Synopsis

On November 19, 2004, Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) filed a Petition for Declaratory Ruling asking the Commission to preempt certain sections of the Indiana Revised Statutes and Indiana Administrative Code as it relates to interstate telephone calls. Specifically, CBA requests that the Commission preempt the Indiana laws to the extent they prohibit telemarketing calls to persons and entities with which the caller has an established business relationship as defined in the Commission’s rules. CBA indicates that the Indiana laws provide that a telephone solicitor may not make a telephone sales call to a telephone number if that number appears on the state’s do-not-call list. According to CBA, Indiana’s prohibition on calls to numbers on the Indiana do-not-call list is subject to exceptions that partially overlap with, but are substantially narrower than the “established business relationship” (“EBR”) of the Commission’s telemarketing rules. CBA contends that, unlike the Commission’s EBR definition, the Indiana exceptions: (1) Do not include relationships based upon a consumer’s past inquiry or application, during the three months preceding the call, regarding the party’s products or services; (2) do not include calls to persons with whom the caller has engaged, within 18 months prior to the call, in a purchase or transaction as to which payment has been made or performance completed; and (3) do not expressly permit an EBR to extend to any affiliated entities that the consumer reasonably would expect to be included within that category.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This is a summary of the Commission’s document, CG Docket No. 02–278, DA 04–3836, released December 7, 2004. On July 3, 2003, the Commission released a Report and Order (2003 TCPA Order), 68 FR 44144, July 25, 2003. In the 2003

TCPA Order, the Commission stated its belief that any state regulation of interstate telemarketing calls that differed from our rules under section 227 almost certainly would conflict with and frustrate the federal scheme and would be preempted. Synopsis

On November 19, 2004, Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) filed a Petition for Declaratory Ruling asking the Commission to preempt certain sections of the Wisconsin Statutes and Wisconsin Administrative Code as it relates to interstate telephone calls. CBA contends that the Wisconsin laws are significantly more restrictive than the Commission’s telemarketing rules. More specifically, CBA argues that the Wisconsin laws are inconsistent with the Commission’s regulations which permit telephone solicitation calls to persons with whom the caller has an “established business relationship” (EBR), even where the called party’s number has been entered on the national do-not-call registry. CBA contends that the Wisconsin laws prohibit certain categories of calls that are within the scope of the Commission’s EBR exception, including: (1) Calls made to residential subscribers who have made an inquiry or application regarding products or services, but have not expressly asked to be called in response to that inquiry or application; (2) calls made to residential subscribers who have engaged in a completed purchase or transaction with the caller; (3) calls made to existing customers for the purpose of offering additional or different products from those the seller already is providing to the customer; and (4) calls from an affiliate of the entity with whom the residential customer has an existing relationship. CBA explains that “[t]hese inconsistencies between federal law and the Wisconsin statute subject CBA’s members to ‘multiple, conflicting regulations’ in the area of interstate telemarketing. * * *” Therefore, CBA requests a Declaratory Ruling that the identified provisions of Wisconsin’s telemarketing statute and implementing regulations are preempted.
