provisions for the individually directed investment of such accounts.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This exemption, if granted, will be effective for the period from November 9, 1999 to December 8, 1999.

Summary of Facts and Representations

1. The Plan is a defined contribution, profit sharing plan with a Code section 401(k) feature. Wyndham, the Plan sponsor, is in the business of buying, selling, leasing, and managing hotels. Wyndham is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Dallas, Texas. The Plan provides for individually directed accounts. As of December 31, 1999, the fair market value of the total assets of the Plan was approximately $71,963,560. As of May 26, 2000, the Plan had approximately 3,344 participants. The trustee of the Plan is CG Trust Company (the Trustee), located in Chicago, Illinois.

2. Among the assets of the Plan is Wyndham's Class A common Stock (i.e., the Common Stock), which is publicly traded on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE). The applicant represents that, as of September 30, 1999 (the Record Date), there were issued and outstanding 168,132,832 shares of the Common Stock. As of that date, the Plan held 487,364 shares of the Common Stock, less than one-half of one percent of all outstanding shares. These shares were held in individual accounts and had been purchased pursuant to participant direction of investment under the terms of the Plan. As of September 29, 1999, the closing price of the Common Stock on the NYSE was $2.938 per share.

3. As background to the Rights Offering, Wyndham agreed to settle a class action lawsuit filed against it relating to a $1 billion equity investment in Wyndham's Series B Convertible Preferred Stock. On September 17, 1999, Wyndham entered into a stipulation of settlement Agreement with the other parties to this litigation. On November 1, 1999, the Delaware Chancery Court issued an Order approving the stipulation of Settlement Agreement.

In accordance with the above-described settlement, all holders of the Common Stock, including the Plan, as well as the holders of certain units in partnerships related to Wyndham, were issued, on November 9, 1999, Rights to purchase shares of Wyndham's Series A Convertible Preferred Stock (the Preferred Stock) for a price of $100 per share. The applicant represents that it filed Form S-3 with the Securities and Exchange Commission, as well as the Prospectus, dated November 8, 1999, for the Rights Offering.

The applicant further represents that the Plan had no control over the terms of the settlement, including the decision to carry out the Rights Offering, and that the Plan was not involved in any capacity in the settlement negotiations. Thus, the Rights Offering was an independent act of Wyndham as a corporate entity, and all holders of the Common Stock, including the Plan, were treated in a like manner with respect to all aspects of the Rights Offering.

4. Pursuant to the Rights Offering, each shareholder of the Common Stock was issued one Right for each share of the Common Stock held as of the Record Date. Each shareholder was entitled to purchase one share of the Preferred Stock for every 57 Rights issued to such shareholder. As previously noted, the Plan held 487,364 shares of the Common Stock as of the Record Date. Consequently, the Plan was issued a total of 487,364 Rights. All Rights were to expire at 5:00 PM, Eastern Standard Time, on December 8, 1999 (the Expiration Date), 30 days after their issuance, unless they were properly exercised, or sold, before that date.

¹ The applicant states that the Rights do not constitute "qualifying employer securities" within the meaning of section 407(d)(5) of the Act.

5. The applicant represents that, in anticipation of the Rights Offering, the Plan was amended, as appropriate, to provide for the handling of the Rights. The Plan was also amended to establish a new Wyndham International, Inc. Series A Convertible Preferred Stock Fund (Preferred Stock Fund), similar to the fund that already held the Common Stock, to hold all shares of Preferred Stock that were purchased.

6. The applicant represents that each Plan participant was notified of the terms of the Rights offering, as well as the number of rights that were to be issued to the individual account of such participant. Each participant received a packet of information that included: (i) A memorandum, dated November 8, 1999, that was specifically designed to instruct participants regarding the Rights Offering; (ii) a Preferred Stock purchase form; and (iii) the Prospectus, dated November 8, 1999, which was also distributed to all other shareholders entitled to participate in the Rights Offering.

7. Each participant was allowed to direct the Trustee to sell or exercise the Rights allocated to the participant's account. In order to exercise the Rights, each shareholder was required to properly fill out, execute, and deliver a subscription warrant, along with full payment of the $100 per share purchase price, to ChaseMellon Shareholder Services, LLC (ChaseMellon), the subscription agent, before the Expiration Date.

At the time of the Rights Offering, contributions could be invested, at the election of the participant, in one or more of the following investments: (i) CIGNA Guaranteed Long-Term Account; (ii) CIGNA Charter Large Company Stock Index Fund; (iii) Fidelity Puritan Account; (iv) Franklin Small Cap Growth A Account; (v) Franklin Mutual Qualified A Account; (vi) Wyndham International Common Stock Fund; (vii) Fidelity Advisor Growth Opportunities Account; (viii) INVESCO Dynamics Account; (ix) CIGNA Charter Small Company Stock Value I Fund; and (x) CIGNA Charter Foreign Stock II Fund. As set forth in the memorandum distributed to participants, a participant who elected to exercise his or her Rights was to authorize CIGNA Retirement & Investment Services (CIGNA), the Plan's third party administrator, to raise the purchase price for the Preferred Stock from the first six funds listed above. If insufficient, the participant was to authorize CIGNA to raise the amount from the next available fund in which the participant's account was invested.

The applicant represents that all decisions regarding the disposition or exercise of the Rights were made by the individual Plan participants whose accounts in the Plan received the Rights, in accordance with Plan provisions for the individually directed investment of such accounts. The Board of Directors made no recommendation about whether an individual shareholder should exercise any Rights. Moreover, no shareholder was required to exercise any Rights or otherwise take any action in response to the Rights Offering.

8. Beginning on November 16, 1999, the Trustee attempted to sell, in the over-the-counter (OTC) market, any unexercised Rights that were allocated to the account of a participant. Prior to expiration, the Rights were to be transferred or sold through a stockbroker or ChaseMellon. However, no market developed for the Rights.

Wyndham did not charge any fee or sales commission to issue the Rights or to issue the Preferred Stock to a shareholder who exercised the Rights. Shareholders who exercised Rights through a broker or other holder of their shares were responsible for paying any fees that person may have charged. The shareholder was also to be responsible for any fees or sales commissions that were applicable to a sale of any of the Rights.

9. The applicant represents that the following is a summary of the Rights Offering. A total of 31 participants, who each had at least 57 Rights issued to his or her account, elected to exercise their Rights to purchase a total of 174 shares of Preferred Stock for the Plan.² The rest of the Rights expired without value, since no market developed for the Rights.

The applicant also stated that no market has ever developed for the Preferred Stock.³ Upon completion of the Rights Offering, the beneficial ownership of individual shareholders of the Common Stock who did not exercise their Rights declined when compared to other holders of the Common Stock or limited partnership units who did exercise their Rights. This result occurred because the Preferred Stock was convertible into Common Stock and, therefore, represented dilution of the ownership of Common Stock shareholders.

10. In summary, the applicant represents that the subject transactions satisfied the criteria for an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act for the following reasons: (1) The Plan's acquisition and holding of the Rights in connection with the Rights Offering occurred as a result of an independent act of Wyndham as a corporate entity; (2) all holders of the Common Stock, including the Plan, were treated in a like manner with respect to all aspects of the Rights Offering; (3) all decisions regarding the disposition or exercise of the Rights were made by the individual Plan participants whose accounts in the Plan received the Rights, in accordance with Plan provisions for the individually directed investment of such accounts; and (4) the Plan held less than one-half of one percent of all the Common Stock outstanding as of the Record Date.

[Application No. D-11000]

Proposed Exemption

The Department is considering granting an exemption under the authority of section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and in accordance with the procedures set forth in 29 CFR part 2570, subpart B (55 FR 32836, 32847, August 10, 1990). If the exemption is granted the restrictions of sections 406(a) and 406(b)(1) and (b)(2) of the Act and the sanctions resulting from the application of section 4975 of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code, shall not apply to the sale (the Sale) by the Plan to a Plan fiduciary (the Applicant) of two parcels of improved real property (the Parcels). This exemption is conditioned upon the adherence to the material facts and representations described herein and upon the satisfaction of the following requirements:

(a) All terms and conditions of the Sale are at least as favorable to the Plan as those that the Plan could obtain in an arm's-length transaction with an unrelated party;

(b) The Sales price is the greater of $165,000 or the fair market value of the Parcels as of the date of the Sale;

(c) The fair market value of the Parcels has been determined by an independent, qualified appraiser;

² The applicant states that the Preferred Stock is a "qualifying employer security" within the meaning of section 407(d)(5) of the Act. However, the Department expresses no opinion herein as to whether the Preferred Stock is a "qualifying employer security" under section 407(d)(5).

³ The applicant represents that subsequent sales of the Preferred Stock will be done in accordance with the conditions of section 408(e) of the Act and the regulations thereunder [see 29 CFR 2550.408(e)]. However, the Department expresses no opinion herein as to whether any sales of the Preferred Stock comply with section 408(e) and the regulations thereunder.

(d) The Sale is a one-time transaction for cash; and

(e) The Plan does not pay any commissions, costs or other expenses in connection with the Sale.

Summary of Facts and Representations

1. Holt, Fleck & Romine, the sponsor of the Plan, is a law firm located in Noblesville, Indiana. The Plan is a profit sharing pension plan, which, as of May 30, 2001, had 15 participants. The Applicant, Steven Holt, the sponsor of the Plan, proposes to purchase the Parcels from the Plan. The Plan's assets have an aggregate fair market value of $921,549.

2. In September 1992, the Applicant purchased the Parcels from Hamilton General Corporation, an unrelated third party, for $145,000. At the time of the acquisition, the Parcels represented 53% of Plan assets. The Parcels have an estimated fair market value of $165,000 and constitute approximately 18% of the total value of Plan assets.

3. The Applicant represent that the Sale is in the interests of the Plan, and its participants and beneficiaries. The Applicant is seeking to purchase the Parcels from the Plan for cash, thus allowing the Plan to be in a more liquid financial status. There will be no commissions, costs or other expenses incurred by the Plan in connection with the Sale.

4. The Parcels consist of:

A 5,412 square foot parcel of improved real property located at 107 South 8th Street, Noblesville, Indiana (107 South); and

A 4,356 square foot parcel of improved real property located at 123 South 8th Street, Noblesville, Indiana (123 South). The Parcels have generated a minimal rate of return during the Plan's holding of the Parcels.⁴

5. The Parcels were appraised on July 16, 2001, by Therese Lattanzio and Stephen L. Cobb (the Appraisers) for Real Property Evaluations, Inc. located in Indianapolis, Indiana. Both Appraisers are Indiana state Certified General Appraisers. The Appraisers are independent of the Applicant.

The Appraisers determined that the best use and highest value of the Parcels was associated with valuing the Parcels in accordance with the so-called direct sales comparison method. In this method, sales of similar use land in the market area are compared to the subject to arrive at an indication of value. In arriving at final value conclusions, factors such as rights conveyed, financing terms, sale conditions, market conditions, location, and physical characteristics are taken into consideration. Therefore, based on the valuation procedure, the fair market value of the Parcels was determined as follows: (i) 107 South = $110,000; and (ii) 123 South = $55,000. Accordingly, the total fair market value of the Parcels is $165,000 as of July 16, 2001 ($110,000 + $55,000 = $165,000). The Plan will receive an amount equal to the greater of: (i) $165,000; or (ii) The fair market value of the Parcels at the time of the Sale.

6. In summary, the Applicant represent that the subject transaction satisfies the statutory criteria contained in section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code for the following reasons:

(a) The Sale will be a one-time transaction for cash;

(b) The Plan will not pay any commissions, costs or other expenses in connection with the Sale; and

(c) The Plan will receive an amount equal to the greater of:

(i) $165,000; or (ii) The fair market value of the Parcels at the time of the Sale.

Notice to Interested Persons: Notice of the proposed exemption shall be given to all interested persons in the manner agreed upon by the Applicant and Department within 15 days of the date of publication in the Federal Register. Comments and requests for a hearing are due forty-five (45) days after publication of the notice in the Federal Register.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act and/or section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person from certain other provisions of the Act and/or the Code, including any prohibited transaction provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which, among other things, require a fiduciary to discharge his duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(b) of the Act; nor does it affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that the plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries;

(2) Before an exemption may be granted under section 408(a) of the Act and/or section 4975(c)(2) of the Code, the Department must find that the exemption is administratively feasible, in the interests of the plan and of its participants and beneficiaries, and protective of the rights of participants and beneficiaries of the plan;

(3) The proposed exemptions, if granted, will be supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and/or the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption is not dispositive of whether the transaction is in fact a prohibited transaction; and

(4) The proposed exemptions, if granted, will be subject to the express condition that the material facts and representations contained in each application are true and complete, and that each application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction which is the subject of the exemption.

Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by Amex. Amex has designed the proposed rule change as "non-controversial" under Rule 19b-4(f)(6),³ thus rendering it immediately effective. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

Amex proposes to extend for an additional six months Commentary .03 to Amex Rule 126 to continue a pilot program for processing electronically transmitted orders for the common stock of business corporations admitted to dealings on the Exchange ("eQPrioritysm"). The text of the proposed rule change is available at the Office of the Secretary of the Exchange and from the Commission's Public Reference Room.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, Amex included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. Amex has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

On September 12, 2000, the Commission approved Amex's eQPriority initiative on a six-month pilot basis.⁴ The pilot program was extended for six months in March 2001⁵ and again in August 2001.⁶ Amex now seeks to extend the pilot for an additional six-month period.

eQPriority is intended to encourage persons to route marketable electronic orders to the Exchange by assuring them that orders sent to the specialist electronically will be filled either: (i) At the Amex Published Quote ("APQ") up to the displayed size at the time the order is announced, or (ii) at an improved price. Amex believes that the program provides orders for stocks sent to the floor electronically with the optimal combination of speed, certainty of execution, and price improvement opportunities. eQPriority applies only to orders for common stock admitted to dealings; it is not available for orders for options, Exchange Traded Funds, or other Amex-listed securities. It also does not apply to openings and reopenings and to block trades executed at a "clean-up" price pursuant to Amex Rule 155. The eQPriority pilot is scheduled to expire on March 12, 2002.

eQPriority works in the following manner. Once the specialist announces the electronic order, members may not withdraw or modify bids and offers incorporated into the APQ on the opposite side of the market from the incoming order except to provide price improvement. When an eQPriority order is executed in part at an improved price, the remainder of the order is executed at the APQ up to the number of shares then available (i.e., the size of the APQ at the time the order was announced, less any shares that provided price improvement). The eQPriority order does not have to match with any other trading interest on the same side of the market. In the event that an eQPriority order is larger than the APQ at the time the order is announced, the order is filled up to the size of the APQ according to the eQPriority procedures, and the unexecuted balance is filled according to the Exchange's customary auction market processes.

The purpose of eQPriority is to provide incoming electronic orders with an execution at the displayed offer (or lower) in the case of an electronic buy order, or at the displayed bid (or higher) in the case of an electronic sell order. eQPriority is not intended to allow an incoming electronic order to obtain priority over orders that already have established priority in the market. Thus, an eQPriority order does not have priority over bids and offers that were announced prior to the time that the eQPriority order is represented. This arises only in situations where the market is quoted at the minimum fractional variation and is best illustrated by an example. Assume the market is quoted 20.00 to 20.01, 5,000 × 5,000, and the bid represents a limit order on the book. Further assume that the specialist announces an eQPriority order to buy 1,000 and that a broker in the crowd is willing to sell 1,000 at 20. In this example, the limit order to buy on the book had established a bid of 20 prior to the representation of the eQPriority order. The booked limit order, consequently, would buy the 1,000 shares sold by the broker at 20, and the eQPriority order would be filled at 20.01.

2. Statutory Basis

Amex believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b) of the Act⁷ in general and furthers the objectives of section 6(b)(5)⁸ in particular in that it is designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices; to promote just and equitable principles of trade; to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system; and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest. Amex also believes that the proposed rule change is not designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, and dealers.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

Amex has stated that the proposed rule change would impose no burden on competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were solicited or received with respect to the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Amex has stated that, because the proposed rule change does not (i) significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (ii) impose any significant burden on competition; and (iii) become operative for 30 days from the date on which it was filed (or such shorter time as the Commission may designate if consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest), it has become effective pursuant to section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act⁹ and Rule 19b-4(f)(6) thereunder.¹⁰

Amex has requested that the Commission waive the 30-day pre-operative period under Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii). The Commission finds that waiving the pre-operative period is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest. The Commission believes that the existing eQPriority pilot provides beneficial services to investors. Acceleration of the operative date will allow the pilot program to continue without interruption and ensure that the benefits of the program do not lapse.

Accordingly, the Commission waives the 30-day pre-operative period, and the proposed rule change may become operative immediately.¹¹

Rule 19b-4(f)(6) also requires the self-regulatory organization to provide the Commission written notice of its intent to file the proposed rule change at least five business days before doing so (or such shorter time as designated by the Commission). Amex also has requested that the Commission waive this five-day pre-filing requirement. For the same reasons that it is waiving the 30-day pre-operative period, the Commission also waives the five-day pre-filing period.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW, Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the Exchange. All submissions should refer to File No. SR-Amex-2002-14 and should be submitted by April 8, 2002.

¹¹ For purposes only of accelerating the operative date of this proposal, the Commission has considered the proposed rule's impact on efficiency, competition, and capital formation. See 15 U.S.C. 78c(f).

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Notice of Filing of Proposed Rule Change by the Chicago Board Options Exchange Inc. To Permit a Single Response From Market Makers to a Request To Execute a Large Order

March 12, 2002.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act")¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on December 17, 2001, the Chicago Board Options Exchange, Inc. ("CBOE" or "Exchange") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"), the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the CBOE. The CBOE filed an amendment to the proposed rule change on March 6, 2002.³ The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change, as amended, from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The CBOE proposes to amend CBOE Rule 8.7 to permit a single response from market makers to a request to execute a large order. The text of the proposed rule change is set forth below. Additions are in italics.

CHAPTER VIII

Market-Makers, Trading Crowds and Modified Trading Systems Section A: Market-Makers

Rule 8.7 Obligations of Market Makers

(a)-(c) No change.

...Interpretations and Policies:

.01-.10 No change.

.11 The obligation of Market-Makers to make competitive markets under Rule 8.7 does not preclude members in a trading crowd from discussing a request for a market that is greater than the RAES order eligibility size for that option class, for the purpose of making a single bid (offer) based upon the aggregate of individual bids (offers) by members in the trading crowd, but only when the member representing the order asks for a single bid (offer). Whenever a single bid (offer) pursuant to this paragraph is made, such bid (offer) shall be a firm quote and each member of the trading crowd participating in the bid (offer) shall be obligated to fulfill his portion of the single bid (offer) at the single price.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the CBOE included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The CBOE has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The CBOE is submitting the proposed rule change pursuant to subparagraph IV.B.j of the Commission's September 11, 2000 Order,⁴ which requires that certain options exchanges, including the CBOE, adopt new, or amend existing, rules to make express any practice or procedure "whereby market makers trading any particular option class determine by agreement the spreads or option prices at which they will trade any option class * * *." Although market makers compete against each other and, when applicable, against the Designated Primary Market Maker ("DPM"), Lead Market Maker, or Supplemental Market Maker ("SMM"), the proposed new Interpretation and Policy .11 to CBOE Rule 8.7 would expressly provide for a limited situation where the CBOE believes that market makers necessarily are required to coordinate with each other.⁵ Specifically, proposed Interpretation and Policy .11 to CBOE Rule 8.7 would permit market makers to coordinate in the limited situation where a member requests a single bid or offer from the trading crowd for an order that is greater in size than the Exchange's Retail Automatic Execution System ("RAES") order eligibility size for that option class, as determined by the Exchange's appropriate Floor Procedure Committee.

When a request to buy or sell a large number of options is submitted to a trading crowd, the CBOE believes that it is usually the case that the customer on whose behalf the request is made wants to know promptly at what single price all of the options represented by the request could be bought or sold. In the exercise of his fiduciary duty, the member representing such a large order is permitted to request a jointly made single bid or offer to ensure that his ³ See letter from Patrick Sexton, Assistant General Counsel, CBOE, to Deborah Flynn, Assistant Director, Division of Market Regulation ("Division"), dated March 4, 2002 ("Amendment No. 1"). Amendment No. 1 deletes a footnote from the original filing that stated that a member would be viewed as having requested a single bid or offer if the member expressed to a trading crowd that generally he or she expected a single bid or offer for any order of greater than the RAES order eligibility size, unless he or she requested otherwise in a specific circumstance.

⁴ See Order Instituting Public Administrative Proceedings Pursuant to Section 19(h)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Making Findings and Imposing Remedial Sanctions. Securities Exchange Act Release No. 43268 (September 11, 2000).

⁵ As set forth in CBOE Rules 8.80 and 8.85, respectively, the term "market-makers" includes DPMs and each DPM is obligated to fulfill all of the obligations of a market-maker under CBOE rules, in addition to fulfilling the specific obligations of a DPM.

customer's order is completely filled at the best price. Without asking for such a joint response, the member would assume a risk that the market would move substantially as the member attempts to execute the whole order in pieces against individual market makers at different prices.⁶

Proposed Interpretation and Policy .11 to CBOE Rule 8.7.11 would allow CBOE market makers to respond to a member's request for a quick and certain market. The proposed rule change would permit market makers jointly to discuss a request from a member for a single order that is greater in size than the RAES order eligibility size for that option class, in order to provide a single bid or offer, based upon the aggregate of individual bids or offers by members in the trading crowd. Such coordination would only be permitted in situations where the member representing the order requests a single bid or offer. When a single bid or offer made in response to a request results in the order being executed, the order will be apportioned among the market makers who participated in making the single bid or offer according to the number of contracts each market participant committed to trading, and each market maker shall be obligated to fulfill his portion of the single bid or offer at the single price.⁷

The CBOE believes that proposed Interpretation and Policy .11 to CBOE Rule 8.7 would enhance competition among markets. CBOE's market makers must be able to respond to requests for a single large order from a member in the face of competition from other exchanges that have specialists who are better able to provide a single response to large bids and offers. Moreover, because proposed Interpretation and Policy 8.7.11 would allow CBOE market makers to respond to a specific request, the CBOE believes it would enhance the ability of the Exchange to respond to requests for immediate executions at disseminated prices.

⁶ Without asking for a joint response, a member may not know until it is too late whether he will have satisfied the customer's entire order if he fills the order in pieces against individual market-makers at different prices. The CBOE believes that a member who does not ask for a joint response takes a risk that the market will move substantially as the member executes the order in parts against different market-makers at different prices against whom he must mark up different order tickets or against whom he must make separate inputs into his electronic trading unit.

⁷ The Exchange has submitted another proposed rule change (SR-CBOE-2002-08) relating to allocation of trades, including trades pursuant to proposed Interpretation and Policy .11 to CBOE Rule 8.7.11.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act⁸ in general and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5)⁹ in particular in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, remove impediments to a free and open market and a national market system, and protect investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The proposed rule change, as amended, would provide for limited joint participation among competing CBOE market makers in a trading crowd in certain circumstances. The Exchange believes this limited joint participation is justified by the benefits to the marketplace from this proposal. According to the Exchange, the effect of this aggregate response proposal would be to allow the market maker trading crowds to compete more effectively for order flow with specialists from other options exchanges by providing enhanced opportunities for best execution of customer orders on the CBOE. As a result, the Exchange believes the limited joint activity described in this rule proposal is justified by and furthers the objectives of Section 11A(a)(1)(C)(ii) of the Act¹⁰ by assuring fair competition among markets. The Exchange believes that the proposed rule also is consistent with and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act¹¹ in that it is designed to remove impediments to a free and open market and protecting investors and the public interest.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others

No written comments were solicited or received with respect to the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the CBOE consents, the Commission will:

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The self-regulatory organization has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The CSE proposes to eliminate references to fractional price variations in stocks traded on the Exchange. In implementing the conversion to decimal pricing, the Exchange added provisions to Rules 11.3(a) and (c) that called for the elimination of said rules upon completion of the decimal conversion process.³ With decimal pricing now fully implemented, the Exchange is now activating the previously approved clauses that eliminate 11.3(a) and (c). With regard to all equity securities, Rule 11.3 will reflect only decimal pricing upon approval of this proposed rule change.

2. Statutory Basis

The CSE believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act⁴ in general and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5)⁵ in particular. The CSE believes the proposed rule change is consistent with Section 6(b)(5)⁶ in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade and to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The CSE does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any inappropriate burden on competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

No comments were solicited or received in connection with the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

A. By order approve such proposed rule change, or

B. Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room. The proposed rule change consists of technical language changes to DTC Rules 1, 18, 27, and 28. The language changes concern officer titles and the methods of amending DTC's procedures, services guides, and regulations.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, DTC included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. DTC has prepared summaries, set forth in sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of these statements.

(A) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

The purpose of the proposed rule change is to modify DTC's Rules to eliminate references to officer titles that are obsolete and to clarify the method by which DTC's procedures, services guides, and regulations can be amended. The proposed rule change will also expand the term "procedures," as defined under Rule 1, to include service guides and regulations.

Rules 18 allows certain DTC officers and directors to waive or suspend rules and procedures and Rule 28 allows certain officers and directors to act under delegated authority from the board of directors on behalf of DTC. The proposed rule change would delete references to "Executive Vice President" and "Senior Vice President" as officers of DTC and add a reference to "Managing Director." At present, Rule 27 allows the board of directors to delegate authority to the chairman of the board to prescribe procedures for DTC. Under the proposed rule change, DTC's board also may extend this authority to any DTC officer referenced in the board's delegation resolution.

The proposed rule change is consistent with section 17A of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to DTC because it would promote the prompt and accurate clearance and settlement of securities transactions because it would clarify and update DTC's Rules.

(B) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

DTC perceives no impact on competition by reason of the proposed rule change.

(C) Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others

Written comments from DTC participants have not been solicited or received on the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within thirty-five days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register, or within such longer period: (i) As the Commission may designate up to ninety days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which DTC consents, the Commission will:

(A) By order approve such proposed rule change or

(B) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room, 450 Fifth Street, NW,

Washington, DC 20549. Copies of such filing also will be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of DTC. All submissions should refer to File No. SR-DTC-2001-16 and should be submitted by April 8, 2002.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.²

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 34-45541; File No. SR-ISE-2002-06]

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Notice of Filing of Proposed Rule Change by the International Securities Exchange LLC, Relating to Minimum Pricing Increments

March 12, 2002.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on February 12, 2002, the International Securities Exchange LLC ("Exchange" or "ISE") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the Exchange. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The ISE is proposing to reaffirm its current minimum pricing increments for quotations as $.05 for options trading at less than $3.00 and $.10 for options trading at $3.00 or more.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the ISE included statements concerning the purpose of, and basis for, the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The ISE has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

In a release dated June 8, 2000, the Commission ordered the ISE, the other registered national securities exchanges, and the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("NASD") to submit to the Commission, by June 8, 2001, a study regarding the effects of decimal trading.³ The Decimalization Order also required the exchanges and the NASD to submit proposed rule changes establishing minimum pricing increments for quotations in the securities they trade.

On September 10, 2001, the ISE submitted its decimalization study ("Study"). Because the ISE did not have significant empirical data regarding the effects of decimalization on its market, the Exchange based its study on responses to a questionnaire it had sent to its members. The Study concluded that decimalization had little effect on the ISE market.

The ISE also submitted its required rule change establishing minimum pricing increments for quotations.⁴ The Exchange established minimum increments of $.05 for options trading at less than $3.00 and $.10 for options trading at $3.00 or more. Those were the same increments the Exchange had applied during its conversion to decimal pricing. The purpose of this proposed rule change is to reaffirm the pricing increments in the ISE's rule in light of the results of the Study. Because the Study indicated that the conversion to decimal pricing did not have a significant effect on the ISE's market, the ISE does not believe it is necessary or appropriate at this time to change its minimum pricing increments.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b)(5) of the Act,⁵ in that it fosters cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in regulating, clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transaction in securities, removes impediments to and perfects the mechanism for a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, protects investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change does not impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others

The Exchange has not solicited, and does not intend to solicit, comments on the proposed rule change. The Exchange has not received any unsolicited written comments from members or other interested parties.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding or (ii) as to which the Exchange consents, the Commission will:

- (a) By order approve such proposed rule change; or
- (b) Institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW, Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the ISE. All submissions should refer to File No. SR-ISE-2002-06 and should be submitted by April 8, 2002.

For the Commission, by the Division of Market Regulation, pursuant to delegated authority.⁶

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Notice of Filing and Immediate Effectiveness of Proposed Rule Change by the New York Stock Exchange, Inc. Extending the Pilot Regarding Shareholder Approval of Stock Option Plans Through May 13, 2002

March 12, 2002.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on March 11, 2002, the New York Stock Exchange, Inc. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Exchange proposes to extend, until May 13, 2002, the effectiveness of the amendments to Sections 312.01, 312.03 and 312.04 of the Exchange's Listed Company Manual with respect to the definition of a "broadly-based" stock option plan, which were approved by the Commission on a pilot basis (the "Pilot") on June 4, 1999.³ The Pilot was subsequently amended and extended on March 30, 2001 until September 30, 2001.⁴ The Pilot has since been

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

On July 13, 2000, the Exchange filed a proposed rule change seeking to extend the effectiveness of the Pilot until September 30, 2003.⁷ Following receipt of comments from interested parties and the SEC staff, on January 19, 2001, the Exchange amended the 2000 Extension Request to shorten the three-year extension request to one year and to amend the definition of "broadly based" under the Exchange's rule. While the 2000 Extension Request was under consideration, the Commission extended the Pilot to provide the Commission and the Exchange with additional time to review and evaluate comment letters.⁸ On March 30, 2001, the Commission approved the 2000 Extension Request, which amended and extended the Pilot, on a pilot basis until September 30, 2001.⁹ The Exchange's 2001 Extension Request became effective on September 28, 2001, on a pilot basis, and extended the Pilot until January 11, 2002 to provide additional time to evaluate the issues presented by the Pilot.¹⁰ The Pilot was again extended until March 11, 2002 for the same reasons.¹¹

The Exchange proposes to further extend the effectiveness of the Pilot until May 13, 2002 to provide additional time to evaluate the issues presented by the Pilot, in light of recently adopted requirements relating to disclosure of equity compensation plan information.¹²

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹³ which requires, among other things, that an Exchange have rules designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in facilitating transactions in securities, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system and, ingeneral, to protect investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received from Members, Participants or Others

The Exchange has neither solicited nor received written comments on the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Because the proposed rule change (1) does not significantly affect the protection of investors or the public interest; (2) does not impose any significant burden on competition; and (3) does not become operative for 30 days from the date of filing, or such shorter time as the Commission may designate if consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest, the proposed rule change has become effective pursuant to section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act¹⁴ and Rule 19b-4(f)(6)¹⁵ thereunder.

A proposed rule change filed under Rule 19b-4(f)(6)¹⁶ normally does not become operative prior to 30 days after the date of filing. However, pursuant to Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii),¹⁷ the Commission may designate a shorter time if such action is consistent with the protection of investors and public interest. The Exchange seeks to have the proposed rule change become operative on or before March 11, 2002, in order to allow the Pilot to continue in effect on an uninterrupted basis. In addition, under Rule 19b-4(f)(6)(iii), the Exchange is required to provide the Commission with written notice of its intent to file the proposed rule change at least five business days prior to the filing date or such shorter time as designated by the Commission. The Commission waived the five-day pre-notice and thirty-day operative date requirements for this proposed rule change.

The Commission, consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest, has determined to make the proposed rule change to extend the Pilot through May 13, 2002, become operative on March 11, 2002. The Commission notes that unless the Pilot is extended, the Pilot will expire and the provisions of Sections 312.01, 312.03, and 312.04 of the Exchange's Listed Company Manual that were amended in the Pilot will revert to those in effect prior to June 4, 1999. The Commission believes that such a result could lead to confusion.

The Commission recognizes that the Pilot has generated many comment letters from commenters that do not support the NYSE's definition of "broadly-based" stock option plans under the Pilot.¹⁸ The Commission also notes that many commenters were

The CII commented that the 2001 Extension Request should have been released for public comment prior to the Commission approving another extension to the Pilot and that any future proposed extensions should be released for prior public comment, that the Pilot not be extended after January 11, 2002, that the NYSE should be required to submit a dilution standard for approval which should be in place before the 2002 proxy season, and that the Commission act on the proposed disclosure standards for stock option plans. The Commission notes that the disclosure standards were approved by it on December 21, 2001. See note 12 infra below.

critical of the NYSE's existing rules on broadly-based plans prior to the adoption of the original Pilot. As noted above, if the Pilot is not extended, the rules prior to the Pilot will go into effect. The proposed rule change merely extends the duration of the Pilot for only a short period of time and does not deal with the substantive issues presented by the Pilot itself.

Based on these reasons, the Commission believes that it is consistent with the protection of investors and the public interest that the proposed rule change to extend the Pilot through May 13, 2002, become operative on March 11, 2002.¹⁹ At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission may summarily abrogate such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street NW., Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room. Copies of such filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal office of the above-mentioned self-regulatory organization. Self-Regulatory Organizations; Notice of Filing of Proposed Rule Change by the Pacific Exchange, Inc. Relating to Permanent Adoption of Decimal Pricing and the Establishment of a Minimum Price Variation for Quoting in Equity Securities and Options

March 12, 2002.

Pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act"),¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² notice is hereby given that on January 15, 2002, the Pacific Exchange, Inc. ("PCX" or "Exchange") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") the proposed rule change as described in Items I, II, and III below, which Items have been prepared by the PCX. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The PCX fully implemented the Commission's order requiring it to convert prices in equity securities and options from fractions to decimals on a pilot basis. Having fully implemented decimal pricing and established the minimum price variation ("MPV") in each market for quoting equity securities and options, the Exchange submits this proposal to permanently adopt the changes that the Exchange has made to its rules. The Exchange is not making any changes to its rules; rather, the Exchange is permanently adopting the rule changes that were initially implemented on a pilot basis.³

The text of the proposed rule change is available at the PCX and at the Commission.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of, and basis for, the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item III below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in Sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

On June 8, 2000, the Commission issued an order ("Order") that provided a framework for the national securities exchanges and the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. (collectively "Participants") to convert quotation pricing in equity securities and options from fractions to decimals.⁴ The Order required that: (i) Participants submit studies analyzing how decimal conversion affects systems capacity, liquidity, and trading behavior; and (ii) Participants submit rule filings that individually establish the MPV for each market.

In complying with the Order, the Participants submitted to the Commission on July 26, 2000, the Decimals Implementation Plan for the Equities and Options Markets⁵ and successfully completed the phasing-in of decimal pricing in all equity securities and options. In connection with the full implementation, the Exchange modified its rules to include pricing in decimal format with cross-references to fractional pricing. This was done to allow the Exchange to trade, during the phase-in, some securities in decimals and some in fractions. The Exchange also established an MPV scheme for each market (equities and options) and submitted its study of the results on September 10, 2001.⁶ The Exchange completed its transition to decimal pricing by eliminating references to fractional pricing.⁷ The Exchange now proposes to permanently adopt the rules, previously noticed by the Commission, with no change.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b) of the Act⁸ in general, and furthers the objectives of section 6(b)(5) of the Act⁹ in particular, in that it is designed to facilitate transactions in securities, to promote just and equitable principals of trade, and to protect investors and the public interest.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

No written comments were solicited or received with respect to the proposed rule change.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

Within 35 days of the date of publication of this notice in the Federal Register or within such longer period (i) as the Commission may designate up to 90 days of such date if it finds such longer period to be appropriate and publishes its reasons for so finding, or (ii) as to which the Exchange consents, the Commission will:

(A) by order approve such proposed rule change; or

(B) institute proceedings to determine whether the proposed rule change should be disapproved.

IV. Solicitation of Comments

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments concerning the foregoing, including whether the proposed rule change is consistent with the Act. Persons making written submissions should file six copies thereof with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549-0609. Copies of the submission, all subsequent amendments, all written statements with respect to the proposed rule change that are filed with the Commission, and all written communications relating to the proposed rule change between the Commission and any person, other than those that may be withheld from the public in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552, will be available for inspection and copying in the Commission's Public Reference Room. Copies of the filing will also be available for inspection and copying at the principal offices of the Exchange. All submissions should refer to File No. SR-PCX-2002-04 and should be submitted by April 8, 2002.

Self-Regulatory Organizations; Philadelphia Stock Exchange, Inc.; Order Granting Approval to Proposed Rule Change Amending Phlx Rule 237, "The eVWAP Morning Session"

March 12, 2002.

On December 26, 2001, the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, Inc. ("Phlx" or "Exchange") filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"), pursuant to section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act")¹ and Rule 19b-4 thereunder,² a proposed rule change to amend Phlx Rule 237, "The eVWAP Morning Session," to: (1) Allow Exchange-Traded Fund Shares to be executed on the eVWAP System; (2) codify order increment size requirements; and (3) make minor technical amendments to Phlx Rule 237. On January 25, 2002, the Phlx made minor, technical amendments to the proposal.

The proposed rule change, as amended, was published for comment in the Federal Register on February 1, 2002.³ The Commission received no comments on the proposal.

The Commission finds that the proposed rule change, as amended, is consistent with the requirements of the Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to a national securities exchange⁴ and, in particular, the requirements of Section 6 of the Act⁵ and the rules and regulations thereunder. The Commission finds specifically that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b)(5) of the Act⁶ because it will expand the number of securities eligible for eVWAP trading, as well as codify order and commitment size requirements.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Act⁷, that the proposed rule change (SR-PHLX-2001-120), as amended, be, and it hereby is, approved.

The Social Security Act and Regulations provide that an individual receiving spouse's benefits and concurrently receiving a Government pension, based on the individual's own earnings, may have the Social Security benefit amount reduced by two-thirds of the pension amount. The data collected on Form SSA-3885 is used by the Social Security Administration (SSA) to determine if the individual's Social Security benefit will be reduced, the amount of reduction, the effective date of the reduction and if one of the exceptions in 20 CFR 404.408a applies. The respondents are individuals who are receiving (or will receive) Social Security spouse's benefits and also receive their own Government pension.

Number of Respondents: 30,000.

Frequency of Response: 1.

Average Burden Per Response: 12.5 minutes.

Estimated Annual Burden: 6,250 hours.

2. Application for Benefits Under a U.S. International Social Security Agreement—0960-0448

The information collected on form SSA-2490 is used by SSA to determine a claimant's eligibility for U.S. Social Security benefits under the provisions of an international social security agreement. It is also used to take an application for benefits from a foreign country under an agreement. Estimated Annual Burden: 11,000 hours.

3. Request for Workers' Compensation/ Public Disability Information—0960-0098

Form SSA-1709 is used by SSA to request and/or to verify information about worker's compensation or public disability benefits given to Social Security disability insurance benefit recipients so that their monthly benefit adjustments are properly made. The respondents are State and local governments and/or businesses that administer workers' compensation or other disability benefits.

Number of Respondents: 140,000.

Frequency of Response: 1.

Average Burden Per Response: 15 minutes.

Number of Respondents: 60,000.

Frequency of Response: 1.

Average Burden Per Response: 2 minutes.

Estimated Annual Burden: 2,000 hours.

2. Statement Regarding Contributions—0960-0020

3. Online Authentication Information Collection Form—TEST—0960—NEW Background

The Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA) of 1998 directed federal agencies to develop electronic service delivery instruments as an alternative to traditional paper based methods. The Social Security Administration plans to expand its Internet services to enable citizens to complete the application process as well as to process their requests for post-entitlement transactions online. A major requirement for filing applications and for processing transactional requests is SSA's ability to adequately authenticate the citizen. SSA cannot disclose information unless it is under the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act of 1974. Because these transactions will be taking place online, SSA must authenticate citizens by asking for information that would positively identify the requester of the information as the proper party. This information will be validated against identifying information residing in databases outside of SSA. SSA will conduct a test of the Treasury Department's "Pay.Gov" authentication engine as a possible tool for out-of-band authentication.

The Collection

The Social Security Administration will use the data collected on the Online

Authentication Information Collection Form—TEST, to evaluate the Treasury Department's Pay.Gov authentication engine as a possible tool for SSA to validate out-of-band online applicants. The respondents for this test are members of the general public who elect to complete the form for testing.

Number of Respondents: 161.

Frequency of Response: 1.

Average Burden Per Response: 5 minutes.

Advisory Committee on Law Applicable to Securities Intermediaries; Meeting Notice

The Study Group on International Securities Transactions of the State Department's Advisory Committee on Private International Law will hold a meeting on Tuesday, March 26, 2002, at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York on proposed multilateral treaty rules determining what laws are applicable to securities intermediaries, including the law applicable to dispositions of securities held through holding systems.

The drafting of such rules has been undertaken on a fast-track basis by the Hague Conference on Private International Law, an intergovernmental body on which the United States is represented. The meeting will provide an opportunity for public comment on the revised draft rules and will facilitate preparation of United States positions on whether to support a final meeting to conclude this process in the fall of 2002.

Subject to availability of time, the meeting will review relevant developments involving dematerialization and immobilization of securities, transfers of interest, and the role of multiple indirect and direct holding systems. A www site below contains the draft provisions. The proposed scope of the applicable law treaty regime is set out in Articles 2 and 3, rules on location relevant to determining applicable law in Article 4, rules deferring to insolvency law in Article 5, rules for countries with more than one system of law in Articles 9 and 16, and transition rules in Article 17.

Time permitting, the start up of a new project to be undertaken by UNIDROIT, a separate intergovernmental body, on the preparation of uniform substantive rules on transfer of interests by securities intermediaries, as well as clearance and settlement, will be discussed.

Documentation: The basic study by the Permanent Bureau of the Hague Conference, "Law applicable to disposition of securities held through indirect holding systems", and current revised draft rules are obtainable at www.hcch.net. DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Office of the Secretary

[Docket No. OST-2002-11831]

Establishment of the DOT Electronic Transmission and Storage of Drug Testing Information Advisory Committee

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Department of Transportation.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Transportation is establishing the Department of Transportation (DOT)

Electronic Transmission and Storage of Drug Testing Information Advisory Committee. The purpose of the committee is to recommend to the Department the type and level of electronic security that should be used for the transmission and storage of drug testing information generated as part of the DOT drug and alcohol testing program regulated by 40 CFR part 40 (65 FR 79462). Additionally, the Committee may examine and provide advice to the DOT related to the format and methodology used in transmitting this type of information as well as the levels and procedures to use in implementing electronic signature technology within the context of the drug and alcohol program.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Don Shatinsky, Office of Drug and Alcohol Policy and Compliance (ODAPC), Office of the Secretary, Department of Transportation, (202) 366-3784, fax (202) 366-3897 or Roberta Fede, Committee Management Officer, Executive Secretariat, Department of Transportation, (202) 366-9764.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with the requirements of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA), 5 U.S.C. Appendix 2, notice is hereby given that on December 11, 2001, the Secretary of Transportation approved establishment of the Electronic Transmission and Storage of Drug Testing Information Advisory Committee. After consultation with the General Services Administration as required by section 9(a)(2) of FACA and 41 CFR 102-3.65, the Secretary certifies that he has determined that the establishment of the Committee is in the public interest in connection with the performance of duties imposed on the DOT by law and specifically by the Omnibus Transportation Employee Testing Act of 1991.

The committee will be composed of approximately 20 members appointed by the Secretary from interested parties within the public. The Committee's members will be chosen to ensure a fairly balanced membership to bring into account a diversity of viewpoints, expertise, and backgrounds. Representation will include the technical and computer industry, drug testing laboratories, medical review officers (MRO), labor, trade and labor associations, and employers. The Committee will provide advice and recommendations to the Department related to the level and type of electronic security that the Department should require in the use of electronic transmission and storage of drug testing information. Additionally, the Committee may look at the specific formats that may be required to provide consistency in the reporting process, the methodology used, e.g., e-mail versus web based, and the application of electronic signatures in the overall process of reporting this sensitive information. Currently, there are approximately 8.3 million transportation workers in safety-sensitive positions requiring drug testing. All results of drug tests, including negative, positive, adulterated, substituted, and invalid are reported by laboratories directly to physicians (i.e., MROs), who subsequently send final test results to employers. In the majority of cases, laboratory results and MRO verification results are sent by U.S. mail or courier, generating substantial paper work requirements.

To alleviate some of the paper work burden, when 49 CFR part 40 was revised on December 19, 2000, the use of faxed and electronic reporting of some of the drug testing results was authorized, provided that the laboratory and MRO ensured that the information is transmitted in such a manner as to prevent unauthorized access or release while it is transmitted or stored. However, no particular standards or guidelines were provided to ensure that laboratories and MROs used adequate, but secure, methods to transmit and store this sensitive information. The Committee will examine the current state of the art for electronic security and identify those methods which will adequately ensure security, but at the same time provide reasonable cost in its implementation.

Copies of the Committee's charter were filed with the appropriate committees of the Congress and with the Library of Congress in accordance with section 9(c) of the FACA, 5 U.S.C. Appendix 2. In accordance with requirements of the FACA, the DOT will keep records of all Committee meetings and will make them available to the public. Based on the charter of the Committee, it is envisioned that the Committee will meet approximately three times within the next year. Meeting times and places will be published in the Federal Register.

Dated: March 12, 2002.

Kenneth C. Edgell,

Acting Director, Office of Drug and Alcohol Policy and Compliance, Department of Transportation.

This information is intended to assist prospective purchasers in comparing differences in passenger vehicle collision loss experience that could affect auto insurance costs.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons may obtain a copy of this booklet by contacting the U.S. Department of Transportation, Docket Management, Room PL-401, 400 Seventh Street, SW.,

Washington, DC 20590. [Docket hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.].

[Docket No. NHTSA-2002-11778; Notice 1]

Bridgestone/Firestone North American Tire, LLC, Receipt of Application for Decision of Inconsequential Noncompliance

Bridgestone/Firestone North American Tire, LLC (Firestone), a Delaware Limited Liability Company, has determined that approximately 754 30x9.50 R15 LT Widetrack Baja A/T tires produced in the LaVergne, Tennessee plant are not in full compliance with 49 CFR 571.119, Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard (FMVSS) No. 119, "New pneumatic tires for vehicles other than passenger cars, "and has filed an appropriate report pursuant to 49 CFR part 573, "Defect and Noncompliance Reports." Firestone has also applied to be exempted from the notification and remedy requirements of 49 U.S.C. chapter 301—"Motor Vehicle Safety" on the basis that the noncompliance is inconsequential to motor vehicle safety.

This notice of receipt of an application is published under 49 U.S.C. 30118 and 30120 and does not represent any agency decision or other exercise of judgment concerning the merits of the application.

According to the application, "During weeks 38, 39 and 40 of the year 2001, the LaVergne, Tennessee plant of Firestone produced a number of tires that fail to comply with the tire marking requirements of FMVSS 119 S6.5(d).

The actual markings on the noncompliant tires are:
Max Load 350 Kg at 1985 kPa cold
Max Load 900 Lbs at 50 PSI cold

The correct markings are:
Max Load 900 Kg at 350 kPa cold
Max Load 1985 Lbs at 50 PSI cold

Firestone submits that the failure of the tires to comply with FMVSS 119

S6.5(d) should be deemed inconsequential to motor vehicle safety for the following reasons:

(1) All of the affected 30x9.50R15LT Widetrack Baja A/T tires meet all of the remaining requirements of 49 CFR, part 119.

(2) The maximum load as stated on the tire in both English and Metric units is actually less than the actual maximum load for these tires. Therefore, it is not likely the tires would be placed in an unsafe, overload situation as a result of the marking noncompliance. In fact, if the consumer relies on the markings, the load will be significantly less than the tire is capable of carrying.

(3) While the inflation pressure is incorrect in Metric units, the English inflation units are correct. Since the English units are correct and English units are the common usage for inflation in North America, it is highly unlikely that the subject tires would be over inflated as a result of the marking noncompliance.

(4) The subject tires are correctly marked Load Range "C" and Load Index 104. By Tire and Rim Association's data, the Load Range "C" and Load Index 104 define maximum load of 1985 pounds and 900 Kgs at 50 psi and 350 kPa.

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and arguments on the application described above. Comments should refer to the docket number and be submitted to: U.S. Department of Transportation, Docket Management, Room PL-401, 400 Seventh Street, SW., Washington, DC 20590. It is requested that two copies be submitted.

All comments received before the close of business on the closing date indicated below will be considered. The application and supporting materials, and all comments received after the closing date, will also be filed and will be considered to the extent possible. When the application is granted or denied, the notice will be published in the Federal Register pursuant to the authority indicated below.

Comment closing date: April 17, 2002.

To obtain a copy of the petition or the environmental assessment, contact Ms. Kay Peterson at (301) 734-4885; e-mail: Kay.Peterson@aphis.usda.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The regulations in 7 CFR part 340, "Introduction of Organisms and Products Altered or Produced Through Genetic Engineering Which Are Plant Pests or Which There Is Reason to Believe Are Plant Pests," regulate, among other things, the introduction (importation, interstate movement, or release into the environment) of organisms and products altered or produced through genetic engineering that are plant pests or that there is reason to believe are plant pests. Such genetically engineered organisms and products are considered "regulated articles."

The regulations in § 340.6(a) provide that any person may submit a petition to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) seeking a determination that an article should not be regulated under 7 CFR part 340. Paragraphs (b) and (c) of § 340.6 describe the form that a petition for a determination of nonregulated status must take and the information that must be included in the petition.

On December 7, 2000, APHIS received a petition (APHIS Petition No. 00-342-01p) from Monsanto Company (Monsanto) of St. Louis, MO, requesting a determination of nonregulated status under 7 CFR part 340 for cotton (Gossypium hirsutum L.) designated as Bollgard II CottonEvent 15985 (event 15985), which has been genetically engineered for resistance to certain lepidopteran insect pests. The Monsanto petition states that the subject cotton event should not be regulated by APHIS because it does not present a plant pest risk.

As described in the petition, cotton event 15985 has been genetically engineered to express a Cry2Ab insecticidal protein derived from the common soil bacterium Bacillus thuringiensis subsp. kurstaki (Btk). The petitioner states that the Cry2Ab protein is effective in providing protection from the feeding of lepidopteran insect pests such as tobacco budworm, pink bollworm, and cotton bollworm. The subject cotton event also expresses the β -D-glucuronidase (GUS) protein used as a selectable marker. Expression of the added genes is controlled in part by gene sequences from the plant pathogens cauliflower mosaic virus and Agrobacterium tumefaciens. Particle acceleration technology was used to transfer the added genes into the recipient Delta and Pine Land Company variety 50B (DP50B). Cotton cultivar DP50B expresses a Btk Cry1Ac insecticidal protein and a NTPII selectable marker protein, and was developed from cotton event 531, which was deregulated by APHIS in 1995 (APHIS No. 94-308-01p).

Cotton event 15985 has been considered a regulated article under the regulations in 7 CFR part 340 because it contains gene sequences from plant pathogens. This cotton event has been field tested since 1998 in the United States under APHIS notifications. In the process of reviewing the notifications for field trials of the subject cotton, APHIS determined that the vectors and other elements were disarmed and that the trials, which were conducted under conditions of reproductive and physical containment or isolation, would not present a risk of plant pest introduction or dissemination.

In section 403 of the Plant Protection Act (7 U.S.C. 7701–7772), plant pest is defined as any living stage of any of the following that can directly or indirectly injure, cause damage to, or cause disease in any plant or plant product: A protozoan, a nonhuman animal, a parasitic plant, a bacterium, a fungus, a virus or viroid, an infectious agent or other pathogen, or any article similar to or allied with any of the foregoing. APHIS views this definition very broadly. The definition covers direct or indirect injury, disease, or damage not just to agricultural crops, but also to plants in general, for example, native species, as well as to organisms that may be beneficial to plants, for example, honeybees, rhizobia, etc.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is responsible for the regulation of pesticides under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), as amended (7 U.S.C. 136 et seq.). FIFRA requires that all pesticides, including herbicides, be registered prior to distribution or sale, unless exempt by EPA regulation. In cases in which genetically modified plants allow for a new use of a pesticide or involve a different use pattern for the pesticide, EPA must approve the new or different use. Accordingly, Monsanto has submitted a request to EPA for registration of Cry2Ab as a plant-incorporated protectant.

When the use of the pesticide on the genetically modified plant would result in an increase in the residues in a food or feed crop for which the pesticide is currently registered, or in new residues in a crop for which the pesticide is not currently registered, establishment of a new tolerance or a revision of the existing tolerance would be required. Residue tolerances for pesticides are established by EPA under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA), as amended (21 U.S.C. 301 et seq.), and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) enforces tolerances set by EPA under the FFDCA. In response to the filing of Monsanto's pesticide petition, EPA has established a regulation for an exemption from the requirement of a tolerance for residues of Btk Cry2Ab and the genetic material necessary for its production in or on all raw agricultural commodities.

FDA published a statement of policy on foods derived from new plant varieties in the Federal Register on May 29, 1992 (57 FR 22984–23005). The FDA statement of policy includes a discussion of FDA's authority for ensuring food safety under the FFDCA, and provides guidance to industry on the scientific considerations associated with the development of foods derived from new plant varieties, including those plants developed through the techniques of genetic engineering. The petitioner has begun consultation with FDA on the subject cotton event.

To provide the public with documentation of APHIS' review and analysis of the environmental impacts and plant pest risk associated with a proposed determination of nonregulated status for Monsanto's cotton event 15985, an environmental assessment has been prepared. The EA was prepared in accordance with (1) The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), as amended (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), (2) regulations of the Council on Environmental Quality for implementing the procedural provisions of NEPA (40 CFR parts 1500–1508), (3) USDA regulations implementing NEPA (7 CFR part 1b), and (4) APHIS' NEPA Implementing Procedures (7 CFR part 372).

In accordance with § 340.6(d) of the regulations, we are publishing this notice to inform the public that APHIS will accept written comments regarding the petition for determination of nonregulated status from interested persons for a period of 60 days from the date of this notice.

We are also soliciting written comments from interested persons on the environmental assessment prepared to examine any environmental impacts of the proposed determination for the subject cotton event 15985. The petition and the environmental assessment and any comments received are available for public review, and copies of the petition and the environmental assessment may be ordered (see the FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT section of this notice).

After the comment period closes, APHIS will review the data submitted by the petitioner, all written comments received during the comment period, and any other relevant information. After reviewing and evaluating the comments on the petition and the environmental assessment and other data and information, APHIS will furnish a response to the petitioner, either approving the petition in whole or in part, or denying the petition. APHIS will then publish a notice in the Federal Register announcing the regulatory status of Monsanto's insect-resistant cotton event 15985 and the availability of APHIS' written decision.

Done in Washington, DC, this 12th day of March 2002.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Forest Service

Brown Darby Fuel Reduction Project EIS—Stanislaus National Forest

AGENCY: Forest Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare an environmental impact statement.

SUMMARY: The Forest Service will prepare an environmental impact statement (EIS) for a proposal to manage forest resources within and adjacent to the Darby Fire affected area, which burned 14,000 acres in September of 2001 (approximately 10,000 acres burned on lands administrated by the Forest Service). The project area is on the Calaveras Ranger District, Stanislaus National Forest, within Calaveras and Tuolumne Counties, California. The project area is located in the lower watersheds of the North and Middle Forks of the Stanislaus River, east of State Highway 4. It is bounded by private property on the east, west and north, the Middle Fork of the Stanislaus River on the south and the Calaveras Big Trees State park on the northeast.

DATES: Comments concerning the scope of the analysis should be received in writing on or before 10 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register. While public participation in this analysis is welcome at any time, comments received within 10 days of the publication of this notice will be especially useful in the preparation of the Draft EIS. The scoping process will include identifying: potential issues, significant issues to be analyzed in depth, alternatives to the proposed action, and potential environmental effects of the proposal and alternatives. The draft EIS is expected to be filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and made available for public review in April 2002.

The comment period on the draft environmental impact statement will be 45 days from the date the Environmental Protection Agency publishes the notice of availability in the Federal Register. No date has yet been determined for filing the final EIS.

ADDRESSES: Send written comments to Rob Griffith, district Ranger, P.O. Box

500, Hathaway Pines, CA 95233 or call (209) 795-1381.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Kathy Aldrich, Planning Team Leader, (209) 795-1381; e-mail: kaldrich@fs.fed.us.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Forest Service proposes to treat vegetative fuels on 3,620 acres within or adjacent to the Darby fire area. Treatments proposed include the removal of fire-damaged trees while they are merchantable and before they fall to the ground and accumulate to the point where the fuel loading is at an unacceptable level; thinning stands of live trees immediately adjacent to private property to remove undesirable fuels conditions such as fuel ladders; removal of brush that poses a fire hazard in areas adjacent to private property; removal of fire-killed trees and thinning of the remaining trees in 20 year old pine plantations; and prescribed burning to reduce fuel loading in areas with unacceptable fuel levels on the ground.

The purpose and need for the actions are to: (1) Reduce unacceptable vegetative fuel loading in the project area that current exists and remove sufficient vegetative material killed by the Darby Fire to prevent an unacceptable fuel buildup from fallen material; (2) provide for the rapid restoration of forest communities in areas that experienced a stand-replacing event by removing the fire-killed standing dead vegetation before it falls to the ground. Removal of this material while merchantable would allow for restoration activities to proceed quickly, meeting the goal of the Forest Plan to accelerate development of old forest characteristics; (3) contribute to a sustainable flow of products from these National Forest Lands; and (4) provide resource management in an economically efficient manner, i.e., minimize restoration costs in areas that experienced a stand-replacing event by minimizing the amount of fire-killed material that has deteriorated to the point that a service contract is necessary to have it removed to meet fuels objectives.

Preliminary issues and concerns include effects of treatments on water quality, wildlife habitat, soil quality, riparian areas, threatened/endangered species such as the red-legged frog, valley elderberry long-horn beetle and bald eagle, and Forest Service Sensitive species such as the California spotted owl and goshawk.

The EIS will tier to the Stanislaus National Forest Land and Resource Management Plan and EIS of 1991, as amended by the Sierra Nevada Forest Plan Amendment of 2001, which provide overall guidance for land management activities on the Stanislaus National Forest.

The Reviewers Obligation To Comment

The Forest Service believes it is important to give reviewers notice at this early stage of several court rulings related to public participation in the environmental review process. First, reviewers of draft environmental impact statements must structure their participation in the environmental review of the proposal so that it is meaningful and alerts an agency to the reviewer's position and contentions (Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. v. NRDC, 435 U.S. 519, 553 (1978)). Also environmental objections that could be raised at the draft environmental impact statement stage but that are not raised until after completion of the final environmental impact statement may be waived or dismissed by the courts (Wisconsin Heritages, Inc. v. Harris, 490 F. Supp. 1334, 1338 (E.D. Wis. 1980)). Because of these court rulings, it is very important that those interested in this proposed action participate by the close of the 45-day comment period so that substantive comments and objections are made available to the Forest Service at a time when it can meaningfully consider them and respond to them in the final environmental impact statement.

To assist the Forest Service in identifying and considering issues and concerns on the proposed action, comments on the draft environmental impact statement should be as specific as possible. It is also helpful if comments refer to specific pages or chapters of the draft statement. Comments may also address the adequacy of the draft environmental impact statement or the merits of the alternatives formulated and discussed in the statement (Reviewers may wish to refer to the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for implementing the procedural provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act at 40 CFR 1503.3 in addressing these points).

Responsible Official

The Responsible Official is the Forest Supervisor of the Stanislaus National Forest, 19777 Greenley Road, Sonora, CA 95370. The Forest Supervisor will make a decision regarding this proposal considering the comments and response, environmental consequences discussed in the final EIS, and applicable laws, regulations, and policies. The decision and rationale for the decision will be documented in a Record of Decision. That decision will be subject to appeal under applicable Forest Service regulations.

Dated: March 12, 2002.

Notice of Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Reviews: Certain Cold-Rolled and Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products From Korea

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of final results of antidumping duty administrative reviews.

SUMMARY: On September 11, 2001, the Department of Commerce ("Department") published the preliminary results of the administrative reviews of the antidumping duty orders on certain cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea. The corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products review covers four manufacturers and exporters of the subject merchandise, while the cold-rolled carbon steel flat products review covers three. The period of review for cold-rolled products is August 1, 1999 through December 31, 1999, and the period of review for corrosion-resistant products is August 1, 1999 through July 31, 2000.

Based on our analysis of the comments received, we have made changes in the margin calculations. Therefore, the final results differ from the preliminary results. The final weighted-average dumping margins for the reviewed firms are listed below in the section entitled "Final Results of the Reviews."

Background

The Department published antidumping duty orders on certain cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea on August 19, 1993. See Antidumping Duty Orders on Certain Cold-Rolled Carbon Steel Flat Products and Certain Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products from Korea, 58 FR 44159 (August 19, 1993). On August 16, 2000, the Department published a notice of "Opportunity to Request an Administrative Review" of the antidumping duty orders for the 1999-2000 review period. See Notice of Opportunity to Request Administrative Review of Antidumping or Countervailing Duty Order, Finding, or Suspended Investigation, 65 FR 49962 (August 16, 2000). On August 31, 2000, respondents Pohang Coated Steel Co., Ltd. ("POCOS"), and Pohang Steel Industries Co., Ltd. ("PSI")—(collectively, "the POSCO Group"), Dongbu Steel Co., Ltd. ("Dongbu"), and Union Steel Manufacturing Co., Ltd. ("Union") requested that the Department conduct an administrative review of the antidumping duty orders on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea. In a separate letter on August 31, 2000, POSCO also requested partial revocation of the antidumping duty order of cold-rolled carbon steel flat products. On August 31, 2000, respondents Dongbu, Union, POSCO and SeAH Steel Corporation ("SeAH") requested that the Department conduct an administrative review of the antidumping duty orders on corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products. On August 31, 2000, petitioners in the original less-than-fair-value ("LTFV") investigations (AK Steel Corporation; Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Inland Steel Industries, Inc.; LTV Steel Company; National Steel Corporation; and U.S. Steel Group, a Unit of USX Corporation) requested that the Department conduct administrative reviews of the antidumping duty orders on cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea: the cold-rolled respondents; Dongbu, POSCO, and Union; and the corrosion-resistant respondents; Dongbu, POSCO, SeAH, and Union. We initiated these reviews on September 26, 2000. See Initiation of Antidumping and Countervailing Duty Administrative Reviews and Requests for Revocation in Part, 65 FR 58733 (October 2, 2000).

The Department revoked the antidumping order on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea pursuant to section 751(d)(2) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.222(i) of the Department's regulations, effective January 1, 2000. See Revocation of Antidumping and Countervailing Duty Orders on Certain Carbon Steel Products From Canada, Germany, Korea, the Netherlands, and Sweden, 65 FR 78467 (December 15, 2000). The resulting POR for cold-rolled products is August 1, 1999 through December 31, 1999. The Department's revocation of the antidumping order for cold-rolled products renders POSCO's request for revocation moot.

On August 31, 2001, the Department issued the preliminary results of these administrative reviews. See Certain Cold-Rolled and Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products From the Republic of Korea; Preliminary Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review 66 FR 47163, (September 11, 2001). The Department has completed these administrative reviews in accordance with section 751 of the Act.

On December 7, 2001 petitioners submitted case briefs for Union and Dongbu. Union, Dongbu, and SeAH also submitted case briefs on the same day. On December 14, 2001, petitioners submitted rebuttal briefs for Union and Dongbu, and Union and Dongbu submitted their own rebuttal briefs. On February 8, 2002, petitioners submitted comments for POSCO. POSCO submitted case briefs on the same day. On February 13, 2002, petitioners submitted rebuttal briefs for POSCO, and POSCO submitted its own rebuttal briefs.

Included in this review are flat-rolled products of nonrectangular cross-section where such cross-section is achieved subsequent to the rolling process (i.e., products which have been "worked after rolling")—for example, products which have been beveled or rounded at the edges. Excluded from this review is certain shadow mask steel, i.e., aluminum-killed, cold-rolled steel coil that is open-coil annealed, has a carbon content of less than 0.002 percent, is of 0.003 to 0.012 inch in thickness, 15 to 30 inches in width, and has an ultra flat, isotropic surface.

The review of "certain corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products" covers flat-rolled carbon steel products, of rectangular shape, either clad, plated, or coated with corrosion-resistant metals such as zinc, aluminum, or zinc-, aluminum-, nickel- or iron-based alloys, whether or not corrugated or painted, varnished or coated with plastics or other nonmetallic substances in addition to the metallic coating, in coils (whether or not in successively superimposed layers) and of a width of 0.5 inch or greater, or in straight lengths which, if of a thickness less than 4.75 millimeters, are of a width of 0.5 inch or greater and which measures at least 10 times the thickness or if of a thickness of 4.75 millimeters or more are of a width which exceeds 150 millimeters and measures at least twice the thickness, as currently classifiable in the HTS under item numbers 7210.30.0030, 7210.30.0060, 7210.41.0000, 7210.49.0030, 7210.49.0090, 7210.61.0000, 7210.69.0000, 7210.70.6030, 7210.70.6060, 7210.70.6090, 7210.90.1000, 7210.90.6000, 7210.90.9000, 7212.20.0000, 7212.30.1030, 7212.30.1090, 7212.30.3000, 7212.30.5000, 7212.40.1000, 7212.40.5000, 7212.50.0000, 7212.60.0000, 7215.90.1000, 7215.90.3000, 7215.90.5000, 7217.20.1500, 7217.30.1530, 7217.30.1560, 7217.90.1000, 7217.90.5030, 7217.90.5060, 7217.90.5090. Also excluded from this review are clad products in straight lengths of 0.1875 inch or more in composite thickness and of a width which exceeds 150 millimeters and measures at least twice the thickness. Also excluded from this review are certain clad stainless flat-rolled products, which are three-layered corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat-rolled products less than 4.75 millimeters in composite thickness that consist of a carbon steel flat-rolled product clad on both sides with stainless steel in a 20%–60%–20% ratio.

These HTS item numbers are provided for convenience and U.S.

Customs purposes. The written descriptions remain dispositive.

Verification

From January 23 through January 25, 2002, the Department conducted a verification at the offices of POSCO in Pohang, Korea. For a description of the Department's findings, see Memorandum from Catherine Bertrand to James Doyle, dated February 5, 2002.

Analysis of Comments Received

All issues raised in the case and rebuttal briefs by parties to these administrative reviews are addressed in the "Issues and Decision Memorandum" ("Decision Memo") from Joseph A. Spetrini, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Import Administration to Faryar Shirzad, Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, dated March 11, 2002, which is hereby adopted by this notice. A list of the issues which parties have raised and to which we have responded, all of which are in the Decision Memo, is attached to this notice as an Appendix. Parties can find a complete discussion of all issues raised in these reviews and the corresponding recommendations in this public memorandum which is on file at the U.S. Department of Commerce, in the Central Records Unit, in room B-099. In addition, a complete version of the Decision Memo, accessible in B-099 and on the Web at <http://ia.ita.doc.gov>. The paper copy and electronic version of the Decision Memorandum are identical in content.

Sales Below Cost in the Home Market

As discussed in more detail in the Preliminary Results, the Department disregarded home market below-cost sales that failed the cost test for POSCO, Dongbu, and Union in these final results of review.

Changes Since the Preliminary Results

Based on our analysis of comments received, we have made certain changes in the margin calculations. We have also corrected certain programming and clerical errors in our preliminary results, where applicable. Any alleged programming or clerical errors with which we do not agree are discussed in the relevant sections of the Decision Memo, accessible in B-099 and on the Web at <http://ia.ita.doc.gov>. A summary of these adjustments is discussed below:

1. We adjusted respondents' indirect selling expense factors with respect to the deduction of imputed credit expense. See Comment 1 of the Decision Memo.
2. We additionally adjusted POSCO's indirect selling expense factor by disallowing its claimed long-term interest income offset. See Comment 2 of the Decision Memorandum.

3. We are excluding overruns from the calculation of Union's normal value. See Comment 7 of the Decision Memorandum.

Final Results of the Reviews

We determine that the following percentage weighted-average margins exist for the reviewed companies during the period August 1, 1999, through December 31, 1999 (for cold-rolled products) or August 1, 1999, through July 31, 2000 (for corrosion resistant products):

CERTAIN COLD-ROLLED CARBON STEEL FLAT PRODUCTS

Producer/Manufacturer/Exporter	Weighted-average margin
Dongbu	4.09
The POSCO Group	3.06
Union	1.05

CERTAIN CORROSION-RESISTANT CARBON STEEL FLAT PRODUCTS

Producer/Manufacturer/Exporter	Weighted-average margin
Dongbu	0.26
SeAH	0
The POSCO Group	0.64
Union	1.31

The Department shall determine, and the U.S. Customs Service ("Customs") shall assess, antidumping duties on all appropriate entries. In accordance with 19 CFR 351.212(b), we have calculated exporter/importer-specific assessment rates. With respect to both export price and constructed export price sales, we divided the total dumping margins for the reviewed sales by the total entered value of those reviewed sales for each importer. We will direct Customs to assess the resulting percentage margins against the entered Customs values for the subject merchandise on each of that importer's entries under the relevant order during the review period.

Cash Deposit Requirements

The following deposit requirements will be effective upon publication of this notice of final results of administrative reviews for all shipments of cold-rolled and corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products from Korea entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on or after the date of publication, as provided by section 751(a)(1) of the Act: (1) The cash deposit rates for the reviewed companies will be the rates shown above except that, for firms whose weighted-average margins are less than 0.5 percent and therefore de minimis, the Department shall require no deposit of estimated antidumping duties; (2) for previously reviewed or investigated companies not listed above, the cash deposit rate will continue to be the company-specific rate published for the most recent period; (3) if the exporter is not a firm covered in this review, a prior review, or the original less than fair value ("LTFV") investigation, but the manufacturer is, the cash deposit rate will be the rate established for the most recent period for the manufacturer of the merchandise; and (4) the cash deposit rate for all other manufacturers or exporters will continue to be 17.70 percent (for certain corrosion-resistant carbon steel flat products). This rate is the "all others" rates from the LTFV investigation. See Antidumping Duty Orders on Certain Cold-Rolled Carbon Steel Flat Products and Certain Corrosion-Resistant Carbon Steel Flat Products from Korea, 58 FR 44159 (August 19, 1993). As the Department revoked the anti-dumping order on cold-rolled carbon steel flat products from Korea pursuant to section 751(d)(2) of the Act, effective January 1, 2000, there is no longer suspension of liquidation or cash deposit requirements for entries of that merchandise.

These deposit requirements shall remain in effect until publication of the final results of the next administrative review.

This notice also serves as a final reminder to importers of their responsibility under 19 CFR 351.402(f) to file a certificate regarding the reimbursement of antidumping duties prior to liquidation of the relevant entries during this review period. Failure to comply with this requirement could result in the Secretary's presumption that reimbursement of antidumping duties occurred and the subsequent assessment of doubled antidumping duties.

This notice also serves as the only reminder to parties subject to administrative protective orders ("APO") of their responsibility concerning the return or destruction of proprietary information disclosed under APO in accordance with 19 CFR 351.305. Timely written notification of the return/destruction of APO materials or conversion to judicial protective order is hereby requested. Failure to comply with the regulations and terms of an APO is a violation which is subject to sanction.

We are issuing and publishing this determination and notice in accordance with sections 751(a)(1) and 777(i) of the Act.

Dated: March 11, 2002.

Assistant Secretary for Import

Silicon Metal from Brazil: Amended Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review

AGENCY: Import Administration,
International Trade Administration,
Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of Amended Final
Results of Antidumping Duty
Administrative Review.

SUMMARY: We are amending our final results of the 1999-2000 administrative review of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil, published on February 12, 2002 (67 FR 6488), to reflect the correction of ministerial errors made in the final results. The period covered by these amended final results of review is July 1, 1999 through June 30, 2000.

EFFECTIVE DATE: March 18, 2002.

The Applicable Statute

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (the Act), are references to the provisions effective January 1, 1995, the effective date of the amendments made to the Act by the Uruguay Round Agreements Act (URAA). In addition, unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Department's regulations are to 19 CFR part 351 (2000).

Background:

On August 6, 2001, the Department of Commerce (the Department) published the preliminary results of the 1999-2000 administrative review of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil. The Department published the final results of review on February 12, 2002. See Silicon Metal from Brazil: Final Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Review, 67 FR 6488 (February 12, 2002) (Final Results).

On February 25, 2002, we received timely allegations from Companhia Brasileira Carburato de Calcio (CBCC) (a respondent) that the Department made ministerial errors in the final results of review regarding CBCC. On February 25, 2002, we received timely allegations from American Silicon Technologies and Elکم Metals Company (collectively petitioners) that the Department made ministerial errors in the final results of review regarding the "all others" rate. On March 4, 2002, we received a timely reply from petitioners regarding CBCC's ministerial error comments.

Scope of Review

The merchandise covered by this administrative review is silicon metal from Brazil containing at least 96.00 percent but less than 99.99 percent silicon by weight. Also covered by this administrative review is silicon metal from Brazil containing between 89.00 and 96.00 percent silicon by weight but which contains more aluminum than the silicon metal containing at least 96.00 percent but less than 99.99 percent silicon by weight. Silicon metal is currently provided for under subheadings 2804.69.10 and 2804.69.50 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule (HTS) as a chemical product, but is commonly referred to as a metal. Semiconductor grade silicon (silicon metal containing by weight not less than 99.99 percent silicon and provided for in subheading 2804.61.00 of the HTS) is not subject to the order. Although the HTS item numbers are provided for convenience and for U.S. Customs purposes, the written description remains dispositive.

Amendment of Final Results

Comment 1: CBCC states that the Department erroneously applied adverse facts available (AFA) to the shipment date of one of its U.S. sales. CBCC contends that although the Department intended to use the date of the invoice to calculate the imputed U.S. credit expense for this sale, the Department erroneously applied AFA to the shipment date. CBCC urges the Department to correct this ministerial error.

Department's Position: After a review of CBCC's allegation, we agree with CBCC and have corrected this matter in the margin calculation program. See Memorandum to The File through Thomas F. Futtner from Maisha Cryor: Companhia Brasileira Carburato De Calcio: Calculations for the Amended Final Results of the 1999-2000 Antidumping Duty Administrative Review of Silicon Metal From Brazil, March 11, 2002. We note that correcting this error has no effect on the outcome of CBCC's margin.

Comment 2: CBCC contends that the Department mistakenly used a simple interest formula to calculate CBCC's imputed credit expense in the home market. CBCC notes that although it is making this allegation, the comment is also applicable to the margin calculations of Rima Industrial SA (Rima), Companhia Ferroligas Minas Gerais - Minasligas (Minasligas) and Ligas de Alumina S.A. (LIASA), the other respondents in this review. CBCC contends that where interest is calculated on a daily basis, a compound, not simple, interest formula should be used. CBCC argues that where the interest rate is high, such as in Brazil, only the compound interest formula yields the true cost of money and is the only method used in day-to-day commercial transactions. CBCC urges the Department to correct this matter in CBCC's, as well as the other respondents, home market credit calculations.

Petitioners disagree with CBCC. Petitioners argue that because the Department had no intention of applying a compound interest formula, the Department's use of a simple interest formula was a deliberate choice of methodology and not a ministerial error.

Department's Position: After a careful review of CBCC's allegation, we have concluded that it does not merit treatment as a ministerial error under sections 19 CFR 351.224(f) and (g) of the Department's regulations. Section 351.224(f) of the Department's regulations defines ministerial error as " * * * an error in addition, subtraction, or other arithmetic function, clerical error resulting from inaccurate copying, duplication, or the like, and any other similar type of unintentional error which the Secretary considers ministerial." Because the formula used in the Department's calculation of home market credit expense in the Final Results was intentional, CBCC's allegation does not fall under sections 19 CFR 351.224(f) and (g) of the Department's regulations. See Memorandum to The File through Thomas F. Futtner from Maisha Cryor: Companhia Brasileira Carburto De Calcio: Calculations for the Final Results of the 1999–2000 Antidumping Duty Administrative Review of Silicon Metal From Brazil, February 4, 2002. Therefore, we have not amended the interest formula that was used to calculate home market credit expense in the Final Results.

Comment 3:

Petitioners contend that the Department published the wrong "all others" rate in the Final Results. Petitioners state that in the Final Results, the "all others" rate is 8.10%, while the "all others" rate in the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Brazil is 91.06%. Petitioners assert that, pursuant to Policy Bulletin 93.1, the Department's policy holds that the "all others rate shall be the all others rate contained in the order."

Department's Position: We agree with petitioners that we mistakenly referred to the "all others" rate as 8.10 percent in the Final Results. Therefore, we have corrected the "all others" rate to reflect 91.06 percent, which is the "all others" rate from the less than fair value investigation.

Amended Final Results

We are amending the final results of the antidumping duty administrative review of silicon metal from Brazil to reflect the corrections of the above-cited ministerial errors. These corrections are in accordance with section 751(h) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.224 of the Department's regulations. These corrections did not change any of the company-specific margins published in the Final Results. We are also correcting the stated "all others" rate which is 91.06 percent.

We are issuing and publishing this determination and notice in accordance with sections 751(a)(1) and 777(i) of the Act.

Structural Steel Beams From the Republic of Korea: Notice of Final Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of Final Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review.

SUMMARY: On November 14, 2001, the Department of Commerce ("Department") published the notice of preliminary results of its changed circumstances review examining whether INI Steel Company ("INI") is the successor-in-interest to Incheon Iron & Steel Co., Ltd. ("Inchon") by virtue of its name change. See Notice of Preliminary Results of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review: Structural Steel Beams from the Republic of Korea, 66 FR 57035 (November 14, 2001) ("Preliminary Results"). We have now completed this changed circumstances review in accordance with 19 CFR 351.216 and 351.221(c)(3).

As a result of this review, the Department finds that INI is the successor-in-interest to Incheon, and INI should retain the deposit rate assigned to Incheon by the Department for all entries of the subject merchandise produced or exported by INI.

EFFECTIVE DATE: March 18, 2002.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Cheryl Werner or Laurel LaCivita, Import Administration, International Trade Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20230; telephone (202) 482–2667 and (202) 482–4243, respectively.

Applicable Statute and Regulations

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the statute are references to the provisions effective January 1, 1995, the effective date of the amendments made to the Tariff Act of 1930 ("the Act") by the Uruguay Round Agreements Act. In addition, unless otherwise indicated, all citations to the Department's regulations are to the regulations at 19 CFR part 351 (2001).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On October 1, 2001, the Department initiated this changed circumstances review. See Structural Steel Beams from the Republic of Korea: Notice of Initiation of Changed Circumstances Antidumping Duty Administrative Review, 66 FR 49929 (October 1, 2001) ("Notice of Initiation"). On November 14, 2001, the Department published the preliminary results of its changed circumstances review in the above-named case. See Preliminary Results (66 FR 57035). We gave interested parties 21 days to comment on our preliminary results. However, no interested parties have provided comments and no request for a hearing was received by the Department.

Scope of the Review

The products covered by this review include structural steel beams that are doubly-symmetric shapes, whether hot- or cold-rolled, drawn, extruded, formed or finished, having at least one dimension of at least 80 mm (3.2 inches or more), whether of carbon or alloy (other than stainless) steel, and whether or not drilled, punched, notched, painted, coated or clad. These products include, but are not limited to, wide-flange beams ("W" shapes), bearing piles ("HP" shapes), standard beams ("S" or "I" shapes), and M-shapes.

All products that meet the physical and metallurgical descriptions provided above are within the scope of this investigation unless otherwise excluded. The following products are outside and/or specifically excluded from the scope of this investigation: structural steel beams greater than 400 pounds per linear foot or with a web or section height (also known as depth) over 40 inches.

The merchandise subject to this investigation is classified in the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States ("HTSUS") at subheadings: 7216.32.0000, 7216.33.0030, 7216.33.0060, 7216.33.0090, 7216.50.0000, 7216.61.0000, 7216.69.0000, 7216.91.0000, 7216.99.0000, 7228.70.3040, 7228.70.6000. Although the HTSUS subheadings are provided for convenience and Customs purposes, the written description of the merchandise under investigation is dispositive.

Successorship and Final Results of Review

On the basis of the record developed in this proceeding of the changed circumstances review, we determine INI to be the successor-in-interest to Incho for purposes of determining antidumping duty liability. For a complete discussion of the basis for this decision see the Preliminary Results (66 FR 57035). Therefore, INI shall retain the antidumping duty deposit rate assigned to Incho by the Department in the most recent administrative review of the subject merchandise.

This notice also serves as a final reminder to parties subject to administrative protective orders (APOs) of their responsibility concerning the disposition of proprietary information disclosed under APO in accordance with 19 CFR 351.305(a)(3). Failure to timely notify the Department in writing of the return/destruction of APO material is a sanctionable violation.

We are issuing and publishing this finding and notice in accordance with sections 751(b)(1) and 777(i)(1) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.221(c)(3) and 19 CFR 351.216.

Dated: March 11, 2002.
