

“Radiofrequency Identification Feasibility Studies and Pilot Programs for Drugs.” The CPG describes the agency’s intent to exercise enforcement discretion, until December 31, 2007, concerning certain regulatory requirements to facilitate the performance of feasibility studies and pilot programs involving Radiofrequency Identification (RFID) tags for drugs. The goal of the CPG is to allow industry to gain experience with the use of RFID technology to ensure the long-term safety and integrity of the U.S. drug supply.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

On February 18, 2004, FDA published a report entitled “Combating Counterfeit Drugs” which is available on the FDA Web site at <http://www.fda.gov/oc/initiatives/counterfeit>. In that report the agency identified RFID technology as the cornerstone in the fight against counterfeit drugs and announced our intention to facilitate the adoption of RFID technology by participants in the pharmaceutical supply chain. We also stated that widespread adoption of RFID technology was feasible by 2007.

Recently, FDA has received inquiries focusing on whether certain regulatory requirements, including those related to labeling, electronic records, and product quality, apply to pharmaceutical manufacturers, repackagers, relabelers, distributors, retailers, or others who participate in feasibility studies and pilot programs (collectively “a study” or “studies”) using RFID tags for drugs. This CPG describes how we intend to exercise our enforcement discretion regarding such studies. The exercise of such enforcement discretion expires on December 31, 2007. The goal of this CPG is to facilitate the performance of RFID studies and allow industry to gain experience with the use of RFID.

FDA is issuing this document as a level 1 guidance consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (§ 10.115 (21 CFR 10.115)). The new CPG Sec. 400.210 is being implemented immediately without prior public comment under § 10.115(g)(2), because the agency has determined that prior public participation is not feasible or appropriate, but comments are welcome at any time. The agency also thinks that use of RFID technology is critical to ensuring the long-term safety and integrity of the U.S. drug supply and immediate guidance is needed to facilitate studies of RFID.
