

For the private applicator, the highest risk for DCPA was estimated to be 1.6×10^{-6} and for HCB (in DCPA) to be 4.6×10^{-6} .

ii. Turfgrass. Risks to children playing on a treated lawn were assessed for exposure to DCPA and HCB. The risks from DCPA and HCB to children playing on an irrigated lawn are 5.6×10^{-7} and 3.9×10^{-7} , respectively. The risks from DCPA and HCB to children playing on non-irrigated lawns are 2.0×10^{-6} and 2.7×10^{-6} , respectively. The Agency is conducting a risk/benefit assessment to determine whether the turf use is eligible for reregistration. However, in the interim, the Agency is requiring that residential lawns be watered after DCPA product use and that reentry not occur until sprays have dried, in an effort to mitigate risks to children.

iii. Re-entry. Risk from exposure to DCPA and HCB through worker re-entry into a cucumber field was assessed. Harvesting cucumbers immediately after application resulted in risk estimates of 1.8×10^{-4} for DCPA and 3.2×10^{-4} for HCB. Delayed re-entry periods only minimally reduced risk estimates. However, the Agency reported in the RED that it believes that the worker exposures are overestimates. These scenarios were based solely on a foliar dissipation study, not on dermal exposure studies. DCPA's current registrant is a member of a task force which will address dermal exposure for hand labor tasks required by various crops, such as cucumber harvesting. The risk assessment will be refined when the task force submits its dermal exposure data.

D. Cumulative Effects

DCPA is a pre-emergent herbicide used to control annual grasses and broadleaf weeds. At this time, the EPA has not made a determination that DCPA and other substances that may have a common mechanism of toxicity would have cumulative effects. Therefore, for these tolerance petitions, it is assumed that DCPA does not have a common mechanism of toxicity with other substances and only the potential risks of DCPA in its aggregate exposure are considered.

E. Safety Determination

DCPA and its metabolites generally are of low acute and chronic toxicity. DCPA has been classified as a Group C, possible human carcinogen. Many food crop uses are registered, however, dietary exposure to DCPA residues in foods is at a low level, as is the cancer risk posed to the general population.

Of greater concern is the risk posed to DCPA handlers, particularly mixers/loaders/applicators, and field workers who come into contact with treated areas following application of this pesticide. Exposure and risk to workers will be mitigated by the use of personal protective equipment required by the Worker Protection Standard. Because the pesticide is a possible human carcinogen, the Agency required mixer/loader/applicators using DCPA wettable powder to wear a dust-mist respirator fitted with a TC-21 filter to mitigate this risk.

Section 4(g)(2)(A) of FIFRA calls for the Agency to determine, after submission of relevant data concerning an active ingredient, whether products containing the active ingredient are eligible for reregistration. The Agency has previously identified and required the submission of the generic (i.e., active ingredient specific) data required to support reregistration of products containing DCPA. The Agency completed its review of these generic data, and determined that the data are sufficient to support reregistration of all products containing DCPA under the conditions specified in the RED. The generic data that the Agency reviewed as part of its determination of reregistration eligibility of were sufficient to allow the Agency to assess the registered uses of DCPA and to determine that DCPA can be used without resulting in unreasonable adverse effects to humans and the environment, if used according to the labels as amended by the RED. The Agency, therefore, found that all products containing DCPA as the active ingredient are eligible for reregistration under the conditions specified in the RED.

F. International Tolerances

No maximum residue limits for DCPA have been established by Codex for any agricultural commodity. Therefore, no compatibility questions exist with respect to U.S. tolerances.
