SUMMARY: This document announces the availability of information that might be relevant to determining whether alternate regulatory requirements for facilities with oil-filled and process equipment under the Clean Water Act would be appropriate. We are making this information available for public review and comment as part of our process of considering possible streamlined approaches that would ensure protection of human health and the environment from oil spills occurring at facilities with such oil-filled and process equipment.

In addition to this document, the EPA is also publishing in today's Federal Register a Notice of Data Availability concerning facilities that handle oil below a certain threshold amount.

DATES: Written comments must be received by November 19, 2004.

Background: On July 17, 2002, EPA published a final rule amending the Oil Pollution Prevention regulation (40 CFR part 112) promulgated under the authority of the Clean Water Act. This rule included requirements for Spill Prevention, Control, and Countermeasure (SPCC) Plans, and for Facility Response Plans (FRPs). It also included new subparts outlining the requirements for various classes of oil; revising the applicability of the regulation; amending the requirements for completing SPCC Plans; and made other modifications. (See 67 FR 47042.) The compliance dates in 40 CFR 112.3(a) and (b) have been extended several times. See 69 FR 48794, August 11, 2004 for further discussion on the compliance extensions.

Today's NODA: EPA is considering an initiative that would provide more focused regulation for facilities with oil-filled<sup>1</sup> and process equipment. To assist the Agency in this effort, we are making available to the public a number of documents for review and comment to help inform us as to what measures, if any, we should consider. We believe that as long as protection of human health and the environment is maintained, we should consider alternatives/options that accomplish the stated objectives of the applicable statutes and minimize impacts of applicable requirements. The documents being made available today for comment describe streamlined alternatives that could replace parts of existing regulations for this type of equipment. Because this approach may have merit, we are very interested in your comments. Specifically, we are interested in receiving any evidence, including data and analyses, related to claims made within the documents. In order for the data you submit to be considered in making a determination, the data should be collected, transported, and analyzed under the proper quality assurance and quality control protocols as described at <http://www.epa.gov/quality/>.

Data Available for Comment: The documents available for comment today can be found at <http://www.epa.gov/oilspill> under the title "Notice of Data Availability for Oil-Filled and Process Equipment" in the EDOCKET index at <sup>1</sup> In the preamble to the July 2002 SPCC rule (67 FR 47054), we distinguished between the requirements for bulk storage of oil and for the operational use of oil. Oil-filled electrical, operating, or manufacturing equipment are specifically excluded from the definition of "bulk storage container" at § 112.2 and thus, this NODA does not address such bulk oil storage containers. However, oil-filled equipment must meet other SPCC requirements, such as the general requirements found in § 112.7(c) to provide appropriate containment and/or diversionary structures to prevent discharged oil from reaching navigable waters (67 FR 47055).

<http://www.epa.gov/edocket>. These documents include the relevant portion of: (1) A white paper regarding oil in operational equipment dated April 2, 2003 submitted by the American Petroleum Institute Coalition to the Oil Program Center in the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response of the Environmental Protection Agency; (2) a white paper regarding machining coolant systems dated May 22, 2003 from the Alliance of Automobile Manufacturers submitted to the Oil Program Center; (3) a white paper regarding manufacturing process systems and operational equipment dated September 30, 2003 from the U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy submitted to the Oil Program Center; (4) a white paper regarding on-shore oil-filled electrical equipment dated February 5, 2004 from the Utility Solid Waste Activities Group (USWAG); and additional documents submitted to EPA by members of the electrical industry and other industry stakeholders.

Request for Comments: We believe that affected parties should be given an opportunity to participate in the Agency's process of considering whether possible streamlined approaches are appropriate. We are especially interested in data relating to the regulatory approaches described in the documents available for your review today. We are listing the following areas, which are discussed in the documents available to you today, as examples of the kinds of data we request be submitted.

- 1—Data to support development of criteria to define oil-filled and process equipment
- 2—Data to support the development of streamlined requirements for facilities with oil-filled and process equipment

The Agency is soliciting comments only on the data provided; we are not soliciting comments in this NODA on any other topic. The data may be found at Docket No. OPA-2004-0008 (<http://www.epa.gov/edocket>), and on our Web site (i.e., <http://www.epa.gov/oilspill>).
