standard of identity to provide for the variations. Section 130.17(i) specifies the information that a firm must submit to FDA to obtain an extension of a temporary marketing permit.

FDA estimates the burden of this collection of information as follows:

TABLE 1.—ESTIMATED ANNUAL REPORTING BURDEN¹

21 CFR Section	No. of Respondents	Annual Frequency per Response	Total Annual Responses	Hours per Response	Total Hours
130.17(c)	7	1	7	25	175
130.17(i)	4	2	8	2	16
Total					191

¹ There are no capital costs or operating and maintenance costs associated with this collection of information.

The estimated number of temporary marketing permit applications and hours per response is an average based on the agency's experience with applications received October 1, 1998, through September 30, 2001, and information from firms that have submitted recent requests for temporary marketing permits.

Requesting Export Certificates for FDA Regulated Products under U.S.C. Sections 801(e) and 802—New Collection

FDA is requesting approval from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for the collection of information from the public associated with the export of FDA-regulated products as indicated in sections 801(e) and 802 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the act) (21 U.S.C. 381(e) and 382), as amended.

In April 1996, a new law entitled "The FDA Export Reform and Enhancement Act of 1996" was enacted. It was designed to ease restrictions on exportation of unapproved products regulated by FDA and to facilitate such exportation by provide foreign governments certificates verifying that the products may be legally exported. Specifically, section 801(e)(4) of the act provides that persons exporting certain FDA-regulated products may request that FDA certify that the products meet the requirements of section 801(e) or 802 of the act, or other requirements of the act. Section 801(e)(4) of the act requires FDA to issue export certificates within 20 days of receipt of the request and to charge firms up to $175 for the certificates.

FDA has developed seven types of certificates that satisfy the requirements of section 801(e)(4)(B) of the act: (1) Certificates to foreign governments are issued for legally marketed products that are in compliance with the requirements of the act; (2) certificates of exportability are for the export of products that cannot be marketed legally in the United States, but meet the requirements of section 801(e) or 802 of the act and may be exported legally; (3) certificates of a pharmaceutical product are used for the export of drug products that are legally marketed in the United States. They conform to the format established by the World Health Organization (WHO) and attest to the acceptable current good manufacturing practice status of the manufacturing facility of the drug product; (4) nonclinical research use only certificates for the export of nonclinical research use only product, material, or component that is not intended for human use which may be marketed in and legally exported from the United States under the act; (5) certificate of free sale; (6) health certificates for food/feed; and (7) specified risk materials of bovine, ovine, and caprine origin certificate.

FDA has relied and will continue to rely on information provided by manufacturers for all types of export certificates. Manufacturers are requested to state that they are in compliance with all applicable requirements of the act at the time that they submit their request to the appropriate center.

FDA will check all information submitted by firms in support of their certificates and any suspected case of fraud will be referred to FDA's Office of Criminal Investigations for followup. Firms making or submitting false statements on any documents submitted to FDA may be violating the United States Code title 18, chapter 47, section 1001 and be subject to penalties including up to $250,000 in fines and up to 5 years imprisonment.

FDA estimates the burden of this collection of information as follows:

TABLE 1.—ESTIMATED ANNUAL REPORTING BURDEN¹

Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research	1,479	1	1,479	1	1,479

Center for Veterinary Medicine	621	1	621	1	621
Total	10,142		10,142		13,642
