

the production schedules were filled at the other facilities, since there were openings in the production schedule at those locations due to a lack of orders. The petitioner further alleges that a lack of orders resulted from a flood of paper imported from Brazil and South East Asia, resulting in the closure of the subject plant.

As noted above, the Department of Labor normally examines if "contributed importantly" test is met through a survey of the workers' firm's customers. A review of the survey results shows that the customers did not increase their imports of C2S Web Offset paper, while decreasing their purchases from the subject firm during the relevant period. The survey further shows that virtually all lost business was from other domestic sources and therefore imports of C2S Web paper did not contribute importantly to the layoffs at the subject plant. The customers purchasing uncoated envelope paper were not surveyed since there were no major declining customers of this product.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decisions. Accordingly, the application is denied.

Signed at Washington, DC, this 22nd day of March, 2002.

Director, Division of Trade Adjustment Assistance.

Cooper Wiring Devices, Georgetown, SC; Amended Certification Regarding Eligibility To Apply for NAFTA Transitional Adjustment Assistance

In accordance with section 250(A), Subchapter D, Chapter 2, Title II, of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2273) the Department of Labor issued a Certification for NAFTA Transitional Adjustment Assistance on August 29, 2001, applicable to workers of Cooper Wiring Devices, Assembly Department, Georgetown, South Carolina. The notice was published in the Federal Register on September 11, 2001 (66 FR 47242).

At the request of the company, the Department reviewed the certification for workers of the subject firm. Findings show that the Department limited its certification coverage to workers of the subject firm's Assembly Department.

New company information shows that worker separations are scheduled and the remaining production of molding and wall plating performed on the molding machines and wall plate wrapping machines is shifting to Mexico. The entire plant will be closing by the end of 2002.

It is the intent of the Department to include "all workers" of Cooper Wiring Devices adversely affected by a shift in production of molding machines and wall plant wrapping machines to Mexico.

The Department is amending the certification determination to identify the worker group to read "all workers."

The amended notice applicable to NAFTA-05043 is hereby issued as follows:

All workers of Cooper Wiring Devices, Georgetown, South Carolina who became totally or partially separated from employment on after June 26, 2000, through August 29, 2003, are eligible to apply for NAFTA-TAA under section 250 of the Trade Act of 1974.
