Auscultatory Training System

Walter McKinney, et al.

U.S. Patent Application No. 10/135,964 filed April 29, 2002, Canadian Application No. 2,382,786 filed April 22, 2002

CDC Reference No. I-037-00/0—Research Tool

This auscultatory training apparatus includes a database of prerecorded physiological sounds (e.g., lung, bowel, or heart sounds) stored on a computer for playback. A user friendly, graphical interface software program is stored on the computer for use with a conventional computer mouse. The program allows a user to select prerecorded sounds for playback. In addition, the program is operable to generate an inverse model of the playback system in the form of a digital filter. The inverse model processes the selected sound to cancel the distortions of the playback system so that the sound is accurately reproduced. The program also permits the extraction of a specific sound component from a prerecorded sound so that only the extracted sound component is audible during playback. As well as a teaching tool to instruct the user on various body sounds, this invention could have applications as a diagnostic screening tool and as a telemedicine tool.

Imaging/Motorized Nail Press: Automated Instrumentation for the Assessment of Peripheral Vascular Function

Anne M. Brumfield, et al.

U.S. Patent Application No. 60/578,174 filed on June 8, 2004, Australia Patent Application No. 2004203059 filed on July 6, 2004, Canada Patent Application No. 2,474,841

CDC Reference No. I-028-02—Research Tool

The nail press test has been used by clinicians to assess peripheral circulatory function. Following a ten second press of the fingernail, a visual determination of the rate of blood flow return is made, as evidenced by the return of color to the fingernail. Far from being standardized, the results of the test are qualitative and subjective. New instrumentation representing an automated version of the nail press has been built which utilizes a computer-controlled linear stepper motor to apply the desired force level. Blood volume and force measurements are acquired before, during and after the press. This non-invasive and painless test provides physiologically relevant data while standardizing the force application, press duration, and the criteria for determining the precise time of blood flow return.
