In 1973, human remains representing a minimum of one individual were collected from site 3MN8, Montgomery County, AR, by Arkansas Archeological Survey personnel. No known individual was identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

Archeological evidence indicates that approximately 1,000 years ago, a coherent pattern of material culture characteristics, settlement patterns, mound building, and burial practices emerged across southwestern Arkansas and neighboring states that continues (with localized changes in attributes such as pottery shapes, decorative design choices, and arrow point shapes) until the 18th century. Direct historic evidence from sites in neighboring States indicates that this lifeway was directly ancestral to the historic Caddo cultural tradition. Therefore, archeologists have identified these late pre-contact and proto-historic sites and material culture as "Caddoan" or "Caddo," although no unequivocally documented historic Caddo settlements have been found in the State of Arkansas.

The geographic distribution of sites with a distinct collection of artifacts, features, burial practices, and mound construction are found throughout southwestern Arkansas south and west of the Arkansas River, and as far south on the Ouachita and Saline Rivers as the transition zone between the western Gulf Coastal plain and the Felsenthal lowland extension of the Lower Mississippi Valley ecosystem. This area is currently considered coincident with the distribution of ancestral Caddo tradition sites in Arkansas, and in cases where diagnostic artifacts are few or unreported, there is a presumptive assumption that sites of this time period are ancestral Caddoan. After the beginning of the 18th century, the possibility that Native sites (or sites of Old World populations) are non-Caddo increases.

The human remains listed here are from sites that are identifiable as ancestral Caddoan, Mississippian period and protohistoric era settlements. These evidences may be from surface collections and/or collections made through research independent of the disinterment of these individuals. Therefore, although most of these individuals had no associated funerary objects, general geographic location and archeological data; existing evidence from the sites has been used to associate these remains with the Caddo Indian Tribe of Oklahoma.

Based on the above-mentioned information, officials of the Arkansas Archeological Survey have determined that, pursuant to 43 CFR 10.2 (d)(1), the human remains listed above represent the physical remains of 140 individuals of Native American ancestry. Officials of the Arkansas Archeological Survey also have determined that, pursuant to 43 CFR 10.2 (d)(2), the 168 objects listed above are reasonably believed to have been placed with or near individual human remains at the time of death or later as part of the death rite or ceremony. Lastly, officials of the Arkansas Archeological Survey have determined that, pursuant to 43 CFR 10.2 (e), there is a relationship of shared group identity that can be reasonably traced between these Native American human remains and associated funerary objects and the Caddo Indian Tribe of Oklahoma.

This notice has been sent to officials of the Caddo Indian Tribe of Oklahoma. Representatives of any other Indian tribe that believes itself to be culturally affiliated with these human remains and associated funerary objects should contact Thomas Green, Director, Arkansas Archeological Survey, 2475 North Hatch Avenue, Fayetteville, AR 72704, telephone (501) 575-3556, before May 15, 2002. Repatriation of the human remains and associated funerary objects to the Caddo Indian Tribe of Oklahoma may begin after that date if no additional claimants come forward

Dated: January 22, 2002.
